CIC96000415
(cont.)

X Collection

INDEX

Page: 1

| Barcode Number | Box Number | Total of Volumes | Call Number |
|---|---|---|---|
| LIBRARY OF CONGRESS 0 021 174 020 6 | 371 | 34 | F134-F194.5.D4 no. 34 in oversized box |
| LIBRARY OF CONGRESS 0 021 174 021 8 | 372 | 101 | F194.5.D4-F286 no. 74-87 in oversize box |
| LIBRARY OF CONGRESS 0 021 174 022 A | 373 | 17 | F574.D4-F596 |
| LIBRARY OF CONGRESS 0 021 174 023 1 | 374 | 19 | F606-F689.08 |
| LIBRARY OF CONGRESS 0 021 174 024 3 | 375 | 141 | F738.D4-F796 |
| | | | |
| | | | |
| | | | |

X-E 738
.D4

THE POLITICAL ISSUES.

#1

A SPEECH DELIVERED BY

SPEED MOSBY

AT

JEFFERSON CITY, MO.

AUGUST 8, 1899.

O natien miserable,
With an untitled tyrant bloody-scepter'd
When shalt thou see thy wholesome days again?
MACBETH, Act. IV, Scene 3.

Tribuns Printing Co., Printers.

X-E738
.D4
#2

Speech of

L. A. RUSSELL,

of Cleveland, Ohio,

At the Convention of the League of Bimetallic Clubs of the Ohio Valley,

At Louisville, Ky.,

June 2d, 1899.

"The Platform and the Men."

X-E 738
.D4
#3

Speech of

L. A. RUSSELL,

of Cleveland, Ohio,

At the Convention of the League of Bimetallic Clubs of the Ohio Valley,

At Louisville, Ky.,

June 2d, 1899.

"The Platform and the Men."

X-E738
.D4
#4

JUDGE MURRAY F. TULEY,
HON. N. E. WORTHINGTON, and # GOV. HORACE BOIES

ON

WHAT SHOULD BE THE # CARDINAL PLANKS

IN THE

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

FOR 1900.

---

Judge Tuley's letter is a calm, clear, fearless exposition of the dominant issues of the day. Every Democrat, every Republican, every citizen, should carefully read it and ponder over it. It is not the expression of opinion by a thoughtless person, but the profound conclusions of the Nestor of the Chicago bar.—Chicago Democrat.

Judge Tuley's letter contains the views of a Democrat of the old and better school, . . . . a statement of what the Democratic party should stand for at the hands of an intelligent and thoughtful believer in it.—Boston Herald.

The Democratic letter of Judge Murray F. Tuley, printed in the Chronicle of the 12th inst., should be read by every member of the party to which it is addressed. It should be read by every citizen, without regard to party distinction. The veteran jurist has rendered a valuable civic service in addressing the Democratic party and the people generally on the political topics of the day. His pure character, his unselfish public spirit, his long experience in political life, his position as an acknowledged Democratic leader, render his opinions of great importance.—Chicago Chronicle.

---

PUBLISHED BY

THE NATIONAL JEFFERSONIAN DEMOCRATIC LEAGUE.

Copies of this, and other Democratic Literature, mailed free, on application to the Secretary,

M. W. MEAGHER, Ashland Block, Chicago, Ill.

X-E738
.D4
#5

HON. FRED A. BAKER,
HON. S. E. MORSS,
HON. W. L. EVANS, and
HON. J. W. MOORE

ON

WHAT SHOULD BE THE # CARDINAL PLANKS

IN THE

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

FOR 1900.

---

Published by the NATIONAL JEFFERSONIAN DEMOCRATIC LEAGUE.

---

Copies of this, and other Democratic Literature, mailed free, on application to the Secretary,

M. W. MEAGHER,
Ashland Block, Chicago, Ill.

X-E738
.D4
#6

TO THE

College Men of America.

---

AN ADDRESS

FROM THE

DEMOCRATIC CLUB OF COLLEGE MEN

IN

THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

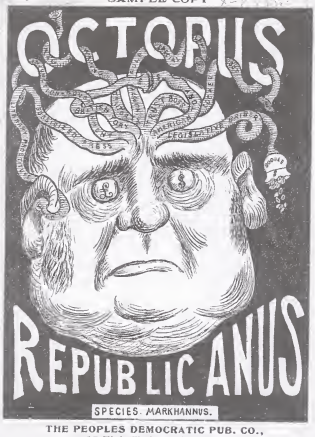
7

READER: MAIL US YOUR OPINION OF THIS BOOK.

SAMPLE COPY



THE PEOPLES DEMOCRATIC PUB. CO.,
~~57, Wabash Ave.~~, Chicago.

1552 W. Congress St.

X-E738
.D9
#8

POINTS FOR BRYAN

BY A YOUNG REPUBLICAN WHO IS LESS CONCERNED FOR A "FULL DINNER-PAIL" THAN FOR THE RIGHTS OF MAN.

A WORD ABOUT THE TREATY OF PARIS:

Whatever the Treaty of Paris might include with reference to the Filipinos, it certainly was they whose interests were the most deeply involved. Yet, when the treaty was under consideration, the Filipino representative sent to this country to present the grievances and wishes of his people was ignored by the Republican Administration and the Filipinos were denied any hearing before the Peace Commission. When we hear the Republican cant about Filipino rights, or rather lack of rights, under the treaty, let us not forget the injustice of which that treaty was born.

X-E738
.R4

FOUR YEARS OF McKINLEY.

Some of the Results.

Deposits in savings banks in New York state increased from $41,034,918.18 to $54,789,-893.84.

Value of expo[illegible] from $882,606,9[illegible] 479,214.

Favorable trade [illegible] increased from $10[illegible] $544,764,885.

Increased wages paid to railroad employes, $77,459,635.

Labor everywhere employed and well paid.

In short, prosperous conditions in all kinds of business and in every trade have succeeded calamity, despair and depression.

#10 X-E738
.R4

EUROPE FOR BRYAN.

Americans will be pleased to learn that the French press has followed the lead of London Truth, and is solid for Bryan. Henri Rochefort, editor of L'Intransigeant, declared editorially on September 26th that if Mr. Bryan be elected the expansion policy of Mr. McKinley will be struck from American politics for years to come. Libre Parole goes further, saying:

"The results in the elections in the United States on the 6th of November interest our future destiny. It is for us that Bryan is working. Made a criminal by imperialism, McKinley conspires against France."

All true Americans should note that Bryan is working for the interests of Europe—not of the United States.

#10 X-E738
.R4

EUROPE FOR BRYAN.

Americans will be pleased to learn that the French press has followed the lead of London Truth, and is solid for Bryan. Henri Rochefort, editor of L'Intransigeant, declared editorially on September 26th that if Mr. Bryan be elected the expansion policy of Mr. McKinley will be struck from American politics for years to come. Libre Parole goes further, saying:

"The results in the elections in the United States on the 6th of November interest our future destiny. It is for us that Bryan is working. Made a criminal by imperialism, McKinley conspires against France."

All true Americans should note that Bryan is working for the interests of Europe—not of the United States.

What Business Men Think,

About the Political Situation.

The New York Tribune of June 23d published a number of interviews with business men of different politics in various parts of the country as to the effect upon business of a change from Republican to Democratic government and the following extracts, together with some additional matter, are worthy the careful consideration of every citizen.

Dinner-Pail Document No. 6, Published by

THE WEST SIDE BUSINESS MEN'S McKINLEY AND ROOSEVELT CAMPAIGN CLUB,

Office: 143 Chambers St., New York.

Correspondence Solicited.

E. Dem. R X-E738

What Abram S. Hewitt Thinks

#14

Abram S. Hewitt, a merchant and manufacturer, an ex-democratic Member of Congress, ex-Mayor of New York, and an American citizen whose name is synonymous with patriotism, integrity and ability has written to a friend in this city the following letter on the duty of Democrats in the present campaign:

The political situation at this time is of a very different character from that which presented itself four years ago. At that time it seemed possible to maintain a distinct Democratic organization, based upon the fundamental principles enunciated by Jefferson, and which had continued to govern the party in all previous Presidential elections. The nomination of Palmer and Buckner was not made with any idea that they could be elected, but in order to preserve an organization about which sound Democrats could rally in case the heresies of the Chicago platform should be repudiated by a subsequent convention professing to be Democratic. The recent convention held at Kansas City has, however, rendered all such expectations hopeless. The party which calls itself Democratic is in reality Populistic, and based upon doctrines which, if carried into effect, would produce political anarchy. No doubt you are familiar with Taine's "History of the French Revolution." In the second volume, entitled "Democracy," you will find all the heresies of the Chicago platform practically announced, and the dreadful consequences of striving to put these false doctrines into operation

Fienderna till fullgodt mynt samla sina spridda skaror."—William McKinley.

GODT MYNT---GODA AFFÄRER.

VÄRDEMÄTAREN MÅSTE ÄGA DET STÖRSTA VÄRDE.

Guld bästa pänningematerialet — Farorna af obegränsad silfvermyntning—Huru löntagarne komme att lida.

Af THOMAS HITCHCOCK,
("Matthew Marshall")

Pänningen är något, som genom allmänt samförstånd och med eller utan lagens hjälp tjenar såsom värdemätaren för hvad som till vårt uppehälle och nödtorft hörer och såsom medlet för att på ett bekvämt sätt byta ut det vna mot det andra.

Vi mäta längden af ett tyg pr yard, vigten af socker, mjöl, smör etc. pr pound och säga att ett stycke tyg är så och så många yards långt och att en viss kvantitet socker, smör eller mjöl väger så och så många pounds. Enär dessa lifsförnödenheter ega olika värden, uttrycka vi på samma sätt hvartderas värde genom att säga att tyg är värdt så och så många dollars och cents pr yard och socker, mjöl och smör så och så många cents, eller hundradelar af en dollar, pr pound. Dollars och cents äro den vanliga värdemätaren, liksom en yard och fraktioner däraf äro mätare af längd och pounds samt ounces af vigt.

Pänningen som värdemätare.

När sålunda nu dollars och cents äro värdemätare af våra lifsförnödenheter, göra de utbytet af dessa lätt. Utan pänningens hjälp skulle en person, som önskade med sitt hvete, majs eller bomull köpa socker, mjöl, smör eller någon annan lifsförnödenhet, nödgas räkna och räkna för att komma underfund med hu-

X E7 38 1
#15

E75.R
X-E738
.R4 #16

"The Credit of the Country has been advanced to the highest place among all Nations."—William McKinley.

WHAT BRYAN COULD DO

If Elected President He Might Put the Treasury On a Silver Basis Without Authority of Law.

AN ENDLESS CHAIN OF SILVER.

Would Be Compelled to Resort to More Bond Issues, But Could Not Sell Them at the Rate of Interest Allowed by Law.

A MENACE TO LABOR AND INDUSTRY.

#17 E738 84

"The Credit of the Country has been advanced to the highest place among the Nations."—William McKinley.

WHAT BRYAN COULD DO

If Elected President He Might Put the Treasury On a Silver Basis Without Authority of Law.

AN ENDLESS CHAIN OF SILVER.

Would Be Compelled to Resort to More Bond Issues, But Could Not Sell Them at the Rate of Interest Allowed by Law.

A MENACE TO LABOR AND INDUSTRY.

X-E738
.R4 #18

"The Enemies of Sound Currency are Rallying their Scattered Forces."—William McKinley.

Sound Money—Sound Business

THE MEASURE OF VALUE MUST POSSESS THE GREATEST VALUE.

Gold the Best Money Material — Dangers from the Unlimited Coinage of Silver—How Wage-Earners Would Suffer.

By THOMAS HITCHCOCK.
("Matthew Marshall.")

Money is anything which serves by common consent, and with or without the help of law, as a measure of the values of commodities and a means for making exchanges of them easy.

We measure the length of cloth by the yard, and the weight of sugar, flour, butter, etc., by the pound, saying that a piece of cloth is so many yards long, and that a particular quantity of sugar, butter or flour weighs so many pounds. In like manner, since these commodities have different values, we express the value of each of them by saying that cloth is worth so many dollars and cents per yard, and sugar, flour and butter so many cents, or hundredth parts of a dollar, per pound. Dollars and cents are the common measure of value, as the yard and its fractions are of length, and pounds and ounces are of weight.

Money a Measure of Value.

Since dollars and cents thus measure the values of commodities, they make the ex-

X-E738
.R4 #19

WAGE EARNERS.

"The whole free silver movement is a conspiracy against wages."
—(Bourke Cockran, 1896.) (but titled to Bryan in 1900)

WAGES UNDER FREE SILVER.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| CHINA, | Unskilled labor | 10 cts. to 20 cts. per day. |
| | Skilled labor | 20 cts. to 40 cts. per day. |
| MEXICO, | Unskilled labor | 45 cts. to 60 cts. per day. |
| | Skilled labor | 50 cts. to $1.80 per day. |

IN THE U. S. UNDER GOLD BASIS.

| | |
|---|---|
| Unskilled labor | $1.00 to $1.50 per day. |
| Skilled labor | $2.00 to $5.00 per day. |

WHICH IS BEST FOR YOU?

Issued by THE REPUBLICAN CLUB OF MASSACHUSETTS, 19 MILK STREET, BOSTON, MASS.

X-E735

"IF THE BOSS WANTS IT, WE DON'T."

This was the prevailing argument which influenced a good many workingmen to vote for Mr. Bryan and against sound money in the last Presidential campaign, and the fostering of this spirit was a prominent feature in the arguments of Mr. Bryan and other silver men. There is a basis for this feeling in the way some employers treat their men, and in the controversies of capital and labor over the division of the profits of production where each side generally tries to make the best deal possible, and there is too little of the live-and-let-live spirit.

Back of all these controversies, however, the fact remains that the interests of labor and capital are largely the same; that without each other neither can prosper, and that they should be allies. It is particularly true that their interests are identical in the matter of sound money. The laborer wants a dollar for his product (labor) that will buy the most of the comforts of life. Business needs a dollar of the standard used by the principal nations.

Gold and silver are both commodities exchangeable for other commodities. So long as their production was nearly equal they exchanged on the basis of sixteen ounces of silver for one of gold, but the production of silver increased much faster than that of gold, and the bullion market value of silver declined. The producers of silver, however, want to have the Government coin all the silver produced, into dollars as was formerly done, and make it a legal tender, or, in other words, make everybody take it at the same value as a gold dollar. They are not willing to have the Government coin it and stamp it, "This is —— grains of silver," instead of "This is one dollar." That would not suit them at all. They would have to give two of these for a gold dollar, or four of them to a laborer who was earning two dollars a day, in order to give him the same purchasing power as now, for silver has declined about one-

Y E738

When Supper Time Comes.

Mrs. Beckwith Applies a Calf Story to the Laboring Man who Chases after Bryan.

Mrs. Edwin Beckwith, who addressed the National, Commercial and Industrial League at 737 Broadway, recently, told a story about a boy who was driving a cow and her calf to pasture. On the road they met a steer and the foolish calf forsook its mother and chased off after the steer.

"Come back here," yelled the boy in pursuit of the calf, but the calf kept right on running and the boy got mad.

"You darned little fool, you'll know the difference when supper time comes," he shouted at the runaway.

Mrs. Beckwith told her hearers that the laboring men who were following Bryan were just about in the fix of that calf.

---

Dinner-Pail Document, No. 13. Published by the UNITED STATES EXPORT ASSOCIATION,

143 Chambers Street, New York.

(A union of American interests to extend the consumption of American Products and keep American labor and capital remuneratively employed.

Correspondence Solicited.

NOTE.—If additional copies of this leaflet are desired, they will be sent post-paid, on receipt of 10cts. for 10; 30cts. for 50; 50cts. for 100; $4.00 for 1,000.

#22 X-E 738
.D4

No Trusts, said Hanna.

| Name | Capital | Name | Capital |
|---|---|---|---|
| Oil | $153 000 000 | Tin | $30 000 000 |
| Steel Iron | 347 650 000 | Tobacco | 33 500 000 |
| Coal | 161 750 000 | Paper | 45 000 000 |
| Gas | 432 771 000 | Acid, Chemical | 50 000 000 |
| Sugar | 115 000 000 | Matting | 30 000 000 |
| Cigarettes | | Silverware | 30 000 000 |
| Tobacco | 108 500 000 | Lead | 30 000 000 |
| Telephone | 56 720 800 | Knit Goods | 30 000 000 |
| Alcohol | 67 300 000 | Sash Door | 30 000 000 |
| Electrical | 139 327 000 | Wall Paper | 30 000 000 |
| Flour | 150 000 000 | Cigarette | 25 000 000 |
| U S Leather | 125 000 000 | Typewriter | 18 000 000 |
| Tobacco Co plug | 75 000 000 | Glass | 18 000 000 |
| Biscuit | 55 000 000 | Casket | 15 000 000 |
| Cornstalk | 50 000 000 | Crockery | 15 000 000 |
| Corn Harvester | 50 000 000 | Smelters | 25 000 000 |
| Lumber | 45 000 000 | Ribbon | 18 000 000 |
| U S Rubber | 40 000 000 | Rubber | 12 000 000 |
| Beef | 50 000 000 | Axe | 15 000 000 |
| Copper | 40 000 000 | Bolt, Nut | 15 000 000 |
| A lo | 60 000 000 | Lithograph | 11 500 000 |
| N Ice | 50 000 000 | Tissue Paper | 10 000 000 |

43 TRUSTS, CAPITAL, $3,000,000,000.

The railroad, banks insurance, nor the Political Trust, nor the Money Trust, issuing the people's money are included in the above The Paper Money Trust that controls the paper money of the nation, is a greater menace to the country's welfare than any foreign foe.

William Jennings Bryan

Vote for Him — Editor.

Greatest of All, Gold Trust, The trusts vote for their pocketbooks, Why not vote for yours. 700 trusts and Companies (Seal) Inoperative. Foster M. Voorhees, Governor of New Jersey. May 1900

Three Great Issues before the American people. Anti Trust Anti Imperialistic The Money Question is the mightiest and most fundamental vital paramount issue

The Total Gold of the world in coin and bullion used as money amounts to $2.51 per capita,

More Money and Less Misery.

---

AMERICA AND THE WORLD COMPANY,

Shares $10. Tract No. 25 070..

1,000 for $3 : 100 for 50c : 1 for 1c.

America and the World Tract Company. Vol. 21.

L. B. Heller & Sons. Editors. 26 Church St, N. Y. or P. O. Box 271, Belleville. N. J.

THE AMERICAN PROTECTIVE TARIFF LEAGUE,
135 West 23d Street,
NEW YORK.

X-E738
.R4
#23

E750.R
X-E738
.R4
#24

McKinley Song.

Capt. John Schoenthaler, Author.

Copyrighted by Capt. John Schoenthaler.
Applied for

Hurrah for McKinley, the great President,
Hurrah for this country, the great and big land
Hurrah for our Stars and Stripes every day,
Hurrah for McKinley, for McKinley hurrah.

He gives us sound money and plenty of work,
He gives us bread, butter, and plenty of pork,
He gives us good wages 'most every day;
Hurrah for McKinley, for McKinley hurrah.

He don't want an Empire, he wants a good land,
With plenty of work for every hand;
With plenty to eat for us every day,
Hurrah for McKinley, for McKinley hurrah.

He sends his brave soldiers to the foreign land,
They shall fight for freedom for every land;
And for our trade they shall clear us the way,
Hurrah for McKinley, for McKinley hurrah.

His soldiers are fighters wherever they go,
They fight for this country each like a hero;
They fight for the Stars and Stripes every day
Hurrah for his soldiers, for McKinley hurrah.

God bless us McKinley! the great President,
God bless this great country, our sweet home and land;
Good bless our Stars and Stripes every day,
Hurrah for this country, McKinley hurrah?

Vote for McKinley

#25 X-E738 .R4

FARMER REDDY FOR McKINLEY

J. H. Reddy, for many years past a bonanza farmer near Montevidio, Minn., has always been a Democrat. A year or so ago Mr. Reddy came to Fargo, S. D., and became interested in transportation matters and is now proprietor of Reddy's celebrated dray line in Fargo. He believes in expansion, and as this country expanded Mr. Reddy moved out West and expanded with it.

Mr. Reddy voted for Bryan four years ago, not liking to leave the Democratic party, with which he has been a life-long member. On being questioned as to his vote this year, Mr. Reddy said :

"You may say for me, I have been a life-long Democrat, not a shouter, but always voting. I did not want to break away four years ago, although I did not like Mr. Bryan and his free silver theories, but I stood it then.

"The depression of prices, the scant labor, the number of people out of work, and no work to be had, put me to thinking, and, while I have always opposed protection, the success of business in the past four years has convinced me that Mr. McKinley's policy is the best for the interests of the country. I have farmed it all my life down in Minnesota and am still farming there, although living in Fargo. I have never seen the country more prosperous than in the past three years. Instead of men having to hunt for work—we have to hunt for men to do the work we have to offer.

"I see business flourishing, especially in Fargo—help is scarce and prosperity seems to take hold and give every man a helping hand. The conditions I believe came from the successful management of government affairs by the present administration.

"There was a time that I would have voted for my Democratic ticket, right or wrong, but now I believe in voting for the candidates who will do the best for labor and capital, and who will make the people prosper. I shall vote for McKinley and Roosevelt.

"I like Roosey, who was here not long ago. He is a brave, dashing Western man, with push, broadness and energy. Mr. McKinley seems to be a good man, with excellent judgment, who has a perfect grasp of the situation, and knows what is best for the people, and seeks to give the best to them.

"All this talk about imperialism, anti-expansion and sacrifice of the republic, is bosh—plain unadulterated bosh! Opening up new markets in the Orient for our products gives us additional outlets for our farm crops. I like President Hill of the Great Northern for helping in that. I like Bishop Ireland because he is an American and glories in Old Glory, and I have no use for a money that—knows not that its redeemer liveth. I think it's the working man's salvation to vote for Wm. McKinley."

J. H. REDDY.

#26 X-E738 .R4

FOR ABSOLUTE FREE SILVER

Bryan Is Betrayed by Sudden Anger and Declares for Sixteen to One in the Most Extreme and Violent Form — He Nursed His Hobby in Silence and Secrecy, But Will Stop at Nothing When the Time Comes for Action.

When Bryan was speaking at Ann Arbor, Mich., Thursday, October 11th, some one in the audience called out, "How about free silver?" and he replied as follows:

"We are in favor of the free coinage of silver at the ratio of sixteen to one without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation on earth."

There it is—free silver doctrine in all its danger, recklessness and fanaticism. Not a syllable of qualification or caution. No hint of a safer ratio—no suggestion of securing the co-operation of any other nation, but a reckless plunge by this country, singlehanded and alone, in an attempt to maintain silver at double its actual value!

Angry men tell the truth. Nettled by the timely and pertinent question, Bryan let the cat completely out of the bag. Stung by the keen reminder, he dropped his campaign mask and avowed the full truth as men do sometimes in their wrath as in their cups.

The alert citizen who propounded the question at Ann Arbor did well. He surprised Bryan into declaring the truth fully and plainly before the country. As the Democratic candidate had been compelled by Jones et al. to hide and dissemble his love for free silver in a policy game to be kept up until the end of the campaign, it only required the sting and surprise of the sudden question to bring out the burning inner truth of Bryan's devotion to silver.

Bryan loves his silver dogma all the more fanatically because he has had to nurse it in silence. The surprise sprung on him at Ann Arbor shows how the land lies. Believing in free silver as absolutely and as ardently as ever, Bryan will stop at nothing when the opportunity comes to enforce that policy in its most extreme and reckless form.

The Irish poet tells of the prophet of Khorassan who disguised his frightful visage for a time, making his followers think it one of entrancing beauty, but when the hour came to drop the mask he did so with frantic joy, exclaiming, "Ye would be dupes and victims, and ye are!"

So it will be with Bryan's victims if he ever gets a chance to drop the mask and give full vent to his silver mania.

X-E738
.R4
#27

REPUBLICAN

Victory Certain!

A Grand Mass Meeting of Republicans,

Without regard to race, color or condition,

At Bridge Street A. M. E. Church,

Bridge St., bet. Myrtle Ave. and Johnson St.

UNDER THE AUSPICES OF ITS OFFICERS.

Thursday Eve., Nov. 1st, 1900, at 8 p. m. Sharp.

All citizens interested in the election of Wm. McKinley, for President, Theodore Roosevelt, for Vice President; Benjamin B. Odel, for Governor; Timothy Woodruff for Lieutenant Governor, and the entire Congressional, Legislature and County ticket are respectfully invited to come and celebrate in this grand Election Jubilee.

The Following Prominent Speakers will be in attendance:

Rev. H. C. C. Astwood, Presiding,

Hon. Jacob Worth, Hon. H. W. Bass, Mr. James L. Smith,
" P.B.R. Pinchback, Mr. Wm. L. Edwards, Rev. J. H. Accoge,
" H. B. Ketcham, Mr. Geo. E. Wibecan, Jr. Mr. D. M. Webster,
Mr. Lott. Henderson.

Committee of Arrangement.

J. L. Smith, J. H. Bolden, E. P. Robinson, Willis Robinson, F. E. Wesley, John A. Jacobs, Geo. Bateum, Wiley G. Overton, Lott Henderson.

X 1.2 J8
.R4
#28

ROOSEVELT RECEPTION,

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 26TH, 1900,

MADISON SQUARE PARK.

THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER.

To be sung at 8.45 and 10.15 P. M.

As led by Bandmaster GEORGE L. HUMPHREY, of the 7th Reg't Band, by Search-Light on Madison Square Garden Tower.

(1.) Oh! say can you see, by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hail'd at the twilight's last gleaming,
Whose stripes and bright stars, through the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watch'd so gallantly streaming;
And the rockets' red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof to the night that our flag was still there.
Oh! say does that star spangled banner yet wave,
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

(2.) On the shore dimly seen through the mist of the deep,
Where the foes' haughty host in dread silence reposes;
What is that which the breeze, o'er the towering steep,
As it fitfully blows half conceals, half discloses?
Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam,
In full glory reflected, now shines in the stream.
'Tis the star spangled banner, oh! long may it wave,
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!

(3.) And, where is that band who so vauntingly swore,
'Mid the havoc of war and the battle's confusion,
A home and a country they'd leave us no more?
Their blood has washed out their foul footstep's pollution;
No refuge could save the hireling and slave,
From the terror of flight or the gloom of the grave,
And the star spangled banner in triumph shall wave,
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!

(4.) Oh! thus be it ever when free men shall stand,
Between their lov'd home and the war's desolation;
Blest with vict'ry and peace may the heav'n rescued land,
Praise the Pow'r that hath made and preserv'd us a nation.
Then conquer we must, when our cause it is just,
And this be our motto, "In God is our trust,"
And the star spangled banner in triumph shall wave,
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

AMERICA.

To be sung at 9.30 P. M.

As led by Bandmaster GEORGE L. HUMPHREY, of the 7th Reg't Band, by Search-Light on Madison Square Garden Tower.

(1.) My country 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of Liberty,
Of thee I sing;
Land where my fathers died,
Land of the pilgrims' pride,
From ev'ry mountain side
Let freedom ring.

(2.) My native country, thee,
Land of the noble, free,
Thy name I love;
I love thy rocks and rills,
Thy woods and templed hills;
My heart with rapture thrills
Like that above.

(3.) Let music swell the breeze,
And ring from all the trees
Sweet freedom's song;
Let mortal tongues awake,
Let all that breathe partake;
Let rocks their silence break,
The sound prolong.

(4.) Our father's God, to Thee,
Author of Liberty,
To Thee we sing;
Long may our land be bright
With freedom's holy light;
Protect us by Thy might,
Great God, our King.

E750.R

X.E750
.R4

#29

ANOTHER BRYAN PROPHECY FULFILLED.

"A gold standard discourages enterprise and paralyzes industry."
—Bryan in New York City, August 13, 1896.

The annual report for 1899 of the commissioner of labor for New York state shows how this statement of Mr. Bryan's has been verified. There reported to him 3,553 labor organizations. From these reports are taken the following statistics:

| | |
|---|---|
| Number of employes, June 30, 1896 | 299,957 |
| Number of employes, June 30, 1897 | 304,131 |
| Number of employes, June 30, 1898 | 326,090 |
| Number of employes, June 30, 1899 | 356,278 |
| Or an increase of 18.7 per cent. | |
| Amount paid in wages, June 30, 1896 | $141,184,845 |
| Amount paid in wages, June 30, 1897 | 138,577,878 |
| Amount paid in wages, June 30, 1898 | 151,279,010 |
| Amount paid in wages, June 30, 1899 | 162,645,649 |
| Or an increase of 15.2 per cent. | |

E750.R

X-E738
.R4
#30

HOW SAVINGS HAVE INCREASED.

The savings of the peop'e are among the best evidences of prosperity. How they compare in this state under Democratic and Republican national administrations is shown by the following figures, which tell their own story.

| | |
|---|---|
| Savings bank deposits, January 1, 1893 ..... | $629,356,273 |
| Savings bank deposits, January 1, 1894 ..... | 617,089,448 |
| Decrease in one year (the first of a Democratic administration) ..... | $12,268,825 |
| Number of depositors, January 1, 1893 ..... | 1,593,804 |
| Number of depositors, January 1, 1894 ..... | 1,585,155 |
| Decrease in one year (the first of a Democratic administration) ..... | 8,649 |
| Savings bank deposits, January 1, 1897 ..... | $718,176,888 |
| Savings bank deposits, January 1, 1898 ..... | 766,684,916 |
| Increase in one year (McKinley's first year) ... | 48,508,028 |
| Savings bank deposits, January 1, 1899 ..... | $816,144,367 |
| Increase over January 1, 1898 ..... | 49,459,451 |
| Savings bank deposits, January 1, 1900 ..... | $887,480,650 |
| Increase over January 1, 1899 ..... | 71,336,282 |

The following figures are equally interesting and convincing:

| | |
|---|---|
| Increases during first four years of Cleveland ..... | $86,570,014 |
| Increases during four years of Harrison ..... | 105,680,758 |
| Increases during second four years of Cleveland ..... | 77,818,615 |
| Increases during three years of McKinley ..... | 169,303,761 |

E750.R

X-E738
.R4

#31

BRYAN'S PROMISE FOR LABOR—ITS FULFILLMENT.

"The promulgation of the gold standard is an attack upon your honor and your firesides."—William J. Bryan at Niagara Falls, August 28, 1896.

---

"The wage-earners have been injured by a gold standard. * * * Wage-earners know that employment is less permanent, loss of work more probable and re-employment less certain.—William J. Bryan at New York City, August 13, 1896.

Samuel Gompers, president of the Ameri an Federation of Labor, and a Democrat, shows how this statement has been verified. Below are quotations from utterances by him on three different occasions.

Speaking to the Federation on December 11, 1893, he said after referring to the fact that there were 3,000,000 union men out of work at that time:

"Never in the history of the world has so large a number of people vainly sought for an opportunity to earn a livelihood and contribute to the support of their fellows. In a society where such abnormal conditions prevail there must of necessity be something wrong at the basic foundation."

In a signed article printed in New York on January 1, 1898, nine months after President McKinley was inaugurated, Mr. Gompers said:

"The terrible period for the wage-earners of this country, which begun in 1893, and which has left behind it such a record of horror, hunger and misery, partially ended with the dawn of the year 1897."

In his report to the Federation at its annual convention held in Detroit, December 11, 1899, President Gompers said:

"The revival of industry which we have witnessed within the past year is one for general congratulation. And it should be our purpose to endeavor to prolong the era of more general employment and industrial activity."

E750.R
#32

GUESSING CONTEST

What will be Mr. Bryan's Paramountcy in

X-E738
.R4

EVERYBODY VOTE. VOTE ONCE AND TRY AGAIN.
Splendid Prizes for the Lucky Ones.

THE BALLOT.

- ☐ Free Silver.
- ☐ Consent of Governed. (Not in North Carolina.)
- ☐ Income Tax.
- ☐ Declaration of Independence.
- ☐ G. Washington Aguinaldo.
- ☐ Anti-Militarism.
- ☐ Irredeemable Greenbacks.
- ☐ Anti-Full Dinner Pail.
- ☐ Price of Wheat.
- ☐ Anti-Expansion.
- ☐ Anti-Trusts. (Except Ice and Cotton Bale.)
- ☐ Free Trade.
- ☐ Anti-Imperialism.
- ☐ Direct Legislation.
- ☐ Pull Down the Flag.
- ☐ Ten Commandments.
- ☐ Anti-Prosperity.
- ☐ Government by Injunction.
- ☐ Anti-Empire.
- ☐ Absalom.

DIRECTIONS FOR GUESSING—Mark with an X as you would an Australian ballot in the square in front of the particular paramountcy you think Mr. Bryan will discuss when he visits and send to this office before 6 o'clock night. (Sign here.)

Name..... Address.....

MAGNIFICENT PRIZES HUNG UP

Lucky Best Guess—One copy of "The First Battle," by Wm. Jennings Bryan, with portrait of auther.
Second Best Guess—One copy of "The First Battle," by Wm. Jennings Bryan, with portrait of author.
Third Best Guess—One copy of "The First Battle," by Wm. Jennings Bryan, with portrait of author.
Booby Prize—One copy of "The First Battle," by Wm. Jennings Bryan, with portrait of author.

These splendid prizes can be seen in the window of ..... second-hand store, ..... street.

E750.R
X.E738
.R4
#33

THE POOR MAN'S BATTLE-CRY.

AIR—YANKEE DOODLE.

In eighteen hundred ninety-two,
How well we all remember
When Cleveland was elected on
The eighth day of November,

CHORUS.

Then hoist the banner to the breeze,
And let there be no fooling,
McKinley he will take good care
The wheels are kept a moving.

Our country it was prosperous,
Our mills run night and day,
Our furnaces were burning then,
And labor got good pay.

Our workmen they were busy too,
They seemed to have "a pull,"
Our mothers they were happy, and Dad's dinner-pail was full.

Our foes were very anxious then
To get us in their coils,
The deuce can take the workingman
If they but get the spoils.

They said we were a robbing them,
McKinley's bill they blamed;
It taxed the poor man's dinner-pail,
And we ought to be ashamed.

And Grover he had promised them
If they would vote for him,
He'd smash those cruel tariff laws
And let foreign goods come in.

There were many who believed in him,
They thought he was the best,
So Grover was elected,and
The people know the rest.

The mills were stopped, the fires went out,
Our men were "on their uppers,"
And many a poor man's children
Went to bed without their suppers.

There was no work o'er this broad land,
Our foes they ceased to whoop ,
The poor were very thankful when
They got a bowl of soup.

And so it was for four long years
Our people had to wait,
I'm sure they fully realized
They'd made a great mistake.

In eighteen hundred ninety-six
McKinley was elected,
"Thank God!" the people loudly cried
That Bryan was rejected.

The mills were started once again,
The furnaces set burning,
For all the people knew full well
There were good times a coming.

So it has been for four years past,
The wheels have all been running,
Each man has done his level best
To keep the thing a humming.

The people all seem happy now,
They ought to be "for fair."
The dinner-pail is full again,
And labor gets its share.

But now again the battles's on,
Our foes they are preparing
To drive these blessings from our land,
Our people all are sharing.

"Imperialism" now they cry,
With Bryan in the saddle,
And following closely in his trail
We find a crazy rabble.

But labor now gives them the laugh
As this motley crowd pass by.
McKinley is the man for us,
And they "wink the other eye."

You can fool us no more, they say,
You did it once before,
We'll burry you so deep this time,
We'll hear from you no more.

Old Glory is waving in the east,
And there it shall remain,
Those islands in that distant sea
We captured from old Spain.

And Dewey placed that banner there,
All honor to his name;
Our jolly tars who manned the guns
Deserve a world-wide fame.

No man shall haul that old flag down,
'Twill there forever be,
In all its glory it shall wave,
An emblem of the free.

J. H. STILL, Brooklyn, N. Y.

E750.R #34

For Use Friday Night, Sept 21, 1900.

WHAT BRYAN'S ELECTION WILL MEAN TO AMERICAN LABOR.

[By Hon. Charles H. Grosvenor, of Ohio.]

In the eddying fight, amid din and roar of the fallen guns of imperialism and militarism, there is danger the people of this country may lose sight of the fact that the election of Mr. Bryan means the overthrow of the protective tariff system and the introduction of a free-trade program into the policy of the government. Our people have short memories and they sometimes forget and need to be reminded.

Mr. Bryan was a member of the 52nd and 53rd Congresses and took a very active part at once upon taking his seat. In the 53rd Congress, of which I was a member, the Wilson bill was under consideration. It was the passage of that bill which plunged this country into ruin. It does not make any difference what people say about the origin of hard times, the intelligent laboring man of this country knows very well that he ceased to earn a living for himself and family because of the demoralization of business caused by the repeal of the McKinley law and the passage of the Wilson act. It was that which precipitated wages to the lowest ebb that they have been for many a year. It was that which sent marching columns of hungry men over the country demanding food. It was the passage of that bill that made it possible for any intelligent man to listen for a moment to the speeches of such men as Bryan in 1896.

On the floor of the House in the debates on the Wilson bill Bryan took the extreme free-trade ground. His speeches are on record and the laboring men of the country can find them and read them. He especially announced himself as in favor of absolute free-trade upon many of the leading products of the farm, notably wool, which he insisted should be put upon the free list of the Wilson bill. When that bill was passed by the concurrence of the House in the six hundred amendments of the Senate it was Bryan and Hon. Jos. Bailey, a representative from the State of Texas, who in their ecstasy seized the champion, who was the putative father of the law, the Hon. W. L. Wilson, of West Virginia, and carried him on their shoulders in a triumphal procession through the House of Representatives into the cloak-room and a saturnalia of joy resounded from those premises. It was Bryan who favored the introduction of foreign material into this country free of charge. It was Bryan who demanded that all raw material such as wool, coal, iron, and everything which entered into the manufacture of goods, should be imported free, and it was his influence, more than any other man's, that brought about the terrible result with which we are so familiar.

It was Bryan's earnest demand that put wool on the free list, and in that debate he declared that he did not care whether it benefited or hurt the wool grower. It was Bryan who drove the tariff on coal down to such an extent as to flood the eastern markets with coal and stimulate the growth of the development of coal in the British possessions in the northeast, and practically drove us out of the seaboard markets with the soft-coal of central states. It was Bryan who advocated the low tariff on agricultural products and utterly refused to discriminate or allow discrimination in favor of the products of the west and middle west. The laboring men of the country and the farmers of the country, before they plunge themselves into the vortex that is being held out, should get Bryan's record and read it. It is a very interesting chapter in the personal politics of that gentleman. The platform made at Kansas City is very adroit in laying the foundation for an enactment in Congress, should Bryan be elected, satisfactory to his history and record. Not daring to assail protection directly he came at it in the platform which he personally conducted as follows:

"Tariff laws should be amended by putting the products of trusts upon the free list. * * * We condemn the Dingley tariff law as a trust breeding measure, skillfully devised, etc."

That is the platform of the party denominated the Democratic party and whose nomination Mr. Bryan accepted. The original Populist party, whose candidate Mr. Bryan now is, I refer to the Sioux Falls nomination, also places itself on record in a similar attitude. So Mr. Bryan, without any apology for the past stands upon a series of platforms all squinting in the direction of free-trade, and in the event of his election, with a Congress subservient to his dictation, as was the convention at Kansas City, we may look for just such legislation as precipitated this country into the condition with which we are all familiar. It is therefore very unwise for the people of the country to be led away from the two great propositions of Mr. Bryan's life, the two propositions for which he stands, the two propositions which make up Bryanism, to-wit, free and unlimited coinage of silver, and free-trade, and follow off after the illusion and delusion of imperialism.

If the intelligent agriculturalist will take the prices of his products in 1896 and compare them with the present prices of the commodities, and then take the Dingley tariff law, he will at once discover to what he is indebted for the advance in prices. If the laboring man will take first the price of his labor in 1896 and then the price of his labor in 1900 and then take the table of imports of foreign manufactured goods in 1896 and back of that time and then take the imports of foreign goods now, as shown by the statistics of the Treasury Department; he will at once discover that the present advantage which is accruing to him comes absolutely directly from the tariff law now on the statute books of the United States. And, then, if he desires old times, with old prices and old short days of employment, he had better vote for William Jennings Bryan.

But if the laboring man wants a continuation of the present prosperity of the United States, he certainly cannot, without inconsistency, vote for Bryan. Another view of it. Let the laboring man take the present price of his labor and take the present prices of all the things he buys upon which his family is subsisted and supported and educated, and then take the price of his labor of 1896 and the prices existing then, he will discover, without any hesitation of intellect, that present conditions are far better than old conditions, that, waiving the little increase of cost of living, the balance sheet shows favorably to him. No man can deny that and there is no man in the United States who has done more to break down the interests of labor by promoting and cultivating unfair and unjust competition than has William J. Bryan, of Nebraska.

C. H. GROSVENOR.

Athens, Ohio, Sept. 17, 1900.

THE BLOOMFIELD PRESS, WALLACE, IDAHO. 1900

The Issues of 1900

by

William M. Ivins.

X-E738
.R4
#36

"A bird that can sing and won't sing must be made to sing."

Wholesale Dry Goods Republican Club

350 BROADWAY,

NEW YORK.

McKINLEY & ROOSEVELT CAMPAIGN

1900.

Meetings Daily from 12 Noon until 2 P. M.

#37 X-E739 .D4

WHY DEMOCRATS QUOTE LINCOLN.

The Boston Herald of October 8 publishes the following letter from Edwin D. Mead: —

You remark upon your editorial page today that "Ambrose Bierce shares the wonder and amazement of a great many other people at the frequency with which the democrats are quoting Abraham Lincoln nowadays." The reason is very simple. It is the same reason which led the republican party, the lineal descendant of the old whig and federalist parties, to declare itself, in its platform of 1856, in favor of restoring the action of the government to "the principles of Jefferson." The reason was expounded with the demonstration of the spirit and with power by Abraham Lincoln himself in a letter to Henry L. Pierce of Boston in 1859; and this letter is commended to the perusal of Ambrose Bierce and all others who in the present year of grace find it hard to see through a ladder: —

Bearing in mind that about seventy years ago two great political parties were first formed in this country, that Thomas Jefferson was the head of one of them, and Boston the headquarters of the other, it is both curious and interesting that those supposed to descend politically from the party opposed to Jefferson should now be celebrating his birthday in their own original seat of empire, while those claiming political descent from him have nearly ceased to breathe his name everywhere.

Remembering, too, that the Jefferson party was formed upon its supposed superior devotion to the personal rights of men, holding the rights of property to be secondary only, and greatly inferior, and assuming that the so-called democracy of today are the Jefferson, and their opponents the anti-Jefferson party, it will be equally interesting to note how completely the two have changed hands as to the principle upon which they were originally supposed to be divided. The democracy of today hold the liberty of one man to be absolutely nothing, when in conflict with another man's right of property; republicans, on the contrary, are for both the man and the dollar, but in case of conflict the man before the dollar.

I remember being once much amused at seeing two partially intoxicated men engaged in a fight with their great coats on, which fight, after a long and rather harmless contest, ended in each having fought himself out of his own coat and into that of the other. If the two leading parties of this day are really identical with the two in the days of Jefferson and Adams, they have performed the same feat as the two drunken men.

But, soberly, it is now no child's play to save the principles of Jefferson from total overthrow in this nation. One would state with great confidence that he could convince any sane child that the simpler propositions of Euclid are true, but nevertheless he would fail utterly with one who should deny the definitions and axioms. The principles of Jefferson are the definitions and axioms of free society. And yet they are denied and evaded, with no small show of success. One dashingly calls them "glittering generalities." Another bluntly calls them "self-evident lies." And others insidiously argue that they apply to "superior races." These expressions, differing in form, are identical in object and effect — the supplanting the principles of free government and restoring those of classification, caste, and legitimacy. They would delight a convocation of crowned heads plotting against the people. They are the vanguard, the miners, and sappers of returning despotism. We must repulse them, or they will subjugate us. This is a world of compensation, and he who would be no slave must consent to have no slave. Those who deny freedom to others deserve it not for themselves, and, under a just God, cannot long retain it. All honor to Jefferson — to the man who, in the concrete pressure of a struggle for national independence by a single people, had the coolness, forecast, and capacity to introduce into a merely revolutionary document an abstract truth, applicable to all men and all times, and so to embalm it there that today, and in all coming days, it shall be a rebuke and a stumbling-block to the very harbingers of reappearing tyranny and oppression.

Into which of the two national platforms now submitted to the suffrage of the American people would this letter of Lincoln's naturally fit? Does Mr. McKinley or Mr. Bryan stand for this gospel as it concerns the dealings of this republic with the people of the Philippines? Liberty-loving men will vote for Mr. Bryan precisely because he stands for the doctrines of Lincoln and Jefferson; and talk about old clothes and apostolic succession in parties is of very little consequence. The reason why democrats are "quoting Abraham Lincoln nowadays" is because republicans are not doing it, and it seems a pity that somebody should not still quote him in America.

(1900?)

E738
.R4
#38

DO YOU WANT IT?

DO YOU WANT IT?

Are you a Workingman?
Are you a Miner?
Are you a Farmer?
Are you a Mechanic?
Are you a Printer?
Are you a Railway Employee?
Are you a Clerk?
Are you a Traveling Salesman?
Are you a Wage-earner of any kind?

DO YOU WANT IT?

Do you want to continue the present good business conditions, which give employment to all and better wages than ever before paid?

If so, vote for McKinley, for under his administration, the Protective tariff and sound money principles for which the Republican party legislated, the depression, the idleness and want of 1893-96 have vanished. The country is now more prosperous, labor is better employed, wages are higher than ever before. It is reasonable to expect that with a continuation of McKinley's policy, prosperity and employment would also continue.

DO YOU WANT IT?

Remember the panic, the depression, the idleness and want of 1893-96. That was the result of a change of policy in only one great factor of our national welfare.

The election of Bryan would mean a return to all the causes which led to that panic. It would also add to them two other equally potent causes for panic—a change of currency and a change in our foreign policy.

Do you want these changes?

Do you want a panic in 1901-4 far worse than that of 1893-96?

Do you want idleness and starvation and millions subsisting on charity just as they did in 1893?

If so, vote for Bryan and you will get it.

DO YOU WANT IT?

Mr. Bryan proposes to give up that valuable stepping stone to the commerce of the Orient—the Philippine Islands.

The countries commercially adjacent to Manila now buy $1,200,000,000 a year of goods chiefly of the kind we make. Yet they only take 6 per cent. of them from the United States.

Now that we have the Philippines, we have a trading center from which we can command a good share of that business, just as England is commanding it from her Asiatic stations at Hong Kong and Singapore.

Already our commerce in the Orient is rapidly increasing.

But all these advantages in this splendid market Mr. Bryan proposes to abandon, so that we shall lose that trade and not have more work for our mills.

Do you want to lose it? If so, vote for Bryan and you will get it.

DO YOU WANT IT?

The election of Bryan would seriously affect our foreign commerce.

Ninety-five per cent. of the World's trade is conducted by gold standard countries and only five per cent. by silver standard countries.

The effect of changing our standard of money from that in which ninety-five per cent. of the World's commerce is transacted, to that in which only five per cent. of the World's commerce is transacted, would be absolutely disastrous to the magnificent foreign trade we now have.

Our foreign trade would be very much less than it now is, and our mills would run shorter time with less work for labor.

Do you want it? If so, vote for Bryan and you will get it.

DO YOU WANT IT?

In 1892 this country was more prosperous than ever before. Employment was more general and wages higher than they had ever been.

The people, misled by the assertions of the Democratic office-seekers, tried the experiment of changing the policy of the Government on the Tariff question.

What was the result?

On the very day following the election business began to decline, dealers canceled their contracts for home manufactures, factories reduced their working forces and curtailed their orders for the product of the mine, the forest and the field, and uncertainty took the place of confidence in the business world.

What followed?

Every workingman, every employee and every farmer whose market was thus curtailed remembers. There was a panic, depression, gloom, enforced idleness, and want.

All this was the result of a change in our tariff policy which affected the great manufacturing interests and which threatened labor.

Bryan now threatens to lower the tariff and take away Protection from labor.

Do you want it? If so, vote for Bryan and you will get it.

DO YOU WANT IT?

The change of tariff policy which upset and demoralized every business and industry in '93 was bad enough.

But now it is proposed to couple with it another change which would multiply its disturbing and destructive power upon business and every industry.

Bryan proposes to Change Sound Money for Cheap Money—a Hundred-Cent Dollar for a Fifty-Cent Dollar.

Do you want it? If so, vote for Bryan and you will get it.

DO YOU WANT IT?

If the Sherman law, which limited the quantity of silver to be added to the currency and promised to maintain the parity of all money, caused, in any part, the panic of 1893, certainly the prospect of a law which would authorize an unlimited addition of silver to the currency of the country and make no effort to maintain its parity with gold, would cause a much greater uncertainty and panic.

Do you want it? If so, vote for Bryan and you will get it?

E/SOR
X-E738
.R4
#39

TO FIRST VOTERS!

HEADQUARTERS FIRST VOTERS REPUBLICAN LEAGUE,
FIFTH AVENUE HOTEL,

New York, October 15, 1900.

To the First Presidential Voters of New York.

GENTLEMEN:

The coming election is fraught with issues influencing vitally your welfare. It is for you to decide whether to vote for the party of surrender and national dishonor, or the party of the flag and honest money.

It is clear that what most interests us is, honest money. Free silver and repudiation must be buried once for all, and now is the time to do it.

The desired result can be brought about in one manner only—the re-election of President McKinley. There are in the State of New York over 60,000 young men who will this year cast their first presidential vote.

You are one of these young men. See your friends, and urge upon each not to injure his prospect of future prosperity and endanger the good name of his country by voting for the establishment of the dangerous tenets of the Democratic platform. Whether or not you come from Democratic ancestors is immaterial. Impress upon your friends the importance of the duty; see that they understand what is at stake, and let your influence be the means of bringing votes to the party of National Honor.

It lies in the power of the first Presidential voters to carry this State for McKinley and Roosevelt.

Form clubs where you and your friends may get together to discuss the issues. Get every one to join and contribute his efforts towards the welfare of the country.

Let us aid in carrying New York, that there may be four years more of the honest dollar; four years more of national honor; four years more of prosperity, and no Bryan forever more.

(Signed) GEORGE P. CHITTENDEN,
President First Voters Republican League of New York.

X.E738
.R4
#4/5

I congratulate my countrymen upon the strong national sentiment which finds expression in every part of our common country.—William McKinley.

"PARAMOUNT ISSUES"

DEMOCRATS INVENT A NEW ONE EVERY FOUR YEARS TO SAVE THE ENDANGERED REPUBLIC—PARALLEL OF 1864 AND 1890.

---

The "Paramount Issue" is not a new thing with the Democratic party. It is of quadrennial production. The cry of impending danger to the foundations of the Republic has been raised regularly every four years. Each time the assumed cause has been something different from the preceding. Each time the alarm has been proved by the course of events to be false.

As early as 1864, with the successful conclusion of the Civil War not nine months away, the Democracy in national convention declared the war a failure.

They hereby declare, the platform read, that they consider that the administration of extraordinary and dangerous powers not granted by the Constitution is calculated to prevent a restoration of the Union and the perpetuation of a Government deriving its just powers from the consent of the governed.

"After four years of failure to restore the Union," this platform of August, 1864, said, "by the experiment of war, during which under the pretense of a military necessity or war-power higher than the Constitution, the Constitution itself has been disregarded in every part, and public liberty and private right alike trodden down, and the material prosperity of the country impaired, justice, humanity, liberty and the public welfare demand that immediate efforts be made for a cessation of hostilities."

THIS YEAR'S "PARAMOUNT ISSUE."

Strikingly like this sentiment and this language reads the Kansas City platform defining the "paramount issue" of 1900.

"The burning issue of imperialism growing out of the Spanish war involves the very existence of the Republic and the destruction of our free institutions. We regard it as the paramount issue of the campaign," the platform of Kansas City says.

X-E738
.R4
#41

THE SAVINGS BANKS

Two and a Quarter Billions of Dollars More Money Now on Deposit in the Savings and National Banks than in 1894.

The Comptroller of the Currency has completed a statement showing the condition of the savings banks on June 30th. No statement more forcibly illustrating the difference between Democratic depression and Republican prosperity has ever been made. Compared with 1894 the deposits are:

| | |
|---|---|
| 1900 | $2,134,471,130 |
| 1894 | 1,265,450,416 |
| Increase of the People's Savings in Republican years | $ 869,020,714 |

The number of depositors has grown as well. It is:

| | Depositors |
|---|---|
| 1900 | 5,370,109 |
| 1894 | 3,413,477 |
| Increase of depositors | 1,956,632 |

This means that an army of nearly two million more people have been enabled to save money in the days of Republican prosperity and plenty.

THE NATIONAL BANKS

Deposits in the national banks of the country have more than doubled since 1894, one of the years of Democratic depression.

The Comptroller of the Currency has completed an abstract of all of the reports of the national banks of the United States at the close of business Sept. 5, 1900. A comparison of the deposits shows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Deposits 1900 | $2,507,248,557 |
| Deposits 1894 | 1,155,191,588 |
| Increase under Republican prosperity, | $1,352,056,969 |
| Add increase in Savings Banks | 869,020,714 |
| Total increase in deposits | $2,221,077,683 |

925

E 75.R
X-E738
#42 .R4

HOW ARE YOU GOING TO VOTE?

A WORKINGMAN TO WORKINGMEN.

Fellow Workingmen! How Are You Going to Vote?

I do not suppose for a minute that any intelligent laboring man is going to throw away his vote on any candidate who cannot get a single electoral vote. Either Bryan or McKinley will be elected and a vote for any one else is not only a vote lost, but a vote against the man who will be elected.

You have read the platforms of both parties and the letters of acceptance of both candidates. You have read some of the pamphlets sent out by the committees. You have read and heard some of the speeches of Mr. Bryan, Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Hanna, Mr. Hill and others. Now I want you to read and think over just a few sentences of plain talk from a workingman.

I have made up my mind how I am going to vote and I want to ask you to vote the same way.

I am not an orator nor a scholar. I cannot make a speech nor write a magazine article. I am just an ordinary everyday workingman with intelligence enough to have a little common sense and tell it to others. I am not writing this for pay. It will probably cost me a week's wages to get a few thousand printed. Then if Mr. Croker or Mr. Hanna want to circulate it they are welcome to it.

Now as to what I am, how I am going to vote and why.

I am a workingman with a wife and four children. Eight years ago, in 1892, I was doing fairly well, and my older boys were both at school. I voted, as did all good Democrats, for Grover Cleveland. In less than six weeks after election, just before Christmas, I lost my job. I could not get another. Things went from bad to worse. The boys left school and tried to earn a little money. We never got in the bum line at Madison Square, but we did sometimes get near the bread line at Tenth street. I could not tell you all the hardships of those four years. Always behind in the rent and half the time without anything to eat. The wife worked hard and the boys and I did anything to earn a dollar. It seemed sometimes as if we must give up, but the patient hopeful wife would say: "Cheer up, old man, you will get work soon and then we will be on our feet again."

My men, have you got a good faithful wife? Have your children got a good, patient mother? Then you know what kept us from absolute despair.

Well, 1896 came and another election. With thousands of other Democrats I voted for McKinley and hoped for a change. In less than a month I got a job, and have had work constantly these

MAR 13 1916

MACHAN.

X-E738
.R4
#43

DOCUMENT No. 142.

GENERAL FRANZ SIGEL,

THE HEROIC OLD VETERAN

Speaks to His German Fellow - Citizens, His Comrades of the Army of the Republic, and the Sons of Veterans.

Fellow Citizens:

The day of the National Election is near. You have to deposit your votes—a sacred act, because it should be the expression of your conscience, the verification of your patriotism, and of your courage as men, as citizens and as soldiers. If it were only the silver question, about which you have to decide, you might hesitate for want of thoroughly understanding its bearing on the financial affairs of the Country; but so much you know, that the 16 to 1 scheme involves,—I would not say a lie,—but a false proposition, which, as honest men, you can not and will not approve. But besides this, there are other questions you have to consider, as important and even more so, than the demand for unlimited coinage of silver. The demand of the Silverites tends to a financial revolution, repudiation and ruin; that of the Populistic Extremists and Anarchists to the subversion of social order, a war of masses against classes and the possession of wealth. They strike against the very foundation of the American Republic, denying the right of man to enjoy the fruits of his labor and the acquisition of wealth by his genius or talent, by his industry and perseverance. They would like to see the American people ruled by State-Landlordism and State Monopolism and by an army of "State Superintendents," their myrmidons, catch-polls and spies. What do they care about the great sacrifices of the War for the restoration of the Union? What do they care about the late conflict with Spain, provoked by that nation? Or about the great results gained by the patriotism, the bravery and the losses of

1st EXCHANGE MAR 13 1916

X-E738
.R4
#44

DOCUMENT No 132.

BRYAN AGAINST ORDERLY GOVERNMENT AND FOR MOB RULE.

AGAINST THE COURTS; EVERY MAN TO TAKE THE LAW INTO HIS OWN HANDS.

...BY...

The Campaign Committee of the Republican Club of the City of New York.

The Democratic Convention of 1896, in placing Mr. Bryan before the people, made the following declarations:

"We denounce arbitrary interference by Federal authorities in local affairs as a violation of the Constitution of the United States and a crime against free institutions, and we especially object to government by injunction as a new and highly dangerous form of oppression, by which Federal judges, in contempt of the laws of the States and rights of citizens, become at once legislators, judges and executioners; and we approve the bill passed at the last session of the United States Senate and now pending in the House, relative to contempt in Federal Courts, and providing for trials by jury in certain cases of contempt."

"There would be no deficit in the revenue but for the annulment by the Supreme Court of a law passed by a Democratic Congress in strict pursuance of the uniform decisions of that Court for nearly one hundred years, that Court having sustained constitutional objections to its enactment which had been overruled by the wisest judges who ever sat upon that bench. We declare that it is the duty of Congress to use all the Constitutional power which remains after that decision, OR WHICH MAY COME FROM ITS REVERSAL BY THE COURT, AS IT MAY HEREAFTER BE CONSTITUTED, so that the burdens of taxation may be equally and impartially laid to the end that wealth may bear its due proportion of the expenses of the Government."

The Populist Convention of that year that nominated Mr. Bryan adopted this resolution:

"The arbitrary course of the Courts in assuming to imprison citizens for indirect contempt and ruling by injunction should be prevented by proper legislation."

MR. BRYAN STILL STANDS FOR THESE IDEAS. The Democrats in their platform of 1900 declare:

"We reaffirm and indorse the principles of the National Democratic platform adopted at Chicago in 1896."

The Populists in 1900 reaffirm and amplify their resolution of 1896.

To understand what these declarations

x-E 138
.D4

William Jennings Bryan's Annahme-Rede.

Herr Vorsitzender und Mitglieder des Notifikations-Ausschusses! Ich werde binnen Kurzem in mehr formeller Weise die Nomination annehmen, welche Sie mir anbieten, und dann die verschiedenen Fragen besprechen, welche durch die demokratische Platform gedeckt sind. Gleichzeitig mag es aber am Platze sein, heute einige Bemerkungen über den allgemeinen Charakter des Kampfes zu machen, vor dem wir stehen, und über die Frage, die als die hervorragendste der Campagne erklärt wird.

Charakter des Kampfes.

Wenn ich sage, daß der Kampf des Jahres 1900 ein Kampf zwischen der Demokratie auf der einen und der Plutokratie auf der anderen Seite ist, so meine ich damit nicht, daß alle unsere Gegner mit der bestimmten Absicht umgehen, dem organisirten Reichthum einen vorherrschenden Einfluß in Regierungs-Angelegenheiten zu geben; ich behaupte aber, daß die republikanische Partei bei den wichtigen Tagesfragen von jenen Einflüssen dominirt wird, welche fortwährend pekuniäre Erwägungen in den Vordergrund drängen und Menschenrechte außer Acht lassen.

Lincoln sagte im Jahre 1859, daß die republikanische Partei an den Menschen und den Dollar glaube, im Falle eines Kampfes aber dem Menschen vor dem Dollar den Vorzug gebe. Das ist das richtige Verhältniß, welches zwischen Beiden bestehen sollte. Der Mensch, die Schöpfung Gottes, kommt zuerst; Geld, die Schöpfung des Menschen, ist von geringerer Wichtigkeit. Der Mensch ist der Meister, das Geld der Diener; bei allen wichtigen Fragen sucht aber die republikanische Gesetzgebung das Geld zum Meister und den Menschen zum Diener zu machen.

Jefferson's Maxim: „Gleiche Rechte für Alle, besondere Privilegien für Niemanden" und Lincoln's Doktrin, daß dies eine Regierung „des Volkes durch das Volk und für das Volk" sein sollte, werden nicht beachtet und die Hebel der Regierung dazu benützt, die Interessen Jener zu fördern, welche in der Lage sind, sich Begünstigungen von der Regierung zu sichern.

* * *

Die demokratische Partei streitet nicht gegen die ehrliche Erwerbung des Reichthums, sie trägt auch nicht das Verlangen, Industrie,

IN EXCHANGE

MAR 13 1916

X-E738
.R4
#46

SPEECH OF # Gen. EDWARD S. BRAGG

Veteran Commander of the Iron Brigade

In Which He Advises Gold Democrats to Vote for McKinley and Roosevelt.

It will be from the standpoint of a National Democrat, by education, conviction and affiliation—I may say, and from heredity—that I speak to-night, extending in some regard beyond mere party duty to the more exalted duty of every loyal citizen in the land, to rally in the defence and support of his country in times of danger, trouble or need, foreign or domestic, and never by word, act or deed "give aid or comfort to its enemies."

I have never yet voted for a chief magistrate of this nation whose name had not been presented for the suffrages of the people by a Democratic Convention. There is no taint of "trimmer" in my blood or lineage. It has always been my pride to be able to rise in place, and using the words of a great leader of the party in New York, before the spell of expediency overthrew the convictions of his judgment, "I am a Democrat!" But I have a pride infinitely greater than that—that I have always held my life and service subject to my country's call, irrespective of the politics of the head of the Government.

THE PEOPLE ALWAYS LOYAL.

The heart of this great people has always beat loyal to the Government when the war trump sounded, and has never tolerated, and will never tolerate, encouragement to a public enemy, while he is robbing, fighting, slaying the brave men, your sons and brothers, whom the Government has sent forth to do its mission,

X-E738
.R4
#47

DOCUMENT No. 134.

(Copy 2)

Fellow Citizens and Republicans:

We are now in the midst of a heated political campaign. Important issues are involved in the result. The two Parties, the Republican Party, and the Democratic Party, shall contend during the next two months for the mastery and control of the government of the affairs of 70,000,000 of people; of these 10,000,000 are of African descent. As a distinct element in the body politic the result will affect us either favorably or unfavorably. We cannot afford to be disinterested spectators. We might if we were strangers to the acts and conduct of either. But they are both well known to us. We have wintered and summered under the roof of both. And this has been our experience, an experience founded on facts.

One, the Republican Party, has always been friendly to us, has always been ready to protect and to defend us. Friendly at a time too, when we were afflicted and degraded, when we were pressed with grievous burdens, attracting no attention from the social world, but foul scorn and contempt, which is the natural heritage of bondmen.

The other, the Democratic Party, has always been unfriendly to us all throughout the darkest and severest periods of our grief, from the time we were brought here as a slave to the present. This Party, led on by such men as Senator Tillman in South Carolina and the Red Shirts in North Carolina, still continues to afflict us with heavy burdens

EXCHANGE. MAR 13 1916

E725.R
X-E738
.R4
#48

DOCUMENT No. 135.

Five Minutes' Talk on the Democratic Party.

Five minutes' talk upon what the Democratic Party in its attempt to dodge the money question is pleased to call the Paramount Issue, viz: Imperialism.

According to Democratic definition, and we take the highest Democratic authority, viz: Mr. Bryan himself, the standard bearer of that Party—"Imperialism is government, without the consent of the governed," or government by force, pure and simple. This form of government Mr. Bryan declares exists in the Philippine Islands, and he charges the Republican Party with responsibility for its existence.

It is unnecessary to enter into the history of the acquisition of these Islands. You are already too well acquainted with that history. It is sufficient to say, however, that the Philippine Islands, in the main, have been acquired in the same manner in which the territory of Louisiana, Alabama and other portions which now constitute the geographical area of the United States, namely by purchase and without the consent of the inhabitants. In the same manner in which these Islands now in question came into our possession.

It will be remembered that the Louisiana purchase which now includes the States of Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Montana, Oklahoma, the Indian Territory and most of the States of Minnesota, Colorado and Wyoming, was purchased from

E 756.A
From R. R. W.
U. S. S. Kearsarge
#49

ADDRESS

BY THE

First Voters Republican National League

TO THE

FIRST PRESIDENTIAL VOTERS OF AMERICA.

The young blood of this country represents its vital force—It is the balance of power in all Presidential Elections. Every crisis has depended upon the loyalty of the new generation. The young men of America have never proven recreant in peace or war. Will they prove otherwise in the present crisis—If the seeds of folly are now to be sown, it is the young men of the present generation who must reap the fruit and leave upon their children its many evils.

To the First Presidential Voters of America:

The census of 1890 shows that there were in the United States in that year 2,516,043 young men of the ages of twenty-one to twenty-four inclusive. Considering the increase in population during the last decade, it is safe to say that on the 6th of next November at least 3,000,000 young men will be eligible to cast their first presidential votes. When we remember that President McKinley's plurality, with a single exception the largest ever given to a president, was 601,854, and when we consider the fact that young men are not bound by party ties, it appears how great and how decisive is to be the influence of the first voters upon the result of the struggle now in progress.

In every crisis of our history the numbers, the freedom from traditional prejudice, and the enthusiasm of our young men have been the determining factors in the final result. We have now reached another great crisis in our national development, and once more the young men should come actively to the front. Four years ago a coterie of men obtained control of the Democratic party, thrust aside the great, conservative leaders who had led them to victory in the past, and promulgated a platform filled with seductive appeals to class prejudice and to the cupidity of human nature—a platform that struck at the independence of the judiciary

X-E738
.R4
#50

ADDRESS

BY THE

First Voters Republican National League

TO THE

FIRST PRESIDENTIAL VOTERS OF AMERICA.

The young blood of this country represents its vital force—It is the balance of power in all Presidential Elections. Every crisis has depended upon the loyalty of the new generation. The young men of America have never proven recreant in peace or war. Will they prove otherwise in the present crisis—If the seeds of folly are now to be sown, it is the young men of the present generation who must reap the fruit and leave upon their children its many evils.

To the First Presidential Voters of America:

The census of 1890 shows that there were in the United States in that year 2,516,043 young men of the ages of twenty-one to twenty-four inclusive. Considering the increase in population during the last decade, it is safe to say that on the 6th of next November at least 3,000,000 young men will be eligible to cast their first presidential votes. When we remember that President McKinley's plurality, with a single exception the largest ever given to a president, was 601,854, and when we consider the fact that young men are not bound by party ties, it appears how great and how decisive is to be the influence of the first voters upon the result of the struggle now in progress.

In every crisis of our history the numbers, the freedom from traditional prejudice, and the enthusiasm of our young men have been the determining factors in the final result. We have now reached another great crisis in our national development, and once more the young men should come actively to the front. Four years ago a coterie of men obtained control of the Democratic party, thrust aside the great, conservative leaders who had led them to victory in the past, and promulgated a platform filled with seductive appeals to class prejudice and to the cupidity of human nature—a platform that struck at the independence of the judiciary

E95.R
X-E738
.R4
#51

FOR PRESIDENT

WILLIAM McKINLEY

OF OHIO

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

OF NEW YORK

---

Plain Facts about Free Silver

FOR PLAIN PEOPLE

---

Issued by Leslie's Weekly

Compiled by H. P. MAWSON

---

1. What does "Free Coinage" of Silver mean?

2. It means the acceptance at any mint of the United States of silver in any form, and the coining of it into dollars, free of expense to the owner of the metal.

3. "Sixteen to one" means the relative value of bullion silver to bullion gold, i. e., sixteen ounces of silver shall be forced upon the people of this country as being worth as much as one ounce of gold.

4. Value of one ounce of gold..... $20.67
   Value of sixteen ounces of silver..... 9.74
   Balance in favor of one ounce of gold..... $11.93

5. The gold dollar contains 23.22 grains of pure gold and the silver dollar contains 371¼ grains of pure silver.

6. The "free silver people" claim that the government of the United States can stamp forty-six cents worth of silver and give it the purchasing power of one hundred cents.

7. It is the market ratio of the metals which controls the relative value of the metals in the coins, and the legal ratio must always conform to the market value of the metals.

8. The "free coinage of silver" would turn loose upon the mints of this country all the silver mines in the world, because all the great nations to whom we sell our products could then pay us in silver.

9. The best kind of money will retain the same value when paid out as when received. Otherwise, some one would be the loser by its use. The loser would always be the laborer.

10. While gold and silver have been used as money from the earliest times, gold has always been preferred over silver.

11. Gold is the standard the world over in all business transactions, even in silver countries.

12. Coinage only stamps upon the metal its denomination, i. e., its name. With us it is the dime, quarter, half and dollar. In France, the franc, etc., etc. This stamping of the metal only fixes its weight and fineness.

13. Thomas Jefferson (the first Democrat) wrote Robert Morris in 1786 thus: "The proportion between gold and silver is a mercantile problem altogether."

14. Opening the mints to the free coinage of silver would not create a single purchaser for it.

15. The owners of the bullion brought to the mints would be owners of the money coined therefrom.

16. In our currency there are two metals, i. e., gold and silver, of equal value by denomination, but not in market value of the metals.

NATHANIEL McKAY,
1608 19th St.,
WASHINGTON, D. C.
X-E738
.R4
#52

Bryan's "Militarism" Cry. Sulu Slavery Question. Labor and Our Colonies.

OFFICIAL RECORDS SHOW THE FACTS AS TO THE UNITED STATES ARMY, AND THAT DEMOCRATS VOTED TO INCREASE IT.—PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE AND TREATIES RELATING TO THE SULU ISLANDS.—LABOR'S INTEREST IN OUR TRADE EXPANSION.

THE "MILITARISM" CRY.

BRYAN'S FRIENDS SUPPORTED THE ADMINISTRATION IN ITS WAR POLICY.

Is Mr. Bryan trying to deceive the public with his cry of militarism and a large standing army?

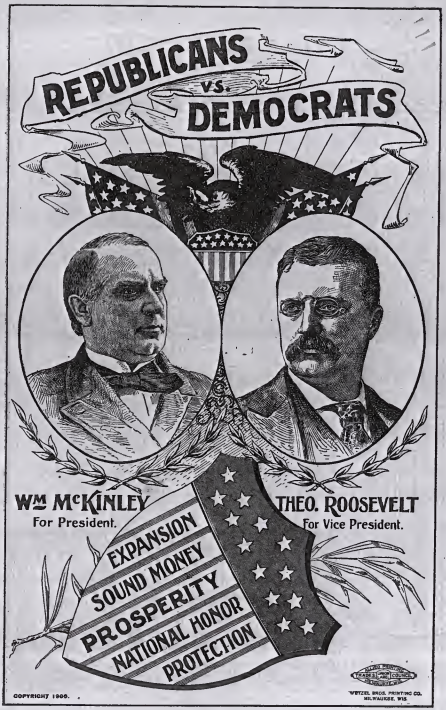
He asserts over and over again that the President and the Republican Congress increased the army to one hundred thousand men "when no arm was raised against the Nation anywhere in the world," and by his talk of the "large standing army" and the dangers of militarism under Republican rule, evidently seeks to make the people believe that the increase in the army is a permanent one and that it has been brought about exclusively by the Republican party.

Here are the facts as shown by the official records. The Act which increased the army at the beginning of the war with Spain, provided that the army should be restored to its former size (27,000) at the termination of that war. As a consequence whatever additional force was necessary by reason of the threatening conditions in the Philippines after the termination of the war with Spain, had to be provided by a subsequent Act.

Admiral Dewey destroyed the Spanish fleet in front of Manila on May 1st, 1898; Aguinaldo arrived at Manila on May 19; on May 24 he issued a proclamation announcing the establishment of a dictatorial government with himself as Dictator and decrees for carrying on a military government, and on July 1 proclaimed himself President. On July 23, Gen. Merritt arrived and took command of the American forces which had arrived during that month, and on July 29 Admiral Dewey telegraphed the President: "Situation most critical at Manila. * * * Merritt's most difficult problem will be how to deal with insurgents under Aguinaldo, WHO HAVE BECOME AGGRESSIVE AND EVEN THREATENING TOWARD OUR ARMY." On August 13, the American troops attacked Manila, but Aguinaldo's forces failed to co-operate except to demand, after the action had ended, that the churches, the Palace of Malcanan, part of the money taken from the Spaniards and the arms of the Spanish soldiers be turned over to them, and they be permitted to loot the city. These demands were refused, and during the months which followed, as shown by the report of the Philipine Commission, "the feeling between the Americans and Insurgents grew worse and worse day by day and all manner of abuses were indulged in by the insurgent troops." Meantime the "Filipino Congress" was assembled at Malolos, and Aguinaldo removed to that place, organizations intended to provoke bitterness toward the Americans, and from which local militia could be recruited to aid in the attack upon them, were established in Manila and vicinity, and, on September 21, 1898, a decree passed the Filipino Congress imposing military service on every male over eighteen years of age, while in every carriage factory and blacksmith shop implements of war were being manufactured evidently for use in hostilities.

All of these facts were known to the President, and it is not surprising, therefore, that he found it necessary, when he sent his message to Congress

E/E-R
X-E738
#53 .R4



E. Bodine
2.
X-E738
.R4
#54

NATIONAL ISSUES

OF THE

CAMPAIGN OF 1900.

---

AN ADDRESS

BY

JAMES M. VARNUM

OF NEW YORK.

#55

SPEECH

OF

HON. JAMES S. SHERMAN

AT THE

New York Republican State Convention,

New York City, April 17, 1900.

---

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention:

I thank you sincerely for the honor which you confer upon me by your choice, and for your cordial greeting. Our hope and expectation is that our deliberations will be characterized by harmony and brevity, and that their result will be approved by the great party whose representatives we are. This meeting is the initial step of the Republicans of New York in the campaign which will result in pinning to its firm foundation the conditional material prosperity which we now enjoy; which will result in the people's approval of the policies and the deeds of the Republican party, which will result in the re-election of President McKinley and Governor Roosevelt. We enter the campaign buoyant of spirit, clear and determined in conviction, resolutely confident of success. Not less so than in 1896. Then we based our claims, hopes and expectations of victory, not only on the affirmative acts of our own party, not only upon what we had done in the past, but upon what, in the more recent past, Democracy had done which it ought not to have done, and what it had left undone which it ought to have done. It had not overlooked American industries; they had been "done" on both sides. The Republican platform of '96 promised to restore industrial laws based upon a protective theory and maintain the gold standard. Our status to-day establishes our claims to redeem promises, and commercial conditions verify our predictions of their result.

X-E738
.D4

Why I am not a Hanna Republican

but

Why I am a Democrat.

ADDRESS OF D. GILBERT DEXTER

BEFORE THE IROQUOIS CLUB, JUNE 1, 1900.

X-E738
.R4
#57

CAMPAIGN ISSUES.

CANDIDATES AND PLATFORMS OF THE TWO PARTIES.

SPEECH

OF THE

HON. S. B. ELKINS

AT THE

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION,

CHARLESTON, W. VA.,

JULY 11, 1900.

X-E738
.R4
#58

President McKinley's

Speech of Acceptance

JULY 12, 1900

Upon the occasion of the notification of his re-nomination for the Presidency by the

Republican National Convention

at Philadelphia, Pa.

SENATOR LODGE, AND GENTLEMEN OF THE NOTIFICATION COMMITTEE:

The message which you bring to me is one of signal honor. It is also a summons to duty. A single nomination for the office of President by a great party which in thirty-two years out of forty has been triumphant at national elections, is a distinction which I gratefully cherish. To receive a unanimous renomination by the same party is an expression of regard and a pledge of continued confidence for which it is difficult to make adequate acknowledgment.

If anything exceeds the honor of the office of President of the United States it is the responsibility which attaches to it. Having been invested with both, I do not under-appraise either.

X-E76b
.R4

DOCUMENT No. 117

"There Must Be No Scuttle Policy!"

NOTIFICATION AND ACCEPTANCE

SPEECH OF SENATOR LODGE
REPLY OF PRESIDENT McKINLEY.
REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

Speech of Senator Lodge

Canton, Ohio, July 12, 1900, Notifying President McKinley of his Nomination for the Presidency by the Republican National Convention at Philadelphia, June 19, 1900:

Mr. President:

This Committee, representing every State in the Union and the organized Territories of the United States, was duly appointed to announce to you formally your nomination by the Republican National Convention, which met in Philadelphia June 19 last, as the candidate of the Republican party for President of the United States for the term beginning March 4th, 1901.

To be selected by the Republican party as their candidate for this great office is always one of the highest honors which can be given to any man. This nomination, however, comes to you, sir, under circumstances which give it a higher significance and make it an even deeper expression of honor and trust than usual. You were nominated unanimously at Philadelphia [Applause]. You received the unforced vote of every delegate from every State and every Territory [Continued applause]. The harmony of sentiment which appears on the face of the record was but the reflection of the deeper harmony which existed in the hearts and minds of the delegates. Without faction, without dissent, with profound satisfaction and eager enthusiasm you were nominated for the Presidency by the united voice of the representatives of our great party, in which there is neither sign of division nor shadow of turning [Great applause]. Such unanimity, always remarkable, is here the more impressive because it accompanies a second nomination to the great office which you have held for four years. It is not the facile triumph of hope over experience, but the sober approval of conduct and character tested in many trials and tried by heavy and extraordinary responsibilities [ Applause].

With the exception of the period in which Washington organized the na-

#10

HIS REASON.

Compliments of

W. HARTFORD, PUBLISHER

Cincinnati, O. U.S.A.

X-E738
.R4
#61

To the American Citizens of German Descent.

Fellow Citizens:

The greater, richer and mightier a country the more important it is that the administration of its affairs shall be guided by sound judgment and by wise hands. Never before were the United States as powerful as now. Our commerce and our industries never flourished as they do. Our position toward the other nations of the world, owing to our remarkable development, was never so respected. The general prosperity of the United States has reached a height never before attained. The permanent preservation of these achievements makes it our paramount duty to give to the country at the coming election men to head the administration who, by their proven ability, strict rectitude and wisdom, will see to it that above all our nation's honor is respected.

German honesty is one of the most precious qualities which we have brought into our adopted country and never should men of German descent permit the country of which they have become citizens to be governed upon dishonest principles.

It is clear that the principles for which Bryan stands are in the main dishonest and that it would be a disgrace to the United States if by the election of this Silver Apostle, his destructive theories should be put into practice.

Bryan insisted that the silver question be again brought to the front in the Democratic Platform. Four years ago this question was decided by German votes, and we will not permit the judgment pronounced in 1896 to be disturbed.

By the phrase "16 to 1" the silver cranks endeavor to compel the Mints of the United States by force of law to deliver to every owner of silver, worth about half a dollar, a silver dollar which shall be equal in value to a gold dollar. Such free coinage of silver would undoubtedly diminish the purchasing power of our money and disgrace us in the eyes of the rest of the world.

Four years ago Bryan preached that the gold standard would ruin the people and impoverish them. The four years which have passed since then have proved conclusively the falsity of his judgment. Mainly through honest money our prosperity has increased as never before. Bryan's election would deprive us of all the fruits

E/COR
X-E738
.R4
#62

DOCUMENT No. 130.

An die amerikanischen Bürger deutscher Abkunft!

Mitbürger! Je größer, reicher und mächtiger ein Land, desto wichtiger ist es, daß seine Verwaltung von kluger Hand, nach gesunden Grundsätzen geleitet wird. Noch nie waren die Vereinigten Staaten so mächtig, wie jetzt: Unser Handel und unsere Industrien waren nie zuvor in solch' blühendem Zustande. Die Stellung, die wir in Folge der großartigen Entwickelung unseres Landes anderen Weltmächten gegenüber einnehmen, war nie zuvor so achtunggebietend. Auch der allgemeine Wohlstand der Vereinigten Staaten hat eine nie geahnte Höhe erreicht.

Die dauernde Erhaltung dieser Errungenschaften macht es uns zur höchsten Pflicht, dem Lande bei der bevorstehenden Wahl solche Männer für die Spitze der Administration zu sichern, die durch ihre bewährte Fähigkeit, strenge Rechtlichkeit und Weisheit dafür sorgen werden, daß vor Allem die nationale Ehre hochgehalten wird.

Deutsche Ehrlichkeit ist eine der herrlichsten Eigenschaften, welche wir in unser Adoptiv-Vaterland mit herüber gebracht haben, und nie werden Männer deutscher Abkunft dulden, daß das Land, dessen Bürger sie sind, nach unehrlichen Principien verwaltet wird.

Es ist offenbar, daß die von Bryan vertretenen Principien im Wesentlichen nicht ehrlich sind, und daß es den Vereinigten Staaten zur Schmach gereichte, wenn durch Erwählung des Silberapostels, dessen verderbliche Theorien zur Geltung kämen.

Bryan bestand darauf, daß die Silberfrage in der demokratischen Platform auch diesmal wieder in den Vordergrund gestellt werde. Vor vier Jahren wurde diese Frage durch deutsche Stimmen entschieden und wir wollen an dem im Jahre 1896 gefällten Urtheil nicht rütteln lassen. Die Silberbolde wollen mit der Phrase 16 zu 1 erreichen, daß durch Gesetzeskraft die Münzstätten der Vereinigten Staaten gezwungen werden sollen, jedem Besitzer von Silber im Werthe von ungefähr einem halben Dollar, einen ganzen Silberdollar gemünzt auszuhändigen, welcher mit einem Golddollar gleichwerthig sein soll. Eine derartige Freiprägung

X-E738
.R4
#63

DOCUMENT No. 120.

LETTER OF

HON. WILLIAM MCKINLEY

ACCEPTING THE NOMINATION OF THE

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION OF 1900

FOR

PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 8, 1900.

Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, Chairman, Notification Committee:

My Dear Sir—The nomination of the Republican National Convention of June 19, 1900, for the office of President of the United States, which, as the official representative of the convention, you have conveyed to me, is accepted. I have carefully examined the platform adopted and give to it my hearty approval. Upon the great issue of the last national election it is clear. It upholds the gold standard and indorses the legislation of the present Congress, by which that standard has been effectively strengthened. The stability of our national currency is, therefore, secure so long as those who adhere to this platform are kept in control of the Government. In the first battle, that of 1896, the friends of the gold standard and of sound currency were triumphant, and the country is enjoying the fruits of that victory. Our antagonists, however, are not satisfied. They compel us to a second battle upon the same lines on which the first was fought and won. While regretting the reopening of this question, which can only disturb the present satisfactory financial condition of the Government and visit uncertainty upon our great business enterprises, we accept the issue and again invite the Sound-Money forces to join in winning another and, we hope, a permanent triumph for an honest financial system which will continue inviolable the public faith.

As in 1896, the three silver parties are united under the same leader, who, immediately after the election of that year, in an address to the bimetallists, said:

> The friends of bimetallism have not been vanquished; they have simply been overcome. They believe that the gold standard is a conspiracy of the money-changers against the welfare of the human race, and they will continue the warfare against it.

The policy thus proclaimed has been accepted and confirmed by these parties. The Silver Democratic platform of 1900 continues the warfare against the so-called gold conspiracy when it expressly says "We reiterate the demand of that (the Chicago) platform of 1896 for an American financial system made by the American people for themselves, which shall restore and maintain a bimetallic price level, and as part of such system the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation."

X-E738
.R4
#64

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Accepting the Nomination of the Republican Party.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

September 8, 1900.

HON. HENRY CABOT LODGE,
Chairman Notification Committee:

MY DEAR SIR,—The nomination of the Republican national convention of June 19, 1900, for the office of President of the United States, which, as the official representative of the convention, you have conveyed to me, is accepted. I have carefully examined the platform adopted and give it my hearty approval.

Upon the great issue of the last national election it is clear. It upholds the gold standard and indorses the legislation of the present Congress by which that standard has been effectively strengthened. The stability of our national currency is, therefore, secure so long as those who adhere to this platform are kept in control of the Government.

SAME ISSUES INVOLVED.

In the first battle, that of 1896, the friends of the gold standard and of sound currency were triumphant and the country is enjoying the fruits of that victory. Our antagonists, however, are not satisfied. They compel us to a second battle upon the same lines on which the first was fought and won.

While regretting the reopening of this question, which can only disturb the present satisfactory financial condition of the Government and visit uncertainty upon our great business enterprises, we accept the issue and again invite the sound money forces to join in winning another and we hope a permanent triumph for an honest financial system which will continue inviolable the public faith.

ALL LOYAL TO SILVER.

As in 1896, the three silver parties are united under the same leader, who, immediately after the election of that year, in an address to the bimetallists said:

"The friends of bimetallism have not been vanquished; they have simply been overcome. They believe that the gold standard is a conspiracy of the money changers against the welfare of the human race—and they will continue the warfare against it."

The policy thus proclaimed has been accepted and confirmed by these parties. The silver Democratic platform of 1900 continues the warfare against the so-called gold conspiracy when it expressly says:

"We reiterate the demand of that (the Chicago) platform of 1896 for an American financial system made by the American people for themselves, which shall restore and maintain a bimetallic price level; and as part of such system the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation."

THE PARAMOUNT ISSUE.

So the issue is presented. It will be noted that the demand is for the immediate restoration of the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1. If another issue is paramount, this is immediate. It will admit of no delay and will suffer no postponement.

Turning to the other associated parties, we find in the Populist national platform adopted at Sioux Falls, South Dakota, May 10, 1900, the following declaration:

"We pledge anew the People's party never to cease the agitation until this financial conspiracy is blotted from the statute book, the Lincoln greenback restored, the bonds all paid and all corporation money forever retired. We reaffirm the demand for the reopening of the mints of the United States for the free and unlimited coinage of silver

X-E738
.R4

#65

SPEECH

OF

SENATOR FORAKER

AT OPENING OF

REPUBLICAN MASS MEETING,

YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO, SEPTEMBER 8, 1900.

---

SENATOR FORAKER spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman and fellow-citizens: The paramount issue of this campaign is the administration of William McKinley. Shall it be indorsed or repudiated? That is the question.

Money, tariff, trusts and so-called imperialism are, each and all, important subjects, but no one of them can be segregated from the others and be voted upon by itself. In other words, the Democratic party cannot be restored to power as to one proposition and be excluded from power as to others. It must go in "foot, horse and dragoons," or not at all.

You cannot adopt its views as to the Philippines without at the same time accepting free silver. You cannot agree with it about trusts and differ as to "government by injunction." The proposition that "the Constitution follows the flag" is coupled with free trade, and their lamentations about the Declaration of Independence and the consent of the brown men who are to be governed in the far distant isles of the sea are coupled with a defiant nullification of the Constitution, and a brutal denial by violence, rapine, blood, and murder of the most sacred rights of the negro citizens of the nation who have periled their lives for the flag and with gallant heroism won honor and renown for the Republic on the battlefields of the nation. To make a long story short, you cannot vote a

E748.P
K-E738
.R4
#66

SPEECH

OF

SENATOR FORAKER

AT OPENING OF

REPUBLICAN MASS MEETING,

YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO, SEPTEMBER 8, 1900.

SENATOR FORAKER spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman and fellow-citizens: The paramount issue of this campaign is the administration of William McKinley. Shall it be indorsed or repudiated? That is the question.

Money, tariff, trusts and so-called imperialism are, each and all, important subjects, but no one of them can be segregated from the others and be voted upon by itself. In other words, the Democratic party cannot be restored to power as to one proposition and be excluded from power as to others. It must go in "foot, horse and dragoons," or not at all.

You cannot adopt its views as to the Philippines without at the same time accepting free silver. You cannot agree with it about trusts and differ as to "government by injunction." The proposition that "the Constitution follows the flag" is coupled with free trade, and their lamentations about the Declaration of Independence and the consent of the brown men who are to be governed in the far distant isles of the sea are coupled with a defiant nullification of the Constitution, and a brutal denial by violence, rapine, blood, and murder of the most sacred rights of the negro citizens of the nation who have periled their lives for the flag and with gallant heroism won honor and renown for the Republic on the battlefields of the nation. To make a long story short, you cannot vote a

E 738.R

X-E738
.R4
#67

DOCUMENT No. 140.

LETTER OF

HON. THEODORE ROOSEVELT

ACCEPTING THE NOMINATION OF THE

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION OF 1900

FOR

VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 15, 1900.

To Hon. Edward O. Wolcott, chairman Committee on Notification of Vice-President:

Sir—I accept the nomination as Vice-President of the United States, tendered me by the Republican National Convention, with a very deep sense of the honor conferred upon me and with an infinitely deeper sense of the vital importance to the whole country of securing the re-election of President McKinley. The Nation's welfare is at stake. We must continue the work which has been so well begun during the present Administration. We must show in fashion incapable of being misunderstood that the American people, at the beginning of the twentieth century, face their duties in a calm and serious spirit; that they have no intention of permitting folly or lawlessness to mar the extraordinary material well-being which they have attained at home, nor yet of permitting their Flag to be dishonored abroad.

Appeal to All Good Citizens.

I feel that this contest is by no means one merely between Republicans and Democrats. We have a right to appeal to all good citizens who are far-sighted enough to see what the honor and the interest of the Nation demand. To put into practice the principles embodied in the Kansas City platform would mean grave disaster to the Nation; for that platform stands for reaction and disorder; for an upsetting of our financial system which would mean not only great suffering, but the abandonment of the Nation's good faith; and for a policy abroad which would imply the dishonor of the Flag and an unworthy surrender of our national rights. Its success would mean unspeakable humiliation to men proud of their country, jealous of their country's good name, and desirous of securing the welfare of their fellow citizens. Therefore we have a right to appeal to all good men, North and South, East and West, whatever their politics may have been in the past, to stand with us, because we

#65 X-E738
.R4

McKinley and Bryan

Principles and Men.

Issues of the Campaign.

SPEECH OF

GEO. E. ADAMS,

AT QUINCY, ILL.

OCTOBER 3, 1900.

#69 X-E738
.R4

REAR ADMIRAL BELKNAP VOTES FOR McKINLEY

Says, "The Tumultuous Beatings of the Tom-Toms of Alleged Imperialism Have But a Hollow Sound."

Rear Admiral George E. Belknap will vote for McKinley and Roosevelt. His reasons for so doing are briefly and tersely stated in the following words:

"You ask me for 'an expression of opinion as to the duty, during the present presidential campaign, of Democrats who still cherish the faith of Jefferson and Cleveland, whether they should vote for the re-election of President McKinley or vote for Mr. Bryan.'

"In response to such request, I beg to say briefly that, in my judgment, the questions that confront the country most distinctively and most menacingly today, are those affecting the stability of the currency and the integrity of the courts. It is idle to say that such questions have now been relegated to the contentions of the past, in view of the fact that the '16 to 1' and 'government by injunction' heresies, adopted by the Chicago convention of 1896, were insisted upon by Mr. Bryan with imperial strenuousness, and reaffirmed in submission to his imperious demand by the Kansas City convention of this current year.

"The tumultuous beatings of the tom-toms of alleged imperialism have but a hollow sound; they but strike notes of simulated distress of no more resounding force than the confined clangings of the alarm-bells of the scenic stage. To suppose, indeed, that Congress, changed in its membership every two years, and holding the purse and therefore the sword of the nation, would ever permit a policy of real imperialism to be persued in any direction by the Executive, is to discredit the common intelligence, good sense, strong fibre and resolute will of this people.

"Wherefore, in view of such considerations as they appear to me, and others I might name and more at length, I propose, as an old-fashioned Democrat, to vote next month for the Republican electors, as I did vote for such electors four years ago. Whatever other Democrats of the old faith may think or do, such seems to me the best course to pursue at this juncture."

Very truly yours,

GEO. E. BELKNAP.

Brookline, Mass., Oct. 10, 1900.

NATIONAL REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE 25

X-E738
.R4
#70

REASONS

WHY NEW VOTERS SHOULD SUPPORT

McKINLEY & ROOSEVELT.

BY

WILLIAM E. CHANDLER.

CONCORD, N. H.,
Oct. 15, 1900.

X-E738
.R4
#71

New England Cotton Manufacturers' Association.

Advance copy subject to author's revision. Washington Meeting, No. 69, Oct. 16-18, 1900. This paper is printed in advance for the convenience of the members in their discussion of the subject, and also to enable it to be presented before the Association in abstract if time prevents it being read in full. The press are requested not to publish any part of it previous to its delivery, and the Board of Government desires that any subsequent publication should be limited to abstracts and not to its use in full, which is reserved for the "Transactions" of the Association.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

D. M. Thompson, Providence, R. I.

Gentlemen: —

I congratulate you upon this pleasant occasion and trust that the 69th meeting of your Association may prove an auspicious event. The action of your Board of Government in the selection of this beautiful city, seems fully confirmed in the pleasing expressions of your approval and the happy faces of the many guests and friends who honor us by their presence upon this occasion.

We shall ever cherish with grateful recollection the cheerful and hearty welcome which we have received at the hands of the honorable gentlemen, the distinguished members of the President's cabinet. Their salutations and cheering words of encouragement are typical, and suggestive of that broad liberal spirit which has distinguished their labors and counsels during a period of grave and momentous events such as find few parallels in history. A confirmation of this judgment, I believe, is near at hand in the re-election of their chief, our beloved and honored President, William McKinley, whose skillful leadership, nobility of character and sterling integrity have won the hearts and confidence of the American people.

EMS.R
X-E738
.R4
#12

ADDRESS OF

JOSEPH BEIFELD

MANUFACTURER AND MERCHANT

DELIVERED AT THE CENTRAL MUSIC HALL, CHICAGO
OCTOBER 17, 1900

SUBJECT:

"THE PRESENT CAMPAIGN
FROM THE STANDPOINT OF A BUSINESS MAN"

---

UNDER THE AUSPICES OF

THE BUSINESS MEN'S SOUND MONEY ASSOCIATION

CHICAGO

X-E738
.R4
#73

SPEECH

OF

Hon. Charles S. Fairchild,

IN

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK,

FRIDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 26, 1900.

In this election my vote and what influence I have shall be given to the defeat of the candidate for the Presidency, misnamed Democratic, and as a means most effective to that end, I shall cast my vote for the Republican electoral ticket. I believe that this is the prudent, the safe, the sane thing to do, and that any other course would be unsafe and not sane. I shall not refuse to vote or to let it be known how I am to vote, because that in me would now be a cowardly thing. I do not pretend to favor the Democratic candidates, while in my heart hoping and believing that they will be defeated, and that, in this way, I may technically be "regular" and in line when the day of the re-organization and re-generation of Democracy comes. That is not only a cowardly but a dishonest and dangerous thing to do; because, should enough men follow my advice, the consequences would be fatal to myself and disastrous to my countrymen, and would for a generation prevent the Democracy, as a party, from performing any useful function in our country,—even that of an opposition.

I have sat at the feet and by the side of all the men who have illumined the name of Democracy during the last fifty years. I think that I know the doctrines and teachings of all the great Democrats from the beginning until now, and, by the precept and example of each and all of them, I am compelled to do my utmost to stand against the preposterous ideas of the present Democratic candidate for President. Not only does all of this tradition and example, as well as my political training, but also my native sense, lead me to seek the defeat of the so-called Democratic party in this election.

X-E738
.R4
#74

[From the Dayton Daily Journal, October 26, 1900.]

SENATOR FORAKER.

FULL TEXT OF HIS GREAT SPEECH

Unanswerable Reasons for November Success.

[Editorial.]

The great speech delivered in Dayton by Senator Foraker inpressed his hearers as the most complete outline of the important facts covering the period preceding and leading up to the Spanish war, the principal features during the war period, and the various details comparatively few have definitely grasped bearing upon the formal settlement with Spain and the incumbent ensuing responsibilities and unavoidable obligations. All was so concisely and fascinatingly and graphically related that many expressions of regret were heard that they could not get it in printed form to preserve. It has been our good fortune to have gotten hold of a verbatim report of it taken down by a shorthand expert, Mr. Charles Hall, and turned over to us for publication in to-day's Journal for the benefit of those wanting it. It is only necessary to recur to the patience and deathlike stillness of that big audience in the tent throughout the entire time it took in delivery—one hour and fifty minutes—to recall its effect upon his hearers. It is difficult to remember when any audience in Dayton ever stood so quiet and patient for so long a time to hear a public speaker at an open meeting. When he had finished they demanded more, and his hurried departure for the train alone satisfied the crowd that continuation was impossible.

X-E738
.R4
#75

Speech

of

Samuel Harden Church

at

Fort Wayne, Indiana

November 3, 1900

On Request of

The Republican National Committee

AUGUST BLUM FOR McKINLEY.

Prominent German-American Democrat and Business Man Out for the Republican Nominee for President.

Mr. August Blum, cashier of the First National Bank, of Chicago, intends to vote for the re-election of President McKinley.

Mr. Blum is one of the best representatives in Chicago of the type of Germans who have gained, in this country, the respect of fellow American citizens, for integrity, industry and ability. He was cashier of the Union National Bank; but after the recent absorption of that institution by the First National, he was made cashier of the First National. He is generally recognised throughout the west as a leading banking authority, one whose judgment in connection with the various complex questions that come before every banker is almost infallibly correct.

In politics he is a Democrat, or at least was always a prominent supporter of Grover Cleveland.

The following are questions put to Mr. Blum, and the replies he gave:

Q. Would the election of Bryan benefit the business interests of Chicago, of the whole United States, and the German-American citizens particularly?

A. "The election of Mr. Bryan would, in my opinion, be a great misfortune to this country, and therefore to Chicago, and therefore to German-Americans and to every other kind of Americans. American citizens of German birth are not a class by themselves, nor do they need to be talked to as if their interests were apart from those of other Americans."

Q. What, in your opinion, is the paramount issue of this campaign?

A. "The paramount issue is that which is in the people's minds, not in the party platform nor in the speeches of leaders necessarily. There is one thing in which we are all vitally concerned, and that is the inviolability of the country's standard of value. For a quarter of a century we have battled for it. At the last moment to surrender to the enemy would be the height [illegible]. I know of no other issue comparable [illegible] in importance. Talk of imperialism is disingenuous. Much as we may differ about the desirability of the Philippines as a colony, we occupy them now and largely through the help of Mr. Bryan. The thing is done. Political programs should never be retrospective. The heart of the Democratic party is not with Mr. Bryan in his artificial issue. What Mr. Bryan, himself, if elected, would do about the Philippines is too vague and illogical to seriously consider."

Q. What do you think of Bryan's statement about the recent German loan?

A. "It is very difficult to follow the tortuous road of Mr. Bryan's utterances. Four years ago I tried persistently to understand his utterances about the standard of value, but I gave it up at last in despair. To construe our ability to absorb a foreign loan, as evidence of bad times, is decidedly Bryanesque. We could not loan money to foreign governments if we were in a prosperous condition. When Mr. Bryan undertakes to prove the contrary it may give him pleasure, but it will not convince any one."

Q. Do you think that this country has prospered during the last four years as a result of Republican policies?

A. "Yes; the country has prospered during the last four years. The best, in my opinion, that can be legitimately said of the policy of any party is that it does not stand in the way of normal business development which would mean prosperity. That can be said of the Republican party. During the last four years free play has been given to industry, frugality and to the natural productiveness of the country. There has been no attempt at interference by tampering with the standard of value, which would have meant destruction of prosperity."

Q. Do you think Bryan is a safe, solid, wise enough man to be President?

A. "I answer this with a most emphatic NO."

Q. How do you think German-Americans, as a class, will vote in the presidential election this fall?

A. "They will vote according to the dictates of their conscience. I have too much confidence in the good sense of my countrymen to be doubtful as to the outcome."

A-L756
B4 #77

WILLIAM T. BAKER.

Chicago's Prominent Business Man and President of the World's Fair, Leaves the Democratic Party and Comes Out for McKinley.

William T. Baker, ex-president of the Chicago Board of Trade, and of the World's Fair, and one of the leading Democrats of Chicago, has made an open statement of his purpose to vote for McKinley this fall. In a letter made public today, he makes a powerful attack against Bryan, whom he says personifies 16 to 1 and lawlessness, and is the greatest "imperialist" since Napoleon Bonaparte.

Mr. Baker has been well known in the past for his convictions in favor of free trade and for his aggressive interest in the work of the National Tariff Reform League. Mr. Baker says, however, that even the Democratic doctrine of free trade has been abandoned for principles that mean restriction of trade, and, through the populistic attitude on "trusts," a "limitation of all successful enterprise within state lines."

The letter follows:

Hon. M. A. Hanna, Chairman Republican National Committee—My Dear Sir: The Democratic organization has passed under the control of public enemies, and no man who holds to the traditional doctrines of the party is under the slightest obligation to follow the present leaders.

The policies that guided the party from Jefferson to Cleveland have been sidetracked for the isms of populists and anarchists. Even free trade has given way to Bryan's promise that he will "recommend such additional legislation as may be necessary to dissolve every private monopoly which does business outside of the state of its origin."

This would mean under populist interpretation and control the limitation of all successful enterprise within state lines; not a captivating program to suggest at the moment when American commerce is being pushed beyond the seas.

The Democratic crusade against Expansion, termed "Imperialism," is an absolute sham, a silly and hypocritical invention to divert attention from their revolutionary purposes. Expansion has been the policy and practice of the American people since the pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock, and no man who understands the real spirit of our institutions can be frightened by the phantom of Imperialism which Bryan has conjured up for this campaign only.

Since Napoleon Bonaparte, there has been no greater Imperialist than Bryan himself. His will is the law of the party that supports him, and, if elected, he would endeavor to rule the entire nation with the same iron hand. Napoleon deluged Europe in blood to reach a throne, and Bryan would not hesitate to wreck every industry in the land to attain the presidency.

This talk of Imperialism is like the rattle of the snake that hurts nobody. It is the head of the reptile that is dangerous, and there you will find the free silver bite.

The paramount issue is exactly the same now that it was in 1896. It is 16 to 1 and lawlessness, as personified in Bryan, versus the gold standard and the security it brings. I shall vote for McKinley as representing the latter.

WILLIAM T. BAKER.

Chicago, Sept. 19, 1900.

X-E738
.R4
#78

STOP AND HEAR

THAT STIRRING MARCH

"ON THE FIRING LINE"

Popularly called

TEDDY'S MARCH

Sung daily by the

Wholesale Dry Goods' Club Quartette

AT ~~350~~ BROADWAY
350
( Don't forget the number. )

THIS MARCH

For Sale at all Music Stores

E750.R #79

To the Editor:

It is suggested that the following speech to First Voters, made by Major McKinley on Oct. 9, 1896, be reproduced on the same date of this year.

PERRY S. HEATH,
Secretary.

ADDRESS TO FIRST VOTERS

President McKinley's Speech of Four Years Ago, Made to First Voters at Cleveland, Ohio, October 9, 1896.

"I congratulate all of you upon having reached your majority; I congratulate you upon having entered into full possession of sovereignty in the best government of the world. (Applause.)

"Born in the 'seventies,' you have enjoyed the most marvelous advantages of the nineteenth century. You have witnessed the greatest progress of science, mechanics, and material development of any period in our history. You have enjoyed the advantages of the free and higher schools of learning. You have lived in a period of the greatest opportunity for moral and intellectual growth, and enjoyed most favorable conditions for forming right opinions. You have escaped the extreme bitterness of party divisions and the passions of a fratricidal war. You carry none of the scars of the past party conflicts.

"You witness only as you come to your sovereignty, a reunited country under the Old Flag, blessed in natural resources beyond any other country and suffering only because of the unwise policies already inaugurated, and the dangerous policies yet threatened. You approach the exercise of your sovereignty, therefore, under the most advantageous circumstances, free from any past predilections, and prepared in calm judgment to consider without bias the issues on which parties are divided. You have, in this campaign, as in no former campaign, the advantage of the most exhaustive discussion.

"Perhaps some of you, who have already started out for yourselves, have had in the last three or four years some valuable personal experience, which is quite as good a school in politics as in anything else. You come to your majority at a time when the people are engaged in a national contest that will settle some of the most important questions which ever confronted us, and settle them for long years to come. You are given the ballot at a time when its use for good or evil to country was never greater. You assume this responsibility at a period fraught with as grave problems as were ever presented except in time of war. It is of little moment, young gentlemen, that the Union was saved by the dread ordeal of war if it cannot be continued in peace with honor. (Great applause and cries of "Good!" "Good!")

"No nation can hold its standing before mankind that will depreciate its own currency, any more than a nation can stand before the world that will not defend its flag and honor. (Applause.) No nation can hold its position that will violate plighted faith or repudiate any part of its indebtedness under any guise whatsoever. No nation can command respect at home, or abroad, if it does not at all times uphold the supremacy of law and inviolability of its own sacred obligation. It cannot be denied that free coinage under the conditions proposed by our allied opponents will result in debasing our currency, deprive us of the use of gold and all paper money based on gold, thus contracting our currency, and leaving us upon a silver basis alone. Its result would be to give us poorer money and less volume of circulation than we now have.

"Free silver would depreciate investments; shake public confidence; destroy values; cheat labor; impair the savings of the poor, and produce a commercial revulsion, the like of which this country has never known. Our first voters surely will not want to use their ballots to bring about such a result. (Great cheering and cries of "No, sir!" "Never!")

"Surely every young voter, who has his spurs yet to win; his career to make; his fortune to build, will hesitate before he will give his ballot to a party which seeks to create hostility between classes and sections; between the rich and the poor; between the mechanic and the manufacturer; between the farmer and the banker. (Great applause.) He will cast his ballot to continue the equality of citizenship, of privilege, of opportunity, of possibility, which has been the boast of our citizenship, and is the very cornerstone upon which our free institutions rest. (Applause.)

"No young man will want to place weights upon his own shoulders, or raise barriers to his own progress, which hitherto have never impeded the progress of the industrious, honest, clean, ambitious young man. (Tremendous applause.) Away with caste and classes. Such a doctrine is un-American and unworthy to be taught a free people. (Loud and continuous cheering.) He who would inculcate that spirit among our people is not the friend but the enemy of the poor but honest young man, whose soul is fired with a worthy ambition for himself. (Great applause.)

"How would LINCOLN, GRANT, GARFIELD and LOGAN have stood, if, in their time, they had accepted the doctrine, which some now teach, that because they were poor and of humble surroundings, they must go off by themselves and shut the door of opportunity to the best impulses of their souls, and the noblest aspirations of their minds? (Continuous applause.) The ballot of the young man, as well as that of the old man, the ballot of the first voter, as well as that of all voters, should always express the voice of truth and conscience. It should represent the calm and unbiased judgment of the voter. It should embody the highest welfare of himself, his home, his community and his country. It should never be false to his convictions or opposed to justice and honor, either in public or private concerns. It should express on its face his best hopes and highest aspirations as an individual citizen, and always represent the greatest good to his fellow-countrymen.

"May your votes, young gentlemen, be always given to preserve our unity, our honor, our flag, our currency and our country, and to save our blessed inheritance always from lawlessness, dishonesty and violence. May your votes always be given for a policy that shall give us the widest development in our unmatched resources; the widest incentive to the invention, skill and genius of our citizens; the largest reward to American labor, and the highest welfare of the people, and promote the best ideals in American citizenship. I thank you for this call, and bid you good afternoon."

(Three rousing cheers were then given for Major McKinley.)

L/P-R #80 X-E738 .R4

R. E. MELVIN FOR McKINLEY.

Leading Young Democratic Lawyer of Kansas Tells Why He Will Vote for McKinley and Roosevelt.

R. E. Melvin, of Lawrence, Kas., has always been a Democrat. He comes from a Democratic family. This year he will vote for McKinley and Roosevelt.

Mr. Melvin is one of the leading young lawyers in his city. He graduated from the Kansas State University. He is a man of integrity and high standing. Morally, no man stands higher in his community. The reasons why he votes the Republican ticket are best given in his own words:

"I have always been a Democrat—never a Populist. When Mr. Bryan was nominated in 1896 he was comparatively unknown.

"We know him now!

"During the campaign of 1896 he foretold the most horrible calamities, the most frightful disasters, the most excruciating torments, the widespread and awful ruin, want and misery that would afflict his people if Mr. McKinley was elected President and the gold standard adopted.

"He is at the same old game now.

"Less than four years have demonstrated that Mr. Bryan is a false prophet—not a single one of his direful predictions having come to pass, and in almost every instance exactly the opposite proving true.

"He was wrong in '96. He is wrong now; and I firmly believe that the almost treasonable utterances of Mr. Bryan and the so called anti-imperialists are doing more to prolong the rebellion in the Philippines, are responsible for the deaths of more of our American soldier heroes there, than all other agencies combined.

"Mr. Bryan says he would rather see two flags waving over two separate republics than one flag over an empire. Jefferson Davis said exactly the same thing in 1860.

"Mr. Bryan also says we have no title to the Philippines. Some centuries ago Spain received the Philippine archipelago from Portugal (who claimed to own it by right of discovery), by a decree of the Pope. She has held it (for all practical purposes) continuously ever since. In Kansas fifteen years (some other States twenty years) open, notorious, adverse possession of land gives a good title; if fifteen years in Kansas gives a good title then it is certainly not illogical to say that over four centuries' possession of the Philippines by Spain as against the whole world, exercising every right and prerogative of absolute ownership, and always recognized by all the nations of the earth as the owner thereof, gave her as good a title as it is possible to have. By treaty (the ratification of which was urged by Mr. Bryan himself) and purchase, ratified by the Congress of the United States under our constitution, a perfect title now vests in us.

"Our flag is in the Philippines not for aggrandizement, not for conquest, not as a symbol of oppression, enslavement or tyranny, but for the advancement of liberty, right, humanity, justice and civilization. But our first duty is to suppress the rebellion.

"The scare-crows—Imperialism and Militarism—frighten no thinking persons. They are mere bug-a-boos, conjured up for no other purpose than to intimidate, mislead and frighten the timid and uninformed.

"The Democratic party has abandoned every principle which I hold dear and which I have been taught from my infancy to love. In '96 I voted for Mr. Bryan because I disliked to leave a party with which I had been affiliated all my life, and believed that when it had sobered up from that drunken debauch better judgment and calm deliberation would again dominate its counsels. But alas! Poor Yorick! It goes from bad to worse, until now it has taken such a radical departure from all the principles enunciated by all the great Democratic leaders that it looks to me like political suicide. It has taken up so many fallacies and isms:—Militarism, Imperialism (cheap clap-trap—mere rot), the absurd Boer plank—in the face of the facts, the laughable fallacy that the constitution follows the flag, and the bewildering and astonishing declaration of the extension of the Monroe Doctrine to the shores of Asia, with others too numerous to mention, but equally absurd, that I cannot understand how any old-line Jeffersonian Democrat can do anything but support the candidate who is standing up for American institutions, for American advancement and progress, for American civilization, for the God-given American prerogative to take our place in the very front rank of all the nations of the earth.

"I say support the man who put the flag up in Porto Rico; who put it up in Hawaii; who put it up in the Philippines and who advocates keeping it there—and may God grant it may never come down!

"Our policy has been one of expansion from the very first; I cannot repudiate the very doctrine which has made me an American citizen and the soil on which I stand a part of the grandest and most glorious republic the sun ever blessed with his light. I cannot repudiate my very existence.

"'To thine own self be true;
And it must follow as the night the day
Thou canst not then be false to any man.'

"The Democratic party has taken a negative position—at the dictation of its leader it advocates destroying practically all that has been done in the last three years: Hauling down the flag, cowardly shirking the great responsibilities a just war has placed on our shoulders, utterly destroying the prestige our army and navy have attained in the estimation of the whole world—in fact, that this nation shall become a mere minus quantity, a nonentity, and shall no longer take its destined place in the affairs of the world.

"I, for one, will never consent to it.

"I shall vote for the men for President and Vice-President who believe that our soldiers and sailors have not fought and died in vain—who stand for Greater America—the best government—the advancement of civilization—the development and extension of our commerce—the greatest good to the greatest number—and who will never allow the old Stars and Stripes to be trailed in the dust—I shall vote for McKinley and Roosevelt.

"R. E. MELVIN."

Lawrence, Kas.

E475.3.R X.E7.8 .R4

BRYAN'S WORST TRUST.

The Supposed Gold Trust the Most Fearful Four Years Ago---Dire Cruelty and Suffering Predicted if the Gold Standard Was Maintained---Not Repeating It Now in the Phonograph or on the Stump.

Four years ago it was planned for Bryan to deliver his great effort of the campaign at Washington on the one hundredth anniversary of Washington's Farewell Address. The speech was delivered in Washington September 19th, but there are some doubts whether the effort will live as long as the one that preceded it by a hundred years.

GOLD TRUST THE WORST OF ALL.

Among other things Bryan said:

"Talk about monopolies! Talk about trusts! My friends, they propose to establish the most gigantic of all trusts—a money trust—and let the few men who hold the gold dole it out at such price as they will to all the other seventy millions of American people. I denounce the policy as more cruel and heartless than political domination of a foreign power. I would rather, as some one has said, put our army in the hands of a foreign general, or our navy in command of a foreign admiral, than to put the Treasury Department in the hands of a Secretary who would run it upon the European plan. I would resist such a financial policy with as much earnestness as I would resist the progress of an invading army coming to attack our homes."

LET BRYAN TAKE HIS OWN MEDICINE.

"Let me ask you a question. Did the administration, when recommending the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law, believe that the repeal would cure our troubles? If it did, then it has been so badly mistaken that you have a right to mistrust the judgment of the administration. If, on the other hand, the administration knew that the repeal of the Sherman law would not bring relief and concealed that knowledge from the American people, then you have a right to distrust the honesty of the administration."

APPLY HIS OWN TEST TO BRYAN NOW.

"Did the administration know, when it recommended the retirement of greenbacks and Treasury notes as a means of stopping the drain upon the gold in the Treasury, that it would propose the policy that the Secretary of the Treasury has outlined in his letter? If it did know and did not tell the people, it was dishonest in not taking the people into its confidence, and if it did not know, then let it confess its ignorance of military laws and the finances of the country. Does the administration know now that when it commences to redeem silver dollars in gold, it will start another endless chain which may drain the Treasury indefinitely and increase the bonded debt without limit, unless all the silver dollars are retired and bonds substituted for them? If it does not know, then it must confess itself ignorant on the subject, and if it does know and will not tell the people, then we have a right to question the candor and frankness of the administration."

NO LANGUAGE TOO HARSH.

"Do not think that my language is harsh. It is not harsh. These men are the public servants of the American people and they have no more right to betray the people into the hands of the financiers of London than Benedict Arnold had to betray the American colonists into the hands of the British."

SELF-CONDEMNED AS A FALSE PROPHET.

Out of his own mouth Bryan is condemned as a false prophet in 1896. When, four years ago, he declared the supposed gold trust the worst of all and said it would bring speedy ruin to the country, he was, as events have proved, either ignorant of the truth or dishonest in asserting something which he knew to be unfounded.

The gold standard has been maintained and, instead of cruel suffering and misery, we have had unexampled prosperity. We never had as much money in the country as now. Europe is coming to us to borrow. While Bryan must have been either ignorant or dishonest when he predicted ruin from the supposed gold trust, he stands impeached and discredited according to the rule he then laid down for others.

E750.R #82 X-E738 B4

BRYAN ATTACKS LABOR'S WAGES

And the Democratic Platform Threatens Wages in All American Protected Industries —Reckless Assault on the Whole System of Protection.

When Bryan gets an idea on the brain there is no stopping him. Starting out as a rank free trader, in 1894, when told his policy would destroy the American rate of wages, he replied by flaunting over the head of his printed speech the proverb:

"Better is little with righteousness than great revenues without right."

Surely workingmen must think of the devil quoting scripture when told they must come down in their wages and accept poverty in the name of right.

With equal fanaticism Bryan says now, the first thing he would like to do as president would be "to take off every dollar of protective tariff on the product of mills in trusts."

Here is the open threat to sweep away all protection from nine-tenths of the protected manufactures of the country, for all that number are large corporations.

The Bryan cut would be destructive to wages in the steel, iron, glass, tin plate, oil, paint, lumber, sugar, paper, and oth r leading industries.

Bryan's threat is backed up by the Democratic platform in all its ruinous radicalism. It pledges that "our tariff laws he amended by placing the products of trusts on the free list."

There is a recipe for hard times. No discrimination between corporations, but absolute stripping of protection from all, even where a combination has reduced prices to the consumer.

The man who burned his barn to get rid of the rats was not half so reckless as is Bryan, who would endanger the wages of millions of employes in order to he revenged on a few thousand employers for opposing his ambition to be President.

Beware of Bryan. His destruction of American wages and industry would be worse than the wreckage caused by the proverbial bull in the china shop.

WOMEN HOLD STOCK IN "TRUSTS."

Thousands of Them are Small Investors and are Being Attacked by Bryan and the Democratic Party.

Four of the largest corporations of Chicago, including the National Biscuit Company, the Glucose Sugar Refining Company, the American Steel and Wire Company, and the American Linseed Company, have made public statements to show that they are indeed "trusts"—"trusts" administered in the interests of hundreds of people, who have invested their savings or small resources in such stock.

From about one-quarter to one-third of the total number of preferred stockholders in these companies are women.

Over one-half of the total number represent people of comparatively small financial resources, whose investments are fifty shares or under. Of these about one-half have investments of ten shares or under.

The following table is compiled from the books of these four corporations. It shows how largely the shares of large corporations are being held by small investors, especially women, who depend for their livelihood on the dividends from their investments. Thus:

| | National Biscuit | American Steel and Wire | Glucose Sugar Ref. | American Linseed |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Total number preferred stockholders, | 2,368 | 1,919 | 544 | 1,000 |
| Total number holding 50 shares or less, | 1,702 | 1,219 | 287 | 700 |
| Total number holding 10 shares or less, | 854 | 59 | 108 | 400 |
| Number women preferred stockholders, | 1,008 | 564 | 180 | 300 |

E750.R
#83
X-E738
.R4

TO THE EDITOR:

The following facts show the stupendous increase in the wealth of the American people during the last five years, an increase of one and three-quarter billions of money placed to their credit in the banks. The figures show the increase for the whole United States, for your own state, for the large cities and for that section of the country in which you live. Kindly make the greatest possible use of them.

PERRY S. HEATH,
Secretary Republican National Committee.

PROSPERITY HAS COME TO THE PEOPLE

It is Shown by the Fact that the People Had 2,100,547 More Bank Accounts Last Year Than in the Democratic Year of 1894.

Gain of Nearly ~~Three~~ Two Billion Dollars in the Amount of Money Deposited to Their Credit.

The one supreme test of prosperity is the money in the bank. This is a self-evident truth. If a man's family is well clothed and fed and in a comfortable home, and besides this he can put money in the bank, it must be admitted that he is prosperous.

In the following unparalleled showing of the increase in the number of deposits from the dark days of the Democratic Wilson bill regime in 1894 to the glorious days of McKinley prosperity, the most marvelous of all is the increase in the number of depositors and in the amount of deposits in the savings banks of the country. These banks are particularly the ones where the wage earners of the country put their savings.

Mr. Bryan says the people are not prosperous. So say all his calamity followers. We commend to them the following official figures from the report of the Comptroller of the Currency of the United States for 1899. They are unanswerable:

TOTAL UNITED STATES

| BANK | Total No. Depositors 1894 | 1899 |
|---|---|---|
| National | 1,424,966 | 1,991,183 |
| State and Private | 502,756 | 999,394 |
| Loan and Trust Cos | 205,598 | 443,921 |
| Savings | 3,413,477 | 4,254,516 |
| Total | 5,545,867 | 7,655,414 |
| Increase in number of depositors | | 2,109,547 |

| BANK | Total Amount of Deposits 1894 | 1899 |
|---|---|---|
| National | $1,155,191,588 | $1,830,116,140 |
| State and Private | 214,442,310 | 418,281,297 |
| Loan and Trust Cos | 299,504,892 | 576,724,117 |
| Savings | 1,205,450,416 | 1,782,974,481 |
| Total | $2,874,589,406 | $4,608,096,005 |
| Increase in amount of Deposits | | $1,733,506,599 |

Average Deposit in all Banks

| | |
|---|---|
| 1894 | $520 |
| 1899 | 602 |

Since the Democratic days of 1894, there has been an increase of 2,109,547 bank depositors in the whole United States.

This number more people have had money to deposit during McKinley prosperity.

The total amount of money deposited to the credit of the people was $2,874,589,406 in 1894.

In 1899 it was $4,608,096,005, showing an increase of almost One and Three-Quarter Billions of Dollars to the Credit of the People Who Had Bank Accounts in The Five Years Since The Country Was Suffering The Agonies of A Democratic Administration.

Not only has there been this vast increase in the aggregate amount of money placed in the banks, but the average amount of each bank account has increased from $520, in 1894, to an average of $602 per bank account in 1899.

Who will say that the promises of the Republican party have not been fulfilled?

Who will say that the Advance Agent of Prosperity has not visited the American people under the Republican Administration of President McKinley?

E750.R #54 X-E738 P4

TEST VOTE ON TRUSTS

How the Vote on the Constitutional Amendment Against Trusts Stood in the House of Representatives, June 1, 1900:
148 Republicans in Favor---
130 Democrats Against.

NEEDING A TWO-THIRDS VOTE, IT WAS DEFEATED SOLELY BY THE DEMOCRATS.

The rulings of the Supreme Court having shown that, as the constitution now stands, Congress can only regulate trusts engaged in interstate commerce, the following amendment was introduced in the House of Representatives and pressed to a vote on June 1:

Section 1. All powers conferred by this article shall extend to the several states, the territories, the District of Columbia, and all territory under the sovereignty and subject to the jurisdiction of the United States.

Section 2. "Congress shall have power to define, regulate, control, prohibit, or dissolve trusts, monopolies or combinations, whether existing in the form of a combination or otherwise. The several states may continue to exercise such power in any manner not in conflict with the laws of the United States."

Section 3. Congress shall have power to enforce the provisions of this article by appropriate legislation.

The clause saving all rights of states was inserted in the hope of getting States Rights Democrats to support the amendment. Nevertheless the vote stood 148 Republicans for and 130 Democrats against, and the measure failed of the necessary two-thirds majority.

LOUDLY AS THE DEMOCRATS TALKED, WHEN IT CAME TO A VOTE THEY ECHOED BRYAN'S DECLARATION AT THE CHICAGO CONFERENCE: "WE HAVE NOT MET HERE TO DESTROY THE TRUSTS."

The vote in full was:

For the Amendment, 148 Republicans, to-wit:

Adams,
Aldrich,
Alexander,
Allen (Me.),
Babcock
Bailey (Kan.),
Baker,
Barney,
Bartholdt,
Bingham,
Bishop,
Boreing,
Bourelle (Ill.),
Bowersock,
Brick,
Broslus,
Brown,
Burke (S. D.),
Burkett,
Burleigh,
Burton,
Butler,
Calderhead,
Campbell,
Cannon,
Clarke (N. H.),
Cochrane (N. Y.),
Connell,
Cooper (Wis.),
Corliss,
Cousins,
Cromer,
Crumpacker,
Curtis,
Cushman,
Dahle (Wis.),
Dalzell,
Davenport, S. A.,
Davidson,
Dick,
Dolliver,
Eddy,
Emerson,
Esch,
Faris,
Fletcher,
Foss,
Fowler,
Frear,
Gardner (Mich.),
Gardner (N. J.),
Gibson,
Gillett,
Gillett (N. Y.),
Gillett (Mass.),
Graff,
Graham,
Greene (Mass.),
Greevenor,
Grout,
Hamilton,
Haugen,
Hawley,
Heatwole,
Hedge,
Hemenway,
Henry (Conn.),
Hepburn,
Hill,
Hitt,
Hofficker,
Howell,
Hull,
Jack,
Jones (Wash.),
Joy,
Kahn,
Ketcham,
Knox,
Lacey,
Lane,
Lawrence,
Littlefield,
Long,
Lorimer,
Loudenslager,
Lovering,
Lybrand,
McCleary,
McPherson,
Marsh,
Marson,
Mesick,
Metcalf,
Miller,
Minor,
Mondell,
Moody (Mass.),
Moody (Ore.),
Morgan,
Mudd,
Naphen,
Needham,
Newlands,
O'Grady,
Olmsted,
Otjen,
Overstreet,
Parker (N. J.),
Payne,
Pearce (Mo.),
Pearre,
Phillips,
Pitney,
Pugh,
Ray (N. Y.),
Reeder,
Reeves,
Roberts,
Rodenberg,
Russell,
Scudder,
Shattuc,
Sheldon,
Sherman,
Showalter,
Sibley,
Smith, N. C.,
Smith, Samuel W.,
Spalding,
Sperry,
Steele,
Stevens (Minn.),
Stewart (N. Y.),
Stewart (Wis.),
Sulloway,
Tawney,
Taylor (Ohio),
Thayer,
Thomas (Ia.),
Throop,
Tongue,
Van Voorhis,
Wachter,
Wadsworth,
Wanger,
Warner,
Waters,
Watson,
Weeks,
Wise,
Wright,
Young,
The Speaker.

Against the Anti-Trust Amendment, 130 Democrats, to-wit:

Adamson,
Allen (Ky.),
Bailey (Tex.),
Ball,
Barber,
Bartlett,
Bell,
Bellamy,
Benton,
Bradley,
Brantley,
Brossard,
Brenner,
Brewer,
Brundidge,
Burleson,
Burnett,
Caldwell,
Chenier,
Clark (Mo.),
McRae,
Maddox,
Meekison,
Meyer (La.),
Miers (Ind.),
Moon,
Moody,
Neville,
Noonan,
Otey,
Pierce (Tenn.),
Quarles,
Clayton (Ala.),
Clayton (N. Y.),
Cochran (Mo.),
Cooney,
Cooper (Tex.),
Cowherd,
Cox,
Crowley,
Cummings,
Davenport, S. W.,
Davis,
Dearmond,
De Graffenreid,
De Vries,
Denny,
Dinsmore,
Dougherty,
Driggs,
Elliott,
Finley,
Ransdell,
Rhea (Ky.),
Richardson,
Ridgely,
Riordan,
Robertson,
Robinson (Ind.),
Robinson (Neb.),
Rucker,
Ryan (N. Y.),
Shafroth,
Sheppard,
Fitzgerald (Mass.),
Fitzgerald (N. Y.),
Fitzpatrick,
Fleming,
Foster,
Gaines,
Gibson,
Gilbert,
Glass,
Gordon,
Green (Pa.),
Griffith,
Griggs,
Hall,
Hay,
Henry (Miss.),
Henry (Tex.),
Howard,
Jett,
Johnston,
Sims,
Smith (Ky.),
Snodgrass,
Stallings,
Stark,
Stephens (Tex.),
Stokes,
Sulzer,
Sutherland,
Swanson,
Talbert,
Tate,
Jones (Va.),
King,
Kitchin,
Kleberg,
Klutts,
Lamb,
Latham,
Lassiter,
Latimer,
Lentz,
Lester,
Levy,
Lewis,
Little,
Livingston,
Lloyd,
McClellan,
McLain,
Taylor (Ala.),
Terry,
Thomas (N. C.),
Underhill,
Underwood,
Wheeler (Ky.),
Williams, J. R.,
Williams, W. E.,
Williams (Miss.),
Wilson (Idaho),
Wilson (N. Y.),
Zenor,
Ziegler.

#85 X-E738 .R4

REAL ESTATE MEN FOR McKINLEY

The Demand for Homes for Workingmen Has Increased One Hundred Per Cent Since 1897—Strong Endorsements of Republican Administration

In Trying to Prove That Republican Prosperity Is Not the "Real Thing," Democratic Speakers, From Bryan Down, Have Had Much to Say of City Real Estate; That in This Branch of Business There Is no Real Prosperity—They Were Wrong as Usual.

The following well-known real estate men of Chicago have given their views:

PRESIDENT OF THE REAL ESTATE BOARD

George L. Warren, President of the Chicago Real Estate Board, says:

"From the best information that I am able to obtain, and from general observation, I believe that during the past four years more of the wage-earners have purchased homes for themselves than they have been able to do for years previous.

"The fact of their being able to do so makes them better citizens and removes any notion of socialism or any of the isms that are injurious to the welfare of the community. I believe laboring men are fully aware of the danger of Bryan's election, and will cast their votes for another period of prosperity and home-buying.

"The indications seem to be that they realize the fact that UNDER A REPUBLICAN ADMINISTRATION THEIR INTERESTS ARE BEST SERVED, that they have the greatest amount of work, and the highest scale of wages."

REAL ESTATE MAN A McKINLEY DEMOCRAT

Samuel Brown, Jr., says:

"The business of selling homes to working people is now just about 100 per cent better than it was in 1897, the year of greatest depression in Chicago real estate history. After four years of these good Republican times there are hundreds of buyers of homes by people who used to lead a hand-to-mouth existence, whose quarters were close and stuffy, whose children knew little air or sunshine, and naught but filthy alleys to play in. To sell lots in the outlying districts it is now only necessary to build houses on them, ranging from $1,000 to $3,000 in price. More buyers are paying larger amounts of cash on these houses than ever before.

"Real estate is always slow in feeling the effects of a panic, and always slow in recovering from it. After the panic of 1893 we still had fairly good real estate business in Chicago, until Mr. Bryan's nomination in 1896 put a final check to it. Since 1897 every year has been a regular upward step in the local real estate business. Next year promises to see the greatest activity yet known. Even if Bryan should be elected the momentum of these good Republican times may carry us through another prosperous year of large buying of homes.

"I FEEL ENTHUSIASTIC IN MY PRAISES OF WHAT REPUBLICAN TIMES ARE DOING FOR CHICAGO OWNERS OF LOTS AND HOMES, NOTWITHSTANDING I AM A DEMOCRAT. BUT I AM A M'KINLEY DEMOCRAT, NOT A POPOCRAT. IF EVER THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY IS RESURRECTED I'LL STEP BACK INTO IT."

IMPROVEMENT SINCE MARCH 4, 1897

E. A. Cummings says:

"In 1897, whatever may have been the cause, CONDITIONS COMMENCED TO CHANGE. More and steady employment and larger wages enabled the workingman, first, to discharge the liabilities that had accumulated against him during the hard times of the previous three years, and now the savings from the surplus earnings are beginning to form a capital with which he looks forward as a means of again securing a home. DURING THE LAST YEAR THIS HAS BEEN PARTICULARLY PRONOUNCED, and although the prolonged lockout and strike in the building trades has interfered materially with the wage-earning power of those connected with the building industries, there has never been a time in years when labor was so well employed and at such satisfactory prices. As a result, the lot sales have commenced again, and the building of small houses has been carried on to a larger extent than in any year since 1893.

"In the southwest and northwest parts of Chicago many new subdivisions have been opened, and large numbers of lots have been sold and houses erected.

"THERE HAVE BEEN MORE SALES TO WAGE-EARNERS DURING THE LAST TWO YEARS THAN THERE WERE IN THE WHOLE PRECEDING FIVE YEARS. THE CONDITION OF THE WORKINGMAN, JUDGED FROM THE REAL ESTATE STANDPOINT, HAS VASTLY IMPROVED SINCE THE FOURTH DAY OF MARCH, 1897."

BRYAN WOULD UNSETTLE BUSINESS

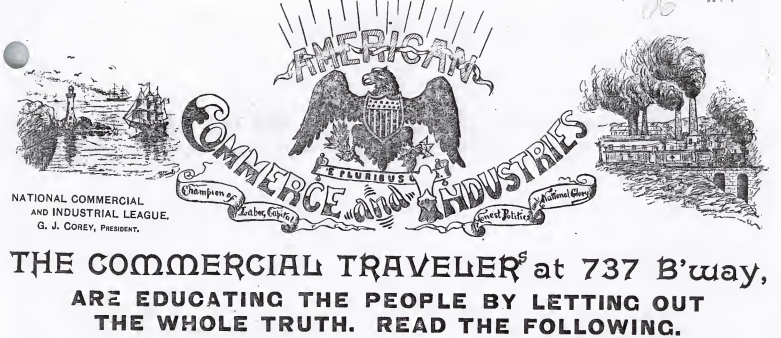
George H. McDonald, General Superintendent Department of Sales of S. E. Gross & Co., says:

"The demand is rapidly increasing for dwellings from that class of people who pay $23 to $25 monthly. The working classes appear to be getting possessed of the idea of buying property instead of renting it, and they seem able, after four years of prosperity, to carry this idea into effect.

"So far this year, judging from my own business observation, I think I am safe in saying that working people have already bought twice as many homes as they bought during any whole year within the past six or seven years. Present indications are that there will be a wonderful improvement next year.

"Real estate is always the last to feel the effects of bad times; always the last to recover. We now see good times in the general improvement in sales. But if good times continue we will soon see a marked appreciation in values, especially of the homesteads of working people. A change of administration, however, WOULD UNSETTLE BUSINESS. THERE IS NO QUESTION OF THAT. THEREFORE I WOULD GREATLY HATE TO SEE MR. BRYAN ELECTED PRESIDENT."

X-E738
.R4



NATIONAL COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE.
G. J. COREY, PRESIDENT.

THE COMMERCIAL TRAVELER'S at 737 B'way,

ARE EDUCATING THE PEOPLE BY LETTING OUT THE WHOLE TRUTH. READ THE FOLLOWING.

ADLAI STEVENSON'S RECORD.

When Adlai Stevenson was a candidate for Vice-President in 1892, the New York Press in its issue of Aug. 18, 1892, published a cartoon entitled "Mr. Stevenson's Patriotic Services."

With the cartoon were printed the following paragraphs, showing Adlai Stevenson's record as a Patriot and an American.

"MR. STEVENSON'S PATRIOTIC SERVICES."

(From the N. Y. Press, Aug. 18, 1892.)

Stevenson said he was glad Lincoln was shot and that he should have been killed earlier.—Affidavit of William B. Whiffen, editor of the Metamora sentinal, where Stevenson resided in 1862.

---

Stevenson was throughout the war a friend of the Copperheads.—Affidavit of Rev. G. B. Snedeker, pastor of the Methodist Church in Mr. Stevenson's home in 1862.

---

Stevenson sold revolvers to traitors.—Affidavit of Parker Gardner, Wabash, Ind., Aug. 6, 1892.

---

If "General" Stevenson could produce even one little bit of a speech or public utterance made by him in 1863 or 1864 in favor of a vigorous prosecution of the war for the Union, or of sustaining the hands of Abraham Lincoln, loyal people may forget or believe themselves mistaken in their firm recollection that in 1863 and 1864 A. E. Stevenson Was a rank Copperhead politician and candidate for office in Woodford County —Ex-Governor Hamilton of Illinois, who lived at Bloomington during the war.

---

Stevenson's name appeared on the record of membership of the Knights of the Golden Circle which I captured.—Statement of Major J. Olmstead, now of Los Angeles, Cal.

MAKE YOUR CHOICE.

| The Republican Candidates stand for | The Democratic Candidates stand for |
|---|---|
| 1. Prosperity. | 1. Calamity. |
| 2. Patriotism. | 2. Flag Furling. |
| 3. Duty. | 3. Experiments. |
| 4. Expansion | 4. Contraction. |
| 5. Sound Money. | 5. Free Silver. |
| 6. Prophesies Fulfilled. | 6. False Prophesies. |
| 7. Promises Kept. | 7. Promises Made. |
| 8. More Markets. | 8. Fewer Markets. |
| 9. Payment of Debts. | 9. Creation of Debts. |
| 10. Lower Interest. | 10. Higher Interest. |
| 11. More Work. | 11. Less Work. |
| 12. Protection. | 12. Free Trade. |

FOR ABSOLUTE FREE SILVER.

---

Bryan Betrayed by Sudden Anger and Declares for Sixteen to One in the Most Extreme and Violent Form.
He Nursed His Hobby in Silence and Secrecy, but Will Stop at Nothing When the Time Comes for Action.

---

When Bryan was speaking at Ann Arbor, Mich., Thursday, October 11th, some one in the audience called out "How about free silver?" and he replied as follows:

"We are in favor of the free coinage of silver at the ratio of sixteen to one without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation on earth."

There it is—free silver doctrine in all its danger, recklessness and fanaticism. Not a syllable of qualification or caution. No hint of a safer ratio—no suggestion of securing the co-operation of any other nation, but a reckless plunge by this country, single-handed and alone, in an attempt to maintain silver at double its actual value!

Angry men tell the truth. Nettled by the timely and pertinent question, Bryan let the cat completely out of the bag. Stung by the keen reminder, he dropped his campaign mask and avowed the full truth as men do sometimes in their wrath as in their cups.

The alert citizen who propounded the question at Ann Arbor, did well. He surprised Bryan into declaring the truth fully and plainly before the country. As the Democratic candidate has been compelled by Jones et al. to hide and dissemble his love for free silver in a policy game to be kept up until the end of the campaign, it only required the sting and surprise of the sudden question to bring out the burning inner truth of Bryan's devotion to silver.

Bryan loves his silver dogma all the more fanatically because he has had to nurse it in silence. The surprise sprung on him at Ann Arbor shows how the land lies. Believing in free silver as absolutely and as ardently as ever, Bryan will stop at nothing when the opportunity comes to enforce that policy in its most extreme and reckless form.

The Irish poet tells of the prophet of Khorassan who disguised his frightful visage for a time, making his followers think it one of entrancing beauty, but when the hour came to drop the mask, he did so with frantic joy, exclaiming, "Ye would be dupes and victims, and ye are!"

So it will be with Bryan's victims if he ever gets a chance to drop the mask and give full vent to his silver mania.

(1895?)

#87 X-E738 .R4

The Jewelers' McKinley & Roosevelt Club

Headquarters, No. 10 Maiden Lane, New York.

EXECUTIVE OFFICERS.

J. B. Bowden, President.
Chas. L. Tiffany, 1st Vice-Pres.
David C. Dodd, Jr., 2d "
A. K. Sloan, 3d "
Chas. F. Wood, Treasurer.
[illegible] F. Ackerman, Secretary.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Jno. L. Shepherd, Chairman.
M. J. Lissauer, Vice-Chairman.
J. Warren Alford
M. B. Bryant
Wm. Bardel
Chas. F. Brinck
Chas. E. Bulkley
W. H. Brown
D. V. P. Cadmus
C. C. Champenois
Wm. D. Carrow
Jno. C. Day
Geo. E. Fahys
Jno. G. Fuller
Jno. Frick
Byron W. Greene
R. M. Hyde
Henry E. Ide
Sam'l H. Levy
Robert Loch
Julius Lebkuecher
L. Lilienthal
Ludwig Nissen
Frank R. Simmons
Leopold Stern
David Untermeyer

EX-OFFICIO MEMBERS

The President
1st, 2d and 3d Vice-Presidents.
Treasurer and Secretary.

COMMITTEE ON FINANCE.

Geo. E. Fahys, Chairman
[illegible] B. Bryant
[illegible] Champenois
[illegible] W. Greene
R. M. Hyde
Henry E. Ide
Sam'l H. Levy
A. K. Sloan
Frank R. Simmons
Leopold Stern
David Untermeyer
Chas. F. Wood

COMMITTEE ON LITERATURE AND PRINTING.

John Frick, Chairman.
M. B. Bryant
Jno. C. Day
Henry E. Ide
M. J. Lissauer
Robt. Loch

COMMITTEE ON MEMBERSHIP AND ENROLLMENT.

Wm. Bardel, Chairman.
J. Warren Alford
Chas. F. Brinck
Wm. D. Carrow
Sam'l H. Levy

COMMITTEE ON SPEAKERS.

Jno. L. Shepherd, Chairman.
Leopold Stern
Geo. Fahys
Ludwig Nissen
Geo. E. Bulkley

COMMITTEE ON DECORATIONS AND EQUIPMENTS.

[illegible] V. P. Cadmus, Chairman.
Julius Lebkuecher
John Frick
Wm. Bardel
L. Lilienthal
W. H. Brown
Jno. G. Fuller

VICE-PRESIDENTS.

Daniel F. Appleton
Stephen Avery
J. C. Aiken
William R. Alling
Max Arnstein
Thomas W. Adams
T. G. Brown
Read Benedict
T. K. Benton
C. E. Breckenridge
Henry B. Billings
Chas. G. Braxmar
Aaron Carter, Jr.
C. T. Cook
H. K. Dyer
W. B. Durand
Joseph Fahys
Geo. H. Fish
S. Frankel
Jno. R. Greason
Ira Goddard
M. Goodfriend
Charles Glatz
Edward Holbrook
Jas. Hedges
R. S. Hamilton, Jr.
William H. Hays
F. K. Hays
A. V. Huyler
Louis Kahn
John R. Keim
F. H. Larter
Max G. Levy
Fred. W. Lewis
S. Lindenborn
Albert Lorsch
F. L. Martin
J. N. Mulford
H. R. Oppenheimer
Aug. Oppenheimer
A. S. Pitt
Charles Picksley
Henry Randel
William Riker, Jr.
W. I. Rosenfeld
A. H. Smith
Jas. F. Snow
A. K. Shiehler
Geo. W. Shiebler
James E. Spencer
A. W. Sexton
Adolphe Schwob
S. M. Schiele
David N. Smith
Edward Smith
Alvin L. Strasburger
Seth E. Thomas
David C. Townsend
Hayden W. Wheeler
St. John Wood
Addison Woodhull
Leo. Wormser
William L. Ward

E750.R #688 X.E738 .R4

CAPT. FRANK NOLEN, President.
CAPT. WM. STAHL, 1st Vice-President.
COL. MYRON J. ROSE, 2d Vice-President.
DR. GEO. R. GRAHAM, Treasurer.
LIEUT. JOHN A. THOMPSON, Secretary.

MARYLAND HEADQUARTERS

Union Veterans' Patriotic League

Private WM. McKINLEY, Co. E, 23d Ohio Vol's.

106 N. HOWARD ST. BALTIMORE, MD.

Sept. 25, 1900.

Comrade:

The political conditions confronting our country at this time, are, in many respects, similar to those of 1864, when President Lincoln was before the American people for re-election.

"The Copperhead," of the War of the Rebellion, under the flimsy pretext "the Constitution as it was," used every effort to break down the barriers of free government of the people, whilst you and our Comrades were at the front fighting for the preservation of the Union, to transmit to posterity, unimpaired, the grand heritage bequeathed us by our fore-fathers, has a fitting prototype in the silly, but dangerous anti-imperialist hypocrite of to-day.

"Copperhead" and Anti-Imperialist are synonomous terms:-BLIND PARTISAN OPPOSITION TO THE GOVERNMENT. This country needs a protective law making it high treason, punishable with death, to give aid and comfort, openly or covertly, to its enemies engaged in armed hostility to the government.

The silly slogan of Imperialism has no foundation of fact, but is simply a catchy phrase aimed at the patriotic administration of the government—the defilement of our flag—the open encouragement to murder and assassinate our soldiers, and the defeat of Comrade McKinley.

Financially, the party of BRYAN and RUIN, would turn backward the progressive hand on the dial of time, and in pursuance of the insane infatuation for the absurd silver heresy, plunge the financial, industrial and commercial interests of the country into irretrievable disaster and ruin.

Unfortunately, Comrade, in all such political upheavals the producing classes—the farmer, the mechanic and the laborer—are the first, the longest and the last to suffer from the misleading advice of ambitious demagogues.

Comrade: We appeal to all Comrades, all Sons of Veterans and all friends of our righteous, patriotic cause, to rally to the support of our Comrade whom we have placed to the fore as our standard bearer in this campaign.

The call of duty at the ballot-box at the coming election is as imperative, as was the bugle call, the long-roll of the drum, or the hurried, silent call to arms of the midnight fray when we wore the blue in defense of flag and country.

Patriotism, national honor and integrity and loyalty to flag and Comrade, one and all, demand, that in this hour, every old soldier in our State, in touch as of yore of the Comradely elbow and in solid phalanx and united patriotism, march forward to a glorious victory in as grand a cause as was ever presented to the American people for arbitrament at the palladium of our liberty —the ballot-box.

Fall in, Comrade, and the victory is ours!

E750.R

#89

X E738
.R4

Private WM. McKINLEY, Co. E, 23d Ohio Vol's.

NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS
OF THE # Veterans' Patriotic League.

Major-General DANIEL E. SICKLES, U. S. Army, New York, President
Major-Gen'l WILLIAM B. FRANKLIN, Hartford, Ct.
Major-Gen'l FRANZ SIGEL, New York.
Major-Gen'l JOHN M. THAYER, Lincoln, Neb.
Major THOMAS J. ANDERSON, Topeka, Kansas.
} Vice-Pres'ts.
General ST. CLAIR A. MULHOLLAND, Sec'y, P. O. Building, Phila.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

WILLIAM WARNER, Missouri.
IVAN N. WALKER, Indiana.
R. B. BROWN Ohio.
JOS. W. KAY, New York.
R. B. BEATH, Penna.
A. G. WEISSERT, Wisconsin.
O. H. COULTER, Kansas.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, Col. Rough Riders.

PHILADELPHIA, October 1st, 1900.

COMRADES:

Four year ago the Republican party nominated for the high office of President one of our comrades, a man who with us touched elbows and shared the dangers and privations of the greatest war the world has ever seen. For two years, with musket and knapsack, he was a Private in the 23d Regiment Ohio Volunteers, then, because of conspicuous bravery in action, he was promoted to Lieutenant, Captain and Brevet-Major, and for two more years honorably and faithfully served his country, not laying aside the uniform he had honored until the last shot of that titanic struggle was fired and the glorious morning of Appomatox marked the close of the war, and brought to the flag he had loved and defended a united country and peace. His comrades calling to mind the days of '61 to '65, the heroism and services of their comrade in the battles in which he participated and the eminent services he rendered to the Union cause, rallied to his support and organized in every State in the Union for the purpose of making him President, and on election day the Veterans of the Army and Navy of the Civil War marched to the polls and certainly 95 per cent. of survivors of the great war cast their votes in his favor.

In electing him to the august office of Chief Magistrate his comrades builded better than they knew. The four years of his term now drawing to a close will ever shine out as the most glorious pages of our country's history. Never have the achievements of our people shone with such undiminished splendor. Never has our country been so respected among the peoples and nations of the earth. Never in the history of the country have our own people been so prosperous and happy.

Again Comrade William McKinley, of the 23d Ohio Infantry, has been nominated for a second term of the office which he now so fully honors.

Exulting in the success and splendor of his first term, rejoicing in the happiness of all the people, his comrades of the Civil War will once more answer to the bugle call of duty, "form line," and present a solid front by casting their votes for their country's honor and four years more of prosperity and universal content.

But, Comrades, we must not stop at merely casting our own votes for the good cause. Let every one be earnest and active in securing the votes of his family and friends. The power and influence of the surviving veterans, if earnestly exerted, will make sure the result in every doubtful State. Let us fail not in our duty to our Comrade and our country.

Not only has the Republican party nominated a soldier for the Presidency but they have still further honored the defenders of their country by nominating the distinguished soldier, Theodore Roosevelt, for Vice-President—too young to participate with us in the glories of the Civil War, but who promptly volunteered when in 1898 another army was needed, and he there gained an enviable place in the hearts of his countrymen by helping to free Cuba from the yoke of the tyrant. In every position, he has proven himself a man worthy of all the honors that a grateful people can bestow upon him.

McKINLEY AND ROOSEVELT, our Comrades! We are confident they will have your sincere, earnest and enthusiastic support. Secure the help of others in this good work.

E730.R
#90
X-E738
.R4

Private WM. McKINLEY, Co. E, 23d Ohio Vol's.

NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS
OF THE # Veterans' Patriotic League.

Major-General DANIEL E. SICKLES, U. S. Army, New York, President
Major-Gen'l WILLIAM B. FRANKLIN, Hartford, Ct.
Major-Gen'l FRANZ SIGEL, New York.
Major-Gen'l JOHN M. THAYER, Lincoln, Neb.
Major THOMAS J. ANDERSON, Topeka, Kansas.
} Vice-Pres'ts.
General ST. CLAIR A. MULHOLLAND, Sec'y, P. O. Building, Phila.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

WILLIAM WARREN, Missouri.
IVAN N. WALKER, Indiana.
R. B. BROWN Ohio.
JOS. W. KAY, New York.
R. B. BEATH, Penna.
A. O. WEISSERT, Wisconsin.
O. H. COULTER, Kansas.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, Col. Rough Riders.

PHILADELPHIA, October 1st, 1900.

COMRADES:

Four year ago the Republican party nominated for the high office of President one of our comrades, a man who with us touched elbows and shared the dangers and privations of the greatest war the world has ever seen. For two years, with musket and knapsack, he was a Private in the 23d Regiment Ohio Volunteers, then, because of conspicuous bravery in action, he was promoted to Lieutenant, Captain and Brevet-Major, and for two more years honorably and faithfully served his country, not laying aside the uniform he had honored until the last shot of that titanic struggle was fired and the glorious morning of Appomatox marked the close of the war, and brought to the flag he had loved and defended a united country and peace. His comrades calling to mind the days of '61 to '65, the heroism and services of their comrade in the battles in which he participated and the eminent services he rendered to the Union cause, rallied to his support and organized in every State in the Union for the purpose of making him President, and on election day the Veterans of the Army and Navy of the Civil War marched to the polls and certainly 95 per cent. of survivors of the great war cast their votes in his favor.

In electing him to the august office of Chief Magistrate his comrades builded better than they knew. The four years of his term now drawing to a close will ever shine out as the most glorious pages of our country's history. Never have the achievements of our people shone with such undiminished splendor. Never has our country been so respected among the peoples and nations of the earth. Never in the history of the country have our own people been so prosperous and happy.

Again Comrade William McKinley, of the 23d Ohio Infantry, has been nominated for a second term of the office which he now so fully honors.

Exulting in the success and splendor of his first term, rejoicing in the happiness of all the people, his comrades of the Civil War will once more answer to the bugle call of duty, "form line," and present a solid front by casting their votes for their country's honor and four years more of prosperity and universal content.

But, Comrades, we must not stop at merely casting our own votes for the good cause. Let every one be earnest and active in securing the votes of his family and friends. The power and influence of the surviving veterans, if earnestly exerted, will make sure the result in every doubtful State. Let us fail not in our duty to our Comrade and our country.

Not only has the Republican party nominated a soldier for the Presidency but they have still further honored the defenders of their country by nominating the distinguished soldier, Theodore Roosevelt, for Vice-President—too young to participate with us in the glories of the Civil War, but who promptly volunteered when in 1898 another army was needed, and he there gained an enviable place in the hearts of his countrymen by helping to free Cuba from the yoke of the tyrant. In every position, he has proven himself a man worthy of all the honors that a grateful people can bestow upon him.

McKINLEY AND ROOSEVELT, our Comrades! We are confident they will have your sincere, earnest and enthusiastic support. Secure the help of others in this good work.

E 750.R
#91
R4

Private Wm. McKINLEY, Co. E. 23d Ohio Vol's.

NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS

OF THE

VETERANS

Patriotic League

Major-General DANIEL E. SICKLES, U. S. Army, New York, President
Colonel IVAN N. WALKER, Indianapolis, Vice-President.
Colonel ROBERT B. BEATH, Philadelphia, Vice-President.
Major-General ST. CLAIR A. MULHOLLAND, Secretary,
P. O. Building, Philadelphia.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, Col. Rough Riders.

E750.R

#92

X-E738
.R4

To the Veterans of New Jersey.

GREETING:

Camden, N. J., Oct. 3, 1900.

COMRADES:

While we who served in the Civil War for the unity of our country, and the honor of our flag, who followed the great leaders of the War, from its beginning to its end, who commenced on the Potomac and ended at Appomattox, and from down the valley of the Mississippi to the Gulf, including our gallant comrades in the Navy, who defended our coast line from the mouth of the Potomac to the Rio Grande, are daily growing fewer in numbers, there are still enough of us left to form a powerful contingent when fighting for what we consider a duty, in the performance of which we have the sympathy of the great mass of our fellow citizens.

The men who followed our flag in victory and defeat in the great armies of the Republic, until its supremacy was finally established by the surrender of Appomattox, are not now, after thirty-five years have elapsed, by any act of theirs, going to sustain any party, or any individuals, that are willing to haul down our flag while it is under fire. Our young men are fighting for its protection, and they should not alone have the good wishes of the Veterans, but every effort should be made to sustain them. The Stars and Stripes must not be trailed in the dust.

An era of prosperity has been brought about during the present Administration by the readoption of a wise tariff legislation, which has always been beneficial to the country, as it has protected the wages of the American laborer and artisan. Now, while we are in the midst of this situation of affairs, the Democratic Party proposes to elect a man who is a free trader, and the result of his election would, undoubtedly, lead to the same condition of affairs that existed while the Cleveland Administration was in power, and many of us think it would be very much worse. I do not think that the great mass of American people are willing to sacrifice happy homes for Soup Houses.

The next measure which we have to fear in the event of the success of Mr. Bryan, is the adoption of a debased currency. If there is anything in the country that a workingman, (and by that I mean everybody who earns his living by labor of any kind,) is entitled to, it is an honest dollar; one that has a purchasing power of one hundred cents, not fifty.

I appeal to you in confidence to sustain the government in its present juncture, to uphold the flag that our sons and brothers are fighting for, maintain the tariff, which has given us great prosperity and stand square for honest money.

All this will be accomplished by voting the Republican ticket this Fall.

W. J. SEWELL,
Late Maj. Genl. U. S. Vols.

E750.R

#93

X-E738
.R4

To the Veterans of New Jersey.

GREETING:

Camden, N. J., Oct. 3, 1900.

COMRADES:

While we who served in the Civil War for the unity of our country, and the honor of our flag, who followed the great leaders of the War, from its beginning to its end, who commenced on the Potomac and ended at Appomattox, and from down the valley of the Mississippi to the Gulf, including our gallant comrades in the Navy, who defended our coast line from the mouth of the Potomac to the Rio Grande, are daily growing fewer in numbers, there are still enough of us left to form a powerful contingent when fighting for what we consider a duty, in the performance of which we have the sympathy of the great mass of our fellow citizens.

The men who followed our flag in victory and defeat in the great armies of the Republic, until its supremacy was finally established by the surrender of Appomattox, are not now, after thirty-five years have elapsed, by any act of theirs, going to sustain any party, or any individuals, that are willing to haul down our flag while it is under fire. Our young men are fighting for its protection, and they should not alone have the good wishes of the Veterans, but every effort should be made to sustain them. The Stars and Stripes must not be trailed in the dust.

An era of prosperity has been brought about during the present Administration by the readoption of a wise tariff legislation, which has always been beneficial to the country, as it has protected the wages of the American laborer and artisan. Now, while we are in the midst of this situation of affairs, the Democratic Party proposes to elect a man who is a free trader, and the result of his election would, undoubtedly, lead to the same condition of affairs that existed while the Cleveland Administration was in power, and many of us think it would be very much worse. I do not think that the great mass of American people are willing to sacrifice happy homes for Soup Houses.

The next measure which we have to fear in the event of the success of Mr. Bryan, is the adoption of a debased currency. If there is anything in the country that a workingman, (and by that I mean everybody who earns his living by labor of any kind,) is entitled to, it is an honest dollar; one that has a purchasing power of one hundred cents, not fifty.

I appeal to you in confidence to sustain the government in its present juncture, to uphold the flag that our sons and brothers are fighting for, maintain the tariff, which has given us great prosperity and stand square for honest money.

All this will be accomplished by voting the Republican ticket this Fall.

W. J. SEWELL,
Late Maj. Genl. U. S. Vols.

E750.R

#94

TO THE

Veterans of New Jersey,

GREETING:

CAMDEN, October 3d, 1900.

COMRADES:—

While we, who served in the Civil War for the unity of our country and the honor of our flag, who followed the great leaders of the War, from its beginning to its end; who commenced on the Potomac and ended at Appomattox, and from down the valley of the Mississippi to the Gulf, including our gallant comrades in the Navy, who defended our coast line from the mouth of the Potomac to the Rio Grande, are daily growing fewer in numbers, there are still enough of us left to form a powerful contingent when fighting for what we consider a duty, in the performance of which we have the sympathy of the great mass of our fellow citizens.

The men who followed our flag in victory and defeat in the great armies of the Republic, until its supremacy was finally established by the surrender of Appomattox, are not now, after thirty-five years have elapsed, by any act of theirs, going to sustain any party or any individuals, that are willing to haul down our flag while it is under fire. Our young men are fighting for its protection, and they should not alone have the good wishes of the Veterans, but every effort should be made to sustain them. The Stars and Stripes must not be trailed in the dust.

An era of prosperity has been brought about during the present administration by the readoption of a wise tariff legislation, which has always been beneficial to the country, as it has protected the wages of the American laborer and artisan. Now, while we are in the midst of this situation of affairs, the Democratic Party proposes to elect a man, who is a free trader, and the result of his election would, undoubtedly, lead to the same condition of affairs that existed while the Cleveland Administration was in power, and many of us think it would be very much worse. I do not think that the great mass of American people are willing to sacrifice happy homes for soup houses.

The next measure which we have to fear in the event of the success of Mr. Bryan, is the adoption of a debased currency. If there is anything in the country that a working man, (and by that I mean everybody who earns his living by labor of any kind,) is entitled to, it is an honest dollar; one that has a purchasing power of one hundred cents, not fifty.

I appeal to you in confidence to sustain the government in its present juncture, to uphold the flag that our sons and brothers are fighting for, maintain the tariff, which has given us great prosperity, and stand square for honest money. All this will be accomplished by voting the Republican ticket this Fall.

W. J. SEWELL,

Late Major-General United States Volunteers.

E750.R
#95
X-E738
.R4

Private Wm. McKINLEY, Co. E. 23d Ohio Vol's.

ORGANIZE! ORGANIZE!

NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS OF THE VETERANS

Patriotic League

Major-General DANIEL E. SICKLES, U. S. Army, President.
Colonel IVAN N. WALKER, Indianapolis, Vice-President.
Colonel ROBERT B. BEATH, Philadelphia, Vice-President.
Major-General ST. CLAIR. A MULLHOLLAND, Secretary.
P. O. Building, Philadelphia.

Colonel, Rough Riders.

PHILADELPHIA, September, 1900.

TO VETERANS AND THEIR SONS:

COMRADES:—The following plan of organization is submitted as an aid to you in forming "Veterans Patriotic Leagues." The simpler the plan the better.

We will be pleased to have the names and addresses of the officers, so that we may send each copies of our literature.

PLAN OF ORGANIZATION.

ARTICLE I.

The name of this association shall be "The Veterans Patriotic League" of .....

..... in the State of .....

ARTICLE II.

The object of this League shall be to defend the Government of the United States against sectionalism, repudiation, and National dishonor, and to this end to labor for the re-election of Comrade WILLIAM MCKINLEY to the presidency of the United States.

ARTICLE III.

The officers of this League shall be a President, a Vice-President, a Secretary and a Treasurer, who shall be chosen to serve during the Campaign.

ARTICLE IV.

Any man who served in the Union Army or Navy during any of our wars and holds an honorable discharge, and the sons of men who so served, shall be eligible to membership in this League, and may become members by signing their names to this plan of organization.

ARTICLE V.

The meetings of the League shall be held at such times and places as may be fixed by a vote of the League. The President may call special meetings at any time.

ARTICLE VI.

This plan of organization may be amended at any regularly called meeting of the League, by a two-thirds vote of the members present and voting.

| SIGNATURES. | POST OFFICE ADDRESS. |
|---|---|
| | |

E750.R

#96

X-E738
.R4

HEADQUARTERS

VETERANS' PATRIOTIC LEAGUE

STATE OF NEW YORK.

375 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

GEO. W. BRUSH, President.
JOHN PALMER, 1st Vice-President.
WILLIAM J. HARDING, Secretary and Treasurer.
WALTER THORN, Corresponding Secretary.
HORATIO C. KING, Chairman Ex. Com.

October, 4, 1900.

Comrades:

Again we are called upon to fall in for duty on the picket line. A movement recently originated in Chicago, similar to that of four years ago, has developed into a national organization under the name of the Veterans' Patriotic League, with Genl. Daniel E. Sickles as its President, the headquarters being at Philadelphia. The design is to organize State and County Leagues among the Veterans with the object of aiding in the re-election of Comrade McKinley to the Presidency. Genl. Sickles has appointed the undersigned as President of the League in this State and associated with him prominent veterans throughout the State to fill the other offices. The Veterans in the various counties are requested to organize at once and communicate with these headquarters. Upon making their wants known they will be supplied with suitable literature and any other help that it is possible to give. The time is short, the need, urgent. Rally Comrades for Country and Flag; for honor and honesty in National affairs, and help roll up a rousing majority in this State for our Comrades of two wars, McKinley and Roosevelt.

Four years ago the veterans stood shoulder to shoulder as in 1861-5; party lines relaxed and patriotism placed above party. The questions to be settled were whether we would honestly meet our obligations, whether a nation could do that which we would call dishonest in an individual, and stand with name unsullied before the other nations of the earth and maintain our own self respect. We fought out that question, and we had hoped, settled it forever by electing one of our comrades as President. Since then new conditions have arisen. The war with Spain, the liberation of Cuba and the acquisition of Porto Rico and

E750.R

X-E738
.R4

#97

NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS

Veterans' Patriotic League,

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

October 1st, 1900.

My dear Comrade:

I ask you to consider and reflect upon the great interests involved in the present situation of our public affairs. I know you love your country. You have given to it the best proof of devotion man can give—you have defended it in battle.

Let me urge you and every veteran soldier and sailor to lay aside party feeling now and unite for National honor and for law and order, as you did in '61 to '65. The present crisis seems to me as vital to the welfare of the country, as that which called us to the field.

Some of the principles for which we then contended are again at stake. Many of us were obliged to choose between our country and our party in those days. I feel that this is a time when all true veterans should stand together, preferring their country, its honor, good faith and untarnished name above all mere partisan considerations.

Comrade McKinley has given us a splendid administration. When he entered office he found our people depressed and disheartened; labor was unemployed; confidence was paralyzed; business languished; our products had depreciated in value; our National credit was damaged. His administration has revived all our industries, restored confidence, increased the value of our principal products, and it has placed the credit of the country higher than ever before—higher indeed than that of any other country.

Comrade McKinley has successfully conducted a war for the deliverance of this continent from Spanish misrule; he has added to our National domain the rich islands of Hawaii and Porto Rico; he has raised the American Flag in the far East, opening up to our commerce and trade the rich markets of Asia; and he has given to our Republic a commanding position among the great powers of the world, so that the voice of America is now heard with deference and respect in all the councils of Europe.

Comrade McKinley has reconciled the North and South. We are all now loyal to one flag. Our superb opportunities of prosperity and growth are now equally shared by the whole country. We are closer together than ever before. To-day the Southern States all share in the marvellous expansion of our National resources. To-day the South and the North know each other better than ever before. We have all been taught the inestimable value of our union. We now understand how much each section of the Republic contributes to the prosperity of the other. The close of Comrade McKinley's administration marks the end of an era of strife between North and South. It inaugurates an epoch of reconciliation. The Potomac is no longer a boundary line between hostile sections of the Republic. It is bridged by the ties of fraternal love—it is spanned forever by the arch of allegiance to one flag.

In 1896 our united and fraternal voices placed Comrade McKinley in the Presidential chair. It is true that in that eventful canvass Mr. Bryan gained the suffrage of millions of voters. He will not get near as many now. Then the country was sick at heart. It had passed

E750.R

X-E738
.R4

#98

NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS

Veterans' Patriotic League,

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

October 1st, 1900.

My dear Comrade:

I ask you to consider and reflect upon the great interests involved in the present situation of our public affairs. I know you love your country. You have given to it the best proof of devotion man can give—you have defended it in battle.

Let me urge you and every veteran soldier and sailor to lay aside party feeling now and unite for National honor and for law and order, as you did in '61 to '65. The present crisis seems to me as vital to the welfare of the country, as that which called us to the field.

Some of the principles for which we then contended are again at stake. Many of us were obliged to choose between our country and our party in those days. I feel that this is a time when all true veterans should stand together, preferring their country, its honor, good faith and untarnished name above all mere partisan considerations.

Comrade McKinley has given us a splendid administration. When he entered office he found our people depressed and disheartened; labor was unemployed; confidence was paralyzed; business languished; our products had depreciaied in value; our National credit was damaged. His administration has revived all our industries, restored confidence, increased the value of our principal products, and it has placed the credit of the country higher than ever before—higher indeed than that of any other country.

Comrade McKinley has successfully conducted a war for the deliverance of this continent from Spanish misrule; he has added to our National domain the rich islands of Hawaii and Porto Rico; he has raised the American Flag in the far East, opening up to our commerce and trade the rich markets of Asia; and he has given to our Republic a commanding position among the great powers of the world, so that the voice of America is now heard with deference and respect in all the councils of Europe.

Comrade McKinley has reconciled the North and South. We are all now loyal to one flag. Our superb opportunities of prosperity and growth are now equally shared by the whole country. we are closer together than ever before. To-day the Southern States all share in the marvellous expansion of our National resources. To-day the South and the North know each other better than ever before. We have all been taught the inestimable value of our union. We now understand how much each section of the Republic contributes to the prosperity of the other. The close of Comrade McKinley's administration marks the end of an era of strife between North and South. It inaugurates an epoch of reconciliation. The Potomac is no longer a boundary line between hostile sections of the Republic. It is bridged by the ties of fraternal love—it is spanned forever by the arch of allegiance to one flag.

In 1896 our united and fraternal voices placed Comrade McKinley in the Presidential chair. It is true that in that eventful canvass Mr. Bryan gained the suffrage of millions of voters. He will not get near as many now. Then the country was sick at heart. It had passed

#99 .R4

Answer to Wm. R. Hearst's Editorial of Saturday,

October 20th, in The New York Journal, Chicago-American, and San Francisco Examiner.

"VERY POOR SPECIMEN OF A MAN."

---

NEW YORK, October 22, 1900.

William R. Hearst, Multi-Millionaire, Publisher of Three Yellow Journals, (The Yellow Journal Trust.)

On October 17th, I delivered an address at the Central Music Hall, Chicago, to workingmen of the Clothing, Cloak and kindred industries, on the present campaign from the standpoint of a businessman.

In this address I said the paramount issue in this campaign is the prosperity of the workingman.

I said that the interests of the businessman and the workingman are identical and cannot be separated. We cannot benefit the one without conferring a corresponding benefit on the other, nor can we injure the one without injuring the other.

I said, in advocating the workingman's welfare I have in mind my own welfare. I do not pose as a philanthropist. . . . I naturally favor the conditions that contribute toward a constant demand for labor at good wages, payable in the best money in the world.

I said that the election of William Jennings Bryan would put the country on a silver basis which would be ruinous to the business interests of this great industrial nation and therefore ruinous to the interests of the workingman.

I said that imperialism, militarism and government without the consent of the governed are sham issues of your candidate Bryan. He preaches them only in localities where he is afraid to preach free silver. He brings them before the people merely to catch votes.

I said that trusts are not the issue of this campaign because Mr. Bryan offers no practical remedy against them. The only remedy he suggested would destroy nearly all the industries of America and that the Republican party is the only party which passed a law against monopolies—the Sherman anti-trnst law.

I said that Mr. Bryan has nothing to recommend him except his skill in prophesying evil and making promises that can never be fulfilled.

I said that Mr. Bryan would be a dangerous man to occupy the Presidential office and he would be a disgrace to the American people.

I said many other things which convinced my hearers, except the Democrats who came to disturh the meeting, that their interests are best served in voting for that dignified, manly and conservative statesman and patriot William McKinley.

In your issue of Saturday, October 20th of the New York Evening Journal, the Chicago-American and San Francisco Examiner you make a vicious attack on my manhood because I dared to tell plain truths that are hnrtful to your candidate.

You said that in talking politics I hurt the cause of my race. Because I expressed my views fearlessly on public questions of great moment you see fresh onthursts for race prejudice.

Mr. Hearst, I am of the Caucasian race and most of the citizens who share my views on the questions of this campaign are of the same race.

Mr. Hearst, instead of answering my arguments in a manly, honorable and sensible manner yon drag into the question my religion—you bring into it the Jew. That this is contemptible, cowardly and un-American I leave to the judgment of my fellow-citizens, whether Jews, Catholics or Protestants; Democrats or Repnblicans.

Mr. Hearst, you have wantonly, maliciously and with shameless mendacity perverted the meaning of my language, which was plain English and easily understood by any honest American citizen.

I was interrnpted by a person in the audience who announced that he was making only seven dollars a week. I replied "If you make only seven dollars a week it is probably because you are not worth any more."

Mr. Hearst, your mendacious scrihbler knows very well that the expression "you are worth" as employed in this connection means "yonr services are worth." Your scrihhler is a willing disciple of Bryan, whose favorite expression "putting the dollar before the man" delights his followers who do not understand what he means.

Mr. Hearst, I am not ashamed to state that in the vast majority of cases the value of a man's services is measured by the amount of wages he earns and receives.

I am well aware of the fact that there have been men who have never earned seven dollars a week, whose service to humanity has been of incalculable value. These men, however, have nothing to do with the case. If any of them should come back to earth and should get employment as compositor or reporter for your Yellow Journals, he would no doubt, have to content himself with wages at the lowest market rate.

X-E748.R4 #100

Mr. Hearst, I admit that I told my hearers that the real issue of this campaign is self.

Mr. Hearst, your statement to the contrary notwithstanding, self was the motive of the struggle that resulted in the independence of the colonies. George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Samuel Adams, Benjamin Franklin, all the leaders and all the rank and file of the Revolutionary army were actuated by selfish considerations when they resisted the intolerable oppressions of Great Britain.

Mr. Hearst, the proximate cause of the Revolution was pounds and pence—the duty on tea—the stamp act and "taxation without representation."

The passion for liberty was an effect, resulting from the struggle for justice. Had the British made certain concessions chiefly of pecuniary nature the Revolutionary war would never have been fought.

Mr. Hearst, it was self that inspired the immortal Declaration of Independence, which was adopted reluctantly and not without opposition. It was self that led Patrick Henry to exclaim "give me liberty or give me death." He did not say "give some other fellow liberty or give me death" as the Democrats would have us now believe."

Mr. Hearst, it was self that nerved your father in his early struggles and spurred him on to greater efforts, enabling him to amass a fortune of many millions, which you are now squandering on your three Yellow Journals through which you promote vice, incite riot and appeal to the worst passions of the masses.

Mr. Hearst, it is self that impels you to spend the millions which your father earned and left you, on these three Yellow Journals which form a Yellow Journal trust from New York to San Francisco, with a way station in Chicago and through which you are buying notoriety and speculating on some high political office, while you denounce me as "a very poor specimen of a man" because I advocate conditions which will enable me to keep on working for the money I get.

Mr. Hearst, it is self that lends wings to the aspirations of a certain William Jennings Bryan.

Mr. Hearst, you ask the workingman that he renounce self and sacrifice his happiness and the welfare of his wife and children upon the altar of the Democratic Moloch.

I, a self-respecting merchant, a man engaged in a better pursuit than dissipating inherited millions, protest against it.

Mr. Hearst, I say it again and again, let the workingman look out for himself. The nation's strength and greatness are rooted in his prosperity. Let him protect his own welfare. The rest will take care of itself.

Mr. Bryan does not deny in public speech that the prosperity of the workingman is the vital issue of this campaign,

Mr. Bryan dare not deny that the essential conditions of that prosperity are a steady demand for labor and wages paid in honest money.

He dare not deny that it should be the workingman's first care as it is his duty to secure the welfare and happiness of himself and family.

He has no answer to make to the argument presented by me at the Central Music Hall meeting in Chicago, so his Yellow Journals try to break the force of that argument by insulting my religion.

Mr. Hearst, you asked me some questions which unlike you and your candidate Bryan I shall answer in a direct manner and without evasion.

I employ very few men and women at seven dollars a week, the majority of my cloak-makers of both sexes earn from $1.50 to $3.50 a day of nine hours.

So far as I know no "human beings" make cloaks for me at wages barely permitting them to live.

No person who works for me has been selected because he is a newly arrived immigrant. I pay all workers alike, by the piece, and I ask no questions about nationality, religion or race when I engage their services.

The men in my employ may vote as they please. If they consult their own welfare they will vote for President McKinley.

With four years more of Republican prosperity, the demand for cloakmakers will naturally cause an increase in the price of their labor.

With four years of Bryan, half my workingmen will be out of employment and the other half will be glad to work at reduced wages.

If Mr. Bryan should be elected, your Yellow Journals would console the starving workingman by telling him about the great benefactors who lived on fifteen cents a day.

Whether I shall raise my workingmen voluntarily if Mr. McKinley is elected will be determined by the good old law of "supply and demand" which Mr. Bryan with his ignorance of all laws of economic science, tries to supplant with foolish and dangerous teachings of his own invention.

Mr. Hearst when you write again discuss the points I make and answer my arguments without evasion or equivocation.

JOSEPH BEIFELD,
Manufacturer and Merchant,
266 Franklin Street,
Chicago, Ills.

New York Office,
715 Broadway.

Copies of my Central Music Hall address may be had at my Chicago or New York offices. Like the Chicago-American they are given away to those who are willing to read them.

E738
.R4

An Opportunity Offered Mr. Bryan to Defend His Coinage Theories.

#101

A SERIES OF INTERESTING QUESTIONS SUBMITTED TO THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL COMMITTEE.

Campaign Fund to Receive Donation of $1,000 if Mr. Bryan Answers the Questions.

NEW YORK CITY, October 8th, 1900.

HON. JAMES K. JONES, Chairman,
HON. WILLIAM J. STONE, Vice-Chairman, and
HON. J. D. RICHARDSON, of the Democratic National Committee, Headquarters Hoffman House, New York City.

GENTLEMEN: Your presence here at this time is said to be for the purpose of carrying the State of New York in this campaign for Bryan and Stevenson, the nominees of the Kansas City Convention.

As is well known, New York is a pivotal State in a Presidential contest. It is also, under some conditions, a Democratic State. In order to carry it, however, it will be absolutely necessary that the ticket receive the entire party vote.

The platform this year is identically that of 1896, the same having been reaffirmed, with something more added. The party standard bearer is the same also. Mr. Bryan was defeated in 1896, so far as this State is concerned, on the issues then presented by the enormous and unparalleled majority of 268,469 against him. More than 100,000 conscientious and self-respecting Democrats must have voted for his opponent, Mr. McKinley.

It would seem clear, therefore, that unless those Democrats who abandoned Mr. Bryan in 1896 can be induced to change their minds and give him their support at the coming election, he cannot carry this State. But will they do it? My own judgment is that they would gladly do so if they could but feel convinced that the election of Mr. Bryan upon the platform he now stands upon would be to their own material welfare and to the best interests of the country. In fact, I think from their early education and from force of habit they would readily return if they felt reasonably assured that the country would remain in its present prosperous condition.

While I cannot speak authoritatively for any one but myself, yet I feel confident that more than a million voters of this country, who prior to 1896 were Democrats, will again vote against Mr. Bryan, unless he can show in some way that his financial views and pledges, if carried out, will not prove disastrous to the business interests of the country, and especially ruinous to the laboring men by reason of a lessened demand for employment and a radical reduction in the purchasing power of the dollar which measures their wages.

I have been a Democrat all my life, as my father was before me. I never voted a Republican ticket, but it is my present intention to do so at the coming election.

I did not give my support to Mr. Bryan in 1896, but [illegible] his Democracy on the question of coinage.

If Mr. Bryan's cause is a good one it will bear discussion and investigation. I should like once at least to hear him discuss the silver question. Although I heard him speak several times in 1896 and since, and although I have read all of his published speeches, I have never known of his discussing the money question. This may seem paradoxical, yet it is nevertheless true. I do not say that I have not heard him proclaim that he favored bimetallism, and that the gold standard was a bad thing, and that he is going to get rid of it if elected; but I feel very certain that the free coinage of silver at the false ratio of sixteen ounces of silver to one ounce of gold does not mean bimetallism, as he imagines it does, but, on the contrary, silver monometallism and a great contraction of the currency, with all its attending evils.

Mr. Bryan, I am informed, will be in this city October 16th to address, at Madison Square Garden, what promises to be a large meeting of voters. As contributions have been called for by your committee, I hereby offer to pay, or cause to be paid, to the treasurer of your committee the sum of $1,000 in gold coin upon the following [illegible]ditions:

That Mr. Bryan will, in his first public speech in this city, make answer to each one [illegible] the questions which I have prepared, and which I herewith submit to your committee in order that the same may be f[illegible]arded to him, so as to allow ample time for his careful consideration; or, if he should prefer to answer them in writing ra[illegible]r than from the platform, he may do so provided that I shall have received from you in this city a copy of his replies to [illegible] said questions on or before October 20th, 1900.

The answers to be made severally and in the order in which the questions are stated, a[illegible] all I ask is that they be made fully, fairly, and comprehensively, and in such a way as to comply with the spirit and intent of the interrogatories. As to whether or not there shall have been a compliance on the part of Mr. Bryan with the conditions named in regard to the answers, I shall leave to the decision of a committee composed of any five reputable New York business men to be appointed by yourselves. Immediately upon receiving written notice of your acceptance of this offer, the money will be deposited in any bank you may designate, the same to be paid upon compliance with the foregoing.

Yours very truly,
JAMES J. RUSSELL,
1123 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan.

THE QUESTIONS ARE AS FOLLOWS:

HON. WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN,
Presidential Candidate.

DEAR SIR:

Q. 1. You are quoted as having said at Zanesville, Ohio, September 4th, 1900, that "the party stands where it did in 1896 on the money question." Is this correct?

Q. 2. You are quoted also as having said at Knoxville, Tenn., September 10th, 1896, "If there is any one who believes the gold standard is a good thing, or that it must be maintained, I warn him not to vote for me, because I promise him that it will not be maintained in this country longer than I am able to get rid of it." Did you make this statement? If not, what do you now say as to your intention to get rid of the gold standard, if elected?

Q. 3. In your letter of acceptance in 1900 you say: "In order that there may be no uncertainty as to the method of restoring bimetallism, the specific declaration in favor of free and unlimited coinage at the existing ratio of 16 to 1, independent of the action of any other nation, is repeated. It [the Democratic Party] is not willing that other nations

SD.R #102 X-E738 .R4

The Governor of the State of New York

WELCOMED TO BUFFALO.

HON. WM. H. DANIELS, OUR NEXT COUNTY TREASURER, WELCOMES THE GOVERNOR TO THE CITY OF BUFFALO.

Three Cheers for the Republican Ticket!

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1900.

WILLIAM McKINLEY,
For President United States.

WILLIAM H. DANIELS,
Republican Candidate for County Treasurer.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT,
For Vice-President United States.

BUFFALO, Oct. 31, 1900.

MY DEAR GOVERNOR:

Citizens of Buffalo, regardless of their condition, poor or rich alike, welcome you to our city. From the beginning you were my choice for President, but since the Republican party in its wisdom has chosen William McKinley for its standard bearer, I, like a good Republican, bow to its will. But I am solaced, however, in the fact that you are nominated to the honorable and responsible position of Vice-President of the United States. The presiding officer of the United States Senate wields a greater power than any other officer presiding over a deliberate body in the world. We honor you both as a soldier and a hero, and respect you as one of the greatest Governors the State of New York has ever had; and the Irish race know that in you they have a friend who is with them heart and soul, and wherever the American flag waves you will protect it.

We know that your heart and soul were for the Boer Republic in their late struggle for independence.

We look to you as the deliverer of Ireland from the oppressions of the ungodly Tory government of England.

It is my hope and expectation that four years from now you will be the next candidate for President of the United States, and that during your administration, Ireland will take her place among the nations of the earth, and the epitaph of Robert Emmet will be written.

I see in the dim future the American flag carried by you at the head of the American troops, and raised over the House of Parliament at Dublin, and the victory of San Juan Hill repeated by you in Ireland.

We heartly welcome you as Governor of our State to the City of Buffalo, and we will give you the biggest majority any man ever received in Erie County.

The following named persons, citizens of Buffalo join me in welcoming you to Buffalo:

REV. PATRICK CRONIN, LL. D.
Christian Klinck, Pres. Board of Councilmen,
F. W. Heerwagen, Pres. Board of Aldermen,
Population City of Buffalo, 352,000, welcome our Governor to the City, the next Vice-President of the United States of America.
Reinicke & Zesch, Props. Buffalo Freie Press.
Chas. F. Kingsley, Prop. The Buffalo Review, the Official Chas. H. Webster, Paper of the City of Buffalo.
Hon. Charles A. Orr, Pension Agent,
Hon. Thomas Penney, District Attorney,
Geo. N. Matthews, Buffalo Express,
Hon. Edward C. Shafer, Ex-Comptroller,
Hon. Jas. O. Putman, Ex-Ambassador to France.
Hon. Harvey J. Hard,
Hon. George Bingham, Ex-County Clerk,
Hon. John N. Scatchard,
Hon. Chas. A. Pooley,
Hon. Ganson Dawes,
Senator Daniel H. McMillan,
Congressman Rowland B. Mahany,
" D. S. Alexander,
" John B. Weber,
Congressman John M. Farquahar,
Senator George A. Davis,
" Charles Lamy,
" Henry W. Hill,
City Treasurer, Hon. Philip Gerst,
County Treasurer, Hon. Wadsworth Zittel,
County Judge, Hon. Edward K. Emery,
Police Justice, Hon. Thomas Murphy,
Hon. John L. Crouin, our next Assemblyman for the 1st Assembly District,
Hon. Henry W. Brandel, Collector Customs Port of Buffalo,
Dr. Sam'l G. Dorr, Postmaster City of Buffalo,
Hon. Wm. H. Daniels, next County Treasurer,
Hon. Jas. A. Roberts, Ex-Comptroller State of New York.
John B. Price, next County Clerk,
Hon. Chas. H. Brown, U. S. Dist. Attorney,
Hon. Donald Bain, Ass't Dist. Attorney,
Hon. John R. Hazel, U. S. Dist. Judge,
Hon. Daniel J. Kenefick, Jus. Supreme Court,
Hon. Warren B. Hooker, Jus. Supreme Court,
Hon. Wm. McIntosh, Mgr. Buff. Ev'ng News.
Wm. Warren, Editor and Proprietor Buffalo Commercial & Advertiser,
Henry P. Emerson, Supt. of Education,
Alphonse J. Meyer, Ex-City Treasurer,
Dr. Joseph Fowler, M. D.
Dr. J. J. Welsh, M. D.
Hon. Frank Fordham, Brockport, N. Y.
Fred. O. Murray, Deputy County Treasurer.

Yours by the Grace of God, free and independent, loving Universal Liberty and Freedom, and Home Rule for Ireland.

EXILE JOHN J. McBRIDE.

My Motto: One God, One Flag, One Country and One William McKinley!

Do not forget our next County Treasurer, Wm. H. Daniels. Irishmen remember him on election day. No. 15 under the American Eagle.

GOD SAVE IRELAND!

THREE CHEERS FOR PAUL KRUGER AND MICHAEL DAVITT

AND ALL THE IRISH NATIONALIST HOME RULERS!

E750.R
X E738
.R4

D

FOR USE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 10

CHICAGO LETTER.

(Special.)

Chicago, Oct. —.—The fact that it is difficult ever to go to a big Bryan demonstration without getting into some pretty tough surroundings was made uncomfortably manifest to the respectable element among the crowd which went to to hear Bourke Cochran speak at the Coliseum here on Saturday evening.

At the Auditorium meeting four years ago there was an immense crowd to hear him, with thousands unable to get in. It was not, however, a window-smashing nor woman-crushing crowd. Those present appeared to follow the speech with perfect intelligence, and the arguments delivered were wondrously effective in working up enthusiasm to a high-keyed pitch. In contrast with this meeting the assemblage of last Saturday night was motley in its appearance, and it was manifestly inappreciative of Mr. Cochran's finest and most subtle argumentative work, and of his grandest climaxes, except when they were especially emphasized with great vehemence of his voice.

The most real enthusiasm displayed by this Coliseum audience was over the speaker's remark that while he opposed expansion over the Philippines, he would not oppose expansion over Canada. A large section of the audience was in a thoroughly militant mood, and the suggestion of a great fight with England, to get Canada, brought out tremendous cheering, notwithstanding that the Democratic party is ostensibly against "militarism," and that Bryan poses as a man of peace. In an undertone, after the cheering had subsided, Mr. Cochran put in a modifying "with Canada's consent." Either the audience did not hear this, or else it disliked the modification, for there was not a further cheer.

Those who were present when Mr. Cochran talked for the trusts at the Central Music Hall a year ago will remember how the most interesting bit in that was the likening of orators like himself and Mr. Bryan to "monopolies established by pre-eminence of merit." He said: "Must the leading orator reduce the splendor of his perlods lest he outshine duller speakers? If we are to suppress monopoly resulting on excellence, we must begin by suppressing the excellence which establishes it, and this would be to arrest all human development." Since hearing that speech your correspondent has never been able to hear or read a speech of either Cochran's or Bryan's without giving vent to materialistic thoughts as to what the special price of oratorical "monopoly" on this or that occasion might happen to be. We know how Cochran, because he has a "monopoly" of oratorical excellence, sticks the national Democratic committee for a private car to travel in, though Boss Croker thinks he ought to be transported as freight. We know how towns that do not pay campaign assessments cannot hear Bryan speak. The actual money, however, made by such oratorical "monopolies" must remain as secret from the public as are the bonuses that go to promoters of industrial trusts.

At the pro-Boer meeting in Washington, Cochran made the poorest speech your correspondent had heard him make. It was evident that he had prepared it with careless indifference. But who was he retained by? was what I wondered. After Cochran's speech, Congressman Sulzer, who presided, turned the meeting into a Methodist revival kind of an affair for raising money for the orphans and widows of Boers slain in the war. I watched Cochran's face keenly during Sulzer's plaintive exhortations for liberal contributions. It seemed to me he was trying to size up the audience for what it was financially worth—whether it would

E

FOR USE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 10

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(Special Correspondence.)

Washington, Oct. —.—From the Washington point of view, everything has been looking very much more encouraging for the Republican party the last week than at any time during the campaign. The hard work that the Republicans have been doing is telling in every direction. In the East the states which the Democrats say are doubtful, and which they think they can carry, and must carry, in order to win, are New York, Maryland, West Virginia and Delaware. We will probably hear of them claiming Connecticut and New Jersey, but very few have had the nerve to make any such assertion. In all of the Eastern states many things have been looking up very much for the Republicans. West Virginia and Delaware are sure to vote the Republican ticket. There is no question about New York. Maryland is in doubt, but the apathy of the Republicans has disappeared, and the business men and laboring men have begun to see that their interests may be imperiled by the election of Bryan, and they are coming out strongly in favor of McKinley and prosperity.

Croker is still claiming the election of Bryan and also that he will carry New York for the Nebraska man. As a matter of fact, Croker has no judgment in national politics whatever. There was a time when he was well versed regarding affairs in New York city, and probably now knows a great deal about them. In the days when he knew the most, however, he got into difficulties among the people and found out what they were thinking about. Not only a very few people approach Croker, and they nearly all tell him what he wants, because he hates to listen to anything disagreeable. In this he has assumed an imperial position, and nothing but what is pleasant can be heard in imperial Tammany of the New York Democracy. As a matter of fact, Croker's judgment is bad. It was bad at Kansas City, it is bad now. He simply does not know the situation. Nobody believes in the genuineness of the alleged heats that he has made. They are probably what is known as "wash" heats. Senator Platt was over here in Washington the other day, and he cheered up the Republicans a great deal by showing conclusively that New York was safe. At the same time there should be no lack of interest by the business men, the merchants, the manufacturers, or laboring men, because over-confidence might mean disaster, and the full Republican vote is necessary to stamp out the last vestige of Bryanism in this country.

There seems to be no doubt about McKinley's election. There seems to be some doubt about the next House of Representatives. It is pointed out, however, that the Presidency has always carried the House, except in the election of 1876, when Hayes had a majority of one in the Electoral College, while Tilden had a very large plurality of the popular vote. Of course, the House might be carried along with the Presidency if the trend towards Republicanism is very large. But a great many Republicans may send Democratic Congressmen, although voting the Republican ticket. The South, of course, is a handicap of 114 votes to start with, and the Democrats can carry only eighty-two Northern districts, East and West, to secure the House. If any of the big states are in all close on the Presidential ticket, it would not be surprising to see that number of Democrats elected in Northern states. Still the House is not lost, and it must be fought for.

We have been hearing a great deal from

F

FOR USE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 10

"DEAR BOY" LETTERS. No. 9.

My Dear Boy:

You say that you are tired of working for old man Skinner, and are thinking of going West this fall, where wages are higher. You ask what I think about it.

Well, I have no objection to your going West, but I don't want you to go till after the election. This is the first time in your life that you ever had an opportunity to exercise your right as an American citizen in voting for a President of the United States. I don't want you to lose your vote for the following reasons:

1. The only possible chance of the election of Bryan comes from the over-confidence of Republicans. It makes me sad to hear a man say, "Oh, McKinley is going to be elected, anyhow. There is no danger. I have arrangements made to be in California in November, but you won't need my vote."

Especially do I regret to hear talk of this kind among some of the railroad men. If any class of men ought to come up unanimously to the support of McKinley and the Republican party, that class is composed of the railroad men of this country. Four years ago there were thousands of cars sidetracked, no building and but little repairing going on, and general stagnation in the railroad business. Now new roads, new roadbeds, new cars, the roads crowded with trains, full time and better pay bless the railroad men of this country. And it vexes me to hear a railroad man say, "I would have to lay off a day to vote, and I guess I'll not do that. There will be plenty to elect McKinley without me." Well, if by any possibility McKinley should be defeated, just such men as that will have themselves to blame.

2. No American voter has any right to stay away from the polls or to lose his vote if it can possibly be avoided.

My son, you are one of the sovereigns of the United States, and you have no more right to neglect the duties pertaining to your high calling than the Emperor of Germany has to neglect the government of that nation. Voting for office is a matter of inestimable privilege, and also a matter of earnest, conscientious duty.

Two years ago you enlisted to fight for your country as a soldier, but the surgeon turned you down and would not let you go. I sympathized with you in the bitterness of your disappointment. I knew that love of country led you to enlist, and I was proud because you wanted to go. And I think that the surgeon was a little over-particular. You would make a good soldier. But I want you to realize that you serve your country as truly when you cast an honest ballot as if you were a soldier in the field. Perhaps you can do more good with the ballot than you could with the gun. Your country did not seem to need you as a soldier, but your country does need you in the realm of citizenship.

3. No matter how long you may live, you will never have an opportunity to vote for better men than this year. We have a magnificent ticket. McKinley and Roosevelt! What a superb combination! They are both statesmen and both heroes, one of the great civil war and one of the war for the deliverance of Cuba. McKinley, kind, honest, thoughtful, calm, kind and faithful; Roosevelt, impetuous but efficient, brave and dashing, with both moral and physical courage. Was there ever a better ticket or one which more thoroughly commands the respect, the confidence and the affection of the American people?

If you don't stay and vote you will be sorry for it twenty years from now. Make some sacrifice for your country's sake. Oh, my boy, you must not go until the election is over. And when in November the ballots fall

DITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

ryan insists upon managing his own
. After the election Chairman Jones iliate by insisting that the Nebraska
s die his own hospital nursing.

on Dick Croker has picked up the floor
Hon. D. B. Hill and thrown him over s in the name of harmony.

he flag flying.

not walls, make a city" is a most ap-
: inscription for the medal with which of Pekin is to be commemorated. It ly suggestive of a "progress, not walls, ation" maxim for the Republican committee.

was no candidate against the Hon. Ben in the South Carolina Senatorial prit, out of 83,000 ballots cast, the name of quash pitchforker was scratched from 000 of them. Mr. Bryan's confidential nd balance wheel appears to be losing ong his fellow citizens.

er to maintain a semblance of consist-Bryan is now compelled to admit that nsincere when he advised the ratification rin treaty.

limpson will give the Kansas people one portunity to send him to Congress. The with Jerry is that he and the good times ch had been year.

ryan should write a letter of acceptance ilipino junta.

ryan can at least be credited with can-se of his statements. While lecturing at ne May 20th, 1899, he said:

n the votes were counted I found I had nearly every state in which I did not ed had lost nearly every state in which ak."

o be hoped he will speak in every state ch he has been year.

o Lewis is preparing a campaign oration.
ille Banner.

ll the peaks of the Rockies are prepar-nfis for themselves, and all the impro-le pieces of water in the State of Wash-le preparing to boil.—New York Sun.

earners, don't forget that Bryan is for ple, so as to give your work to the cheap of Europe.

s this one, Mr. Bryan: If a Democrat a trust is a good thing, ask him why socratic platform denounces the trust.
emocrat says the trust is a bad thing, why Chairman Jones, who is managing ran's campaign, is one of the leading ries of the round bale trust.

emocratic newspapers are now engaged g fault on account of the old Democrat attention given our soldiers in the Philip-
We fancy this will not be a very et-ote-maker.

he mills open.

e the efforts of Mr. Bryan and his po-associates to embarrass the government ng men of the country continue to volo uphold its honor. And they are of the will not retire and go into politics when a chance for them to face the enemy.

must stop borrowing money in Europe."
Mr. Bryan in 1896. He was right, s been a change from a Democratic to a can administration and we are now enloaning money—gold—to European nath good credit.

years ago the Democratic standard-aid the gold Democrats should get out party. This year he says they should ck. Is Mr. Bryan to destroy all of his larations?

New York Herald affects surprise because ran declines to answer some pertinent s on the financial question. Mr. Bryan since been made to understand the ba-he interrogation point and the surprise e if he should attempt anything outside rich phrase.

arty (Democratic) stands where it did on the Money Question.—Wm. J. Zanesville, O., Sept. 4, 1900.

not share in the apprehension left by s to the danger of government being d or destroyed by reason of their extenterritory.—Ulysses S. Grant.

ler to test the assertion "that 75 per cent ing Democrats are for Bryan" Mr. Cra-ll ... Brownell Hardware Co of Bath

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Judge John J. Hunt, one of Georgia's foremost and lifelong Democrats, has written a letter to the Atlanta Constitution in which he repudiates Mr. Bryan's views of the Philippine question. This thing of standing up for the country has ceased to be sectional.

Hon. Thomas C. Crenshaw, father of the brave Georgia captain who died from the effects of a Filipino bullet, has written a patriotic letter to the War Department, in which he speaks of the satisfaction it gives him to know that his son died while defending the honor of his country. The spirit of one Crenshaw is worth all the George Fred Williamses combined.

It is always fair to judge a candidate for office by the predictions he makes. Why should the friends of Mr. Bryan show so much feeling in protesting against this test?

Keep the flag flying.

The Democratic leaders feel that their cause would be improved by a strike of the coal miners. The Democratic party is the only political organization that has profited by labor disturbances.

American coal is also going abroad in large quantities. These be sad days for the Democratic campaign orators.

It would seem that the Boers are no longer relying upon the Hon. Webster Davis.

Mr. Altgeld's aspiration to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States may as well be placed on a cake of Tammany trust ice.

The misquotations of the Democratic leaders are numerous enough to make Lincoln and Jefferson turn in their graves.

According to Mr. Gorman's logic Mr. Bryan deprived himself of the right to oppose expansion when he supported the ratification of the Paris treaty. And Mr. Gorman is somewhat of a logician.

Notwithstanding the efforts of David B. Hill to the contrary Mr. Croker continues to run the Tammany toll gate.

The Hon. William C. Whitney is another distinguished Democrat who is devoting his entire time and attention to the horse racing business.

Keep the mills open.

No doubt Mr. Bryan will receive the votes of the idle this year. People who don't like to work will take kindly to the Democratic nominee's ideas.

The Hon. Adlai E. Stevenson speaks of the Boers as "our allies in a foreign country." How about the Kansas City platform which declares against all foreign alliances?

The Populist candidate for Governor of Texas has withdrawn from the ticket and written a letter in which he emphatically denounces the Democratic party for its inconsistency. At Bryan's statement that the Republican party will destroy the Republican form of government he is particularly scathing, saying the Democrats are the only organized party that ever deliberately shot to death the American flag; that ever disfranchised citizens by millions; that enslaved its free born; forced the war with Spain; that ever obstructed the appropriations to pay for it; it voted to ratify the treaty with Spain and paid $20,000,000 for the Philippines, and has ever since been clamoring to turn them loose and shake the responsibility. As a former Democrat, the Hon. Jerome C. Kearby has drawn a severe but truthful indictment against the Democratic repudiators.

Cotton Prices Stokes, and to be worth $20,000,000, has come out for Bryan. All the millionaires still cling to the Democratic ranks.

Professor Wilson, of Free Trade Tariff fame, supports Bryan because the latter is also a Free Trader. We had thought Wilson was dead, but recollect that it was his Tariff law that the people killed.

The Party (Democratic) stands where it did in 1896 on the Money Question.—Wm. J. Bryan, Zanesville, O., Sept. 4, 1900.

Farmers, don't forget that Bryan is for free wool.

How easy it is for the Democratic candidate to do things—on his mind.

When it is all over, they can blame it on Uncle Adlai Stevenson.

It may at least console Mr. Bryan to know that, in case President McKinley is re-elected, times will be good for four years more and he can add still further to his pile.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, Sept. —(Special.)—Washington generally is very much gratified at the report that John J. Lentz, representing the 12th Ohio District, is not likely to be renominated. The members of the House, almost without regard to party, will be glad to learn that this agitator has been defeated. He did more harm to the Democratic party in the House during the last session by his vicious attacks upon President McKinley and by his erratic manner of conducting the prosecution in the Coeur d'Alene investigation than can easily be repaired. Simply because the House would not print the enormous mass of testimony taken before the Coeur d'Alene investigation committee, Lentz blocked every bit of business in the House in the closing days of the session. Many men, both Republicans and Democrats, desired to pass bills to which there was no objection, but he would not allow them to be considered, and the result was that many a member of Congress went home disappointed, and had to explain to his constituents, who were likewise disappointed, that the failure to pass certain bills was due to the Democrat, Lentz, of Ohio.

A recent issue of the Shanghai Mercury, one of the leading papers published in English at that point, calls attention to the excellent services rendered by United States Consul General John Goodnow, and says he is deserving of the highest praise for the manner in which he has conducted delicate affairs entrusted to him, not only by the United States government, but by the Chinese authorities on one side, and the powers represented by other consuls on the other. He has been a peacemaker all the time, and has been very successful in avoiding difficulties. Goodnow is one of the thousands of good appointments that President McKinley has made. It is a great credit to our public service that there have developed at every point where an emergency arose good men whom President McKinley had selected to carry on our affairs, whether at home or abroad.

If Bryan is not making any better impression in the West than his printed speeches are in the East, he had better quit talking. The general comment one hears about his efforts is that they are worthy only of a cheap demagogue, and that Bryan has degenerated into a third-rate stump speaker. The paltry trash that he has been turning out evidently shows how hard Bryan finds the effort to talk "imperialism" when his ideas have been trained to free coinage of silver at 16 to 1. Speaking of 16 to 1 calls to mind the fact that Secretary Gage has punctured a Bryan demagogic utterance. Bryan says the government is coining every day silver dollars at 16 to 1 leaving his hearers under the impression that present administration endorses one of the that which he (Bryan) stands for. Now the government is coining the silver bullion at a seigniorage the silver-purchase law, and coining it, direction of Congress, into dollars which the government can float at a profit because they can be under the gold standard, exchanged for gold. But there is a vast difference between coining silver at a profit and the free and unlimited coinage of silver which Bryan wants so badly, and which the country has not.

Charley Towne vs. Theodore Roosevelt seems to be one of the issues joined for the campaign. That being the case a little comparison of the two men will not be uninteresting.

Roosevelt is a man who has accomplished something. Roosevelt was a young man when he became a member of the New York legislature. He made his name known throughout the length and breadth of the land by his manfull advocacy of honesty in legislative affairs. He has twice been a delegate to Republican national conventions. He has been a member of the Civil Service Commission, Police Commissioner of New York City, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Lieutenant Colonel, and Colonel of the First United States Volunteer Cavalry (the Rough Riders) and participated in the war with Spain, in which he distinguished himself. He has been Governor of the largest State in the Union and administered its affairs with great satisfaction. He is an author, besides his name is author of books, all of which have added to the literature of the world. He has traveled extensively in the West and is thoroughly acquainted with all phases of the country, its people and conditions.

Charley Towne first came to the surface in Minnesota about eight years ago. He had a good presence, a sonorous voice and was a good talker. The people of Minnesota, especially the Republicans, anxious to encourage promising young men, sent him to Congress from the Duluth district. This made Towne fairly swelled his head to enormous proportions. He believed himself the leader of the State. Without knowing anything of the subject he took up Finance. Captured by the phrase "free and unlimited coinage of silver," he followed it and went off at a tangent. Earnest and intelligent Republican leaders like the late Nelson Dingley of Maine, Serene Payne of New York, Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois, General Grosvenor of Ohio and others, labored with him in vain to convince him

X-E738
#105 B .R4

FOR USE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 10

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

A Western judge who has evidently been carried away with Mr. Bryan's system of seeing wrong in everything has declared that a labor union is a trust.

Fly the Flag.

The Democratic abuse of Governor Roosevelt indicates quite clearly that his tour of the West has been a vote-making affair.

"I want you to come out in force," announced Governor Beckham to a Kentucky audience the other day, "so as to overcome the Republican majority of last year." A slip of the tongue by a slip of a Governor is at times quite embarrassing.

Boss Croker is supporting Mr. Bryan, but at the same time he is engaged in nominating gold-standard Democrats for Congress. The boss well understands that he cannot elect Congressmen on Bryan platforms.

Mr. Bryan thinks he has a chance of carrying New York. This is right in line with the way the gentleman thinks on other questions.

During the Spanish war the Flag was worn and flown by all patriotic Americans. Let them wear and fly it now to show they intend to uphold the administration in keeping the fruits of the war with Spain.

The Hon. W. A. Clark has engaged a number of vaudeville artists for the Montana campaign. Doubtless he is willing to pay for anything that may have a tendency to cause the people to forget that Senatorial auction.

Chairman Jones is striving very hard to work up a definition of the word trust that will not include his round bale combination.

Mr. Bryan's assertion that we are lending money abroad because we think more of the foreigners than we do of our own people is a trifle severe on those Democrats who have been subscribing to the recent loans.

In 1896 the advocates of free silver were bold enough to openly advocate its adoption. Now they are striving to secure its success by the use of stool pigeons.

Mr. Pettigrew and his Filipino friends have abandoned their effort to discredit Admiral Dewey. It was an up-hill undertaking.

Wear the Flag.

A Kansas bank has suspended because of its inability to find borrowers. There were no bank failures of this sort under the Democratic administrations.

In 1896 Mr. Bryan received the votes of a great many who were idle. Since then these men have gone to work and have no time to listen to his revised predic-

X-E738
#106 .R4

FINANCIAL

A fast developing probability of tremendous significance is that the staple crops of the United States in 1900 will have a greater value than for any previous year in this country's history. This means that if no financial disturbances arise over the results of the coming election, and the present general prices of commodities are thereby maintained, the purchasing power of the agricultural classes will be extraordinarily increased even over what it has been for the last several years.

To those conversant with the facts developed by the late movements in the commercial markets and the estimated size of this year's crops, the prediction that this country, subject to a certain one big IF, will see next year the beginning of a second prosperity chapter, one far more remarkable, phenomenal and extraordinary than the present one we are enjoying, does not mean optimism run mad. The manufacturer, the merchant, the banker, and the railroad man, who knows the relation of values of crops to the general welfare, can by his own figuring reach his own conclusion, that such a prediction qualified by the IF, is but a common sense dictum.

The value of this year's cotton crop has just been estimated by H. G. Hester, Secretary of New Orleans Cotton Exchange, to be $363,784,820 as against $282,772,987 the previous year—which represents $81,011,843 more money to the planters of the South. The corn crop will certainly this year be the biggest financial windfall to the corn grower that he has ever known. With corn worth 40 cents a bushel, and with the crop probably above 2,000,000,000 bushels, there is the enormous gain to farmers who raise corn of about $400,000,000 over what they got four years ago—the price now being double what it was then, and the crop probably almost, if not quite, as large as then. The sheep of the farmers are also worth double as much money as in 1896—the value then being $67,000,000, now over $122,000,000. Other products of farm and pasture have shown the same tendency to make this a record breaking year in the money making experience of the American agriculturists.

In the upward race of these commodities wheat has been somewhat of a sluggard. But the sharp upturn in last week's wheat market, and more especially in the flour market, has given ground for the suspicion that wheat may have been saving itself for a sensational movement later on. The recent markets for both wheat and flour, but more directly the latter, have furnished evidence of something very interesting—to wit: that home consumption of wheat and its flour product has been greatly increasing—enough, in fact, to more than neutralize a lessened export movement due to the high ocean freights resulting from the wars in South Africa and China. The following from the Northwestern Miller's flour review, gives a conservative trade description of this:

"Mills throughout the country, with few exceptions, ran steadily on full time, and the sales probably averaged the production. The business, however, was almost wholly domestic. High ocean rates practically prohibited export trade; Kansas City, St. Louis, and one firm in Minneapolis were the only mills reporting any volume of sales for Europe. Buying was of such a nature during the week, particularly in New England, as to indicate that the trade believes in the advance and was willing to carry fair stocks of flour at the prevailing prices. This is a point which the trade has been slow to arrive at, but many conservative dealers as well as the millers, feel that low point has been left behind, for the present at least."

In the past the American wheat grower has been more or less dependent for his prosperity on the energetic work of the Argentine locust; also on the frequent non-appearance of the monsoon in India. Owing to the necessity of having to sell a great surplus of wheat in competition with other countries at Liverpool, the

E R #107 X.E738
.R4

FINANCIAL.

Cotton, coal and corn have been making three extremely interesting and important chapters in American commercial and financial history. The trend of developments in the markets for these three American products is fraught with immense significance to the general prosperity and greatness of this nation. All the wealth that has thus far been taken from the Klondyke and from Cape Nome is not comparable in amount with the enormous increases in riches that now promise to come to this country from cotton, coal and corn, separately considered.

Last week we made reference to the doubling of the price of corn since 1896—the price so far this September averaging about 40 cents a bushel as against 20 cents in 1896. Incidentally it was shown that if the crop of 1900 approximates as large as the crop of 1899, there will be the tremendous gain of $400,000,000 to the farmers of the corn belt. Since making this reference there has occurred the "episode" in cotton. The great rise in the price of this staple during the last few days has taken away from corn the monopoly of being a "double" with reference to prices a few years back. The price of middland uplands (Sept. 6), at 10⅛ cents per pound —(the highest price reached since October, 1890, when 10¼ was reached)—is just about double the price around 5 cents a pound which ruled for a long time until comparatively recently.

The sensational advances in cotton prices seem to have been primarily due to the eleventh-hour discovery of the spinning trade of Europe, that the spinning mills of the United States had been encroaching on the cotton surplus that they had estimated to be available for their own requirements. The foreign expert authorities in the cotton trade had evidently kept well posted on the conditions of cotton consumption in their own countries. They had also probably been accurately advised as to the condition of crops in America and elsewhere. But the fact that they seemingly failed to appreciate was that the consumptive demand in the United States was not a constant quantity—but that it had been increasing enormously during the last four years of progressive prosperity. They had also probably not given due consideration to the fact that the planters of the South can now cheaply borrow money to hold their cotton for the best prices, while previously they had to throw it all on the market so soon as harvested.

The supply of cotton reported on hand at the various storage points in the United States is now the smallest in a long series of years, the total being about one-quarter less than that of the same time last year. The increased activity of the Fall River Mills has been responsible for a large part reduction in the supply. Increased American exports of cotton goods to Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii, and the Philippines have augmented this activity to a great extent. The South also has been witnessing a remarkable development in cotton milling—taking advantage of the same national conditions and policies which, during the last four years, had given such great impetus to the spinning trade of New England. In this connection Secretary Hester of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, telegraphing to O. B. Stevens, Commissioner of Agriculture, North Carolina, a few days ago said:

"The Southern cotton milling industry was never so prosperous. My returns show more new mills actually building than ever in our history, and many projected which will materialize in the near future.

"New spindles being erected nearly 1,400,000. These indicate the sure and rapid progess of the South toward manufacturing her own cotton crop. This is being done largely with Southern money. The value of this year's crop exceeds in dollars $350,000,000."

The competition among bankers for the moving of this year's cotton crop is greater than ever before. The West, with its present great

#108 X-E38 R4

SECRETARY JOHN D. LONG.

Explains to First Voters the Facts Which They Must Consider Before Casting Their Ballots.

(By Hon. John D. Long, Secretary of the Navy.)

The intelligent young man, who, on November 6th, will cast his first presidential vote, is in a fortunate position. He is untrammeled by party affiliations and free to act on his own unbiased conclusions. All the more reason then that in fixing his party affiliations, from which it is never afterwards easy to break, he should fix them in the line of his matured convictions.

In doing this he should not be swayed by personal considerations, but be guided by a careful study of the principles of the two contending parties. The problems before him are too grave for snap judgment.

He must decide whether, being now on a total wave of prosperity brought about as the result of Republican principles, he is justified in promoting the supremacy of Democratic principles which were responsible for the years of national depression which followed the recent admin-istrations of the Democratic party.

He must decide whether he favors honest and stable money, which the Republican party insured by its enactment of the gold standard, or debased money, the sure consequence of the free silver heresy which the Democratic party specifically advocates.

He must decide whether he shall support the Administration which carried the nation through a successful war and added to its jurisdiction new possessions which his country's intelligence and humanity will develop to the enjoyment of a stable institution, and local self-government, or shall repudiate the victories he and his brothers-in-arms won at Santiago and Manila, and abandon to anarchy, or to the sway of foreign governments, the islands which are a sacred trust on the American people.

These are important questions he must determine, and it behooves him to study them with the earnestness necessary to right decision. He will find ample evidence that prosperity abounds. He himself is its living example, for the opportunities for employment which exist to-day were not enjoyed by his older brother four years ago.

If he live in the country, he sees the product of the farm bringing a higher price than it did before the Republican party gained control of the National Administration.

If he live in the manufacturing town, he sees the doors of the factories open and hears the hum of their busy wheels. In all walks of life he finds that labor is receiving a higher wage for its output, and carrying his investigation still farther, he discovers that that wage has greater purchasing power.

If he desire to enlarge the scope of his investigation and ascertain the extent of the prosperity enjoyed by the whole country, he will examine the statistics of exports and imports. He will learn that in 1894, the most prosperous year of Mr. Cleveland's administration, the balance of trade in favor of the United States was $227,016,956, while in the last fiscal year, the balance of trade in favor of the United States was $544,471,791, or nearly two and a half times as great.

He will find that the total commerce of the United States for the past fiscal year surpasses by $317,729,350 that of any preceding year, and that for the first time in our history its exceeds $2,000,000,000.

Turning to the statistics relating to American trade with Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands, he will find a condition equally satisfactory. The most prosperous year since 1890 for American export trade with Cuba under Spanish sovereignty was 1893, when the value of exports to the island was $24,157,648. In 1900 it reached $26,513,613. Porto Rico paid $2,297,519 for American exports in 1890; $2,656,003 in 1892; and $4,646,421 in 1900. The Hawaiian Islands received goods from the United States in 1890 valued at $4,711,417, and in 1900, goods valued at $13,580,148. The export trade of this country with the Philippine Islands in 1896 amounted to $122,276; for the last fiscal year, it amounted to $2,646,445.

These figures will aid the young man in understanding the extent of prosperity the country enjoys, and he must, as a natural step in his investigation, credit this result to the restoration of confidence consequent upon the return of the Republican party to power and to the enactment of the two cardinal principles upon which the campaign of 1896 was conducted—protective tariff and the gold standard.

The one embodied in the Dingley law has relieved the American producer of the disadvantage of competing in the home market with the products of cheaper foreign labor, and has enabled him to assume a commanding position in the markets of the world.

The other, commonly known as the gold standard law, has placed the country on a sound money basis. It permitted the refunding of the national debt and the annual saving of millions of dollars in interest money, provided for the expansion of national bank note circulation with the development of the business of the country, and extended the advantages of the national banking system to small towns.

In spite of the manifest advantages of this repeal as promptly as it is able to do so.

The intelligent young voter will not neglect to calculate the effect of the overturning of a law which is in great measure responsible for the prosperous condition of the country to-day, and that has made the United States a creditor nation. Nor will he forget to consider that the success of the party that stands for a principle that involves a reduction of the value of the nation's unit of money in the markets of the world will, of itself, cause great injury to business interests and incidentally to himself.

He will see that no other than a partisan motive guided the President in recognizing the extension of American sovereignty over Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines. He will feel, as his forefathers did, that expansion is the natural law of growth. His memory will recall that Mr. Bryan personally supported the ratification of the Treaty of Paris, by which American sovereignty was extended over Porto Rico and the Philippines.

He has been told that we should at once grant the Filipinos self-government and establish a protectorate over the islands when he knows there are eighty-four tribes in the island, and that millions of money and thousands of men would be necessary to support against the assaults of the others the authority of the one tribe now to rebellion against American sovereignty, and that the war-making power which rests under the Constitution in the hands of his representatives would be transferred to an irresponsible people who we would be obliged to uphold.

There are other issues which the young man will study, but "after all," as I said in an article on the issues of the campaign, recently published in Collier's Weekly, "the overwhelming issue which will determine the votes of the people is the great fundamental one of their own interest, welfare and prosperity. They are an intelligent people. They know perfectly well on which side their interest is bettered, they have had the object lesson of experience. They know the difference in a campaign between chaff and wheat on the one hand and substance on the other. They know that in both parties there is the usual resort to make mountains out of molehills, to magnify fly-specks, and to raise issues out of personalities and petty details. They know, also, that in both parties there are honest differences of opinion on matters of real principle."

But when they come up the argument between the last Democratic Administration and the present Republican Administration they will see, just as clearly as history will see it, the difference which is as broad as a gulf. Nobody to-day in his sober senses questions the honest purpose and fidelity to the principles of his party either of President Cleveland or of President McKinley. Nobody doubts that the four years of the former were the best that the Democratic party could give us or that the four years of the latter exemplify its spirit, its enterprise, its humanity and its helpfulness to every interest of the people; and yet one was a period of increasing financial and industrial depression and the other of good times and prosperity. It is simply a question which set of administration, which kind of policy, which application of principle gives the people the best results.

I do not believe they are going to determine this question on the ground that a Republican Administration in Havana and has been punished for it; or that the Secretary of the Treasury distributed the surplus money in the Treasury so that the people could have the use of it rather than keep it in his vaults; or that in the tremendous extent of administrative work during the war there may have been a mistake in the amount or quality of the purchases of canned beef. On the contrary, they will ask: Is labor better employed? Are more men at work? Are wages higher? Are our factories and workshops idle or busy? Have we more money to spend? Are we finding a better market at home and abroad for the product of our industry? Is our commerce enlarging? Is the balance of trade for or against us? Is our flag seen oftener on every water of the globe? Is our navy growing to be commensurate with our national needs? Are we meeting the responsibilities and opportunities opened to us by the result of the Spanish-American War? Are we accorded admission into American institutions to the islands of Ha-wai that are now ours? Are we sending to them, upon the commissions charged with their welfare and representing the United States, men of high character, competent and fitted for it? Have there been four years of plenty and prosperity or four years of nothing? Have there come up out of the river four well-favored kine, fat-fleshed, or four other kine, ill-favored and lean-fleshed? Are the ears of corn rank and good, or thin and blasted with the east wind?

These are the questions which will determine the issues of the campaign. It will not be a campaign of personalities or quips and partisan criticisms, but of the general well-being of the Republic.

On that ground, and in the face of the record of the Administration of President McKinley and of the inevitable comparison between it and that of the last Democratic Administration, especially between it and an Administration based on the policies so thoroughly defeated in 1896, and so utterly exploded by the irresistible logic of events and results since then there can be no question of the result. The country will not at once and so soon invite the same perils, on its escape from which it has not yet ceased to congrat-

#109 x-E73.8.D4
E750.R

WOMEN BITTERLY ARRAIGN DEMOCRACY

Leaders In Religious and Temperance Work Pronounce the "Endless Chain of Prayer," to Defeat the Re-election of President M'Kinley, a Gross Sacrilege.

THEY URGE MEN TO VOTE FOR M'KINLEY

Reasons Given Why Republican Principles Deserve the Hearty Support of all Christian People.

In reply to the Democratic charge that the present good times are the work of Providence, not of the Republican party, Governor Roosevelt has wittily said that the Democratic party has fused with about everything except Providence.

Indeed, it is certainly adding gross sacrilege to immorality for a party whose cardinal principle means payment of debts at fifty cents on the dollar, and in violation, therefore, of the Divine commandment "Thou shalt not steal," to arrogate to itself special relations with the Deity.

The Democratic party has, however, made itself responsible for an "endless chain of prayer" among the women of the United States to defeat the re-election of President McKinley, on the expressed ground that women are sentimental and will go into this matter with an enthusiasm that cannot fail to bring the Republican nominee to defeat." In the opinion of some of the noblest Christian women of the United States this "endless chain of prayer" scheme is the worst sacrilege that has ever disgraced a political party.

Following are interviews from some of the women of Chicago, prominent for their connection with religious and temperance work, and in earnest efforts for the uplifting of men and women:

DECENCY AND COMMON SENSE VIOLATED.

MRS. AUGUSTA R. FITZ SIMONS, Vice-President of the Young Women's Christian Association, and prominent in church work in Chicago, says:

"I consider that the inventors of the ridiculous anti-McKinley Endless Prayer-Chain plan to insult and belittle the Diety must have a very narrow and erratic conception of the scops and dignity of the Ruler of the Universe. One can hardly believe that such persons can live in this age of intelligence. Common sense or common decency ought to deter such persons from having any sane followers. Such a plan, to my mind, is only ingenious to its authors having discovered a form of blasphemy.

"I am ardently in favor of the re-election of President McKinley. To elect the candidate of all the crazy issues and exploded follies of the day, would be to turn back on the dial for fifty years, the approaching hour when rapid strides are being made toward Christianizing and reclaiming, under the guidance of the American spirit of liberty, the teeming millions of the barbarous nations of the earth.

"Just as surely as Moses was raised up in Israel to bring the Lord's chosen people out of Egypt's bondage, the United States of America are providentially being raised up to be the leaders among the nations of the earth, to bring liberty, law one of the great powers of the world. I wish that every man and woman would take a careful, unprejudiced view of the occurrences of the past four years, noting President McKinley's position, and than read with attention the official speeches of the Presidential candidates, I believe the consensus of opinion would be that there must be, for the welfare of the country, no change of administration."

W. C. T. U. WOMEN GRIEVED AND PAINED.

MRS. ELMIRA SPRINGER, prominently connected with the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and especially noted for her helpful work among young women, says:

"It is safe to assert that nine-tenths of the women who belong to the organization known as the W. C. T. U., are grieved and pained beyond measure at the attitudes assumed by some of their members. We allude to those unwise women who have inaugurated what is known as the 'Anti-McKinley Endless-Prayer Chain.'

"Such action is both silly and sacrelegious, and casts ridicule and reproach on Christians and Christian observances. Prayer is the sacred, secret cry of the soul for help and guidance, and it is belittled and profaned when ordered by postal card. We trust these prohibition women will think better of the 'Army Canteen' matter, withdraw their crusade est folly. Do these women expect to persuade the Omniscient Power to their views of earthly conditions? He, perchance, has already decided to the contrary. It is, in my mind, belittling the God they hold before the world as a just Father, with more than human wisdom. Respect for the Creator is an instinct present in every human heart to a greater or less degree, and for a band of women to declare themselves, as these misguided women have done, makes one fear for the guidance of the rising generation.

"The good book says, 'Prove all things; hold fast to that which is good.' The open mills of 1900; the well-filled dinner pail, which the laboring man carries to-day, is a striking contrast to the conditions of four years ago, when I assisted in handing out soup and bread to many men who are to-day earning a comfortable living for themselves and families.

"Most certainly I think that President McKinley should be re-elected. The promises of the Republican party have been faithfully fulfilled, and the prosperity of to-day shows conclusively that the present administration has been a good, noble, helpful one. The election of W. J. Bryan would be a calamity such as the American people have never known before."

NOT ONLY SAD, BUT WRONG.

MRS. MARY E. HOLMES, Chairman of the Travelers' Department of the Y. W. C. A., and prominent member and leader of the Woman's Club, of Chicago; also well known in Congregational Church circles, says:

"The women who started the 'Endless Chain of Prayer' had more zeal than wisdom.

"It is unfortunate, to say the least, for the Christian religion to have such an expression of prayer go to the general public, for it is not the conception given by Christ.

"The essence of true prayer is the desire to have God's will done instead of our own. The very thought of an 'Endless Chain of Prayer' outrages our finer sensibilities, and destroys the spiritual communion that must be spontaneous to be effective.

"I cannot believe that such prayers can be genuine enough to be a benefit to anyone. Prayers by the yard have no force nor power.

"It is not only sad but wrong for good women to abuse one of the sublimest attitudes possible to man.

"How do these women know that God is not working out some large plans through President McKinley? Plans that are not within their range of vision.

"As a Christian woman, I sincerely hope for the re-election of Mr. McKinley. Through him I hope to see the islands of the sea become civilized, educated and christianized.

"Barbarism has no rights that civilization is bound to respect.

"America has a work to do for the world, and God will see that we do it. The way is now providentially opened, and we must finish the work we have so thoroughly begun.

"As a Christian citizen I hope for the re-election of President McKinley, first, because:

"Prosperity has come with confidence.

"Second. Good prices have come with prosperity, and farmers are now paying off their mortgages.

"Third. A solid money foundation has been reached under the present administration.

"Fourth. We have passed, as a nation, from boyhood into manhood under President McKinley, and taken a new place of honor and respect among the nations of the world, which gives us new power for good.

"Mr. McKinley has proven his fitness.

"Mr. Bryan makes promises impossible

FOR USE SUNDAY NIGHT, SEPT. 18.

TESTIMONY OF CHARITY ORGANIZERS.

Leaders of organized charity work in different cities of the United States have lately been furnishing some interesting testimony about two important points connected with the present prosperity.

They have shown first that, in proportion to increase in population during the last four years, the number of destitute cases has greatly decreased. Secondly, that there has been a very great increase in contributions toward charitable work. Following are some of the statements:

G. Frelleon, Agent of Associated Charities, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, says:

"During the past four years pauperism and destitution have nearly vanished. Since President McKinley took control of the Ship of State, work has been plentiful most all the time at good pay. So far there has been great demand for labor, in fact so much so that it has been uphill work to get men, women, boys and girls to take places to work. All we are caring for at present is widows and sick persons, aged persons and deserted wives and children.

"In the year 1897 there were 2,665 families and single persons registered on our books.

"In 1898 there were 1,322 families and single families and single persons.

"In 1899 there were 946 families and single persons.

"The decrease this year will be very large.

"At the office of the Superintendent of Poor of Milwaukee County the decrease in number of cases is about the same as our own.

"Any able-bodied man or woman can get work in Milwaukee at good pay, and there are at present very few seeking employment."

William R. Camp, Associated Charities of San Francisco, San Francisco, California, says:

"In regard to the decrease of pauperism in our city, I submit the following statistics:

"Total number of cases investigated in 1893, 2,262; 1894, 2,664; 1895, 2,339; 1897, 2,559; 1898, 2,151.

"Decrease in two periods of 416 cases, or 17 per cent less in the latter than in the earlier period. Of these caused from insufficient employment are as follows:

"In 1893, 145; 1894, 206; 1895, 218; 1897, 350; 1898, 75.

"The latter period shows a decrease from inficient employment of 7.5 per cent. Not so much easier to secure employment for those of the latter period."

Emma A. Gallagher, General Secretary, Louisville Charity Organization Society, Louisville, Kentucky, says:

"I can safely say, as far as our own society experience counts, that the improved condition through the increase of employment during the past few years has lessened our relief work.

"There has been quite an earnest interest and increase in philanthropic work, especially by the Women's Clubs of this State.

"This organization asks of its subscribers only what necessity requires year by year, and it is promptly supplied."

Sarah Justin George, Secretary, Charity Organization Society, Denver, Colorado, says:

"There has been a decided decrease of pauperism in Denver within two years. There is an increase of transient poor—people traveling from one city to another.

"Every one able to work can find it, I believe."

C. S. Great, Secretary, Charity Organization Society, Indianapolis, Indiana, says:

"There has been very little change in the demand for assistance for indigent people during the past four years. Employment has been good and men wanting it badly could have work of some kind. The support of the Charities has been steadily growing, due largely to our increase in population and the care in using money for charitable purposes. I see no reason to complain."

Frank Almy, Secretary of Charity Organization, Buffalo, New York, says:

"The amount of pauperism in this city is less than four years ago. Concerning financial contributions for charitable work, I would say that three or four years ago by special effort we raised a larger sum than we ever repeated since, but that the number of subscribers to our work is greater now than then."

C. R. Henderson, head of the Department of Sociology, University of Chicago, and probably the leading authority of the United States on organized charity work, says:

"There has not been any considerable variation from year to year in the disbursements of relief societies. The reason for this is that they have a steady income and spend it, giving help so far as it goes. In years of extraordinary pressure the demand is met chiefly by churches, charitable individuals and various combinations."

Speaking of the Chicago Charities, he states:

"You will find by looking at reports of the Central Relief Association for 1893-1894 that $133,303 95 were paid out that hard year by one temporary organization formed to wit, an emergency. No such need has since arisen.

"You will find that the disbursements of the new 'Bureau of Charities' (E. P. Bicknell, Superintendent) are steadily increasing, but this does not mean more destitution, but more prevention of pauperism, since the methods of this society are aimed at education and thrift rather than at duplicating the good work of the relief agencies. The Penny Savings Bank, organized by the Bureau of Charities, is a fine proof of the possibility of saving even among children.

"Locally some distress has arisen from the building strikes, but the extra need has been met, in good part, from the assessments on members of unions.

"On the general question of decrease of demand on relief funds, I think there can be no doubt. The pressure last winter was not so severe nor so prolonged as it was during the hard years.

"There is always a permanent class of helpless persons who require assistance. The cases of dependence due to lack of employment are often due to want of industrial training, and not to want of demand for services.

"My study of state reports of outdoor relief lead me to conclude that the improvement in business is distinctly reflected in the low

X-E738
#111
.R4

DEMOCRATS VS. REPUBLICAN
OR ## STONES, EGGS, BOARDS AND OBSCENITY VS. "ROOSEVELT."

The following extracts are taken from the account of the mobbing of Roosevelt by a Democratic crowd at Victor, Colorado, published, September 27, in the Chicago Record, a newspaper neutral in politics.

The first column shows what Democracy means. The transparency, bearing Bryan's name, which was hurled at Roosevelt's breast, is typical of the present transparency of argument and lawlessness of principle of the party which Bryan personifies, and which hurls its forces of organized disorder against the forces of law, order and peace in this country and abroad.

Compare this with the column which shows what the bitterly decried "militarism" of Roosevelt means—determined bravery and self-sacrifice in the defense of free speech, but genial charity toward those whom he "don't think are half bad, but my, what partisans."

DEMOCRACY.

Crowds at both places beat and stoned him, (Roosevelt), shouting for Bryan, and charging with clubs and missiles upon the escort which followed the Republican candidate from the train to the hall and back.

THE NEW YORKER WAS HIT IN THE BREAST WITH A HEAVY TRANSPARENCY, BEARING BRYAN'S NAME.

Thousands of citizens followed the little procession SHOUTING FOR BRYAN, AND PUSHING THE BANNERS OF THE NEBRASKAN IN THE FACES OF THE MARCHERS.

The crowd swarmed after him, ARMED WITH CLUBS, TRANSPARENCIES AND STONES.

ROOSEVELT THE REPUBLICAN.

He stood amid a hail of stones upon his car platform without being hurt, and he heard, as he BOWED POLITELY TO THE MOB, the most obscene epithets and curses that angry political opponents could hurl at him.

That Col. Roosevelt was not seriously, and perhaps fatally, injured, is due to his heroic defense by about a dozen members of the rough rider's regiment, led by Sherman Bell, and the assistance of about twenty veterans of the Spanish war, who rushed the Vice-Presidential candidate through the mob to safety on his car.

NOTHING DAUNTED BY THIS SHOW OF HOSTILITY, Roosevelt at the head of his party, and escorted by about fifty veterans of the Spanish war, proceeded to the town hall to make a speech.

With much difficulty and amid threatening shouts, the New Yorker gained entrance to the hall and mounted the stand.

E

FOR USE NOT BEFORE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 3

"DEAR BOY" LETTERS. No. 8.

My Dear Boy:

So old man Skimmer says that there will be war in the Philippines for twenty years yet; that we will soon see the time when men will be conscripted in every township for service in China, and that we are bound to have a financial crash next spring, and then the poor people will see the hardest times they ever saw.

Well, I guess the old man is a typical Democrat. He certainly has all the symptoms. Perhaps I had better tell you what the symptoms are.

There are certain constitutional characteristics which distinguish the Democratic party and opposite characteristics which distinguish the Republican party. When I tell you what they are, you will see why I want you to be a Republican.

1. The Democrats are pessimistic. They always look on the dark side. They perpetually expect evil ahead and see nothing but the evil in the things that now are. You pick up an average Democratic platform and you find it full of sayings like the following: "We protest," "we denounce," "we disapprove," "we view with alarm." One of the strongest reasons against the party is that they are always striving to make the people discontented with their lot and to fill them with baseless forebodings for the future. Right in the middle of abundance and cheer and victory, they say, "But we are all going 'to the low-wow.'"

Now it is the nature of Republicans to be optimistic. The Republican party sees the bright side. Thankful for the blessings of the past, they look forward with confidence to the future. They expect good things and the expectation helps bring good things to pass. They rejoice in the greatness and prosperity of our highly favored land. They look upon our schools and churches, our farms and factories, our army and navy, and their platforms contain phrases like these: "Thankful for the past," "we rejoice," "we congratulate," "we point with pride." They bring to the people a song of hope and cheer and content. Be a Republican, my boy, and "keep sweet." Don't let yourself get soured and pessimistic.

2. The Democratic party seems unable to learn from experience. One reason why I fit in easily into the Republican party is because I can learn from experience. Eight years ago I was a free trader. I read about free trade in a book and was convinced. It was a very nice book and the free trade theory was presented in a very nice way. It still insist that free trade is a nice thing in a book so long as you keep it in the book; but when you take it out of the book and apply it to wool and eggs and pig iron and things, it doesn't work worth a cent. The experience of this country from 1861 to 1897 made me a protectionist. But our Democratic friends have failed to learn the lesson. In their platform this year they still denounce our protective tariff law.

If there is anything positively settled by the experience of nations, it is that the best standard for a nation's currency and for the world's currency is gold. For centuries the nations struggled along endeavoring to keep up two standards, silver and gold, with the result that the comparative values of the two metals were constantly changing and the cheaper one driving the other out of circulation, making currency scarce, values uncertain, exchange troublesome, and commerce difficult. Through experience, the nations, one after another, learned that the honest way and the best way is to have one standard and that standard the best money—gold—with a hundred cents worth of gold in the dollar. We have learned that, since a standard dollar is a measure of value, it should contain the value that it represents.

All civilized people in the world have learned this except the Populists-Democratic party. They come out in this year of our Lord 1900 and propose to roll back the chariot of progress and return to the financial ways of barbarism.

Now the Republican party does learn by experience. It keeps up with the procession. When a thing has been tried and found wanting, the Republican party drops it. When a thing has been proved to be good by experience, the Republican party sticks to it. My boy, the Republican party is not perfect by a long ways. It has some men in it who are not good. Any great party must have some men in it who are bad. It may sometimes make mistakes. But the broad political principles of the party are true and right and it is the party that learns from experience. You be a Republican and you will not be sorry.

YOUR FATHER.

A POLITICAL STRAW.

For the purpose of ascertaining the political make-up of their "house," some of the employees of the firm of Marshall Field & Co.'s wholesale department in Chicago had a paper circulated the other day asking for signatures to the membership roll of a McKinley Commercial Men's Club.

There are approximately 1000 voters on the department. The paper was passed around with the consent of the management of the house, but with no coercion whatever to sign or not to sign, the test vote being purely an affair of the employees, who wished to secure only voluntary expressions from among their number. As a result of him test vote the poll showed:

| | Number votes. |
|---|---|
| For McKinley | 851 |
| For Bryan | 149 |
| McKinley's majority | 702 |
| | Per cent of total vote. |
| For McKinley | 85 1-10 |
| For Bryan | 14 9-10 |

BRYAN AT HIS WORST.

[From the New York Sun September 22.]

It is not pleasant to find a candidate for President of the United States talking as foolishly or dishonestly as Mr. Bryan talked at Monett, Mo.:

"The Republicans are now boasting that we have reached a point where we can lose money to people in other countries. I want to ask you whether you regard that as an evidence of prosperity. Why would a man send his money to Europe for investment if he could

F

FOR USE NOT BEFORE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 3

HUGO DENKENSPRUCT

He Takes a Historic Snap Shot at Bryan's Ally, Aguinaldo.

(By William E. Anderson.)

Let me present to you Mr. Bryan's principal witness, Jonathan. He is to be the future father of his country after Mr. Bryan has had his extraordinary income tax fixed up an independent Philippine republic on an expansionist Monroe doctrine. You say you don't know much about him. There are others like you. The strangest thing is that Mr. Bryan doesn't get time to examine this witness in his speeches. So we will let history—undesirable historian—confirm the testimony.

Question—"What is your name?"

Answer—"Emilio Aguinaldo."

"What is your business at present?"

"I am the great Tycoon of the Philippine Islands now in alliance with the United States to assist insurgence."

("Doesn't that sound very fine, Jonathan?)

"How long have you been engaged in this or similar business?"

"For several years."

"Where were you in August, 1897?"

"In or rather near, Manila."

"What were you doing there?"

"I was making an independent treaty with the Spanish Captain General."

"What did you get out of it?"

"Four hundred thousand dollars, all in silver."

"Anything more?"

"Yes; free transportation to Hong Kong with about forty of my friends."

"Did you see your military or other rank when you agreed to go to Hong Kong and not come back to the Islands?"

"Major Commander, about equal to an American Second Lieutenant."

"What was your rank when you went to see the American Consul at Hong Kong?"

"President of the Republic of the Philippines."

"Was that in the treaty or how did it happen?"

"No; I fixed it up in a Hong Kong boarding house with the other planters who came with me to help cash the check we got from a Manila bank for the silver."

"How did you fix it up to be President?"

"I was best fitted for the place and I appointed Agoncillo, Secretary of State."

"How many people were you President of?"

"About ten millions."

"You had not heard anything from Mr. Bryan then about the 'consent of the governed?'"

"No; that came later."

"Do you mean you forgot it, or sent to the islands for it?"

"No; we postponed it or assumed it; that was all the same."

"Are you a prophet as well as a President?"

"No; why do you ask?"

"To learn whether you foresaw the results of the Spanish-American war between the United States and Spain."

"I was thinking of what you were the President of the Philippine republic about that time."

"Did you?"

"And you had not then heard Mr. Bryan's remarks about having your consent."

"No; I was helping to feed the enemies of both my people and the American people."

"How did you get into this Manila mess with the American people?"

"I went there to accept from Dewey the fruits of American victory."

Don't you think, Jonathan, it would naturally be an extraordinary session of Congress that would place so much treaties in behalf of the extraordinary character of such a representative of people ready for independence on the principle of the "CONSENT OF THE GOVERNED?"

IN HUNT FOR AN ISSUE.

Before I go on with this case, Jonathan, I will tell you what happened to my hired man, Peter. He was a great talker and used to bother me to take him along when I went rabbit hunting. Not liking to refuse him every time, I at last consented. So I said:

"Yes, Peter, you may go, too, but you can catch more rabbits if you talk with you that piece of lawn hose so that you can poke it in the holes and yell in it to scare out the bunnies while I shoot 'em!!"

I thought that would suit him and I could keep him busy that way. After we reached the woods, he began business in earnest, pushing the hose into every rabbit hole we came to and yelling therein within all his might. He only stopped occasionally to take breath and say: "Now——you, you shoot him as he runs out!"

But our luck was bad that day for he stopped to talk in every hole we came to. At last he got tired and wanted to take the gun while I yelled in it.

"No, Peter," I said, "your voice is stronger and more persuasive as a gun."

"But I want to shoot, too," he said.

"You shoot just as many rabbits with your mouth as I do with the gun," I replied; "we don't get any yet."

"Perhaps they come out for you," he complained.

Besides, I don't want to be talking through a long pipe in a crooked hole all day."

So I said sweetly: "Better then you talk natural, without the pipe, Peter, your voice will

X-E738
.D
#113

Bryan Ratification Meetings,

Tuesday Evening, October 16th, 1900,

AT

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN,
MADISON AVE. and 24th STREET,
TAMMANY HALL,
COOPER UNION.

RESOLUTIONS:

The Democracy of Greater New York joyfully welcomes to the Metropolis and the State the intrepid and steadfast leader of the National Democracy, WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, and pledges to his candidacy for the Presidency of the United States its united, enthusiastic and invincible support.

Nominated with singular unanimity to represent the cause of the plain people in the present crisis of our national affairs, at a time when it is attempted to substitute the imperial rule of moneyed syndicates for the constitutional government of the people; when all the influence of the national administration is exerted to foster industrial conditions that destroy the free field and fair competition in and by which individual enterprise was encouraged in Democratic times, and when our political opponents scoff at and deride the cardinal principle of legitimate authority that "all governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed," the candidacy of Mr. BRYAN is an inspiration and hope to every citizen who believes that ours should be a "government of the people, by the people, and for the people," under which the blessings and advantages which come to the Republic should be shared by all, and not perverted to the exclusive enjoyment of the privileged few.

We greet with respect, admiration and affection the Democratic candidate for the Vice-Presidency, ADLAI E. STEVENSON. His sterling Democracy, his undaunted courage and his sound statesmanship, have once been recognized by his countrymen in their election of him by an overwhelming majority to the office for which he is again a candidate at the unanimous call of his party.

We declare our unqualified approval of the principles embodied in the platform adopted by the Democratic Convention at Kansas City in July of this year.

We are opposed to Imperialism. We protest against the maintenance of an enormous standing army as not only unnecessary but dangerous to the life and prosperity of the Republic. In every emergency our national honor and integrity have been protected by the Volunteer Army of the Republic, and in the future our citizenship may be relied upon to respond to any call to arms in defense of liberty and the protection of popular rights. We recognize in distant territorial possessions not intended for statehood, and dominated by a governing authority unknown to and at war with the limitations of our constitution, a corroding influence that burdens the people with great expense, and presents ready opportunities for official plundering.

We are opposed to all entangling foreign alliances. We demand that the foreign policy of our country shall make for the extension of Republican institutions and not be shaped in aid of the schemes or aggressions of any monarchical power. We heartily sympathize with the heroic Boers in their efforts to maintain their rights and independence and condemn the cowardly attitude assumed by the present administration in using its influence in behalf of England's unjustifiable assault upon the liberties of the South African Republics.

We denounce all Trusts. We are opposed not only to the laws which foster and encourage them, but demand the repeal of every law, which permits them to exist. Trusts have no rightful place under government of a free people. They rob alike producer and consumer; they defy and overcome

E750.R #114 X.E.13

A

FOR USE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 10

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Why is it that the Hon. Webster Davis and the Hon. George L. Wellington are not assigned to campaign work among their neighbors—the people who know them best?

Fly the Flag.

The consumers who will have to pay more for their coal will not have a vast amount of admiration for the gentlemen who arranged the strike.

The New York World charges that Boss Croker has made Democratic success in New York impossible. The World is altogether too hard on the boss. Some of the responsibility should be assigned to the gentlemen who made the Kansas City platform.

Mr. Bryan's sneers at the full dinner pail will not efface the memory of the workingmen.

In Ohio the Democratic campaign is looked upon as a good joke. But Mr. Bryan and Chairman Jones take it seriously enough when they lay claim to that state.

Currency is now going West and South to move the crops. Never before did it have such a job of moving to perform.

During the Spanish war the Flag was worn and flown by all patriotic Americans. Let them wear and fly it now to show they intend to uphold the administration in keeping the fruits of the war with Spain.

Mr. Bryan goes to a great deal of unnecessary trouble when he denies the rumors concerning the construction of his Cabinet. But then Mr. Bryan is a professional trouble hunter.

Mr. Bryan will omit all allusions to the Tammany Ice Trust during his campaign tour of New York.

The Hon. George Fred Williams declines to permit some of the gold Democrats to return to the party.

Mr. Gorman has made a political forecast without giving his opinion as to the result of the election. In other words, Mr. Gorman knows how it is going, but doesn't care to add to the embarrassment of his party.

Mr. Bryan perched on an automobile and making hard-luck speeches is a spectacle calculated to add to the hilarity of the situation.

Wear the Flag.

Senator Wellington goes away from home to do his campaigning. By this move he manages to escape some of the wrath of his constituents.

The settlement of the differences between the steel workers and their employers is a serious blow to the Democratic managers. A campaign which depends upon business depression is naturally fragile and sensitive.

The Hon. Joe Bailey has not raised any constitutional objections to governmental aid to the Galveston sufferers. Has the gentleman from Texas resigned his chaperonage of the constitution?

Senator Tillman says the Pennsylvania coal miners are "a lot of ignorant, poor foreigners," and adds that he would rather be a "Southern nigger" than one of them. The Senator has given the Pennsylvania miners a rather vivid insight of the Democratic opinion of them.

Those who uphold law and order wear the Flag.

The drift of public sentiment is growing stronger every day in favor of the Republican party.

After the November elections the gold Democrats will be in position to say "I told you so," and it will be their turn to dictate the conditions for restoration to membership for those who abandoned the worship of the true principles of Democracy for the privilege of dancing around the silver calf.

Values have increased in Nebraska, since 1896, as follows:

| | Per cent |
|---|---|
| Hogs, increase | 45 |
| Beef, increase | 60 |
| Corn, increase | 15 |
| Land, increase | 20 |
| Household goods, increase | 20 |
| Savings bank deposits, increase | 35 |
| All property, increase | 75 |

On the other hand there has been the following reduction:

| | Per cent |
|---|---|
| Mortgages, decreased | 40 |

And the record runs the same through all states under McKinley's Protection and Prosperity.

Poor as Bryan's record is as a farmer, it promises to be better than his record made as a politician. As for statesmanship, he has no record to make or lose.

The vote of next November will decide the length of the war in the Philippines.

C

FOR USE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 10

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The advance in the price of elephants in Siam will enable Mr. Bryan to further illustrate how the necessities of the poor are being increased in cost.

Fly the Flag.

For three consecutive times Mr. Cleveland was the nominee of the Democratic party for the Presidency; yet the Bryanites declare that he was not a Democrat. Mr. Bryan is the nominee of the Populists and free-silver Republicans; yet, according to his friends, he must be accepted as a sham-pure Democrat. This is the same sort of logic Mr. Bryan utilizes in his speeches.

Mr. Croker has decided to set apart one of the New York Congressional districts for the personal use of the Hon. O. H. P. Belmont, the millionaire banker. Thus do the interests of the toiling masses continue to receive attention.

During the Spanish war the Flag was worn and flown by all patriotic Americans. Let them wear and fly it now to show they intend to uphold the administration in keeping the fruits of the war with Spain.

In 1896 Mr. Bryan declared that he didn't want the vote of anybody who believed the gold standard was a good thing. This gives him the right to assume that Mr. Olney has swallowed the Kansas City platform whole.

Up to the present there has been no perceptible relief for the distress of the Boer widows and orphans by the fund raised by the Hon. William Sulzer.

Up to date Chairman Jones has been much encouraged by the acquisition of the Hon. Webster Davis; the Hon. George L. Wellington and a coal miners' strike.

The 60,000 steel workers that have just gone to work are not liberal subscribers to Mr. Bryan's prediction department.

Some of the funds of the Tammany Ice Trust are being spent for Bryan and Stevenson banners in New York.

Things are coming our way.

Prosperity, patriotism and victory are in the air.

The Western country has also become the enemy's country for the advocates of repudiation and free trade.

Wear the Flag.

Bryan despairs of the future of the country because voters insist on permitting business to influence their politics and yet he himself has grown wealthy by making politics his business.

The Democratic defeat in November should not be charged against Chairman Jones, Bryan, or even Webster Davis. It will be due to the fact that the policies advocated by the party are wrong, while those advanced by the Republicans meet the approval of the free, thoughtful voters of the country.

A multiplicity of paramount issues has not been productive of harmony in the Democratic household. Even those who desire to follow their leaders have had to "about face" so often that they cannot for the life of them tell whether they are coming or going.

Those who uphold law and order wear the Flag.

The Democratic party is consistent in that it is keeping up its record for inconsistency.

It is safe to predict that free silver will never again find place in a Democratic platform, but it will take the party a long time to overcome the stigma of having adopted such a financial heresy.

One of the amusing things of the present campaign is the statement made by Mr. Bryan, in his Wheeling speech, that his military experience had taught him that the life of a soldier was a dangerous one.

Values have increased in Nebraska, since 1896, as follows:

| | Per cent |
|---|---|
| Hogs, increase | 45 |
| Beef, increase | 60 |
| Corn, increase | 15 |
| Land, increase | 20 |
| Household goods, increase | 20 |
| Savings bank deposits, increase | 35 |
| All property, increase | 75 |

On the other hand there has been the following reduction:

| | Per cent |
|---|---|
| Mortgages decreased | 40 |

And the record runs the same through all states under McKinley's Protection and Prosperity.

As long as Bryan's speeches keep the soldiers in the Philippines "shining" after the insurgents the patriotic voters of the country will not "bike" to his standard.

E7551.R #115 4-2-2

A

FOR USE NOT BEFORE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 3

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

There is rivalry between New York's leading Democratic newspapers for the "honor" of producing the coal miners' strike.

The opening of new shops by the Pullman Car Company is another backset to Bryanism. The Democratic nominee prospers on the closing down process.

The increase in the price of cotton if doubtless encouraging to Chairman Jones' round bale trust.

President McKinley's instructions to the Philippine Commission take the center pin out of the arguments of the Democratic campaign orators.

WHAT DID EX-SECRETARY OLNEY DO WHEN HE WAS ATTORNEY GENERAL TO CHECK THE GROWTH OF TRUSTS AND MONOPOLIES? SAY THING, BUT HE MADE AN EXCUSE FOR DOING NOTHING. HE SAID, WHEN ATTORNEY GENERAL, THE TRUSTS COULD NOT BE CONTROLLED BY FEDERAL LAWS, BUT THAT THEY WERE UNDER THE JURISDICTION OF STATE LAWS AND MUST BE PROCEEDED AGAINST BY STATE OFFICIALS.

Boss Croker declares that only Republicans are responsible for the wickedness of the Tammany Ice Trust. Croker is somewhat of a joker.

The dives and brothels of New York are being levied upon for Democratic campaign funds. Boss Croker is a relentless collector.

The Hon. John B. Stanchfield, the Democratic nominee for Governor of New York, was an ardent expansionist before his selection by the Saratoga convention. In a public address he scored the advocates of the scuttle policy and declared his intention of supporting the government in its policy toward its new possessions. However his change of mind will not be any more radical than the action of Boss Croker and Mr. Olney in the same matter. When politics steps in there is but little room for patriotism.

The political party that promotes strikes doesn't produce prosperity

Possibly Prof. Harper might induce the country to take more interest in his theory of living on its cents a day if it were not so confident of the defeat of Mr. Bryan.

There is no Mrs. David B. Hill to claim that the recent fight with Boss Croker was a false affair.

In looking about for an industry that has declined under a Republican administration the gentlemen who are compounding the Democratic campaign literature should not overlook pugilism. Some of his leading exponents have left the country in disgust.

Criticism of Governor Roosevelt's military career in the interest of Mr. Bryan and Adlai Stevenson will be sure to strike the country as a decided bit of nerve.

George Fred Williams has figured out the election of the Kansas City ticket from the returns from Vermont and Maine. George Fred is every bit good on election returns as he is on finance.

Candidate Wharton Barker is unable to understand why all of the merriment should be directed at him so long as Chairman Jones indulges in his predictions.

Perhaps the able growlers will now proceed to discover that there is a regret alliance by which we nobody Bryan's good, Goldbugs, 0-18, Silver-food.

You voted for Prosperity and got it. Are you now going to vote against it?

It is said that Mr. Cleveland will not lift a finger for the Kansas City ticket. He is not so obliging as those members of his cabinet who propose to hold their seats while voting for it.

The Democratic issue of contraction is one which doesn't appeal strongly to the voters.

In June, 1893, the bank clearings of fifty-five of the principal cities of the United States aggregated $3,576,315,330, a decrease of 21 per cent from June, 1892. In June, 1896, the bank clearings of the country showed an increase of 21 per cent over June, 1898, and for this June, of the year "of the Promotest Era of the Republic," the vast aggregate of the bank clearings of the United States was $6,621,068,707. It will be the most interesting feature of the campaign when the Democratic Free Silver Populistic calamity howlers tackles the above figures.

From a nation of borrowers we have become a lending nation, and interest rates are cheaper today in the United States than anywhere else on earth. In place of selling bonds in time of peace we are paying bonds in time of war, all of which proves that the claim of national prosperity is based on substantial facts.

Labor is busy, is better paid and has to work shorter hours than in any other country on earth. Under the Republican administration of the government, he is today better fed, better housed, better clothed, better educated than anywhere else on God's green earth and he will be slow to vote for a change.

No other nation on earth supports so few soldiers. Notwithstanding the rebellion on Luzon, the troubles in China and the temporary intervention in Cuba, less than one person in every thousand of our population wears a uniform or carries a gun, a record without parallel in the history of any people, ancient or modern.

The declaration against trusts in the Republican platform is far more important than anything Mr. Bryan can say on the subject. It is the voice of the party in power a party that carries its plat-

C

FOR USE NOT BEFORE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 3

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The New York Police Commission has promptly refused to cross discipline the officers who clubbed the negroes during the race riots in this city. Yet these Democratic gentlemen are much interested in the cause of Aguinaldo.

Mr. Altgeld as the Attorney General of a Bryan administration would be every bit as appropriate as a Bryan administration.

The people most affected by the strike of the coal miners are poor. The victims of this Democratic enterprise will be the misguided miners and the small consumers.

The man who induces his neighbor to forfeit his daily pay for selfish reasons is a nuisance to the community.

EX-SECRETARY OLNEY WAS THE MAN WHO ADVISED PRESIDENT CLEVELAND TO USE FEDERAL TROOPS AGAINST THE STRIKERS IN CHICAGO DURING THE TERM OF THE LAST DEMOCRATIC ADMINISTRATION.

The Democratic managers lost interest in Oom Paul when they ascertained that he had no notion of making contributions to their campaign fund.

The rebellion against the domination of Boss Croker is spreading. It looks as if Mr. Hill might reserve his smile for the later events.

When the interrogation point is used in connection with North Carolina Mr. Bryan exercises the privilege of the prize-fighter and side steps.

Alabama sold twenty thousand tons of pig iron to foreign buyers in August, the largest output for the European trade in the history of that state. Alabama is for Sound Money and Expansion.

Boss Croker has an anti-ice trust plank in his platform, but he holds onto his stock in the trust.

The country responded liberally to the cal. Galveston's relief. Political and sectional lines not permitted to stand in the way of national unity.

Boss Croker appears to have retained the Hon. Augustus Van Wyck as his official platform-maker.

The New York Journal is the most distinguished and vigorous of the Bryan organs. It utilizes the largest street type in gloating over the strike of the coal miners.

The gold Democrats of Maryland, who assisted in electing a Democratic Governor and Legislature in that state, have reorganized and will do everything in their power to bring about Republican success this year. When they rallied to the support of Gov. Smith they announced that, if the Democratic National convention made the financial execution an issue, they would duplicate their position in 1896 and they have kept their word.

It is not necessary to go back to 1896 to find inconsistencies in Bryanite speeches. The trade prosperity now being enjoyed by Porto Rico destroys some of the latter-day utterances.

It doesn't require a vast amount of strain on the mental organs to recall the fact that the Democrats in Congress voted to continue imperialism in Hawaii.

You voted for Prosperity and got it. Are you now going to vote against it?

Mr. Bryan dodges questions concerning political liberty in North Carolina with the same dexterity that he evades his predictions of 1896.

In his speeches Congressman Boutwell admits that Bryan's election would disturb business, but adds that this result would "only be temporary." The assurance that the panic would end some time would hardly induce men of sound judgment to help bring it about.

A Bryan paper claims to have taken a straw vote among 4,176 men crossing Brooklyn bridge and its figures indicate that McKinley will carry Greater New York by 27,000 instead of 61,000 as in 1896. A Republican majority of any size in New York City is a good enough straw for the rest of the country.

Candidate Bryan says we cannot secure title to a foreign country by conquest. According to that theory we must have acquired Texas and Louisiana on a Christmas tree.

Prosperity continues to be the paramount issue of the Republicans, and it is a sound and substantial issue that exists everywhere.

When Mr. Bryan or any fusion orator begins denouncing Bryan trusts, ask him what anti-trusts has a Democratic Congress ever enacted.

When a former gold Democrat concludes to support Bryan the first thing he does is to present a written apology for so doing. He feels that much is due to his conscience, if not to the public.

"How are you going to vote this time?" inquired the honey-fuddled Son of Toil.

"For my bread and butter," answered the Plodding Wage-Worker.

The New York "Staats-Zeitung" says the Germans "insist upon a dollar of any kind of money being worth 100 cents—no more and no less. Bryan will get no votes from men holding this view.

According to the census returns the population of Lincoln, Neb. has increased from 55,154 in 1890 to 40,169 in 1900. That town affords a striking example of the effects of the anti-expansion policy so earnestly advocated by its leading citizen.

Chairman Jones is now considering what state he had best carry next.

#116

B

FOR USE NOT BEFORE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 3

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

With a cash capital of $8,663,000,000, Uncle Sam can well afford to do a banking business with the rest of the world, provided the security is ample.

Galveston possesses sufficient American pluck to rebuild itself and regain its former prestige. No representative American city will surrender to disaster.

Boss Croker's ambition to sit in the United States Senate is a trifle more pretentious than that of the late Boss Kelly. The latter was content with a seat in the House of Representatives.

The cry of imperialism didn't frighten the Vermont and Maine voters worth a cent. The Democratic party was not fortunate with its scarecrow this year.

Mr. Olney's reasons for supporting Bryan this year conflict seriously with his reasons for opposing it in 1896.

You voted for Prosperity and got it. Are you now going to vote against it?

Mr. Gorman sort with the Democratic managers in New York last week, asked a few pertinent questions they were unable to answer and then adjourned to his Maryland home.

Mr. Hill says he is enthusiastic for the Croker ticket, but he has not retracted any of the predictions he made before its nomination.

The increase in the price of cotton is another things that would worry the Democrats in the South if "government without the constitution" didn't prevail in that section.

Governor Roosevelt's hearty reception throughout the West is in striking contrast to the greeting accorded the Democratic orators who are roaming about that section preaching calamity.

How would an unsuccessful American army be welcomed home? How many Americans yearn for an opportunity to withdraw our troops in the Philippines concede such a return?

The political party that deliberately promotes strikes is naturally opposed to prosperity in any shape or form.

Mr. Pettigrew is involved in a joint debate with the farmers of South Dakota. He is supported by his wild theories and the farmers rely largely upon common sense and the market quotations.

There is no doubt of the sincerity of the Delaware Democrats in their desire to carry that state. They omitted the names of the Democratic presidential nominees from their resolutions.

It is but natural that Chairman Jones should feel a trifle jealous of the prefecting department of the Hon. George Fred Williams.

The last Democratic administration gave the people plenty of work—hard work hunting employment at living wages.

The encouragement of labor strikes for political purposes is liable to produce boomerangic effects.

Boss Croker has disposed of the Crier gubernatorial candidacy and is urged his talk of the desirability of interesting the young men in politics.

After hearing from Vermont and Maine the Hon. George Fred Williams places Mr. Bryan's majority in the electoral college at twenty-five. George Fred is not dazed by a little thing like an exploded prediction.

"Within a few months I will be supposed to have discover the hole where Wellington went down. He has already ceased to create any interest in Maryland.

Have you registered?

"Judging from Roosevelt's letter of acceptance he can handle the pen and the gun with equal facility.

Mayor Harrison, of Chicago, is a Bryan man but he does not claim that Chicago is a Bryan city.

Labor Note—A short day is better than a short dollar.

The ice trust plank in the Tammany platform is expected to melt out of sight in the heat of the campaign.

Carl Schurz insists that it is very wrong for Secretary Gage to excite the people to apprehension about Democratic financiering when Mr. Bryan is trying to scare them with imperialism.

One of the queerest things about the Southern States is that they believe in Republican policies and yet vote the Democratic ticket. What the South needs is an absolute divorce from her political prejudices.

Mr. Bryan says, "imperialism" is paramount, but the Kansas City platform says that the free-silver business is immediate.

A prosperity point of no little force comes from Lincoln, Neb., where a street paving has had to be suspended there because of the inability of the interrupted there to secure the necessary laborers. Four contractors to secure the necessary laborers. Four years ago no such dilemma confronted them.

Not a word about the financial question is found in the New York Democratic platform.

Mr. Bryan forgot to mention that the greatest increase in population thus far shown in this country has been made by South Omaha, Neb., where a number of big packing establishments, all of them "in restraint of trade," have been built up and have five years, attracting by that means thousands of honest workmen.

D

FOR USE NOT BEFORE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 3

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, Oct. —(Special).—The best informed Democrats cannot yet figure out the possibility of Bryan's success, because they think either Bryan's majority must be carried before he New York or Illinois must be carried before he could be elected. But there is a broad grin on the face of "Slippery Joe" Richardson these days, for he thinks the Republicans will not carry the next House, which would make Richardson Speaker. A great deal of attention is being given to this particular branch of the campaign by the Democrats, and they are counting on success. In this they are encouraged, as usual, by having a certain sure thing to start with, the solid South. The handicap the Republicans have in the national campaign is 146 electoral votes from the South, of which there is not the least question. With the present electoral machinery, the disfranchisement of the colored men, and methods by which the South has been kept solid for many years, the Democrats count upon 114 members of Congress from the same section. Unless the Republicans in the North should be able to overcome the handicap there will be no possibility of giving seats to those men who have been defeated by fraud and intimidation or ruthlessly counted out. With this 114 as a sale starter, they have but to obtain sixty-five other members in all the other thirty-two states to carry the House. It is a tremendous struggle the Republicans have every two years with this Southern handicap against them.

Applied to the national campaign it will be seen that, starting with 146 votes absolutely sure from thirteen Southern states, the Democrats must get but eighty-two in the other thirty-two states to win. Seven states—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania and Iowa—are the only rock-ribbed sure Republican states. The others are tonight for and sometimes carried by the Democrats. Even Pennsylvania and Maine have been known to go Democratic. There are some other states which are, this year, as strongly Republican as those given, but a campaign of vigor and aggressiveness may carry them, while in the others the Democrats are making their contest. A Democratic Senatorative from the South told me the other day that they did not have to make a campaign in the South. He was going to make a few speeches in his district as a matter of form, and would then devote his time to the Northern states. With this state of affairs it behooves Republicans to WORK AND NEGLECT NOTHING. This is no time for bickering or for factional fights. Every Republican big enough for a Congressman should be big enough this year to sacrifice himself if need be for the party.

This is what the Democrats are doing. Take West Virginia as an example. In every Congressional district the old politicians have stood aside for rich and popular men, who have never carred for Congressional life, may be nominated. Nominations have been forced upon this class of men. In order to carry the Legislature and defeat Senator Elkins, similar nominations have been made in the Legislative districts. It is a time when the Republicans should make some sacrifices for the party in order to secure success, both of the National and Congressional tickets.

I heard a pair of Democrats explaining how they were meeting the Prosperity and Full Dinner Pail argument, that is taking so well with the people everywhere. One of them said:

"We will use what Bryan said to the workingmen: 'Suppose you are prosperous and have work and enough to eat, how much votes do you have in the government?' That will set them thinking and make them dissatisfied."

That's just it. Anything to make the people dissatisfied. No matter how prosperous they are convince them that they have not their just share in running the government, and get them to vote the Democratic ticket. That is a strong Bryan argument, and it is one that appeals to prosperity through the ignorance of the people he is talking to. In intelligent men know that they have just as much share in running the government as they would if Bryan were elected. They know that each man has one vote and no more, and each man is a part of the government to that extent and no more.

But the villainous proposed to make men dissatisfied with their prosperity, with the advantages they are enjoying, in order to make Bryan President and give Democratic offices, was the insuperable feature of the proposition.

A little conversation regarding anti-convention fusion in the Democratic party serves to show why there is not so much heard of the "boss" cry from the Democratic party just now. It came out over the unimportant fight the District of Columbia Democrats are having about a member of the National Committee. Chairman Jones and Bryan favor the anti-Norris wing, because Norris prevented Bryan instructions when his delegation was elected.

"We were the regular delegation," said a Norris man.

"Yes, but we were instructed for Bryan," was the reply.

"Suppose you were; what difference does that make?"

"Well, all I know is that as soon as the uninstructed delegation was seated we went out to every state to have all delegates thereafter instructed for Bryan, and we were carried out."

"Where did the orders come from?"

"From headquarters, from Senators Jones, they went to every state so as to prevent the possibility of defeating Bryan's nomination."

"Well, that looks like boss-ism."

"Call it what you will, it is unfair."

This, coupled with the boss-ism charge against Bryan over the Kansas City convention explains why "boss-ism" is not one of the leading cards of the Democrats this year.

McKinley's letter of acceptance has clearly and concisely met every charge of "imperialism." There is nothing more to be said on the subject. The "imperialistic" cry was a trick, need so to speak, and has been taken up and pursued by the greatest trickster of the age—Bryan. A distinguished member of the class has left nothing to the Democratic argument.

[illegible] the Philippine Commission

B

FOR USE NOT BEFORE WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 19

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The commercial travelers of the country were not so heavily impressed with the last Democratic administration as to demand an encore.

Not a single nation disputes our possession of the Philippines. The only organized opposition to the consummation of the Paris treaty comes from Aguinaldo and the Democratic party.

* * *

The Hon. Grover Cleveland has not formally declared for the Philadelphia ticket, but he has advised a correspondent to vote according to his "conscience and informed patriotic sense."

Mr. Bryan declares the farmers cannot be deceived by reports of prosperity. No, indeed; they know the real thing when they experience it.

The Hon. George Fred Williams charges that Minister Conger is prejudiced against the Boxers. Of course, an unprejudiced person like George Fred would highly enjoy being walled in and shot at for three weeks.

The Hon. Sixto Lopez, owing to the regulations governing treasons, will not be able to come to this country and make speeches for the Kansas City ticket, but he is writing Bryan and Stevenson letters with all the vigor of an Altgeld or a Sulzer.

The Hon. Charles A. Towne says we are "existing in the shadow of an empire." This is the same Mr. Towne who joined the Democratic party in order to save the country with the free silver cure.

The Hon. Tom L. Johnson, millionaire, has returned from Europe and is prepared to renew his attack upon plutocracy.

Keep the fling flying.

Minera, don't forget that Bryan is for free coal.

In his speech of acceptance Mr. Bryan tried to call forth Moses from his unmarked grave to save the Republic. But Moses' first great achievement was to save his country from the effects of hard times, bad crops and famine. He then went in for expansion without asking the consent of the governed, so Moses' mantle will not fit Mr. Bryan any better than Jefferson's, Jackson's or Lincoln's.

Notwithstanding the bad luck they had with that affair out in Idaho, the Democratic managers tried to promote another miners' strike. The Democratic party goes to the school of experience constantly, but it is a very stupid scholar.

Mr. Bryan has abandoned his front porch as heretofully as he did some of his stump theories.

Mr. Bryan is showing a little more caution than his political advisers. He is waiting for the result of the outbreak in China before arraying himself against it. The Hon. George Fred Williams, the Hon. James Hamilton Lewis and other eminent Democratic leaders are already firmly committed against the outcome, whatever it may be.

The appearance of Mr. Bryan on the stump in West Virginia was in the nature of an unkind reflection upon the Hon. Webster Davis. Mr. Davis made one speech in that state last month and reported it solid for the Kansas City ticket.

Ex-Governor Altgeld has called upon the Democrats to protect themselves against frauds at the ballot box. Possibly he is afraid that somebody might attempt to take advantage of the Kentucky Goebelites.

Keep the ming goes.

Some of the most political objects asked Mr. Bryan come from men he wheedled into voting for him in 1896. Naturally the Democratic common prefers new and innocent victims.

The anti-imperialists of Jefferson's day were responsible for the attempt of Aaron Burr to establish an Empire in the Southwest. He counted on the discontent of the people whom Jefferson governed without their consent.

The Democrats are taking as much pains this year to explain that they would not try to change the present gold standard as they took in 1896 to tell how soon they would inaugurate a silver era in the event of their victory at the polls.

One good term deserves another. Moral: Reelect McKinley.

The Party (Democratic) stands where it did in 1896 on the Money Question.—Wm. J. Bryan, Zanesville, O., Sept. 4, 1900.

The London newspapers are discussing the "Sources of Mr. Bryan's strength." We should think this topic would be very interesting in London, and that the London newspapers, of all publications in the world, would know the most about it.

Theodore Roosevelt continues to trouble the Democrats greatly.

It is undoubtedly true, as a Western Democratic organ, or a Western newspaper formerly Democratic, has said, that Mr. Bryan has slammed the door in the faces of the Gold Democrats.

After all, the paramount issue, as Bryan views it, is: "Any old thing to win."

The bee-keepers met in Chicago the other day and announced that the busy bee was keeping a big end of prosperity by producing 200,000,000 orth of honey annually for the past three years.

Post-mortems upon the Indianapolis proceedings find that the Bogie Man Supreme Bench is out of inanition; Dr. Bryan's efforts at resuscitation were not sufficiently vigorous.

D

FOR USE NOT BEFORE WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 19

NEW YORK LETTER.

New York, Sept. —(Special)—Carl Schurz has broken loose again, and strange to say, some Republican editors are paying attention to him. Those who know Schurz are, of course, well aware that he went out of politics with the Hayes administration, and that his whole career has been one of agitation, inconsistency, and false pretence. At one time it was not the custom for political speakers to be paid for their services, and those of us older fellows, with good memories, recall that the Senator Roscoe Conkling rose on the Senate once and admitted with considerable shame, that Carl Schurz had received money for making campaign addresses, which was then a new thing.

* * *

Republican apathy still continues, though perhaps the indifferent attention paid to the radical issues presented by the Populist-Democracy is beginning to attract more attention. There is a quiet undercurrent running towards Republican mouthings of the Altgelds, Lentzs, Sulzers and even spoces which seem not to be overlooked, but which, nevertheless, does not remove the need for causing all patriotic voters to realize the exact situation. That undercurrent is due to the predominance of the belief, now partly explained and credible, that Bryan's election means a silver basis and a business depression that we cannot stand, or indeed a pauc possibly. Certain Democrats like Edward M. Shepperd, declare that this would be "a small price to pay," but a violent revolution against that revolutionary sentiment has set in, and the more conservative voters, the clerks in the thousands of stores, the tens of thousands who earn small salaries, and the tens of thousands, also, who are earning good wages, and, in short, the great salaried and wage-earning mass are beginning to realize somewhat, as they did in '96, though perhaps with greater acuteness now, the absolute danger of this proceeding.

There is another growing sentiment throughout the East, which will help the Republicans, if it doesn't injure them by contributing to an over-confidence. The real belief entertained by hundreds of thousands all through the Eastern country, where manufacturers and commerce are the dominating powers in the business world, is that, whether the world-wide competition and clash of civilization against barbarism precedes a war sometimes and may be considered the cause of it, or whether the competition is harder after the war, this expansion of a growing National commerce, for that is really the only word for it, is one of those irresistible, economic forces that it is the part of statesmanship to take account of. This is why ten thousand, yes, a hundred thousand manufacturers in this country are now studying foreign markets as never before, why the steamship lines and railroad lines were never so busy as now; why international tariff treaties have already become matters of pressing moment; why diplomacy might be called the transaction of business between nations, has become of surpassing importance; and why, mind you, the work of John Hay, and his quiet, plodding, long-headed superior officer, William McKinley, has received from the hitherto inconsiderable power of this same kind of growing nation.

Now, this is simply expansion. That is what the word means; and the spirit of it is interesting throughout the East and we are glad to be infected by it. We see, not the mere additional dollars coming into our farmers and transportation people and manufacturers and exporters, but that that work has a power that the secondary effect upon the country at large is simply incalculable. It is the salary value of our whole civilization, as well as of our commerce.

* * *

There is another means by which the American love of fair play is going to help the people who are in, who have had responsibilities, and who have not hesitated to do their duty. Here, for the or three months it has given us, in the whole these interesting exhibitions of diplomacy that are simply superb, and it not underestimate the number and difficulty of the complex problems we should simply marvel at the judgment and success with which they have been handled. By the way, to-day we read that the Civil Government there, the government of the Commission, is about to supersede the Military one. There are robbers yet, many bands of them, no doubt, throughout the islands; but the great and good protecting wing of peace, order and strength, is now stretched out farther than ever before. We are showing day by day, not merely what we would like to do, but rather what we are doing as fast as we can.

The strangest phase of latter-day politics is the effort, which of course Populist organs are making, the most of, of an alleged million, or ten million members of the W. C. T. U. to pray Mr. Bryan into the Presidency. The Democratic managers will make the most of this so-called anti-canteen crusade in every way. The facts are well known, however, and it is confidently believed by the Republican managers that nearly all of the temperance people will be found in November ranged on the side of Sound Money, Protection to the Supreme Court and to law and order, Expansion and the extension of missionary work with it, and to a brave, true support of the flag wherever it floats.

One of the most influential temperance advocates in the country, the Rev. Dr. Theodore L. Cuyler, is out for the President as against anti-Imperialism, so called, stating it as a positive absurdity that such a man as Mr. Bryan, with such advisers and influences as surround him, should be trusted with progress and morality at home or abroad.

* * *

Ex-Senator Edmunds has drawn attention to the fact that if Mr. Bryan were elected President he could and undoubtedly would change the whole complexion of the Supreme Court as soon as possible. It is now shown that the Populist candidate, with his Altgelds around him, could easily do this, for seven of the Justices might go during the next four years, all except two members of the court being eligible to retire during that time. It is further shown that four vacancies upon the Supreme Bench are entirely probable within the next four years, and that, according to all the precedents and the law of averages in reference to administrations, as many vacancies in the Supreme Court are likely

DEMOCRATS KICKING AT PROSPERITY OF FARMERS

Farm Products Advance More Than the Goods That Farmers Have to Buy at the Stores

EVIDENT CAUSE OF MORTGAGE CANCELING

The Democratic fault-finders base their efforts to create discontent among the farmers in 1900 upon a different plane from that of 1896. Then their complaint was that the prices of farm products were too low. Now they complain that the farmers are too prosperous and the prices of their products are too high.

Mr. Bryan was nominated in Chicago on July 10, 1896, and again at Kansas City on July 5, 1900. Let us take the quotations of the first week in July, 1896, and July, 1900, the respective dates are brought as nearly as practicable to the dates of his respective nominations.

Nobody will question the fairness of selecting wheat, corn, oats, lard, pork, beef, cotton, wool, hay and butter as ten representative articles of farm production, nor will anybody question the fairness of selecting sugar, tea, coffee, rice, petroleum, leather, cotton cloth, tin plate, steel (from which binder twine is made) and Bessemer pig iron (the basis of all agricultural requirements in iron and steel) as ten representative articles of farm consumption.

The tables which follow show the prices of the ten articles of farm production and of an equal number of articles of farm consumption at the dates named and the percentage of increase in each article, also the average increase, at the date of Mr. Bryan's second nomination as compared with the prices at the date of his first nomination:

The prices of Ten Principal Articles of Farm Production in New York Market at dates of Mr. Bryan's first and second nominations, showing the per cent of increase in 1900 over 1896.

| Articles of Farm Production. | July 2, 1896. | July 5, 1900. | Per cent of increase. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Wheat, per bushel | .53 1-2 | .88 | 65 |
| Corn, per bushel | .33 1-2 | .49 5-8 | 34 |
| Oats, per bushel | .21 1-4 | .28 1-2 | 34 |
| Lard, per lb | .0425 | .0715 | 60 |
| Mess Pork, per bbl | *8.75 | $14.00 | 60 |
| Beef, family, per lb | 8.50 | 12.00 | 41 |
| Cotton, per lb | .06 13-16 | .10 1-16 | 56 |
| Wool, Ohio XX, per lb | .17 | .28 1-2 | 68 |
| †Hay per ton | 14.02 | 15.58 | 11 |
| †Butter, per lb | .131 | .18 | 37 |
| Average increase | | | 45.5% |

*At New Orleans.
†Export prices.

The prices of Ten Principal Articles of Farm Consumption in New York Market at dates of Mr. Bryan's first and second nominations, showing the per cent of increase or decrease:

| Articles of Farm Consumption. | July 3, 1896. | July 5, 1900. | Per cent of increase or decrease. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Rice, per lb | .04 1-2 | .05 | 11 |
| Sisal, per lb | .03 1-2 | .05 8-4 | 64 |
| Bessemer Pig Iron, per ton | $12.25 | $18.50 | 33 |
| Petroleum, per gal., in bbls | .0690 | .0785 | 14 |
| Tin Plate | .0347 1-2 | .0483 | 40 |
| Coffee, per lb | .0518 1-4 | .04 1-6 | —21 |
| Leather, Oak, per lb | .28 | .35 | 25 |
| Sugar, per lb | .0460 | .0589 | 24 |
| *Tea, per lb | .149 | .146 | —02 |
| †Cotton Cloth, unbleached, yard | .054 | .037 | —26 |
| Average increase | | | 19% |

*Import price; does not include war tax.
†Export price.

It will be seen by an examination of the tables that in every article of farm production named there has been an increase in price ranging (with a single exception) from 35 per cent to 68 per cent, or an average increase in the entire series of articles of 45.8 per cent.

In the list of articles of farm consumption there is a reduction in price in two of the articles named, while the increase in the other articles ranges much lower than that of the farm products, the average increase for the entire series of articles of farm consumption being 19 per cent.

Thus we see that in ten representative articles of farm consumption, the average increase has been 19 per cent, while in the ten equally representative articles of farm production, the increase has been 45.8 per cent.

Now take the single item of farm production upon which the fault-finders base their arguments and by which they measure all articles of farm consumption, namely, wheat. How do you suppose it happened that they have selected this particular article "wheat," by which to measure everything else? There is corn; its acreage in the United States in 1890 was practically double that of wheat, its production four times as many bushels and its actual value, as estimated by the York market, 64½c per bushel, and on July 5, 1900, was 88c per bushel.

Now let us follow the same general plan adopted in the other comparisons and by selecting ten principal articles of farm consumption, obtain their relative prices in the New York market in 1896 and 1900, at the dates nearest Mr. Bryan's nomination, and then find out what quantity of each bushel of wheat, at the prices named at these two dates, would have bought. The articles of farm consumption selected for this comparison are equally representative with those of farm production above named, namely, sugar, coffee, petroleum, rice, salt, leather, cotton cloths, starch, mackerel and cut nails. The authority for the prices is the same as that already utilized—the bureau of statistics.

In every case the quantity of these representative articles of farm consumption which a bushel of wheat would buy in 1900 is greater than a bushel of wheat could have bought in 1896.

Purchasing power of one bushel of wheat at the date of Mr. Bryan's first and second nominations, respectively, in ten different articles of ordinary farm consumption, basing the price of each article upon that quoted in the New York market at the respective dates:

(Compiled from official reports of the bureau of statistics.)

Quantity which

E750.R #2 X-E738 .R4

RAILROAD PROSPERITY.

How Southern Industries Have Improved with the Better Condition of the Southern Roads.

BENEFITS OF SOUND MONEY AND EXPANSION.

The railroads of the Southern States experienced, during the fiscal year 1895-1896, by far the most prosperous period in their history, and this, too, notwithstanding the fact that the previous year, 1894-1895, broke the record of the 1887-1888 year by a big margin, which, in turn, had surpassed the business returns of former years by a great leap and a bound.

POPULAR DIFFUSION OF THE BENEFITS.

The phenomenal increase in the property of Southern transportation companies has meant:

First. Enormous gains to the investors in the stocks and bonds of Southern railroads. Southern people where savings were invested in these Southern properties, have had their incomes materially increased. They have had opportunity given them for further investment in home industries. The holders of these securities in the North and abroad have had their quiescence strengthened by the stability and profitableness of business conditions in the South, and were disposed to increase their investments in that section.

Second. The gains in net earnings, while enormous, have not been at all proportional to gains in gross earnings. The reason is that Southern railroad labor has had its proper share in the increased prosperity. With better times, not only have the wages of employes been greatly increased, but extensive improvements in construction and additions to track mileage have caused a still further big difference among the industrial workers of the South, of the increased profits of Southern railroads.

Third. The greater profits of the Southern railroads have represented considerably larger business on a somewhat smaller margin of profit—but higher trade. At the same time the shipping interests have been distinctly benefited by the good times to the roads, not only in lower relative rates, but in improved facilities for the marketing of goods, especially in connection with the opening of new country through increased railroad building.

SOUTH HAS THE LEADING SHARE.

Following are the earnings of railroads belonging to the southern and southwestern groups for the fiscal years ended June 30, 1900, and June 30, 1899:

| | Gross. 1900. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Southern ..... | $63,555,255 | $55,387,097 |
| Southwestern ..... | 31,375,191 | 43,154,774 |
| | Net. 1900. | 1899. |
| Southern ..... | $19,918,152 | $18,217,272 |
| Southwestern ..... | 17,600,117 | 13,885,551 |

In the case of the Southwestern group, including lines in Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Kansas and Colorado, the increase in net earnings was 29.19 per cent., which is greater than that of any other group of systems in the United States. In the case of the Southern group embracing lines in states south of the Potomac, the Ohio and the Mississippi, the increase was 9.32 per cent., which was exceeded only by that of the Southwestern group, the eastern trunk line group, with increase of 35.33 per cent., and the middle group, with increase of 13.82 per cent., and was almost equal to the increase in the six remaining principal railroad groups of the United States.

The mileage for the southern group was 29,928 in 1900 as against 30,844 in 1899; for the southwestern group, 19,017, as against 19,179 in 1899.

The prosperity of Southern railroads is still increasing at a rapid pace, as returns for August show. The following are comparative figures for a period of two years:

| | Southwestern. | Southern. |
|---|---|---|
| 1900..... | $6,452,064 | $9,858,465 |
| 1899..... | 1,768,606 | 8,278,171 |
| 1898..... | 6,741,539 | 8,019,940 |
| 1897..... | 8,937,263 | 7,374,828 |
| 1896..... | 5,931,779 | 8,584,285 |

COMMON SENSE VS. WASTEFUL FOLLY.

An examination of the reasons for the phenomenal increase in the prosperity of southern railroads, shows that they are associated with matters of national policy, which, during the past four years, have been matters of Republican policy.

The price of the great southern staple, cotton, went up from five to seven cents, and from seven cents to ten cents per pound, for the primary reason that the general policy prevailed of opening to American mills to labor instead of American mints to silver. A large number of the mills thus opened were cotton mills, and the section where nearly all of the new ones were opened was the South.

Money has loaned at lower rates of interest; both agricultural and manufacturing industry, as well as railroad service, "has risen from a discredited and inefficient state of insignificance to a prosperous and thoroughly efficient trunk line." The report of this road for the last fiscal year showed that, while the tonnage movement had increased eighteen per cent. over the previous year, the rate average had gone down to the phenomenally low figure of a trifle over one-third of a cent per ton per mile, while earnings of freight trains had risen from $1.53 to $1.67 per mile.

THE AVERAGE RATE ON COAL DROPPED FROM 2.74 MILLS TO 2.02 MILLS OR TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT. IN A TWELVE MONTH, AND IT WAS MADE NECESSARY TO MOVE FIVE TONS OF COAL ONE MILE TO MAKE A CENT! YET THE GROSS EARNINGS WERE THE LARGEST IN THE COMPANY'S HISTORY, THE GROSS INCREASING OVER THE PREVIOUS YEAR $1,292,231 AND THE NET $281,976.

In the case of the Norfolk and Western, President Fink recently showed that rates on sidewater bituminous coal had reached the lowest level in the history of the road. The road in question has shown more remarkable financial improvement during the last three years. Bankrupt during the preceding hard times, it was reorganized in 1896. The gross earnings rose in two years from $11,225,128 to $14,040,004, and the net from $3,556,024 to $5,539,819. Expenditures for improvements were for the last year $1,062 per mile of road operated, as against $788 per mile the preceding year. The recent annual report significantly tells the prosperity story also as follows.

"Among the industries established during the year there were in operation, or under construction at the close of the year, the following:

7 New Cotton Mills. 1 Flour Mill.
1 Silk Mill. 1 Knitting Works.
3 Knitting Factories. 3 Peanut Factories.
1 Pulp Mill. 1 Furniture Works.
1 Cotton and Linseed Oil Mill. 1 Essay Works.
1 Coke Bi-Product Plant. 1 Handle Factory.
4 Iron and Steel Works. 3 Stave Works.
1 Hosiery Factory. 3 Planing Mills.
16 Saw Mills.

THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY.

The feature of the recent report of President Spencer, of the Southern Railway, was his showing that transportation rates had not increased. Yet expenditures for labor and material were extraordinary. And this road also showed big profits, for notwithstanding that gross earnings had increased 15.07 per cent. in 1896, they had grown in 1899, they increased in the present fiscal year 14.5 per cent. On June 30, 1896, the system comprised 4,392 miles of road. On June 30, 1900, it embraced no less than 5,431 miles. In both 1893-94 and 1894-95 gross earnings on the old mileage fell short of $15,000,000. For 1898-1899 the total, on an average of 5,306 miles, was over $17,000,000. In the last year alone the increase was $5,347,183.

BONUS TO RAILROAD LABOR.

The chief through line from Chicago to New Orleans (912 miles), is the Illinois Central. The receipts per train for the last year were $1.29-05, against only $1.16-14 in 1896-99, and $1.25-94 in 1897-98. Strikes given in the recent report bring out the fact that the property, either leased in 1890 receipts per mile which were $1,000 less than the average of all the railroads in the United States, in 1899 had receipts exceeding that average by $854 per mile.

This company several weeks ago furnished to the "Telegraph Employees' Political League of America, interesting statistics as to the enormous increase in amount of money paid employes in 1900 over 1898. The statement was:

| | 1898. | 1900. | Increase. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Miles of road operated. | 3,067 | 3,845 | 778 |
| No. of men employed. | 19,647 | 22,205 | 2,758 |
| Wages paid. | $9,487,021 | $12,254,570 | $2,767,549 |
| No. tons carried... | 8,859,213 | 10,020,836 | 6,381,823 |

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE.

The earnings of the Louisville and Nashville for the last year amounted to $27,715,000, an increase of $5.9 per cent over 1895-96. Its net earnings were $8,844,000, an increase. Expenses from all sources, a surplus is left for the present year of $2,112,000, out of which dividends amounting to $2,112,000 will be paid. Its net earnings per mile increased from $2,322 to $2,746, or 18.7 per cent. The greater part of the enormous surplus will be devoted to betterments that mean a larger employment of labor.

CENTRAL OF GEORGIA.

The Central of Georgia, in years gone by, one of the most prosperous sys-

E750.R #120 X.E738 .R4

JOHN H. BARROWS

President of Oberlin College and the Former Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of Chicago, is Out for McKinley

President John H. Barrows, of Oberlin College, Ohio, former pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of Chicago, one of the best posted Orientalists in America, and well known throughout the religious circles of the world, Pagan as well as Christian, in connection with the famous parliament of religions held in Chicago in 1893, has written a remarkably strong letter in favor of the re-election of President McKinley. It is addressed to F. B. Whitney, manager of the Republican College League. The letter follows in part:

"The triumphant re-election of President McKinley is demanded on grounds of patriotism, good sense, national honor. I agree heartily with Dr. Albert Shaw that Mr. McKinley is the best equipped man in America for the Presidency of the Republic. He has gained in public estimation, and grown in wisdom much after the manner of Abraham Lincoln. His temper is very much like that of Lincoln, and the criticisms which he has borne are precisely those which were made against our martyred President.

"We have already expanded; the nation is out of its shell. We must adapt ourselves to new responsibilities. I agree heartily with those who regard Imperialism as a false issue, a bugaboo, a ghost, a meaningless phantom. America has destroyed imperialism in the East and West Indies. The talk about militarism is, of course, the sheerest nonsense, and known to be such by those who are guilty of such reckless speech. Every sensible man knows that Mr. McKinley is a peace lover and peace maker, and not a dictator. He has none of the qualities or ambitions of a Caesar. The New York Times has well said: 'The man on horseback cannot keep his ear to the ground.'

"I am in hearty sympathy with the cry, 'Four more years of the full dinner-pail.' It was said, 'Man does not live by bread alone.' But he must have bread or he cannot live. Jesus Christ made bread for the multitudes. When the contest is between a full dinner-pail for the working man and an empty or half-filled dinner-pail, such as the Democratic administration helped to provide a few years ago, every benevolent and sensible man should prefer the full dinner-pail. I am persuaded that an empty dinner-pail is utterly unnecessary in America, and that the most emphatic condemnation should be pronounced upon those policies which heretofore have worked disaster to the working men. A full dinner-pail means much physical well-being. It means the possibility of comfort and happiness at home, it means education, it means the preparation for higher and better things.

"I have had a warm admiration for the courage and many intellectual powers of Mr. Bryan. He is a man that has kindled generous enthusiasms and no one has regretted more deeply than I that his great powers were given to the service of false and misleading theories. I have also regretted that during the present campaign he has allowed himself to indulge in much clap-trap, which may and does capture the crowd, but which makes the judicious grieve. Few men in the country seem to me so poorly qualified for the Presidency of the great Republic as Mr. Bryan. He has wrong ideas, he lacks balance and good judgment, he couches his lance against almost every windmill. I do not believe the nation is to suffer no unspeakable calamity and dishonor of a election.

"America has never been so proud a ame to my mind and heart as during the ast few years. The path of national Democratic leadership. Because his election will do more to secure the benefits of sound money than his defeat would do to avert the evils of Imperialism. Because the burial of Bryan now past all hope of political resurrection is the best way to prepare four years hence a Democratic opposition sane and strong enough to undo most of the mischief which has been and will be done by the McKinley Administration."

PRESIDENT G. STANLEY HALL, of Clark University: "I shall vote for McKinley because I fear free silver more than I do Imperialism."

PRESIDENT CARTER, of Williams College: "It is my intention to vote for McKinley. I cannot conceive that the forces and ideas which Mr. Bryan represents can fail to be, if put into the possession of the Government, disastrous to the best interests of the country. It seems to me that neither friendliness between classes, nor sound doctrine in finance, nor the cause of civil-service reform, nor justice to oppressed citizens, nor respect for the established courts will be promoted by his election."

PRESIDENT BUCKHAM, University of Vermont: "I shall vote for McKinley. The greatest dangers to American political life are anarchy and demagogism, and Bryan represents them both. Though I was opposed to the war with Spain, and wish the Philippine question had never risen, I have not seen the time when I wished the course of the Government to be materially different from what it has been."

FROM JONES' OWN STATE

An Arkansas Official Comes Out for McKinley and Roosevelt

Hon. W. H. H. Hanley, three times elected Mayor of Paris, Ark., also county and probate judge of Logan county, Ark., is out for McKinley and Roosevelt. In a letter to the Secretary of the Republican National Committee, Hon. Perry S. Heath, he says in part:

"I feel like I ought to do something or say something to encourage the voters in the contested States to rally to the support of McKinley, and re-elect him by such an over-wheiming vote as to forever crush all opposition to protection, the gold standard, prosperity and prosperity.

"It has been demonstrated that the policies of the Republican party are the policies to be adopted permanently as the settled policy of our government in the administration of public affairs and private business enterprises in our country. The prosperous condition of our people—the laborers all employed at good wages—the railroads doing well and the products of farmers commanding good prices, the balance of foreign trade largely in our favor, our money circulation large and our nation's credit good, seem to indicate that self-interest should prompt the people to vote for a continuance of these conditions.

"Bryan's policy of free trade, free silver and the overturn of the nation's commerce, would ruin the business of our country by precipitating a panic of the most dangerous character. He has a good deal to say about "imperialism," which is a sham issue to conceal his position on the currency question—already been condemned by the people. There are no "imperialists" in this country outside of his own party. Bryan is insincere and dishonest in his affected opposition to imperialism. He also disputes our title to the Philippine Islands and yet he urged his Democratic and Populist friends in the Senate to ratify the treaty by which the sovereignty passed to us. This inconsistency makes him appear as a demagogue instead of a statesman and intelligent voters will so regard him. I hope, when they go to vote in November,

IDAHO REPUBLICAN

Hon. Charles Himrod Says: "When a Man is Well He Don't Need Medicine."—Another Life-Long Democrat Out for McKinley.

Idaho comes to the front again with another of its prominent Democratic citizens who will this year vote the Republican ticket.

Hon. Charles Himrod, cashier of the First National Bank of Idaho, is the man. He has twice been Democratic State Treasurer, and was once Receiver of the Land Office. Now he is for McKinley an Roosevelt. He says:

"When a man is well he don't ne medicine.

"The unprecedented prosperity that have enjoyed for the past three years convinced me that a change to the po advocated in the Democratic platforms 1896 and 1900 would prove almost as di astrous as the panic under the last Den ocratic administration. I can conceive o no calamity that would be so great to ti business interests of the country as th election of Mr. Bryan. Not that the tari would be interfered with in the nea ture, but an event of this kind create such a feeling of uncertainty a distrust in business connections that we could hardly recover from it during his term. Gold would naturally be relegated to the stockings from whence it came in 1897. Capital would be hoarded and necessarily the vast industries of the country would be impeded. While, at present, he is saying nothing about free silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, we all know this to be his pet scheme, and the platform on which he stands advocates this principle.

"In relation to the anti-expansion views expressed in their platform: The Philippine Islands came to us as the result of a war waged in the interest of humanity. They came unbidden. They are ours by conquest and purchase. To virtually pull down our flag in these possessions, after March 4, 1901, would be the darkest blot in the history of American politics.

"HERE WE HAVE AN INSTANCE OF A MAN SEEKING THE VOTES OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE, AND WHO EXPECTS TO BE ELECTED PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, ON AN ISSUE THAT IS FOREIGN TO EVERY PATRIOTIC IMPULSE AND FOREIGN TO EVERY PRINCIPLE OF MANHOOD IN AN AMERICAN.

"I am content to let well enough alo I shall stand by President McKin whose consistent administration, a whose course in connection with the w with Spain and the rebellion in the Phil

E750.R

A CHRISTIAN MAN'S REASONS

For Voting for the Re-Election of President McKinley.

[By Rev. D. R. Lucas, Past Chaplain-in-Chief of the G. A. R.].

I am in receipt of the following from an old friend: "I wish you would give me your reasons for voting for McKinley instead of Woolley, the Prohibitionist, especially. The third party men tell me it is your duty as a Christian man to vote their ticket. Why do you not do so?"

To this friend I made the following reply:

I have numerous reasons for voting for President McKinley, but cannot state them all. I will give you a few of them.

FIRST—The present condition of our country is such that any change would be disastrous to our material prosperity, especially the election of Mr. Bryan, and it is a matter of fact, undisputed, that either Wm. McKinley or W. J. Bryan must be elected President this year.

As a Christian man I dare not take the risk of going back to the conditions of four years ago. I was a city pastor at that time, and there were many men came to me pleading with the most tearful pathos, asking me if it was not possible for me to find them something to do, in order to get a little food for their wives and children. I spent whole days going to men that I knew, to see if I could not get them employment, only to go home disappointed. I would not dare as a Christian man to vote so as to endanger a return to that condition. If I did I could not look my Master or an honest workingman in the face. And the man must have studied the history of our country to little advantage, who does not know that the election of Mr. Bryan and the change of our finances from the gold to the silver basis, which must inevitably follow if Mr. Bryan is an honest man, will produce a panic and destroy our present prosperity, and make it worse than in 1896. Knowing this, for me to run off after an impractical idea like this Woolley movement, would be not only a folly, but worse, a crime.

SECOND—The intemperate abuse of President McKinley, by Mr. Woolley and his followers, is something I dare not sanction. It has a touch of Pharisaism about it, when looked at in the light of Christian teachings, that no truly Christian man ought to approve by his vote. A true Christian man recognizes that men may differ abo. he best method of meeting the evils of intem, ance, and still be conscientious in their views.

One of the favorite expressions of these impracticals is "the rotten old parties." This of itself is enough to convince me that I can have no place, as a Christian man, with men who are so lost even to the virtue of Christian courtesy as to thus characterize the great body of their fellow citizens. It is an exhibition of fanaticism that makes a true Prohibitionist ashamed to be found in such company. A man who calls a great party of his countrymen, who casts six million votes or more, "a rotten old party" ought to be ashamed of such a slander and humbly apologize for it. I could give many other expressions, some from platform itself, as intemperate and untruthful as this, but it seems unnecessary.

I have no abuse for Mr. Woolley. He is a good man as far as I know, but having once been a drinker, and now a reformed man, gives him no right to attack and abuse men like McKinley and others, who have been sober men all their lives. The Christian man who upholds him in doing so, by voting for him is certainly guilty of doing what his own good sense must tell him is wrong. Not one Christian man out of twenty in this country will vote for Mr. Woolley, and yet the one man who does vote for him will set himself up in judgment and unchristianize the nineteen who do not. Verily self-righteousness never went any farther than this in the Pharisee that the Savior condemned. It is possible that these men are deluded in their fanaticism, and thus pray as they do, "I thank thee, O Lord, that I am not as other men, especially these poor Republicans that vote for McKinley."

THIRD—All intelligent Prohibitionists know there is no place for a national prohibition party, as the whole question of the prohibition and license of the liquor traffic, under our constitution, is a matter in the hands of the State and not the general government. It is recognized in every decision of the Supreme Court of the United States as a question of police regulation by the State authorities only, and one with which the United States Government cannot interfere. Hence as a Prohibitionist I am trying to secure relief from the evils of intemperance by getting the best laws possible, and creating a better public sentiment on the subject instead of bringing odium on the name of prohibition by an impractical attempt to do what even a fanatic ought to know cannot be done.

I prefer to educate, not abuse, my fellow citizens on the subject. If one-half the effort was made by these men to remove the evils of intemperance from their own midst, that they use in trying to establish a prohibitory party, they would do far more good to the cause of temperance and prohibition. One of the saddest pages in the history of this attempt to make impractical national Prohibition party is the selfish narrowduty of giving order to those islands. One tribe there rebelled and fired upon the American flag, and the President has been engaged in putting down that rebellion. While he is thus engaged in upholding and defending the honor of our country, the flag, he is entitled to the honest support of every American until that is accomplished. A vote against McKinley now is the same as a vote against Abraham Lincoln in 1864, is a vote against the country and unpatriotic—put it in any guise you may. All the nations of the earth look to McKinley as the head of the great Republic, to settle the Chinese problem, and for the American people to revoke him now by defeat, would be a shamefully unpatriotic action on their part.

Every impulse of my nature and memory of the great men who died for the flag, with whom I served in my youth, would make me feel that I was an ingrate if I now at such a time should by voice, or by my vote, do anything that would lead to the defeat of President McKinley. If there were any law in this country compelling a man to drink alcoholic liquors, or to become a drunkard, as there was in the old days compelling men to be slaves, I might put that issue against all others, but as it is, in the light and knowledge of the present, if a man becomes a drunkard in this country, it is his own voluntary act, and no man but himself responsible for it. The attempt to shift the responsibility of drunkenness from the drunkard is a mistake, and the sooner Christian men learn that the more wise and practical they will become in destroying the evil of intemperance.

FIFTH—In a government like ours every question connected with popular government must be somewhat in the nature of a compromise. He who attempts in any governmental policy to gain too much loses all. The man today who casts his vote must decide, in the light of the real facts of the case as it now stands, whether he wants William J. Bryan elected President of the United States. When there are so many reasons appealing to me to prevent his elevation to the high office of President, I am bound to do all I can for his defeat. I could give many reasons why he should be defeated, but it ought to be sufficient to say that every statement he made four years ago as to results that would follow the election of President McKinley, have turned out to be false prophecies. His theories of governmental policies are thus shown to be absolutely false. On the other hand the promise of President McKinley for prosperity at home and prestige abroad has been fulfilled.

Mr. Bryan favored the adoption of the treaty with Spain, which made it the duty of President McKinley to do what he has done since. That treaty provided for ten years' possession of those islands "engaging for ten years to admit Spanish ships and merchandise to the ports of the Philippine Islands, on the same terms as ships and merchandise of the United States." This part of the treaty he proposes to break, and it is for no other reason apparently than to find an issue for the campaign. This of itself ought to insure his defeat.

SIXTH—The very objections made to the election of President McKinley are to me the strongest assurance that his course ought to be approved by the American people. He has been called upon to act upon a large number of new and important questions; the burden of decision upon him has been heavy. That he should have made some mistakes in all these things would be not natural. When I hear the criticisms upon him they are simmered down at last to one single objection; the mistake which they say he has made, and that is upon what is called the Army Canteen question. Now as a matter of fact were I to believe that in that matter he has made a mistake, and that his action in the matter was wrong, still in view of all the other great acts and deeds of his administration, I dare not elevate that one mistake as the question above all others, and for that alone turn my back upon him. To do that would be to strain at a gnat and swallow a camel. But even that Army Canteen question, so called, has two sides to it.

A great number of army officers, nineteenths of them, many of them good Christian men, claim that by excluding spirituous liquors from the camps, and permitting with restrictions the sale of vinous and malt liquors, is in the interest of sobriety and temperance in the army, and from my own experience and knowledge of army life I most believe that they are honest in their convictions concerning the matter. A soldier sationed anywhere on the earth desiring intoxicating liquors can get them just as well where there is no canteen as where there is one. Now in view of this fact, I dare not elevate this question to such a point as to make it an issue. It is too small an issue when the other great issues of patriotism, prosperity and the honor and glory of the American flag are involved.

Such are some of the reasons that actuate me as a Christian man in voting for William McKinley.

I cannot forget that in the days when our flag was assailed of old, when the question was shall our country and republican government live or perish from the earth, that he was a young man who bared his breast to the storms of battle, and as an humble soldier of the Republic helped to save the nation. In Congress he secured the "Soldiers' Home" law that has brought prosperity to our country, that blessed the homes of our land and the repeal of which brought ruin and desolation to many hearthstones. What he has done as President of the

E750.R (incomplete) #122 X-E738 .R4

AMERICA IN THE ORIENT.

Our Position as a World Power and Our Possibilities in the Markets of the World.

MUST HAVE PROSPERITY AT HOME.

[By Hon. J. Sloat Fassett, of Elmira, N. Y.]

During the administration of President McKinley great and important changes have been taking place in the general estimate put by the Orient upon the United States of America.

Previous to 1896 there was prevalent only a vague notion of our wealth and our power as a nation. It was generally understood that we were great money-makers, manufacturers and traders; that we had a small and inefficient army and a small and untried navy. Compared with the military and naval strength and display of European nations, and compared with the diplomatic equipment of these nations, the United States suffered in the minds of most Orientals, who are profoundly impressible by the outward and showy demonstrations of wealth and power and the disposition and ability to use them.

Since the resurrection of industrial activity, due to Republican policies under President McKinley's administration, and more emphatically since the demonstration of our vast military and naval resources in the Spanish and Philippine wars, a new and truer conception of our power and dignity as a nation has taken deep root in the Oriental world, as indeed it has throughout all the world. New consideration has been extended to our diplomatic, consular and military and naval representatives abroad. Traveling Americans have been treated with increased respect. Greater interest has been manifested in American machinery and manufactures and wider fields have been opened for the investment of American capital and the operations of American enterprise.

It is understood that America has no sinister designs, politically or territorially, upon the Oriental states, but that her interests are all in the line of universal peace and general order and security for the purposes of mutual intercourse and trade. The change of attitude from tolerant indifference to solicitous friendliness has already greatly increased existing sources of trade and opened up many new ones. This change of front, which is so manifest as to deeply impress Americans who have long been in the East, comes at a time when existing conditions at home are more happily fitted to enable us to avail ourselves of it than for many years. The return of prosper-

MICHIGAN.

| Crop. | Value December 1, 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Corn | $9,610,063 | $9,531,486 |
| Oats | 5,715,059 | 8,567,733 |
| Barley | 539,154 | 445,029 |
| Rye | 364,779 | 570,446 |
| Hay | 13,083,546 | 14,028,188 |
| Potatoes | 3,484,130 | 3,657,667 |
| Buckwheat | 214,850 | 139,652 |
| Total | $33,011,581 | $36,940,201 |
| Increase in crops specified | | $3,928,620 |
| Increase in farm animals | | 10,964,896 |
| Total | | $14,893,516 |

MINNESOTA.

| Crop. | Value December 1, 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Corn | $8,544,925 | $7,481,105 |
| Oats | 8,514,950 | 11,591,452 |
| Barley | 2,266,070 | 2,524,679 |
| Rye | 313,031 | 467,238 |
| Hay | 10,663,337 | 11,202,250 |
| Potatoes | 2,116,006 | 2,722,152 |
| Buckwheat | 77,807 | 100,652 |
| Total | $32,496,126 | $36,089,528 |
| Increase in crops specified | | $3,593,402 |
| Increase in farm animals | | 18,705,591 |
| Total | | $22,298,993 |

MISSOURI.

| Crop. | Value December 1, 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Corn | $35,353,730 | $48,874,519 |
| Oats | 3,374,583 | 4,871,844 |
| Barley | 3,496 | 9,443 |
| Rye | 96,056 | 83,720 |
| Hay | 15,996,275 | 19,339,962 |
| Potatoes | 2,435,869 | 3,502,998 |
| Buckwheat | 42,270 | 21,341 |
| Total | $57,302,279 | $76,679,827 |
| Increase in crops specified | | $19,377,548 |
| Increase in farm animals | | 8,451,549 |
| Total | | $27,829,097 |

MONTANA.

| Crop. | Value December 1, 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Corn | $20,784 | $18,321 |
| Oats | 945,739 | 903,813 |
| Barley | 78,389 | 110,367 |
| Rye | ..... | ..... |
| Hay | 3,371,575 | 3,957,269 |
| Potatoes | 269,345 | 343,534 |
| Buckwheat | ..... | ..... |
| Total | $4,585,812 | $5,333,904 |
| Increase in crops specified | | $748,092 |
| Increase in farm animals | | 11,358,583 |
| Total | | $12,106,675 |

NEBRASKA.

| Crop. | Value December 1, 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Corn | $38,817,953 | $51,605,852 |
| Oats | 3,750,189 | 11,324,306 |
| Barley | 172,478 | 282,953 |
| Rye | 232,288 | 378,300 |
| Hay | 7,930,015 | 12,497,483 |
| Potatoes | 2,845,755 | 3,373,660 |
| Buckwheat | 65,540 | 50,652 |

PENNSYLVANIA.

| Crop. | Value December 1, 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Corn | $17,316,750 | $16,504,908 |
| Oats | 8,660,837 | 11,352,920 |
| Barley | 70,527 | 88,124 |
| Rye | 2,119,542 | 2,007,406 |
| Hay | 32,960,581 | 35,293,155 |
| Potatoes | 5,718,896 | 6,554,840 |
| Buckwheat | 1,660,303 | 2,616,624 |
| Total | $68,507,436 | $74,417,977 |
| Increase in crops specified | | $5,910,541 |
| Increase in farm animals | | 17,134,187 |
| Total | | $23,044,728 |

SOUTH DAKOTA.

| Crop. | Value December 1, 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Corn | $5,604,651 | $7,804,528 |
| Oats | 2,334,466 | 3,526,421 |
| Barley | 628,660 | 699,003 |
| Rye | 8,212 | 13,603 |
| Hay | 8,371,958 | 8,616,369 |
| Potatoes | 1,096,344 | 1,198,840 |
| Buckwheat | ..... | ..... |
| Total | $18,044,293 | $21,858,764 |
| Increase in crops specified | | $3,814,471 |
| Increase in farm animals | | 19,359,900 |
| Total | | $13,174,371 |

WASHINGTON.

| Crop. | Value December 1, 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Corn | $54,408 | $70,663 |
| Oats | 1,207,109 | 1,152,147 |
| Barley | 416,978 | 620,558 |
| Rye | 18,112 | 21,562 |
| Hay | 4,037,393 | 5,461,610 |
| Potatoes | 712,500 | 1,989,929 |
| Total | $6,446,500 | $9,316,469 |
| Increase in crops specified | | $2,869,969 |
| Increase in farm animals | | 5,026,480 |
| Total | | $7,895,449 |

WISCONSIN.

| Crop. | Value December 1, 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Corn | $8,555,816 | $12,505,910 |
| Oats | 11,093,805 | 15,568,097 |
| Barley | 2,414,892 | 3,068,220 |
| Rye | 1,259,387 | 1,475,100 |
| Hay | 11,817,333 | 13,335,018 |
| Potatoes | 2,397,105 | 4,186,705 |
| Buckwheat | 225,489 | 292,345 |
| Total | $37,763,827 | $50,431,395 |
| Increase in crops specified | | $12,667,568 |
| Increase in farm animals | | 28,787,009 |
| Total | | $41,454,577 |

THE COTTON STATES.

The splendid prosperity that has come to the cotton-growing states of the union under the gold standard and McKinley administration is shown in the following figures. Many of these states grow large corn and other crops, but we have only compiled the figures on their great staple and big crop—cotton, comparing the years 1896 and 1899. The cotton figures for 1900 are supplied by Latham, Alexander & Co., of New York, the others being from the Department of Agriculture.

ALABAMA.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Value cotton crop | 1899-1900 | $40,246,000 |

EMER
X-E738
#123

BULLETIN No. 1.

LOST

Somewhere between March 4, 1893 and March 4, 1897, four beautiful sunshiny years, each set with twelve clusters of diamond days, and each day, as our mundane sphere revolved on its axis and kept the even tenor of its course while completing its annual orbit, had their light and dark shadows, with the light shadows rendered delightful, thrifty, transparent, energetic, and warm by the golden rays of that great orb where sun-fires burn; while the dark shadows were rendered enchanting through the dancing of silver moonbeams reflected from earth's satellite, and the myriads of twinkling stars completely bespangling the blue vaulted firmament on high. Each of those years, as all years do, loomed grand and big with God's everlasting promise, that: "While the earth remaineth seed-time and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night, shall not cease." That inspiring promise was literally and auspiciously fulfilled, to the very letter, all the way through each of those years; all of those years were filled full with the lavish bounties of an all-wise, indulgent Providence; and yet, notwithstanding all that, the stern fact still remained, and it cannot be truthfully denied, that all of those four years were, politically, eventful Cleveland years, which, for the American people, were crowded, to overflowing, full of asininities, calamities, degradations, bankruptcies, deficiencies, shame and sufferings. No reward is offered for their return, as they are lost forever; and, to-day, the American people are, with one accord, entirely overjoyed because of the fact that they are lost forever.

If the American people, however, should determine to devote four more years to a similar scheme, or, perhaps, to a worse scheme than "Tariff Reform" proved to be; then Wm. J. Bryan, if elected President of the United States, would—aided by the execution of his 16 to 1 superstitions and by the execution of the many other fallacious and infamous dogmas included within the Kansas City platform of Populistic Democracy—surely be just the political charlatan required to accomplish the feat, for, he would, when thus clothed with legal executive ability, possess abundant corrupting power to so completely accomplish the purpose, as to very quickly cause the American people to again cry, enough!

But, on the contrary, if the American people are determined to have and enjoy four more years, which, if possible, shall be filled even more completely with Protection, Progress, Prosperity and Happiness, than have been the entire following years, since March 4, 1897; then, Wm. McKinley, if re-elected President of the United States, will be the man to consummate that purpose, for he surely will do all in his power to encompass that end, and so secure their desires.

President McKinley represents the best interests of the entire American people as the Presidential candidate of the Republican party, a party that, whenever the American people have appealed through it, for righteous purposes, by wisdom and understanding, they have never appealed in vain; for, under such circumstances, whatever the people have sought they have found; whenever they have knocked the door has been opened unto them; and all, and more than all, they have asked for they have received.

While Tariff-Reform, in the Presidential campaign of 1892, served the then Mugwump Democracy very well as a hoodwinking campaign issue; practically, in operation, from beginning to end, it proved to be a poisonous and destructive carthartic for American industries, which was recommended, prepared and administered by quack economists, and which produced only untold calamities, with "perfidy and dishonor" for the American people.

And now, for the Presidential campaign of 1900, Populistic Democracy has concocted, as the "Paramount" slogan of her clans, the dunce issue of "imperialism," which, from its conception and inception, as such, has demonstrated itself, through its advocates, to be purely a demagogic dose of political humbug, and which has produced only nausea for all patriotic

-E738
-R4

Republican Page

This page is supplied to you, free of charge, by the Republican National Committee. If you can use all of it or any portion of it in similar pages of plates will be forwarded to you weekly during the campaign. Please mail marked copy of your paper to Press Department, Republican National Committee, New York City.

AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION
NEW YORK, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON, BUFFALO, PITTSBURG.
GENERAL OFFICES, NEW YORK.
CHICAGO, CINCINNATI, COLUMBUS, INDIANAPOLIS, OMAHA, KANSAS CITY, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, ATLANTA, DALLAS.

BUSINESS MEN'S PHALANX.

Unanimously Against Bryan From Maine to Texas.

GRAVE PERIL FROM APATHY.

Overconfidence in McKinley's Success the Only Danger Point—Appeals For Vigorous Campaign Work.

That the business men of the country are loyal and will vote McKinley and Hobart at the coming election is perfectly obvious and is admitted even by the Democratic leaders. From all sections, from New York and Pennsylvania, from New England, from the middle west, from the far west, even from the south, the cry is the same: "No Bryan or Bryanism for us! Give us McKinley again and continued prosperity! Bryan's election would be a national disaster and would produce a commercial panic!"

But this very unanimity of sentiment among the business classes is in itself productive of a very great danger—in fact, one might say the only danger menacing the Republican cause this year. That danger, that insidious peril, is overconfidence. It was this overconfidence that relieved the Republican majority in congress to such a narrow margin two years ago and, unless it be at once eradicated, it might easily lead to the entire wiping out of that majority and the defeat of the Republican national ticket next November.

There are not empty alarmists words. They simply express the exact situation. If the business men realize the realization of the facts, if they once see what the peril is worth spending for and that unless they do work for it they may lose it, the battle will be won. Everybody acknowledges this; the Democratic managers acknowledge it, and they are beginning to put forth all their energies with the object of winning over to their side an batch of the business vote as possible, or to divert it from the Republicans. The continued apathy of the business men is what the Democrats especially pray for. It is their best hope—their only hope.

Can the business men not perceive, therefore we should let well enough alone, that it would be hard to overcome the phalanx of Bryan will not unsettle the business of the country. What is the real issue? It is Bryan and his implied threat to interfere with our currency and the present policy of the government."

A Silver Miner For McKinley.

In 1896 Bryan carried the state of Washington by 12,500 in a total vote of 94,000. The Bryan managers are confidently claiming Washington. Here is what Mr. Wilson Alperson of Spokane, Wash., one of the best known mining men in the far west, said Wednesday:

"I am now in the silver mining business. I have been in for years. I am convinced that silver will take care of itself if demagogues will quit talking about it. The free silver sentiment has been on a standstill in Washington for four years. On the other hand we are prosperous as we never were before. Some of the biggest four mills of the world have been built in Washington and are daily grinding for export to Asia. Everybody out our way is prosperous. The overhauling of the orient is going to furnish us with a Mecca. The open door in China policy is secured at by same lines. Every dollar I have is invested in mines and other industries in the Pacific coast, and we are for McKinley and the tariff that protects our industries. You'll hear more of it when the thousands of American ships are going to the orient loaded with export. If the business men of the east do their duty McKinley will be elected by an overwhelming majority."

Why Should We Change?

Mr. C. J. North of Lindsborg, Ills., is a prominent business man of western Illinois, engaged in the department store line. He said:

"Why should we change? Why should we change? Why should we change?

E738.R
X-E738
.R4

Republican Page

This page is supplied to you, free of charge, by the Republican National Committee. If you can use all of it or a portion of it a similar page of plates will be forwarded to you weekly during the campaign. Please mail marked copy of your paper to Press Department, Republican National Committee, New York City.

AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION
NEW YORK, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON, BUFFALO, PITTSBURG. GENERAL OFFICES, NEW YORK. CHICAGO, CINCINNATI, INDIANAPOLIS, COLUMBUS, OMAHA, SAN FRANCISCO, ST. PAUL, ATLANTA, DALLAS.

NO BRYAN FOR THEM

Democratic Stampede to McKinley and Roosevelt.

DISGUST AND INDIGNATION.

Important Accessions to the Republican Ranks. Party Leaders and Business Men Abandoning the Kansas City Ticket.

Every day brings to the Republican national headquarters many names of prominent citizens and old time Democrats who voted for Bryan in 1896, but will vote for Mr. McKinley in 1900. Their change of views has been accelerated in most cases by their dissent with the Democrats' unpatriotic position as to "imperialism" and by their unwillingness to run the risk of seriously ruining their prosperity by a change of financial policy. These conversions to McKinley are a striking sign of the times. A few typical instances are herewith appended:

Senator Stewart's Views.

WILLIAM M. STEWART, senator from Nevada and one of the foremost supporters of the free silver ticket in 1896: "Will the people who mourn the deaths of their relatives murdered in the Philippines by Aguinaldo's guerrillas support his candidate in this country? Will a country which has sacrificed thousands of lives and millions of dollars to maintain the sovereignty of the United States elevate to the office of president the candidate of a league which is scorning all its energies to tear down the flag? When Mr. Bryan affiliated with that league and secured its support, he betrayed his American followers and became the candidate of the enemies of the United States both at home and abroad. He will not be president."

JOHN M. PALMER of Springfield, Ill., ex-senator and gold Democratic candidate for president in 1896: "I shall vote for McKinley. Populism is smarts and Mr. Bryan is the high priest of that faction. The country is not for sale, nor Mr. McKinley and his partisan friends have proven his imperialism. As president he has done the best he could. He has catch votes by a groundless cry of imperialism."

JOSEPH MOSWITZ, president of The German Democrat Publication company, which journal was one of the foremost exponents of Democracy in Philadelphia: "From the information I have been able to obtain as to the attitude of the German-Americans in New York, Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Louis I believe that it is overwhelmingly against Bryan."

R. C. SHANNAFT of El Paso, Ills., a Democrat and prominent business man: "I am a Democrat, and I am going to vote for Mr. Alschuler, the Democratic candidate for governor of Illinois. But on national issues I am for McKinley. Throughout central Illinois it is the almost unanimous sentiment of the business men that we should let well enough alone."

JUDGE JAMES T. HOLMES, one of the most influential Democrats in Lincoln, Ills., and last year a supporter of the gold Democratic ticket, will this year vote for McKinley: "I believe the attitude of Mr. Bryan and his followers on the question of the retention of gold to every interest in the country except that of silver mining."

J. WEST GOODWYN of Sedalia, Mo., a prominent Democrat who says he is the editor of The Daily Banner and is a Democrat of influence in the county: "Free silver is the real issue in this campaign and cannot be successfully observed by the Democrats. The talk about imperialism is mere rubbish."

Most Vicarious Indignant.

"The Republicans in serve as the president of a meeting at Cleveland, W. Va. which was to be addressed by Webster Davis, called forth a shower

IF BRYAN WERE ELECTED.

Postmaster General Smith Points Out the Evils in Excess Immediately.

Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith informs the general weekly that the chief danger to the Republicans in the present campaign consists in the widespread feeling of overconfidence. Postmaster General Smith paid a flying visit to New York the other day, and while there his opinion was asked in regard to current political topics. He declared that he had been shocked at the self satisfied way in which men who ought to be taking an active part in the campaign were sitting around telling each other that it is no use to work, as the election of Mr. McKinley is a foregone conclusion. Mr. Smith has found these men in all parts of the country.

"Is there anything in Bryan's speech of acceptance to which you can reply?" was asked.

"There are two points especially that ought to arouse universal attention and ought to be emphasized everywhere," said Mr. Smith. "The first is his unqualified declaration that a case is to be elected he will immediately summon congress to extra session, which involves immediate prosecution of all the dangers of Bryanism. The second is his direct and bald declaration to Aguinaldo and the Tagals practically to continue their warfare, because if they can continue it until he is elected inaugurated they will succeed in their ob-

TRAITOROUS PLOTTING.

More Revelations Concerning the Treasonable Filipino Plot.

A number of letters and private papers belonging to Aguinaldo and captured some months ago in Luzon by General Funston have just been made public by the war department.

Officers of the department say that this correspondence fully establishes the truthfulness of the assertion that members of the Anti-Imperialist league in this country give aid and comfort to the enemy during the struggle in the Philippines.

There is one letter from a resident of the United States, dated at Fort Hamilton, N. Y., July 17, 1899, which is regarded as fully justifying a charge of treason against the writer. Montague H. Leverson of the Anti-Imperialist league. The authorities are of the opinion, however, that Leverson has done no more than Bryan. Leverson went so far in his letter as to suggest to one of the insurgent officers that some officer of rank in the service of the United States should be seized and tried for piracy.

An equally interesting letter is one from W. G. St. Clair to Howard W. Peay, the publisher of the Singapore Free Press. The writer, who evidently took part in the plans for the compromising of Admiral Dewey and Consuls Pratt and Moody, lays great stress on the fact that the American public should be impressed with the belief-

CAMPAIGN ISSUES.

REPUBLICAN TEXTBOOK SOUNDS THE KEYNOTE.

Convincing Array of Facts, Figures and Arguments—Note For Democrats to Crack.

The Republican campaign textbook has just been issued and will soon be available for general perusal. After enumerating the principal claims of the party for popular support—in promptness with which it has fulfilled its pledges of 1896, the general prosperity since that date and the obvious fallacies of the opposition—the book then presents a grand array of statistical evidence in proof of the soundness of these claims. Among the facts cited in evidence of business improvement under the McKinley administration are: The reduction in failures from $350,000,000 in 1893 and $226,000,000 in 1896 to $90,000,000 in 1899; the increase of clearing house returns from $52,000,000,000 in 1893 to $65,000,000,000 in 1899; an increase of 230,000,000 tons of freight carried by the railways in 1898 as compared with 1894, and an increase of more than $2,000,000,000 of bank deposits in 1899 as compared with 1894. This great business activity, coupled with heavy exports and light imports, which are shown to have always accompanied the protective system, has resulted in an enormous increase of the money in circulation despite the assertions concerning made in 1896 that there could be no material increase in the circulating medium without inflation but the course of free coinage of silver. Notwithstanding the rejection of that proposition the money in circulation in the United States increased from $1,506,434,866 at the date of McKinley's election to nearly $2,062,435,486 at the date of his nomination in 1900, while the gold and gold certificates in circulation, which in July, 1896, were only $467,000,000, were in July, 1900, $815,474,000, the per capita of circulation thus increasing from $21.10 at the date of the Chicago convention of 1896 to $25.20 at the date of the Kansas City convention of 1900.

Manufactures and Agriculture.

Of the manufacturers the book shows their prosperity from the enormous increase in the amount of raw materials which they require for use in manufacturing and the equally striking increase of the exports of their finished products. The importations of raw materials for use in manufacturing, which in the Democratic year 1894 amounted to only $378,922,755 and formed only 21 per cent of the total importations, were in the year 1900 $592,264,166 and formed 35 per cent of the total importations, while the exportations of fo-during the entire period from the date of the election, Nov. 6, 1900, until the end of his term, March 4, 1905.

Trusts and Foreign Policy.

The trust question is frankly and vigorously considered. Official records of legislation show that the Republican party is the only one which has courageously undertaken the task of controlling trusts by national legislation. The Republican party placed upon the statute books the only effective piece of legislation ever created for this purpose—the Sherman anti-trust law—but its efforts to so amend the constitution as to enable the enactment of additional legislation, while supported by all Republicans, was defeated by Democratic votes in the Fifty-sixth congress, and thus the only available method of assuring national control of this subject was rejected by the Democratic party. The fallacy of the frequently repeated assertion that "trusts are the product of protection" is proved by a series of statements which show the existence for many years of trusts in England and other low tariff countries.

The leading events of the three years of President McKinley's administration are reviewed—the enactment of the protective tariff, which was accomplished more quickly than any tariff legislation since Washington's first term; the enactment of the gold standard law, the Pacific railroad settlement, the peaceful annexation of Hawaii and the war with Spain and the results which followed. Conditions in Iowa are discussed and the preparations for giving the island complete independence outlined. The Porto Rican legislation is reviewed, with the assertion that the enactment of the tariff law was for the best interests, not alone for the citizens of Porto Rico, who are the direct beneficiaries from the money so collected, but especially of labor in the United States, which is thus assured that the Republican party will insist upon its right to legislate with reference to the relations of newly added territory according to circumstances and requirements.

The so called issue of "imperialism" is answered with a series of historical statements which show that the course which the United States is following in the Philippines and Porto Rico is far more generous than that accorded to people under similar conditions by the Democratic party in the numerous additions which it has made to the territory of the United States. The existing conditions in the Philippines will be changed when the insurrection shall be fully suppressed and congress shall determine.

APPEALING AGAINST APATHY.

This Bryan fight the greatest the

EP50 R X-E738
#126 .R4

Republican Page

This page is supplied to you, free of charge, by the Republican National Committee. If you can use all of it or a portion of it a similar page of plates will be forwarded to you weekly during the campaign. Please mail marked copy of your paper to Press Department, Republican National Committee, New York City.

AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION
NEW YORK, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON, BUFFALO, PITTSBURG.
CHICAGO, CINCINNATI, COLUMBUS, INDIANAPOLIS, OMAHA, SAN FRANCISCO, ST. PAUL, ATLANTA, DALLAS.
GENERAL OFFICES, NEW YORK.

FIGURES WILL TALK

Unexampled and Increasing Prosperity Under McKinley.

WHY SHOULD WE CHANGE?

Business of All Kinds Has Boomed Since Bryan's Defeat in 1896—Wages Higher and Savings Larger.

THE WORKINGMAN'S CRY.

FOUR YEARS MORE OF THE FULL DINNER PAIL

PROSPERITY IS THE ISSUE!

Against all the rant and fustian of the Bryanized Democracy about imperialism, militarism, plutocracy, the oppression of the masses, the "accursed value of gold," etc., the Republicans have one plaintive reply always ready to hurl back—the single word PROSPERITY!

Invariably prosperity has accompanied Republican rule, and not one a decrease. The value of the principal crops has been much greater under McKinley than under the preceding Democratic low tariff administration. For example, the value of the wheat crop was, in round numbers, $255,000,000 in 1894 and $332,000,000 in 1898. The figures for corn, cotton and other important crops are similar to those for wheat.

Significant Variations in Savings.

A good index of a country's prosperity is found in the records of the savings banks. The following figures are instructive and convincing:

| | |
|---|---|
| Increase of savings banks deposits during Democratic administration | $90,239,054 |
| Increase in administration of Republican McKinley's second administration | 192,895,756 |
| Clevelands second administration | 72,192,452 |
| Three years of McKinley | 195,205,783 |

Southern Prosperity.

No section of the country has had a larger share of the prosperity enjoyed during McKinley's administration than the south, and it is passing strange that the southern Bryanites should be repining in the direst manner to defeat McKinley's re-election and to check this prosperity. Never before in the history of the United States has the output of southern iron ore and pig iron, bituminous coal and coke been so large as it has been in the past two years, and not for years, if ever, have the prices been so high. Never before would that section have bought as many products shipped from northern ports. Never before has money loaned there at such low rates of interest. All this under the gold standard and a protective tariff. A few years ago the south did practically no manufacturing. It now has over $1,000,000,000 invested in factories, paying over $250,000,000 in wages and producing between $1,500,000,000 and $2,000,000,000 worth of goods.

STILL THEY COME.

Recent Notable Accessions to the McKinley Ranks.

During the past week a large number of prominent Democrats and Silver Republicans have declared for McKinley, among them the following:

Hon. Charles Denby of Indiana, ex-minister to China under President Cleveland.

Ex-Congressman W. E. English of Indianapolis, son of the late Hon. W. H. English.

Allen G. Campbell of Utah, silver mine owner.

John Q. Cannon of Utah, formerly congressman.

General Edward S. Bragg of Wisconsin.

General Daniel E. Sickles of New York; George W. McDonald, a gold Democratic leader of Indianapolis; Albert Lieber, a leading German Democrat of Indianapolis; N. W. Clayton, Robert Bruce, Frank Jenkins, C. C. Goodwin, Patrick Lannen, Thomas J. Kerrens and many other silver mine men of the far west.

Hamblenn & Co., the Baltimore bankers, whose influence in financial affairs throughout the south is very great, have issued a circular indorsing the Republican administration and denouncing Bryan and his free silver programme. The statement comes from house whose members have been bitterly "dyed in the wool Democrats."

Our Growing Importance Abroad.

Senator Depew of New York, who has just returned from Europe, was much impressed abroad by the position this country has assumed in the estimation of foreign nations during the last two years. "Before 1896," he said, "no ruler or minister in Europe was interested in American opinion or action. Now the situation is the reverse. Every cabinet reckons the attitude of the United States in formulating plans. The excellence and in many cases the superiority of our goods, the energy of our traders and the cheapness of our transportation are exciting alarm. The taking of one-half of the British wool born in New York annually I per cent less than London offered annual London hard street. It put thinking caps on manufacturers and traders. If New York is to be the financial center of the world that our manufacturers can buy at a lower cost than it can be had elsewhere, the event is of the greatest consequence on both sides of the Atlantic. The policy and tradition of centuries are upset, and old world bankers must go to school. If the governments of the continent saw any way to check our advance, they would adopt it.

"I heard more discussions, and intelligent ones, as to our home conditions while abroad than on any mere trip.

SOUTHERN CRITICISMS.

All Is Not Perfectly serene For Bryan Even in Dixie.

Bryan is concentrating on the vote of the entire south, but a good deal of grumbling and criticism is beginning to be heard in that section. Listen to the Nashville (Tenn.) Banner:

"The south in the present presidential campaign is running contrary, to its every practical interest for the sake of tradition and a party name. There is nothing in Mr. Bryan's policy which commends itself to southern wisdom and intelligentness. Should the south look out for its own interest it would take a progressive view instead of clinging to political memories of the bloodiest past and tying itself to hostil policies for the sake of a mistaken temporary expediency which not only ignores the best interests of so great a section, but also goes counter to the best principles and traditions of the party in whose name the incompetent elements of Bryanism are working."

The Dallas (Tex.) News is still more plain spoken: "Would that some powerful grandsire could deliver the Democratic party from the mistakes of some of the fools who are now hovering about it."

In Arkansas Morgan's Bunn Bye, Administ ed Hardy, is making the sawdust fly at a great rate. Here are a few of its sallies:

"No party in this country that encourages any enemies in war will be supported by the people. This is history."

"The worst imperialism we know of is that which robs our own citizens of the right of suffrage, and the Democratic party is the champion of that branch. The Democratic party places much stress on bosism, yet it curls up on the floor before one of the most ostentatious and tyrannical bosses in the whole country."

"Bryan has bought him a little farm and is posing for the sympathies of the farmer. He is about as much of a farmer as he is a soldier. There is only one thing in which he is said to be proficient, and that is talk. Nobody denies this proposition."

Bryan's Wonderful Farm.

The publication of pictures of the Democratic candidate in the comfortable home he has purchased near Lincoln and Bryan's friends in Lincoln, Neb. Some papers have contained half page pictures of Mr. Bryan standing in his comfortable and Lincoln people wonder whose comfort Bryan borrowed for a background in the picture. Mr. Bryan is not a farmer. Recently he purchased 15 acres of land near the city of Lincoln. This he calls a farm.

Much of the land purchased by him has never been plowed, and no crops are growing on the land. The gold dust being now current coin of the realm, Bryan can afford to dabble in land speculation. Bryan is concerned on the vote of the entire south, but a good deal of grumbling and criticism is beginning to be heard in that section. Listen to the Nashville (Tenn.) Banner:

"The south in the present presidential campaign is running contrary, to its every practical interest for the sake of tradition and a party name. There is nothing in Mr. Bryan's policy which commends itself to southern wisdom and intelligentness. Should the south look out for its own interest it would take a progressive view instead of clinging to political memories of the bloodiest past and tying itself to hostil policies for the sake of a mistaken temporary expediency which not only ignores the best interests of so great a section, but also goes counter to the best principles and traditions of the party in whose name the incompetent elements of Bryanism are working."

The Dallas (Tex.) News is still more plain spoken: "Would that some powerful grandsire could deliver the Democratic party from the mistakes of some of the fools who are now hovering about it."

In Arkansas Morgan's Bunn Bye, Administ ed Hardy, is making the sawdust fly at a great rate. Here are a few of its sallies:

"No party in this country that encourages any enemies in war will be supported by the people. This is history."

"The worst imperialism we know of is that which robs our own citizens of the right of suffrage, and the Democratic party is the champion of that branch. The Democratic party places much stress on bosism, yet it curls up on the floor before one of the most ostentatious and tyrannical bosses in the whole country."

"Bryan has bought him a little farm and is posing for the sympathies of the farmer. He is about as much of a farmer as he is a soldier. There is only one thing in which he is said to be proficient, and that is talk. Nobody denies this proposition."

Bryan's Wonderful Farm.

The publication of pictures of the Democratic candidate in the comfortable home he has purchased near Lincoln and Bryan's friends in Lincoln, Neb. Some papers have contained half page pictures of Mr. Bryan standing in his comfortable and Lincoln people wonder whose comfort Bryan borrowed for a background in the picture. Mr. Bryan is not a farmer. Recently he purchased 15 acres of land near the city of Lincoln. This he calls a farm.

Much of the land purchased by him has never been plowed, and no crops are growing on the land. The gold dust being now current coin of the realm, Bryan can afford to dabble in land speculation.

APATHY'S BAD WORK IN 1892.

Facts to Be Pondered by Republicans in All Close States.

Republican politicians are justified in their apprehensions about the effect of the apathy of the party of which they complain. There is abundant warrant for worry on their part, as the New York Tribune admits, in the record of the election of 1892, after a campaign which was apathetic on the Republican side. Take, for example, the contrast between the votes of 1888 and 1892 in the states of New York, Ohio and Indiana. Harrison carried New York in 1888 by 14,373 plurality and lost it by 45,818 in 1892; yet the Democratic vote had increased by only 18,903, the rest of the change being due to a falling off of 60,695 on the Republican side. Harrison carried Ohio by nearly 20,000 plurality in 1888 and saved it by less than 2,000 in 1892 from Cleveland elector, indeed, being chosen but the Democratic vote was not 8,000 larger, the revolution which almost gave the Democrats all the electoral votes being caused by a falling off of over 10,000 on the Republican side. In like manner Cleveland had over 7,000 plurality in Indiana in 1892, with a poll only about 1,700 larger than in 1888, when he was beaten by over 2,000, because apathy kept nearly 8,000 Harrison men of 1888 from remaining such four years later.

Sheep and Beef Raisers For McKinley.

Bert Anderson, one of the prominent sheep raisers of Kansas, has been in the sheep business for 20 years and says he doesn't know of a single sheep man in all his acquaintance who will vote for Bryan this year. He says he has heard a good number of Democrats declare publicly for McKinley in the last few weeks.

The Anderson brothers of Topeka got $17,000 in their handling sheep during Cleveland's administration and were pretty well flattened out. During the McKinley administration the Anderson boys have sold 100,000 worth of sheep and wool from their flocks, are out of debt, have a fine farm and a good bank account. In Hamilton county, Kan., a dozen former Bryan supporters have declared for McKinley.

Prosperity has shared its blessings with the beef producer of the west and brought to him advanced prices for his beef. In 1895, during Democracy and depression, beef on hoof per 100 pounds sold for $3.25; in 1900, under McKinley and prosperity, beef on hoof per 100 pounds sold for $4.65. The wool growers and sheep raisers have been benefitted to an unparalleled degree by the return of a protective tariff. During a Democratic administration and the Wilson tariff medium wool sold for 18 cents per pound in 1896; during McKinley rule it sold for 27 cents, and

LOUD CALL FOR BRYAN.

A Populist Organ in His Own State Asks Some Tough Questions.

Does admit that some people are capable of self government and that others are not and that the people have the right to seize upon and govern the incapable, and you make them—have them—the only foundation of government and invite the reign of a despot.—Extract From W. J. Bryan's Editorial.

The above is just exactly the doctrine that the Bourbon Democracy of the south believes in and puts into practice. By "these forces" but a disfranchised nearly one half of the voters of some of the southern states, thus establishing in these states "government without the consent of the governed" and "taxation without representation."

It is passing strange that Mr. Bryan is compelled to go to the Philippine Islands to find wrongs to be denounced and people to be sympathized with.

Isn't the black man of our southern states, robbed of his political rights by the Democracy, as much entitled to sympathy as the brown man of the Philippines?

Why does not Mr. Bryan also protest against the injustice of allowing a southern state which casts only 100,000 votes to have as large a representation in the electoral college and in the congress of the United States as a northern state which polls 200,000 votes?

Why, Mr. Bryan, would like to have Mr. Bryan answer these questions himself. We would be only too glad to publish his replies.—Omaha Tom Paulist.

The Nation's Peril.

In his acceptance speech at Indianapolis Bryan said that if elected he would call congress together immediately in extra session. That is precisely what the Democrats carried on the same morning would probably be the course Bryan would take. We gave the reasons then why Bryan's election would mean a Democratic house of representatives and perhaps a free silver majority in the senate. Bryan's nomination by the Democratic party was demonstrated at the Kansas City convention. In the executive chair, with the federal patronage at his disposal and a cabinet made up of Altgelds, Stanyan and Pettigrews, he would rule supreme.

Bryan has told the country that he would at once scuttle out of the Philippines and leave the 80 tribes there to fight it out among themselves as to which one should rule, though he could not evade the responsibility of the United States to other nations for the safety of their citizens resident in the Philippines and the property they own there. The United States would have to make reparation for all damages of that kind to foreigners in the Philippines.

E750.R

X-E738
.R4

#127

Republican Page

This page is supplied to you, free of charge, by the Republican National Committee. If you can use all of it or a portion of it in similar pags of plates will be forwarded to you weekly during the campaign. Please mail marked copy of your paper to Press Department, Republican National Committee, New York City.

AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION
NEW YORK, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON, BUFFALO, PITTSBURG. GENERAL OFFICES, NEW YORK. CHICAGO, CINCINNATI, INDIANAPOLIS. OMAHA, SAN FRANCISCO, ST. PAUL, ATLANTA, DALLAS.

SHAMMING AN ISSUE.

Complete Change of Front by Bryan's Chief Organ.

NEW YORK JOURNAL'S FLOP.

It Is Now Very Much Afraid of the Bogy of Imperialism Which It Ridiculed Last Year.

The chief organ of Bryan and Bryanism in New York in the present campaign is the New York Journal. Adopting the policy announced by the Democratic candidate himself at Indianapolis, The Journal is now loud and constant in its denunciation of "imperialism" and is doing its utmost to assist in electing the man who has declared that his first act as president would be to call congress together for the purpose of withdrawing our troops and hauling down our flag in the Philippines.

Mr. Bryan's inconsistencies in regard to the Philippine question have been frequently pointed out, and it is in order now to point out the corresponding inconsistencies of his organ, the New York Journal. This can be done very readily and without the slightest difficulty by quoting from the editorial pages of The Journal during 1898 and 1899. The following editorial opinions of The Journal are extracted verbatim from the files of that paper and serve to show what its present opinions are worth. No comments are necessary. The public will make its own comments:

"Would Opposition to Annexation."

(New York Journal, June 8, 1898.)

We remember that Jefferson bought Louisiana, but the names of the constitutional lawyers who opposed the purchase are buried with their empty skulls. We shall always identify Andrew Jackson with Florida, Sam Houston with Texas and Seward with Alaska, but to find the names of the men who opposed these extensions of the government of the republic we must turn to encyclopedias or dusty archives.

(New York Journal, June 10, 1898.)

CHAFF FOR FARMERS.

They Hear Bryan Talk and See How the Facts Contradict Him.

"You can talk to the farmer from now until election day, but you will never convince him that a gold standard has brought anything but ruin and distress to the farmer."

This is the kind of stuff Mr. Bryan retails in agricultural communities. Everybody knows that from the very hour that Bryan and Bryanism were defeated in 1896 the farmers of the country entered upon an era of prosperity unexampled in our history. When the measure of free silver was then renewed and the country assured of a monetary system firmly established on the gold standard, the farmer saw that he would receive a full dollar for every hundred cents' worth of his products, and from that time to this he has been a steady gainer in wealth. The farmers of the country are worth almost $2,000,000,000 more than they were at the close of Cleveland's free trade administration. Their crops are worth $200,000,000 yearly more than the stock $625,000,000 more this year than they were in 1895. Ex-Secretary J. Sterling Morton of Cleveland's cabinet and an excellent authority on such matters, is responsible for these figures. How the farmers prospered in their hands is sufficiently indicated by the following table of our exports of breadstuffs:

| | |
|---|---|
| 1895 | $154,975,677 |
| 1896 | 179,439,450 |
| 1897 | 226,266,816 |
| 1898 | 299,318,864 |
| 1899 | 346,777,270 |
| 1900 | 314,064,780 |
| 1901 | 181,536,901 |
| 1902 | 191,064,836 |
| 1903 | 151,700,900 |
| 1904 | 151,900,000 |
| 1905 | 192,275,133 |

These figures speak for themselves. Bryan can't refute their argument, and he won't try to do it. They show that our exports of agricultural products have gone up under a Republican administration and down under a Democratic administration. Yet Bryan in his speech at Kansas addressed the plain record of our commercial progress and asserted "the proposition that we are being oppressed by Republican policy."

SAVE THE SENATE.

Senator Scott's Warning to Maryland and Other Doubtful States.

Commander Morris, who is Senator Wellington of Maryland in going over to Bryan, Senator Scott of West Virginia recently remarked as follows: "Who will say now that the warning of the national committee as to the danger of losing the senate was unwarrited? It was recently shown that if the Democrats should carry this year the states to elect new senators that they carried last time and two others of the doubtful states, the next senate

STRAWS FROM SOME STATES

Nebraska.

Polls received from Bryan's own county show that he is rapidly losing ground even there. The Republican gains, as reported by 40 out of 52 precincts, averaged from 5 to 27 a precinct or a total of nearly 400.

Republican clubs in every county in the state are holding nightly demonstrations and manifest enthusiasm, and there is great popular enthusiasm. The different counties are preparing to hold prosperity carnivals instead of mourny fiasco this fall. The state is more prosperous today than at any time in its history. Prosperity and Republican success go hand in hand.

New York.

The campaign in New York is warming up. The Republicans are well organized throughout the state and enthusiastic in behalf of McKinley and their own Roosevelt. A monster rally is to be held in New York city on Sept. 14, when four big mass meetings will be held simultaneously in the largest halls obtainable and will be addressed by Commissioner Ingraham, Hon. John S. Wise, Senator Lodge, General J. Hampton Hoge, ex-Congressman Bellamy Storer, Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith, Senator Depew, Senator Foraker, General Stewart L. Woodford and others.

Maryland.

Hamilton & Co., the great Baltimore bankers, who have always voted with Democrats, and Democrats, who have always voted with a ticket, proposing Bryan and advising all their clients and correspondents to vote for McKinley. This firm has extensive interests all over the south, and the influence of its political action will be great. The change of its political attitude is due mainly to Bryan's revolutionary and dangerous financial views, but it also strongly denounces the Philippine policy.

Kentucky.

According to Colonel W. H. Gentry of Lexington, Ky., a Democrat and a member of Governor Beckham's staff, the electoral vote of Kentucky will be cast for the Republican candidate McKinley. Colonel Gentry recently called on President McKinley and told him that Bryan and his "pernicious issue" were not very acceptable even to the straight out Kentucky Democrats, and the gold Democrats, he believed, would generally vote for Mr. McKinley, and the letter would carry the state.

Tennessee.

A communication has been received at Republican national headquarters, New York, from Ex- A. T. Goodloe of Springfield, Tenn., one of the leading managers of that state and a very prominent Confederate soldier, who has every discredited his uniform, ask-

BRYAN COULD BANISH GOLD.

He Would Do It, Too, Unless He Violated His Own Promise.

Let the workers and honest men of America not forget this fact, as shown forth by Secretary of the Treasury Gage:

"There is no doubt Mr. Bryan could order his secretary of the treasury to make payment in silver of all of the public debt payable in coin and for all current disbursements of the government as well, which amount to $1,500,000 to $1,750,000 per day. That he would give such an order, too, is very certain if he is in the same mind that he was when in 1896, for he was then quoted as saying, 'If there is any one who believes that the gold standard is a good thing or that it must be maintained, I want him not to cast his vote for me, because I promise him it will not be maintained in the country longer than I am able to get rid of it.'"

Bryan, as the New York Mail and Express says, has never retracted a word of his unmeasurable threats to overthrow the gold standard. On the contrary, he has persistently reiterated them. Behind the mask is the sinister face of the same dangerous demagogue, and beneath the cloak of "imperialism" he bears the torch of the incendiary.

A very significant fact in this connection is that Bryan "dodges" the silver question the other day. When asked point blank by a correspondent if he would pay the government coin obligations in silver if elected, as stated by Secretary Gage, Mr. Bryan flatly refused to answer. His words were, "Sir Mr. Bryan declines to be interviewed on that subject." The people can draw their own inferences.

CONSENT OF THE GOVERNED

Three Aspects of a Troublesome Question.

Our platform declares that imperialism is the great issue of the campaign, yet in our own hearts we know it is our desire and determination to secure the negroes outside of the constitution, just as the Indians, the Kanakas and the Filipinos are being governed outside of the constitution.—Macon Telegraph.

When Mr. Bryan was in Washington last fall in vituperation of the treaty with Spain, he did not think of the consent of the governed.—Minneapolis Journal.

Mr. Bryan admits that he and his party approved the treaty with Spain by which we paid $20,000,000 for the Philippines, and the Democratic State mode themselves parties to the expansion movement which they now declaim against. The consent of the governed didn't occur to them until a year or two later.

PROTECT SAVINGS.

SMALL DEPOSITORS ARE REALLY CAPITALISTS.

Disaster That Would Accrue to Them From a Silver Standard. Mortgages Would Be Called.

The actual status of the savings bank depositor has never been explained better than by Mr. John Hansen Rhodes, president of the Greenwich Savings bank of New York city, in a recent communication to the New York Press. Mr. Rhodes says:

"A man who has a deposit in a savings bank is a member of the most colossal syndicate in this country. He is directly and vitally interested in maintaining a sound currency and the standard of value which now prevails, for a depreciated currency means that his money will not earn the interest it now brings and that his savings will not have the purchasing power that they now have.

"Any man who has one dollar or more deposited in a savings bank is bound by every selfish interest to want a sound and stable currency and no change in our monetary system such as proposed by Mr. Bryan.

A Depositor a Capitalist.

"A depositor in a savings bank is not only a capitalist; he is a conservative investor, and his loans are relied upon to carry on the operations of the state, the city, the county, the town, the village and the school district in which he lives. He is the biggest money lender in this country. The savings of the thrifty working classes are best on bond and mortgage in this state to the extent of more than $400,000,000. They are doing more than any other class for the development of property interests. Their money is being loaned to the builder, and it may happen, and does frequently, that the man carrying a lot of bricks to the top of a building is the resultant of the capitalist who is erecting the house on money borrowed from a savings bank in which the bad carrier has his few dollars.

"Everything that tends to sound currency, the maintenance of a standard which is not going to affect values, is good for the bank bond holder. He knows that he is going to get his interest, and his deposit is safe, and he knows what the purchasing power of gold is. The thrifty workingman is getting all there is in it now when his money is invested. If the silver standard is established, he is getting one-half of his present interest, with just one-half of its purchasing power.

Change Would Be Disastrous.

"A disturbance in the money standard would be particularly unfortunate and disastrous at this time, when America has reached at last the position of controlling the trade markets of

EJ30.R X-E38
R4

Republican Page

This page is supplied to you, free of charge, by the Republican National Committee. If you can use all of it or a portion of it a similar page of plates will be forwarded to you weekly during the campaign. Please mail marked copy of your paper to Press Department, Republican National Committee, New York City.

AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION
NEW YORK, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON, PITTSBURG
GENERAL OFFICES: NEW YORK
CHICAGO, CINCINNATI, INDIANAPOLIS,
OMAHA, SAN FRANCISCO, ST. PAUL, ATLANTA, DALLAS.

BRYAN MEANS PANIC!

Perfect Alignment Among Business Men.

SOUTH AND NORTH UNITED

Emphatic Testimony From All Sections In Favor of McKinley and Republican Prosperity.

The views of business men, commercial publications and trade papers concerning the practical aspects of a political campaign are especially valuable because they are, as a rule, entirely impartisan and unprejudiced. Business men and business publications may be nominally Republican or nominally Democratic, but they are first and foremost devoted to business and care little for parties except as having an influence on business. The Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore is known everywhere as being one of the most influential and reliable of trade papers in the United States. It has a very large influence and following throughout the country, south as well as north, and commands the respect and confidence of all sections equally. In its issue of Sept. 6 it devoted five entire pages to letters received from manufacturers in many different states which had been sent to the paper in reply to a request from the editor for information as to the present condition of business and as to the general opinion in business circles regarding the presidential elections. These letters represent all lines of manufacturing and general business interests. In the great majority of these letters it is stated that the manufacturers are as certain of McKinley's re-election that they are going ahead with their plans on this basis and that, in their opinion, the election of Bryan would be disastrous to the country. Out of the 72 letters received only two or three favor Bryan, the great majority being overwhelmingly against him. This is strikingly shown even in the letters from the states which cannot vote Bryan in 1900 and manufacture lumber as soon as McKinley is re-elected.

Paste Would Follow at Once.

J. L. Weeks, general manager of the Steam Gauge company, Boston: "Our business still continues to be good. We find, however, that economies will not order so far ahead as they did during the fall of 1896 and 1897, owing no doubt to the coming presidential election. We can conceive of no greater calamity that could possibly happen to our beloved country than the election of Mr. Bryan to the presidency. Should he be elected we believe this country will see such a panic as it has never seen before, and the panic will come immediately after the election."

G. N. Hyre, secretary the Stillwell-Hyre and Smith-Vaile company, Dayton, O.: "We still continue to be very busy, and the outlook for the future is also very satisfactory. We feel there is little or no doubt of the re-election of McKinley by a very large majority. The triumph of Mr. Bryan and the rank heresies he stands for would, in our judgment, be disastrous to the best interests of the country."

C. F. Curtiss, secretary Crook Hanger company, hardware, Elmira, N. Y.: "So far as we can learn, business men do not anticipate any change in the administration. In fact, nearly every Democrat we have been able to find prefers to let the present administration continue another term. Should there be a change, and Mr. Bryan elected, business certainly will be at a standstill for the coming year."

Used Times if Bryan Wins.

M. C. Bullock Manufacturing company, Chicago: "Our business is very active. We are having a large volume of work, with orders ahead for several months to come. We see no reason why we should not be busy if Bryan is elected. We are having a large volume of work in the way of publications and specimens, and the work must be gotten out. The sentiment of the Bryan Democratic Populistic combination must be met.

After the experience of 1892, when the administration which had brought the greatest prosperity to the nation that it had ever known up to that time was turned out of office and our industries all brought upon the nation untold disaster, it will not do to take anything for granted. The disaster that would follow the election of Bryan would be tenfold greater than that which followed the election of Cleveland on a free trade platform. The decline in the value of farm animals alone under Cleveland aggregated nearly $1,000,000,000. Over 2,000,000 men were thrown out of employment. The consumption of wheat, owing to the poverty of the people, declined from 4 bushels per capita under Harrison to 3.88 bushels under Cleveland, causing a decline in prices and enormous loss to the farmers. The export price in 1892 was $1.02 per bushel and only $.61 in 1896, while other products fell in value to a similar manner. Wages went down, and the deposits in the savings banks declined from $263.11 per capita in 1892 to $225.38 in 1894. Immense losses in the clearing houses of the country occurred. In 1892 $90,000,000,000 to $65,028,494,746 in 1894. The election of Cleveland on a free trade platform caused a greater loss than the civil war.

How much greater will be the loss should Bryan be chosen on the free silver, free trade and anarchistic platform on which he is running! Can the nation afford to take any such chance? We do not believe that there is one business man in a hundred who thinks so. But there is danger without hard work. Mr. Hanna and many others are giving their entire time and a good deal of their money to legitimate work to avert the terrible disaster that would follow the election of Bryan. Can anything be done in this direction? Can business men afford to neglect their part of the task? If they reflect on the gloom and disaster that followed Republican defeat in 1892 and the considerable reversal of conditions that followed Republican success in 1896, they will certainly not fail to do their duty this year.—Philadelphia Press.

Railway Employees For McKinley.

An important action has just been taken by the Railway and Telegraph Employees' Political League of Illinois in indorsing the administration of President McKinley. The league convened at Chicago, and members of 50 state organizations, comprising 30,000 railroad employees and representing every railroad and every branch of the railroad service in Illinois, were in attendance.

The Menace of Disaster.

Good times alone will not bring success to the Republican party in November. There must be educational work in the way of publications and speeches, and the work must be gotten out. The sentiment of the Bryan Democratic-Populistic combination must be met.

After the experience of 1892, when the administration which had brought the greatest prosperity to the nation that it had ever known up to that time was turned out of office and our industries all brought upon the nation untold disaster, it will not do to take anything for granted. The disaster that would follow the election of Bryan would be tenfold greater than that which followed the election of Cleveland on a free trade platform. The decline in the value of farm animals alone under Cleveland aggregated nearly $1,000,000,000. Over 2,000,000 men were thrown out of employment. The consumption of wheat, owing to the poverty of the people, declined from 4 bushels per capita under Harrison to 3.88 bushels under Cleveland, causing a decline in prices and enormous loss to the farmers. The export price in 1892 was $1.02 per bushel and only $.61 in 1896, while other products fell in value in a similar manner. Wages went down, and the deposits in the savings banks declined from $263.11 per capita in 1892 to $225.38 in 1894. Immense losses in the clearing houses of the country occurred. In 1892 $90,000,000,000 to $65,028,494,746 in 1894. The election of Cleveland on a free trade platform caused a greater loss than the civil war.

How much greater will be the loss should Bryan be chosen on the free silver, free trade and anarchistic platform on which he is running! Can the nation afford to take any such chance? We do not believe that there is one business man in a hundred who thinks so. But there is danger without hard work. Mr. Hanna and many others are giving their entire time and a good deal of their money to legitimate work to avert the terrible disaster that would follow the election. The great task for help, (an business men afford to neglect their part of the task? If they reflect on the gloom and disaster that followed Republican defeat in 1892 and the considerable reversal of conditions that followed Republican success in 1896, they will certainly not fail to do their duty this year.—Philadelphia Press.

"WHY DON'T YOU DIE?"

Patriotic Sentiments of W. J. Bryan in Regard to Our Pensioners.

When the boys in blue were anxiously fighting, starving, bleeding and dying to save this nation in 1863-5, W. J. Bryan was a babe in swaddling clothes. Now, 18, 1898, at the ripe age of 32, this Bryan wrote the survivors of those boys in blue as follows:

"The next congress will have to wrestle with one deficiency of $56,000,000. This is on account of pensions. The appropriation for pensions for the next year must be not less than $150,000,000. It is therefore easy arithmetic to perceive that the appropriation that congress must make for pensions at the next session must aggregate not less than $186,000,000. This tremendous sum would of itself be enough to run a reasonably economical government. One would not complain if it were an honorable debt, because it was incurred by any act of patriotism or heroic service. The government is held and despoiled of no mean portion of this, and it seems helpless to defend itself. One cannot help being curious to know how many more years it will take to raise the generation which fools itself injured by the war. It is safe to say that the pension arithmetic display such longevity."

Will those of the old boys whose "remarkable longevity" still keep them with us and their relatives and friends ancient penny to the polls this fall and vote for this Bryan for president of the nation, or preserve, or will they not?—Grand Forks (N.) Herald.

"If there is any one who believes the gold standard is a good thing or that it must be maintained, I want him not to cast his vote for me, because I promise him it will not be maintained in this country longer than I am able to get rid of it."

—WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 16, 1896.

"The party stands where it did in 1896 on the money question."—WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, Zanesville, O., Sept. 4, 1900.

Delaware a Battleground.

Mr. Hugh C. Browne, chairman of the Republican state central committee of Delaware, reports as follows to the national committee: "Delaware's three electoral votes might prove very handy for McKinley to have, as he had four years ago, in case some of the other doubtful states, like Maryland, Kentucky, West Virginia or Indiana, should stay away from him. Then, too, Delaware is a battleground.

CONVERTS BY THE CARLOAD

A List of More Than Three Hundred Who Voted For Bryan in 1896 Now Converted.

Up to date the list of distinguished converts to McKinley contains names by the hundred, but they are coming in so fast that soon they will have to be counted by the thousand. The following list, as will be seen, is confined to Republicans who have in the past believed in the money question, but have now become convinced that it is not a good thing to have a currency based upon the nation's credit, and that it will not do to take anything for granted. The disaster that would follow the election of Bryan would be tenfold greater than that which followed the election of Cleveland on a free trade platform. The decline in the value of farm animals alone under Cleveland aggregated nearly $1,000,000,000. Over 2,000,000 men were thrown out of employment. The consumption of wheat, owing to the poverty of the people, declined from 4 bushels per capita under Harrison to 3.88 bushels under Cleveland, causing a decline in prices and enormous loss to the farmers. The export price in 1892 was $1.02 per bushel and only $.61 in 1896, while other products fell in value in a similar manner. Wages went down, and the deposits in the savings banks declined from $263.11 per capita in 1892 to $225.38 in 1894. Immense losses in the clearing houses of the country occurred. In 1892 $90,000,000,000 to $65,028,494,746 in 1894. The election of Cleveland on a free trade platform caused a greater loss than the civil war.

How much greater will be the loss should Bryan be chosen on the free silver, free trade and anarchistic platform on which he is running! Can the nation afford to take any such chance? We do not believe that there is one business man in a hundred who thinks so. But there is danger without hard work. Mr. Hanna and many others are giving their entire time and a good deal of their money to legitimate work to avert the terrible disaster that would follow the election. The great task for help, (an business men afford to neglect their part of the task? If they reflect on the gloom and disaster that followed Republican defeat in 1892 and the considerable reversal of conditions that followed Republican success in 1896, they will certainly not fail to do their duty this year.—Philadelphia Press.

PROSPERITY IN FULL FLOOD

Farm Mortgages Paid Off and Banks Full of Deposits.

The Republican national committee, if order to secure some up to date and reliable reports relative to the conditions in the great agricultural sections of the United States west of the Allegheny mountains, sent out letters of inquiry to several hundred business men in the large cities and in country towns of these sections.

The general substance of the replies shows that savings and commercial deposits have increased from 30 to 100 per cent since 1896; that nonnegotiables are able to borrow money at a rate averaging more than one-half of 1 per cent less than in 1896; that farm values in most sections have almost doubled; that almost 50 per cent of farm mortgages have been paid up and the remainder renewed only with "prepayment" privileges and at lower interest rates; that from 20 to 25 per cent of the debtor classes, to whom Bryan made appeals, have actually succeeded in his dishonest propositions for cutting in two the value of money legal tender in payment for debts, are now actually borrowing money in competition with the business men writing these letters.

Some of the strongest replies have come from Bryan's own state of Nebraska. The town of Lincoln, in which Bryan is a taxpayer, now has 4 per cent bonds selling at a premium, whereas four years ago it encountered difficulty in floating loans at 6 per cent. Adlai E. Stevenson as a taxpayer has had a chance to see evidences of prosperity right in his own town, for the city of Bloomington, Ills., has recently sold its bonds on a basis of 3.60 per cent, which is lower than any municipality in the United States could get in 1896.

The Campaign in Maryland.

Senator McLaurin of Maryland recently made an encouraging report as to the Republican prospects in that state. "In Baltimore," he said, "prospects are being made for a rousing business campaign, somewhat similar to that of four years ago, when the business interests of Baltimore was stirred as never before by the fear of Bryan's success and the danger of disaster therefrom and when old Democrats went and voted for McKinley by hundreds, the result being an unprecedented Republican victory. The Baltimore business men hope that the result will be parallel this year, and many of them predict that the 22,000 Republican majority of 1896 may be rolled upon again in 1900.

"The loss of Senator Wellington's vote in the senate reduces the Republican majority by two, and the Democrats of Dalmarva are making strenuous efforts to carry the Eastern shore district, which is now represented by Mr. Mudd, Republican, and which is a Republican district. Should they succeed in this, it would be a great loss to the Republicans in the senate. The Democrats are also making a strong fight in Western Maryland, which is now represented by Mr. Wachter

E750.R X-E738 .R4

Republican Page

This page is supplied to you, free of charge, by the Republican National Committee. If you can use all of it or a portion of it a similar page of plates will be forwarded to you weekly during the campaign. Please mail marked copy of your paper to Press Department, Republican National Committee, New York City.

AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION
NEW YORK, PETER GRAY, PRES. BOSTON, BUFFALO, PITTSBURGH. GENERAL OFFICES, NEW YORK. CHICAGO, CINCINNATI, CLEVELAND. OMAHA, SAN FRANCISCO, ST. PAUL, ATLANTA, DALLAS.
No. 9

NOW FOR THE TRUSTS.

Bryan Drops His Old Issue and Changes Base Again.

IMPERIALISM IS NO GOOD.

Record of the Two Parties—The Republicans Have Restricted Trusts, and the Democrats Have Favored Them. Read the Facts.

The Democrats are abandoning what they called the issue of "imperialism" and are pushing the "trust" proposition to the front in the latter days of the campaign. The attempt to frighten the east by the bogy of "imperialism" did not work in Vermont and Maine. They are afraid to raise the issue of new territory among the voters of the west, so they have started on a new track. The Republican party is ready to meet this, as it has the other questions that they have attempted to push to the front as paramount. If there is one subject about which candidates for any consideration for their record should explain fully, it is their attitude toward the trusts, for their friendship to the so-called "trusts" has been repeatedly shown.

Trusts are combinations of capital formed in every prosperous country to prevent the destructive waste of competition, make economies in production and to increase the output so as to make it more profitable proportionately in the aggregate to pay the expenses. They have often decreased the cost of commodities to the consumer, as in the case of oil. They have often proved a benefit to the common people, and they have their reasonable side. But the Republican party is not defending trusts, and it was one of the first political organizations to denounce monopoly and the restriction of trade. It has been the only party which has enacted federal legislation against the trusts, and was the first to specify the means by which they should be amenable to the laws.

The Democrats have favored the trusts. Bryan's party in the house of representatives refused to pass the anti-trust bill which was passed by the republicans in the last session of congress, with the help of the dock commissioners, the mayor and other officials in New York city, was formed with the object of robbing the poor by unnatural raising the price of ice in hot weather.

It is no wonder that Congressman Sulzer wanted to expunge from the Congressional Record reference to the ice trust when the legislation for trusts was under discussion in Washington last June. It is characteristic that, as the New York attorney general (Davies) says, the prosecution of the ice trust has met with "stays and appeals, and, in short, every legal technicality that ingenuity could devise to keep the combination that the ingenuity of counsel for the defendants could devise."

Effect of Trusts on Wages.

Mr. Bryan, in his recent speech at St. Louis and in his letter of acceptance, dropped his "paramount" impeachable issue altogether and put the trusts issue in its place. According to him, the trusts are guilty of almost so many crimes against society as he charged against the gold standard in 1896, before four years of prosperity under it had silenced him. Let us apply the simple test of a few figures in this connection. Let us see what effect the enterprises indiscriminately that would have repaid the sugar trust about $14,000,000.

The Democratic Ice Trust.

It is hardly necessary to point to the recent deeds of the New York statesmen, who were forced to accept an antitrust plank in their platform whilst their pockets were loaded with profits in the ice trust combination, which, with the help of the dock commissioners, the mayor and other officials in New York city, was formed with the object of robbing the poor by unnaturally raising the price of ice in hot weather.

It is no wonder that Congressman Sulzer wanted to expunge from the Congressional Record reference to the ice trust when the legislation for trusts was under discussion in Washington last June. It is characteristic that, as the New York attorney general (Davies) says, the prosecution of the ice trust has met with "stays and appeals, and, in short, every legal technicality that ingenuity could devise to keep the combination that the ingenuity of counsel for the defendants could devise."

Effect of Trusts on Wages.

Mr. Bryan, in his recent speech at St. Louis and in his letter of acceptance, dropped his "paramount" impeachable issue altogether and put the trusts issue in its place. According to him, the trusts are guilty of almost so many crimes against society as he charged against the gold standard in 1896, before four years of prosperity under it had silenced him. Let us apply the simple test of a few figures in this connection. Let us see what effect the enterprises indiscriminately

WEST VIRGINIA PROSPECTS.

Great Prosperity Everywhere, and the Voters Are For McKinley.

Ex-Consul General O. F. Williams has been in West Virginia on a stumping tour, and he confirms the recent reports of good Republican prospects in that state. "The prosperity in West Virginia," he reports to the national committee, "is universal and truly wonderful. Mr. Bryan, when he decided to put out his calamity and poverty arguments on the west Virginia tour, made a bad break. There is no area in the Union more prosperous than West Virginia, and the population realize it and are happy about it and propose to vote for the party which is responsible for it. They are aware that their prosperity is due directly, in the first instance, to the operation of the Republican party's tariff legislation and to the duties on coal, iron, etc.

"Mr. Bryan's poverty harangues were often positively ridiculous. At one town where he heralded the poverty of the inhabitants, there were placards all over the streets offering $10,000 to 1,000 workmen to put up new buildings and work on farms, etc. In another of these calamity stricken towns the national bank of the place has at present $1,000,000 surplus, and is offering to lend at low rates.

"In my travels through the state I was much struck by the fact that there were no placards with the words 'For Sale' on the houses. They were all occupied. In several places I saw a lot of people living temporarily in tents, because the house builders were unable to keep up to the demands of the immigrants for more new dwellings. This state of affairs well doubtless furnished the Democrats with a sufficient and excuse for their recent cry of Republican colonization. I met only two Republicans who said they were going to vote for Bryan. There was a man who used to lead his money out in 10 and 20 per cent in Cleveland administration, but has been only able to get 4 or 5 per cent in McKinley's administration, and he wants hard times to come again so as to get the old Cleveland rates of interest. The other was a man who he is used at McKinley because he has been able to get ears enough to haul all his coal, though how McKinley is to blame for that, he doesn't stop to explain."

Hon. A. G. Dayton, who represents the Second West Virginia district in congress and who knows the state thoroughly, says that the claims of the Democrats that Bryan will carry the state are unfounded; in fact, Mr. Bryan's stumping tour in the state, he says fell flat.

"If there is any one who be-

OUTLOOK IN MARYLAND.

Excellent Prospects For the Republicans, Is Reported.

One of the best known southern Republicans in congress is Mr. Mudd, who represents the 5th district of Maryland. His opponent, Mr. Cunnilee, according to Marylanders, is most always and generally running for something, but the thing that has troubled Cumeller is that he has never been elected to anything. Mr. Mudd was seated in a contest for the seat before the Fifty-first congress with the late Barnes Compton. He subsequently returned to the house in the Fifty-fifth congress and was re-elected to the present congress by a plurality of over 3,000. He is energetic and popular. There would seem to be no doubt whatever of his re-election by a large majority.

Senator Wellington's flop has caused genuine activity to prevail among the Republicans of western Maryland. Every man in one way or another is trying to prove his party loyalty. From the present indications Senator Wellington is practically alone in his flop. Four large Republican clubs are in process of formation in Cumberland. One will be in Wellington's old ward and will be composed largely of Germans. The organizers say that not one German Republican has been found in the ward who sympathizes with Wellington. In all parts of the city Republican clubs have been formed, and the enthusiasm is unlimited. The colored voters are expected solid for McKinley. Ex-Governor Lowndes is confident that Maryland will give 8,000 to 12,000 Republican majority.

Bryan Vessel History.

In his speech in Indianapolis Mr. Bryan said that "it is impossible to refer to a people by force or by purchase." Evidently Mr. Bryan has not read the history of the United States with that care that a man should read discussions topics having a historical bearing.

By purchase in 1803 the United States secured the title to the territory, territory and people of all colors, paying $15,000,000. The consent of the people of the Louisiana territory was never asked. Among different governments James Madison, secretary of state, and James Monroe and Robert S. Livingston made the purchase.

By purchase the United States secured the title to the Florida people of all colors in 1819 at the nominal price of $5,000,000. The consent of the people of Florida was not asked. James Monroe, president, and John Quincy Adams, secretary of state, made the purchase.

By purchase, after a war of con-

MORE CONVERTS.

Additional Names of Influential Democrats Are For McKinley.

Conversions of Democrats to the support of the present administration continue to be reported, and the good money issue as a reason for the change, and others are attracted by the Americanism of those in power and the stand that this country has taken before the nations of the world. In Maryland the other day the sound money men who supported Palmer and Buckner four years ago reorganized and decided to support McKinley. It was announced that only two members of the committee of seventy would support Bryan. From Michigan the announcement comes that a supreme court justice, a private court judge, a candidate for auditor general and for state treasurer, all Democrats, have publicly proclaimed the allegiance to the Republican party.

These names have been received from California:

Horace G. Platt of San Francisco, a prominent lawyer.

J. W. Oates, brother of Governor Oates of Georgia, of Santa Rosa.

George W. Baker, a leading San Francisco lawyer.

William B. English of San Francisco, formerly chairman of the Democratic state committee.

H. S. Foote of San Francisco, United States district attorney in the Cleveland administration.

General Walter S. Turnbull, a San Francisco capitalist.

Ex-Mayor S. R. Pond of San Francisco.

Colonel C. H. Maddox of San Francisco, formerly state senator.

Robert T. Hayne, a member of the San Francisco bar.

Trustees Theorem of San Francisco, the lawyer.

Russell Heath, an influential farmer in Santa Barbara.

E. F. Heyward of Fresno, the banker.

Other Democrats who have announced their intention to vote for President McKinley are:

Hiram R. Tharp, mayor of Washington, Ind., former member of the state senate.

A. P. Tebbetts of Newaygo, Mich., formerly prominent candidate for congress.

James A. Leisen of Menominee, Mich., formerly Democratic state senator.

E. J. Pemberton, formerly Democratic postmaster of Houghton, Mich.

W. C. Dewitt, for many years corporation counsel of Brooklyn.

L. J. Williams, president of the West Virginia Bar association.

J. Hervey Cook of Fishkill-on-the-Hudson, N. Y.

John H. Schedel, the Brooklyn bank-

PRACTICAL TESTS FOR BRYAN

Why His Eloquence Should Not Blind Any Man Who Thinks.

It is a recognized fact that one cannot successfully sell a ship or run a locomotive without previous training and that only disaster can be expected to result from an attempt to do it.

Mr. Bryan undertakes to reform and readjust the business of the country, and one would naturally suppose that his oratorical attributes were based upon large experience in commerce and finance. But inquiry elicits the following facts:

Mr. Bryan is professedly a lawyer, but in Lincoln, Neb., where he resides, he has never been retained in any case of importance and his small practice has been in the county court, where jurisdiction is limited to $300, and before the justice of the peace.

He has never been connected or planned to work with any financial or commercial or manufacturing or industrial business undertaking and has therefore never had opportunity for any education in these matters.

He has never had any experience in the state legislature.

He has never even served as alderman in the city council of Lincoln.

He has never had any political experience whatever, outside of his four years in congress and his campaigning tours. Although 40 years of age, his only apparent source of income is what he may derive as compensation for his public speaking and from contributions of the free silver people.

A well informed fellow citizen expresses the opinion that there are a hundred men in the town of Lincoln, better fitted, from experience in business and training in the practical affairs of life and in observation of affairs of state and nation, to assume the duties of president of the United States than is Mr. Bryan.

History teaches that the business interests of the individual and of the country can be successful only when they follow the teachings of experience and only infinite peril could result from the accepted leadership of a young machine like Bryan, who has nothing to recommend him but his gift of speech.

Contracts Void If Bryan Wins.

It has not been an unusual circumstance recently where important business contracts have been entered into for the documents to contain this clause:

"This contract to be null and void in case of the election of William Jennings Bryan as president of the United States."

In the consideration of business plans for the future capitalists and business men are leaving as little as possible to chance.

E750.R
#13
X-E738
R4

Republican Page

This page is supplied to you, free of charge, by the Republican National Committee. If you can use all of it or a portion of it a similar page of plates will be forwarded to you weekly for the entire campaign. Please mail marked copy of your paper to Press Department, Republican National Committee, New York City.

AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION
NEW YORK, PHILADELPHIA, PITTSBURG, BOSTON, BUFFALO, GENERAL OFFICES, NEW YORK, CHICAGO, CINCINNATI, CLEVELAND, OMAHA, SAN FRANCISCO, ST. PAUL, ATLANTA, DALLAS.

DROPPING THE MASK

Bryan Again Sounds the Free Silver Slogan.

BUSINESS MEN DON'T LIKE IT.

A Chorus of Protests From Democrats, North and South—Honest Money and Prosperity Must Be Continued.

The free silver issue is now at the front again, and there it will remain until it is decided by the voters in November.

Mr. Bryan put it there himself in his recent letter of acceptance. Free silver and free trade were the leading topics in that letter and the Democratic candidate there reiterated the settled purpose to secure free silver coinage and an abolition of the present tariff at the earliest opportunity.

The gold Democrats and the solid business men of the country, Democratic and Republican, northern and southern, do not relish this programme the least little bit. A chorus of Democratic protests is swelling up from all parts of the country. Hundreds of letters and other communications from southern Democrats are on file at Republican headquarters, almost all of them favoring a continuance of the present tariff and gold standard, which are recognized as the basis of the south's recent great advance in prosperity. Advices from the west are to the same effect. The Missouri Democrats are up in arms against the threatened degradation of the dollar and interruption of business stability. The news from New Jersey is very favorable to the Republican cause. Many manufacturers who have been held and the audiences have been invariably larger and enthusiastic. Similar reports come from many other quarters.

Business Men Disposed to Hedge.

Several cases have been made public lately in which the execution of a business contract has been conditioned upon the defeat of Mr. Bryan in the coming election and also in which payment in gold or its equivalent is made compulsory. The same measures were taken by business men very generally four years ago, and for the same reason. the record of the last four years is simply phenomenal, as a demonstration the contrast between the conditions under the last Democratic administration and the McKinley administration. A few specimen figures may be cited:

| | 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Number of employees in United States..... | 705,064 | 909,059 |
| Wages of employees in United States..... | $448,500,281 | $592,997,808 |
| Net earnings of mills..... | $347,052,947 | $456,944,159 |
| Value of exports..... | $793,389,508 | $1,052,593,732 |
| Value of imports..... | $779,224,390 | $616,527,893 |
| Balance of trade in our favor..... | $14,165,118 | $436,065,839 |
| Value of manufactures..... | $9,488,000,000 | $13,000,000,000 |
| Value of horses, sheep and cattle..... | $1,541,300,339 | $2,067,549,233 |

Similar ratios of business improvement and profit during the last four years are proved by the official statistics relating to the banks, both commercial and savings, our commerce, our mines, our naval products, our railways, our cotton products and manufactures, our breadstuffs and other food products, our textiles, etc.

Republican Protection to Labor.

At the end of President Cleveland's administration the labor unions had been almost annihilated because of the despoiling in the hearts of workingmen and their inability to pay dues or to devote any time to union work. It was then a question of starvation with many of the men who now compose the membership of unions, and there was little motive to devote time and money for keeping up unything else than a bare existence. Immediately after the inauguration of President McKinley unions began to pick up slowly. In time the unions grew more rapidly, and month after month since then until the number of unions and the membership has almost doubled the totals for 1897. The conditions of union labor

WEST VIRGINIA STRUGGLE.

Why the Coming Election in Unusually Important to Republicans.

The struggle the Democrats are making to carry this state would indicate that they regard the six electoral votes of that state as of prime importance. But the Democrats have much more than the electoral vote to look after in that state, because legislative success means a great deal to them. Ten years ago when the Democrats had full control of the state there was a legislative gerrymander which makes it necessary for the Republicans to carry the entire state by at least 10,000 majority in order to secure the legislature. This is a state that up to six years ago had been solidly Democratic in a considerable effort. This gerrymander could not be corrected when the Republicans had control of the state, for under the law and constitution the districting stood for ten years.

If the legislature can be captured by the Democrats this year, the same gerrymander can be continued and the congressional apportionment made use of to favor the Democrats. The constitution of the gerrymander will mean ten years more of Democratic supremacy, not only in the election of a United States senator four years hence, but again six years hence, even if the branch of the legislature or the governor in Democratic, the Republicans will be unable to correct the gerrymander of ten years ago. But if the Democrats should elect the governor and carry both branches of the legislature they would be able to continue the present unfair districting for another ten years; hence the unusual importance of the struggle that is going on in the state to obtain control.

"If there is any one who believes the gold standard is a good thing or that it should be maintained, I warn him not to cast his vote for me, because I promise him it will not be maintained in this country longer than I am able to get rid of it."

—WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 16, 1896.

"The party stands where it did in 1896 on the money question."—WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, Zanesville, O., Sept. 4, 1900.

Hope For Tennessee.

Congressman W. P. Brownlow of Tennessee, who is a member of the Republican national committee, has made the following statement:

"Tennessee is a Republican state whenever the vote is counted right. The state would be as certain to be

STILL THEY COME.

Additional Eminent Converts to Mckinley Since Friday.

The list of converts from Bryan to McKinley is being daily increased by some notable additions. An instance of the number of these changes is reported from Wyandotte county, Kan., where a McKinley and Roosevelt club has been organized by former Democrats and now has 115 members.

The annual report of the assessment men who have turned to McKinley for the year 1899 contains figures showing the condition of the three savings banks located on the Bowery, the Bowery Savings bank, Citizens' Saving bank and Drydock Savings bank. The great bulk of the money deposited in these banks comes from the workingmen of the east side. Here are the figures:

| | |
|---|---|
| Total deposits June 30..... | $14,059,193 |
| Total number of depositors..... | 225,414 |
| Total number of new accounts..... | 45,407 |

When 212,474 people living in a district whose population is composed entirely of workingmen and working women, have money in three banks, not to speak of the many smaller banks distributed through that section, every thinking man must acknowledge that there is genuine prosperity in New York and in the nation, and every honest man I meanwhile stand vote against the party which proposes to put down its possible final on the community, a double fraud; a fraud which is to cheat people out of their property and out of the earnings of their labor by first cheating them out of their understandings.

"The natural hatred of the poor to the rich? Sir, it shall not be till the last moment of my existence, it shall be only when I am down to the verge of oblivion, when I shall cease to have respect or affection for anything on earth, that I will believe the people of the United States capable of being effectually debauched, cajoled and driven about in herds by such abominable jugglery as this. If they shall do that to that point, if they so far cease to be sane—thinking men, intelligent men—so yield to such pretenses and such jugglery, that we shall be slaves already—slaves to their own passions, slaves to the fraud and knavery of pretended friends. They will deserve to be blotted out of all the records of freedom. They ought not to dishonor the cause of self government by attempting any longer to exercise it; they ought to keep their unworthy hands entirely off from the cause of Republican liberty if they are capable of being the victims of artifices so shallow, of tricks so stale, so threadbare, so often practiced, so much worn out, on serfs and slaves.

A Monstrous Delusion.

"The natural hatred of the poor against the rich? The danger of a monarchical aristocracy? A power so great and dangerous as that resisted

PLENTY OF PLUTOCRATS.

There Are Over Ten Hundred Thousand of Them In the Bowery Banks.

The Democratic orators, headed by Mr. Bryan, are fond of alluding to the "plutocrats" of New York, and their speeches give the impression that a few rich men own all the money in the city and that the mass of the people are groaning in poverty. This idea is not supported by the official statistics. The annual report of the assessment chart of banks of the state of New York for the year 1899 contains figures showing the condition of the three savings banks located on the Bowery—viz., the Bowery Savings bank, Citizens' Saving bank and Drydock Savings bank. The great bulk of the money deposited in these banks comes from the workingmen of the east side. Here are the figures:

| | |
|---|---|
| Total deposits June 30..... | $14,059,193 |
| Total number of depositors..... | 225,414 |
| Total number of new accounts..... | 45,407 |

When 212,474 people living in a district whose population is composed entirely of workingmen and working women, have money in three banks, not to speak of the many smaller banks distributed through that section, every thinking man must acknowledge that there is genuine prosperity in New York and in the nation, and every honest man I meanwhile stand vote against the party which proposes to put down its possible final on the community; a double fraud; a fraud which is to cheat people out of their property and out of the earnings of their labor by first cheating them out of their understandings.

A CAP THAT FITS.

DANIEL WEBSTER FORESAW BRYAN AND BRYANISM

Denounced Them Sixty-six Years Ago as the "Poor Man's Curse"—No National Hatred Between the Poor and the Rich.

Sixty-six years ago, on Jan. 21, 1834, Daniel Webster stood up in the United States senate and denounced the demagogism of his day in voices which fit the present crisis precisely. He said:

"Sir, I see, in these times, voices which carry to the people sentiments from high places, plain declarations that the present controversy is not a strife between one part of the community and another. I hear it boasted as the unfailing security, the solid ground never to be shaken, on which recent measures rest, that the poor naturally hate the rich. I know that, under the cover of the roofs of the capitol, within the last 24 hours, money men sent here to decide on measures for the public safety and public good, it has been vaunted forth, as the matter of boast and triumph, that one cause existed powerful enough to support everything and to defend everything; and that was the natural hatred of the poor to the rich.

"Sir I pronounce the utterer of such sentiments to be guilty of attempting to make a possible fraud on the community; a double fraud; a fraud which is to cheat people out of their property and out of the earnings of their labor by first cheating them out of their understandings.

"The natural hatred of the poor to the rich! Sir, it shall not be till the last moment of my existence, it shall be only when I am down to the verge of oblivion, when I shall cease to have respect or affection for anything on earth, that I will believe the people of the United States capable of being effectually debauched, cajoled and driven about in herds by such abominable jugglery as this. If they shall do that to that point, if they so far cease to be sane—thinking men, intelligent men—so yield to such pretenses and such jugglery, that we shall be slaves already—slaves to their own passions, slaves to the fraud and knavery of pretended friends. They will deserve to be blotted out of all the records of freedom. They ought not to dishonor the cause of self government by attempting any longer to exercise it; they ought to keep their unworthy hands entirely off from the cause of Republican liberty if they are capable of being the victims of artifices so shallow, of tricks so stale, so threadbare, so often practiced, so much worn out, on serfs and slaves.

A Monstrous Delusion.

"The natural hatred of the poor against the rich! The danger of a monarchical aristocracy? A power so great and dangerous as that resisted

E750.R

X-E738
.R4

Republican Page

This page is supplied to you, free of charge, by the Republican National Committee. If you can use all of it or a portion of it a similar page of plates will be forwarded to you weekly during the campaign. Please mail marked copy of your paper to Press Department, Republican National Committee, New York City.

AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION
NEW YORK, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON, BUFFALO, PITTSBURG, GENERAL OFFICES, NEW YORK. CHICAGO, CINCINNATI, CLEVELAND, DETROIT, OMAHA, SAN FRANCISCO, ST. PAUL, ATLANTA, DALLAS.

FOR HONEST MONEY

General Uprising to Prevent a National Disgrace.

MEN OF BOTH PARTIES UNITE.

Formation of Many Gold Democratic Campaign Clubs—A Final Effort to Crush the Free Silver Heresy and Scandal.

In plain English the issue is now for honesty or for dishonesty. The public now understands it, and the honest men of both parties are lining up in support of the cause of sound money. This is the feature of the campaign at present.

Ex-Secretary of the Treasury Charlie has accepted the presidency of the Lawyers' Sound Money Campaign club of New York city. The club was formed on Friday, Sept. 28, and its membership embraces most of the leading lawyers of the city of both parties. Mr. Carlisle's action in this matter is very gratifying to all the friends of good money and good government. Desperate efforts had been made by the Bryanites to win him over to their side. The influence of his decision to support McKinley will be very wide and great.

Mr. Wheeler H. Peckham, another eminent Democrat, who was nominated for the supreme court by President Cleveland, presided at the meeting of the lawyers, and among the signers of the call for the meeting were Messrs. Charles C. Beaman, William A. Beach, ex-Governor George Hoadly of Ohio, George L. Rives, Francis L. Stetson, James M. Varnum, Edmund Wetmore, ex-Congressman Franklin Bartlett and many other distinguished names. The call included the statement that "we believe that sound money is again the vital issue at the coming election," and this phrase gives what may be called the text of the campaign or its keynote. From this time on the Democrats will be compelled to confront this vital issue. They have tried to evade it from the first and to conceal their purpose of degrading the money standard and the commercial honor of more than party associations, we retired from the party and, taking with us the colors representing true Democracy, organized this league. Under its influence nearly a million good, true Democrats rebuked the theft and supported the great Democratic principle of honest money under a banner against which for a lifetime we had fought.

"If in 1896 the sacrifice we made was justified, it certainly is doubly so now. In 1896 by defeating Bryan we saved the country from a financial and industrial revolution which would have involved dishonor, disgrace and confused distress at a time when values of commodities and the price of labor were at the lowest, when recovery could but emphasize the injury and distress which free silver agitation had already wrought. The result of our work brought the country to hope and activity, until now prosperity obtains, values are up and the price of labor the highest in the world, all considering, considering the purchasing power of money.

"A thousand times better would it have been to have defeated Bryan in 1896, when depression and ruin ruled, than let it do so now, when prosperity rules. The revolution in values that would ensue upon the election of Bryan would pull down our financial and commercial structure, involving complete industrial disaster. The fall would be so great that the wreck would be beyond repair for this business generation, and these conditions would not wait for Mr. Bryan's inauguration; his election would precipitate them before noonset of the following day. Therefore one duty is to take up the cause of

THE A B C OF FREE SILVER.

Plain Statement Showing What "16 to 1" Really Means.

"Sixteen to one" means that Bryan and the Democrats insist that congress shall coin a law which will make 16 ounces of silver, now worth about 60 cents an ounce, or $9.60 for 16 ounces, worth as much as one ounce of gold, worth $16.

The free and unlimited coinage of silver at this ratio, therefore, means that Bryan and the Democrats want congress to enact a law so that anybody having silver, no matter who he may be or where he or his silver comes from, can take it to the mint of the American mint and have it coined into standard silver dollars of 412½ grains free of all cost, the American people paying all the expenses of coinage, therefore coined dollars, by weight and intrinsic value worth about 48 cents, to be a monetary legal tender for all debts, both private and public. In other words, the government shall pass a law agreeing to accept 48 cents for 100 cents and compel every American, rich and poor alike, to submit to this preposterous and bankruptcy breeding scheme.

Robbery of the People.

When it is remembered that silver owns less than one-quarter of the world's silver, the astounding and ignorant atrocity of this proposed robbery of the people is made more clearly manifest. Everybody knows that nearly if not all of the other three-quarters of the silver in the world would be sold to us at two for one, double its value, and sold to our people for cash, so that in a very short time after the enactment of such a dishonest law our knacks of silver would pour into this country from all parts of the earth, so that the silver monometallists have to suspend and repudiate this law, the necessary result of such and much of our other property would be owned by foreigners and paid for, not by gold at more than twice its value, which would mean overwhelming loss to this nation and a universal bankruptcy and universal panic, putting the country on an absolute silver basis. Congress may pass a concrete of a more absurd or lunacy-breeding measure.

Why Silver Has Become So Cheap.

Up to 1871 silver was at a premium over gold, and was coined at parity and worth from $1.29 to $1.31 per ounce, according to the year. From 1871 to 1893 such enormous silver deposits were found and so much silver was produced that the world could not utilize it all for coinage or in the arts, and its value and the price therefore rapidly declined, until in 1893-4 it fell to 42 cents per ounce, compelling nearly every silver mine owner to shut down and quit, so that very little silver is being or has been produced quite the last ten years, consequently the

WHY SIBLEY FLOPPED.

He Couldn't Stand the Pressure of Facts and Things Generally.

Hon. Joseph C. Sibley, the Democratic congressman from the Twenty-second Pennsylvania district, recently declared for McKinley, and in a speech at Bradford, Pa., recently he gave his reasons for "flopping." In the first place, he pleaded guilty to the charge of flopping, and these were the things which had made him flop:

He saw men earning twice as much now as in 1893.

He saw everybody employed now, while in 1896 47 per cent of the wage earners of the country were unemployed or working on short hours.

He saw the country manufacturing for home consumption and for export now instead of importing as in 1896.

He saw a point of wool selling for 20 cents instead of for 17 cents in 1896 and cotton at 10 cents instead of 4 cents.

He saw an advance under McKinley of 25 to 125 per cent in the price of all farm products.

He saw $705,000,000 more paid to wage earners in this country in 1899 than in 1896.

He saw 35 miles of empty freight cars standing on the tracks of the New York Central railroad for two years under Cleveland and now every wheel turning.

He saw our boys in blue being shot down in the Philippines by Democrats sympathizing with the savages.

He saw a Democratic national surplus, instead of a deficit as in 1896.

He saw that we were lending money to Europe, instead of borrowing it from Europe as under Cleveland.

And when he saw these things he went and flopped.

We Are Masters of the Pacific.

Without the courtesy of Great Britain not a German transport could arrive at Shanghai to begin the execution of the kaiser's "mailed fist" policy in "single handed" British aggression with the United States and Germany. With the coaling stations of Gibraltar, Malta, Aden, Colombo and Singapore closed to them, the great vessels which the kaiser has mobilized so frantically with the purpose of paying flying visits to his neighbors' shores with an overwhelming force would be useless to the use of sail power or sweeps. They would be thus at the mercy of cruisers of the third class. France would be little better off.

It is when we see the plight of the continental European powers in this most vital of international relations that we realize what prescient statesmanship has done for this country in two brief years. In the beginning of 1898 the United States, too, could reach the orient only on "borrowed coal," had bought in the foreign ports of

HEWITT ON THE ISSUE.

Strong Presentation of the Leading Question Before the Voters.

Ex-Mayor and ex-Congressman Abram S. Hewitt of New York in a recent letter has defined the question at issue most admirably. Mr. Hewitt is one of the leading Gold Democrats of the country, and no man's opinion carries more weight than his. He says:

"You ask whether I believe in the coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. You might as well ask me whether I believed that an ounce should be made to pass for a pound in the ordinary transactions of commerce. The ratio is a false ratio. The value of silver bullion, as you all know, is, as one ounce, not 16 to 1, but 32 to 1. The proposition of the platform, therefore, is to declare that 50 cents shall by law be made equal to 1$. The absurd proposition is based upon the preposterous belief that in 1873, when silver was demonetized, a crime was committed for which creditors benefited at the expense of debtors. The fact is that silver was then overvalued, and hence its demonetization was a relief to debtors and of no benefit to creditors.

"The extraordinary thing is that the Kansas City platform proposes to commit the very crime which it falsely denounces as having been perpetrated in 1873. It proposes to substitute a 50 cent dollar to pay debts which by law ought to be discharged with 100 cents to the dollar. This is robbery and therefore a crime in which no honest man can have any part. The pretense that the bullion value of silver could be raised to its coinage value by the fiat of the government is ridiculous. In fact, we have tried the experiment by purchasing more than $300,000,000 worth of silver in order to preserve the parity between silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1. We have seen the price of silver steadily fall in the face of these large purchases. The United States retained its ability to the last moment of erosion in this effort. The national distress existed, and we were only relieved from general bankruptcy by the repeal of the Sherman act. To repeat this experiment in a time when business is just on the point of recovering that it is difficult for a sane man to understand that the proposition could have received a single vote in the convention."

Insult to German Voters.

The Bryanites have done much injuring in this campaign about swinging the German vote over to Bryan. It would seem from their statements that they believe the German born Americans can be transferred solidly from one party to another at the will of party leaders. It is believed that German-Americans will resent as an insult this attempt of the Democratic leaders to

TO AVERT PANIC.

BRYANISM MEANS DISHONESTY EVERYWHERE, UNIVERSAL.

Eloquent Appeal to Good Citizens by Ex-Comptroller William M. Ivins of New York City.

If Mr. Bryan's party had left out the financial part of their platform, we might then admit that the question of currency was not an issue. It has done nothing of the kind. They resent their determination to carry out the policy of 16 to 1, and, notwithstanding the threat of financial revolution, the pretense to whom I have referred blame us for fearing them and their "American financial system," which is as safe and sane a suggestion as would be that of an "American sidesteal system" or an "American atomic theory" or a "system of American physiology."

The danger lies in the fact that Mr. Bryan is in dead earnest, and the people are infinitely more afraid of Bryanism because they are afraid of imperialism day after tomorrow. They are not willing to take it for granted that Mr. Bryan will proceed as once to carry out a series of undefined, vague and negative policies and take no measures whatever to carry out the only policy upon which he has declared himself affirmatively, squarely, precisely and fanatically.

Bryan Would Bolster Trusts.

It is not a theory that Mr. Bryan would revolutionize our system of currency if he could. It is a certainty, and all of the consequences—that is, disaster and ruin—are known. As to the consequences of that disaster people see fit to call imperialism, they are theories pure and simple. It will bolster the dead out of no one's mouth, the shirt off no man's back. But if Mr. Bryan be elected his enemies alone, even though he has to wait for a congress to carry out his will, will have all the direful consequences of panic. If there be those who do not believe this, they have only to turn back to the summer of 1893 to see what may result from a simple fear that our standard of money is to be debased. These actual-practical-practical-practical

E750 R
1
d 1 7 7
X-E738
.R4

Republican Page

This page is supplied to you, free of charge, by the Republican National Committee. If you can use all of it or a portion of it a similar page of plates will be forwarded to you weekly during the campaign. Please mail marked copy of your paper to Press Department, Republican National Committee, New York City.

AMERICAN LABOR LEAGUE ASSOCIATION
NEW YORK, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON, BUFFALO, PITTSBURGH. GENERAL OFFICES, NEW YORK. CHICAGO, CINCINNATI, CLEVELAND, DETROIT. OMAHA, SAN FRANCISCO, ST. PAUL, ATLANTA, DALLAS.

LABOR LETTER

Workingmen Not Deluded by Bryan's Anarchistic Appeals

GERMANS TRUE TO McKINLEY.

Flocking to the Republican Standard by Thousands—Convincing Arguments by John D. Crimmins and Senator Hanna.

Mr. Bryan is now reduced to his last resort. All his bitterness pertinent to issue—imperialism, free silver, the trusts, "reformity," the empire, etc.—having proved failures, he has now allowed himself to descend to the lowest level of demagoggery and is seeking to "coal" the labor vote by preaching hatred and jealousy of the rich and by asserting that the Republicans propose to maintain a large standing army because forts for the purpose of subjugating labor and intimidating workingmen.

This assertion, which is nothing less than an unmeasured falsehood, has not had the effect which he intended and expected. It has served to stir up the passions of the idle and vicious classes and has borne fruit in the shape of sundry riotous outbreaks and personal assaults upon Governor Roosevelt, Senator Hanna and other distinguished Republicans. But there is no evidence that it has infected the mass of sober, industrious workingmen. Prosperity the silness on either have shown no increased tendency toward the Democratic party. In fact, a delegation from the Wilkesbarre region recently called upon the Republican national committee and informed them that they were Republicans and that the strike had not affected the politics of the strikers.

Mr. Crimmins' Statement.

One of the most forcible appeals to laboring men which the campaign has produced is that which Mr. John D. Crimmins recently published. Mr. Crimmins has been a lifelong Democrat and is one of the most extensive employers of labor in the country. His appeal has already had a powerful influence on the workingmen, and it is believed that not less than 10,000 of the New York above will change commercial disaster, misery and distress for workingmen, tradesmen and all citizens, private and national dishonor. It should be so decisively repudiated by the American people that no one hereafter will be bold enough to make it an issue in our politics.

"Second.—It is the vital issue in this campaign. It was forced into the Democratic platform by Mr. Bryan himself. If elected, he will use all the vast power at his command as chief executive of the nation to immediately place the country on a silver basis. He will be zealously assisted by a house of representatives elected with him and representing his views. How long a small majority in the senate would hold out against Mr. Bryan's is an open question. The fear, distrust and uncertainty inevitably resulting from such a situation would be almost as disastrous to the business of the country as the passage of a free silver law.

"Third.—We do not see anything real in the case against McKinley. The occasion of the Philippine Islands has come to us as a most unexpected result of the war with Spain, a war decided on by both parties. Little has been confirmed by a treaty, the adoption of which was urged by Mr. Bryan himself.

"The course of the present administration in the Philippines has insurrection, in establishing a government founded upon our usual constitutional safeguards for life, liberty and property, and in determining to give the Filipinos as great a share of self government as they may show themselves capable of, commends itself to our sober judgment as being a wise and prudent method of meeting the great responsibilities which have devolved upon the United States as a result of

WE'VE ALREADY EXPANDED.

Dr. Josiah Strong's New Book on the Expansion Question.

"It is time to dismiss the craven fear of being great; to recognize the place in the world which God has given us and to accept the responsibilities which it devolves upon us in behalf of Christian civilization." Is the expansion arrived at by Mr. Dr. Josiah Strong, author of "Our Country," in his new book entitled "Expansion." In this book he dwells on the subject of national growth and its corresponding responsibility in an original manner, and the work is really one of the most interesting on this subject, so much discussed during this campaign. He calls attention to the astonishing development of energy and of wealth which has subdued the continent and which today makes us the most powerful and resourceful nation in the world. Our new manufacturing interests must inevitably become greater, so that our national welfare will be increasingly dependent upon foreign markets. He calls attention to the profound significance of China's awakening and shows that the needs of that empire are complicated to our own. He then argues that the Pacific is to become the center of the world's population, commerce, wealth and power, and that the opening on a new world life, involving new responsibilities and opportunities, as it will be impossible to evade. Amid these changed world conditions we could not maintain a policy of political isolation. He continues: "It is quite too late to ask whether we will expand. We are already expanded.

"Never before have we had to shape neither this instinct nor these overtures from commercial or entire nations. * * * But they have, I believe, proved the strongest influence during this consideration the great world facts. * * Our policy should be determined not by sentiment, prejudice, or commercial considerations, but by our duty to mankind as interpreted by the Bible in particular. * * * I know of no one who has proposed the annexation of the Filipinos who declares them capable of self government. It is the Christian who has been little has been confirmed by a treaty, the adoption of which was urged by Mr. Bryan himself.

"The course of the present administration in the Philippines has insurrection, in establishing a government founded upon our usual constitutional safeguards for life, liberty and property, and in determining to give the Filipinos as great a share of self government as they may show themselves capable of, commends itself to our sober judgment as being a wise and prudent method of meeting the great responsibilities which have devolved upon the United States as a result of

TRUST REGULATION.

DEMOCRATIC INCAPACITY TO DEAL WITH THE QUESTION.

Official Record of Congressional Action by the Republicans and Inaction by the Democrats.

When one considers the record the Democrats have made in congress in relation to the trusts, their inability or desire to the voters and their promise to do something further are really ridiculous. They began in the session of 1888, when they had both houses of congress and the presidency, and it was possible for them to pass any law they pleased. There were in that year 90 different bills for the regulation and control of the trusts. As all these bills were introduced they were referred to Democratic committees and were never allowed to see the light thereafter. The Democratic committee on manufactures, after being instructed Jan. 25, 1888, to investigate and report recommendations as to trusts, took leisurely at a cost to the government of $11,968 until Sept. 1, 1888, and then held the question under consideration until March 2, 1889, six months and a half, and then acknowledged their inequity to deal with the subject by recommending investigation in the original consideration of subsequent conference the facts as shown by the testimony taken by the committee.

The Sherman Law.

The next session of congress, under Republican leadership and against vehemently expressed opposition, passed the Sherman antitrust law. The Republicans had also given to the country the interstate commerce law and all of its amendments.

Referring to attempted legislation in the last congress, Mr. Bryan says:

"Let us examine our choice. Several antipoly attempt was made to deprive the public of its immediate remedy against combinations and an antitrust bill. The amendment was so temporary and was intended to deprive the courts of the power which they possess rather than to confer upon courts any jurisdiction.

How can congress deprive the states of the power they now possess without assuming any new authority?

Mr. Bryan says that congress impairing the present authority of the state courts can provide that compensation organized in any state shall not do business outside of the state."

In the minority report is equally unconvincing. He says that if elected he will recommend similar legislation. He would do nothing of the kind, as he will never find a judiciary committee of competent lawyers who would be willing to report such bills.

Democrats Prevent Reform.

The proposed constitutional amendment was rejected by a solid Democratic vote, all but four of the Democrats in the house voting against it, the of combining or increasing or decreasing the cost to the consumer by preventing competition is declared to be a monopoly and illegal. It is to be prohibited from shipping goods from one state to another, and for any violation, if convicted, it is provided that the offender shall be fined not less than $5,000 and by imprisonment of not less than 30 days nor more than six months. Its activities of commerce may be seized by the United States."

"All the laws now in force for the foundation of the trusts shall be applicable to the agents and officers of such combinations.

"That every combination tending to restrain trade or increase the cost of production or decrease the price of the product of any person, and any person engaged in it may, on conviction, be punished by a fine of not less than $500 or more than $5,000 and by imprisonment for not less than six months nor more than a year.

"That whenever the president is satisfied that the price of any product of any trust or any product of any other manufacture or commodity that has entered into such articles and continues the enhancement until the price is no longer enhanced."

"That whenever any state has attempted to prevent the trusts in its own borders or foreign corporation shall attempt to interfere, but on ordering the state shall be taken to be here."

"That every corporation or partnership shall be required to publish annually the cost of its organization and nothing when it exceeds property in other states, it it intends to export goods, it shall then mark its packages with its name and the name of the destination to which it is shipped.

"Violations are punishable, when convicted, by imprisonment of not less than six months or over a year and by a fine of not less than $500 or more than $5,000."

"PULL DOWN THE FLAG."

Bryan's Policy Makes a McKinley Man Out of a Lifelong Democrat.

Mr. George B. Weston of Bethlehem, Mass., writes as follows:

"I have voted the Democratic ticket since Franklin Pierce was our president. I am a Democrat. The flag and sound home' policy is too big a dose, and if I live I shall vote for McKinley.

"Any American in whose soul dwells one spark of national pride, who is willing to humiliate his country in the eyes of the world, should be wiped up and shot.

"We ask old voyagers who have tracked the globe and sailed the seas what they think of the flag in foreign ports or in unknown.

"One of the proudest days that ever I spent was when I was in Lisbon and was taken from an Anglo-American I was with to the American legation, the American Congress, said into the hallway of Commandants bearing Old Glory at her gaff peak. As she rounded the Sentinelle point and anchored off the cathedral yelow mouth of the Tagus, I felt salute shook the old seven billed cap and sent cards dreamy Adalid Mayfair and a score of his colleagues to look out upon the proudest flag that waves."

Mr. Weston's case is only one out of thousands.

The Record in a Nutshell.

During Mr. McKinley's administration we have passed from the state of a national debtor to that of a creditor nation. Instead of borrowing from foreigners, we lend to Europe. We have

CLEVELAND'S TWO CABINETS

Olney the Only Member to Desert the Republican Ship Wednesday.

The Bryanites have been making much a bidinidum over the fact that ex-Secretary of State Olney, a lifelong Democrat, intended to support Bryan for the presidency this fall that the Republican national committee have looked up the present political affiliation of all the men who were in the two Cleveland cabinets, the only Democratic cabinets since the war.

There were 26 of these in all, and of them Olney is the only one who has declared himself for Bryan. The Republican says in its statement:

"It was Mr. Olney who interpreted the law of injunction by the courts so as to restrain the strikers at Chicago, a doctrine that the Democrats have found to be so obnoxious. Six members of the Democratic cabinets are now dead. Six of the living members have come out in the support of sound money and the party that stands for law and order. No one doubts where these men stand in the present campaign—Charles S. Fairchild, John G. Carlisle, Daniel S. Lamont, William C. Whitney, Don M. Dickinson and J. Sterling Morton. The Bryanites cannot say same about the others besides Mr. Olney. In the list of campaign speakers for the cause of Bryan, J. Herbert, Hoke Smith, David R. Francis, W. S. Bissell, W. F. Vilas, Judson Harmon and W. L. Wilson do not appear. Their silence expresses their feelings toward the crowd that is running the Democracy today. Not one of these former cabinet members has announced that he will support Mr. Bryan."

In addition to those already published, that there will support Mr. McKinley are announced:

John D. Crimmins of New York.

Thomas J. Navarre of Binghamton, formerly president of the Democratic county committee of Broome county.

Preston Lincoln of Jamestown, N. Y., ex-member of the Democratic county committee.

Thomas J. Ryan of Cohoes county, Ills., candidate for secretary of state of Illinois on the ticket with Governor Altgeld.

George Hammer of Galesburg, Ills., Democratic candidate for county judge.

Colonel C. H. Murray, ex-Democratic member of the Kilbourn (Ind.) city council.

Rev. Dr. Thomas E. Bay, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Kenosha, Wis.

Colonel C. A. Lounsberry of Bloomfield, Ia., formerly Democratic candidate for congress.

Hon. Thomas Cullen, postmaster at Norwich, N. Y., under Cleveland.

John M. Martin, formerly Democratic member of Hillsdale, Ills.

William Dudley Foulke of Indiana, civil service reformer.

E. G. Graham, mayor of Stuart, Ia.

Hon. Jacob Rich, Democrat of Ohio, Ind., formerly partner of M. S. Jones, mayor of Toledo.

J. F. Campbell of Topeka, formerly Populist candidate for congress.

Thomas Davis of Des Moines, delegate to the Democratic convention of Iowa.

Also the following from Maryland:

X-E738
.R4

Republican Page

This page is supplied to you, free of charge, by the Republican National Committee. If you can use all of it or a portion of it a similar page of articles will be forwarded to you weekly for the campaign. Please mail marked copy of your paper to Press Department, Republican National Committee, New York City.

AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION
NEW YORK, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON, DETROIT, CHICAGO, CINCINNATI, ST. LOUIS, KANSAS CITY, MINNEAPOLIS, GENERAL OFFICES, NEW YORK. OMAHA, SAN FRANCISCO, ST. PAUL, ATLANTA, DALLAS.

M'KINLEY ON LABOR

His Record In Support of the Interests of American Workingmen.

CHAMPION OF THE RIGHTS

For Twenty-two Years the President Has Made Constant Efforts In Their Behalf.

There is no better friend of American labor than William McKinley. During the 22 years since the beginning of his participation in national legislation he has repeatedly shown his devotion to the interests of the workingman. The quotations from his speeches here given are from public addresses, and they are necessarily incomplete and fragmentary, being in all cases brief extracts from speeches and addresses. They are sufficient, however, to show that William McKinley has been at every stage of his career and on all occasions an avowed, earnest and persistent friend of labor and of its protection and of the advance of its interests by every legitimate means.

In a speech in congress on April 15, 1878, Mr. McKinley first took a position in regard to this question. He said, in reference to a proposition for reducing wages:

"I most protest against this or any other measure which looks to the scaling down of the wages of labor. * * * Reduce the tariff and labor is the first to suffer. The difference between the present and the proposed rate of duty must be made up somewhere, must be compensated in some way. As always has been the case, when economy in production is to be studied, the manufacturer looks to his pay roll of labor and lessening wages first. * * * It is our duty, and we ought to protect as sacredly and assuredly the labor and the industry of the United States as we would protect her honor from taint or her territory from invasion. We ought to take care of our own nation and her industries first."

Again, on the 6th of April, 1882, he said in the house of representatives.

"The fundamental argument for protection. That is what makes good times; that is what protective tariff means."

At Cincinnati in an address on Sept. 1, 1896, Mr. McKinley made the memorable remark that "there is nothing too good for the men who work," and at Niles, O., his native town, he spoke to the tin workers as follows:

"If I have been associated with any legislation that has given to a single American wee laborer a day's work at American wages which he did not receive before, that is honor enough for me. What we want in this country is a policy that will give to every American workingman full work at American wages."

Opposed to Labor's Degradation.

The keynote of President McKinley's public career was struck in an address to the workingmen at Hennessed, Pa., on Sept. 12, 1896, as follows:

"I have always been, as you know, in favor of a protective tariff. I have always advocated it and believe in it, because I think it is necessary to protect the American workingman against the cheaper labor of the old world. Applying that great principle, I am in favor of protection for the industries of the United States against a degraded currency. I am opposed to free trade because it degrades American labor; I am opposed to free silver because it degrades American money."

Finally, in his letter of acceptance, dated Sept. 8, 1896, accepting President McKinley's celebrated apotheosis, "For one a short day is better than a short dollar; one will lighten the burden, the other lessens the wounds of toil."

A Wage Earner to Wage Earners.

Mr. Bryan, imperialism and 16 to 1 are not the permanent issues just now. The issues to be decided by families who do not feel at the public crib are the election of a president and a party with no note of business purpose. Bryan's Army Issue

BRYAN'S ARMY ISSUE

His Misrepresentations Disposed of by the Official Records.

Militarism a Deceptive Pretense—Its Falsehood Exposed by a Plain Statement of the Facts in the Case.

Is Mr. Bryan trying to deceive the public with his cry of militarism and a large standing army?

He asserts over and over again that the president and the Republican congress increased the army to 100,000 men "when no area was raised against the nation anywhere in the world," and by his talk of the "large standing army" and the dangers of militarism under Republican rule evidently seeks to make the people believe that the increase in the army is a permanent one and that it has been brought about exclusively by the Republican party.

Here are the facts as shown by the official records. The act which increased the army at the beginning of the war with Spain provided that the army should be restored to its former size (27,000) at the termination of that war. As a consequence whatever additional force was necessary by reason of the threatening conditions in the Philippines after the termination of the war with Spain had to be provided by a subsequent act.

Discharge of the Case.

Admiral Dewey destroyed the Spanish fleet in front of Manila on May 1, 1898. Armistice was signed in Manila on May 19; on May 24 he issued a proclamation announcing the establishment of a dictatorial government with himself as dictator and decreed the carrying on a military government and on July 1 proclaimed himself president. On July 25 General Merritt arrived and took command of the American forces which had arrived in the month (said) on July 26 Admiral Dewey telegraphed the president: "Situation most critical at Manila." * * * Merritt's most difficult problem will be how to deal with Aguinaldo and his people, who have become aggressive and even threatening towards our army."

On Aug. 13 the American troops attacked Manila. Aguinaldo's forces failed to co-operate except to demand after the action had ended that the churches, the Palace of Malacanan, part of the money taken from the Spaniards and the arms of the Spanish soldiers be turned over to them and they be permitted to lost the city. These demands were refused, and during the months which followed, as shown by the report of the Philippine commission, "the feeling between the Americans and insurgents grew worse and worse day by day, and all manner of misunderstandings existed in the insurgent camps." Meanwhile the Philippines, the senate: "Had I been present I should have voted in favor of the bill." Twelve Democrats and Populists voted against the bill, while 20 voted for it. Thus giving in its support much more than a majority of the senate members of the parties now supporting Mr. Bryan. When the bill went to the house, the Democratic and Populist support was even stronger, the vote in that body standing 203 yeas to 35 nays, the opposition not being sufficiently strong to even command a yea and nay vote.

Mr. Sulzer's Appeal.

When it came up for final action in that body, Representative Sulzer of New York, one of Mr. Bryan's most ardent supporters, speaking of the bill said:

"I am in favor of it and shall do all I can to pass it. Fifty-five members of the senate voted for it, and only 15 voted against it. * * * We will be derelict to our fidelity to the Democratic party if we do not pass this bill. I am in favor of passing this bill. I trust the every Democrat who sympathizes with the men in arms in the Philippines, who sympathizes with the people in the Philippines, will support, at this critical moment, the hands of the president and give him the power vested in him by the terms of this bill. I am a partisan, but in times like these I always subordinate my partisanship to my patriotism. I am a Democrat, but I am an American first, last and forever. Let every Democrat, every patriot, every lover of his country, every friend of our soldiers and sailors who are upholding and defending our flag in the extract. We must stand by them. * * * The bill is only a temporary measure. It is intended to be operative in 1901. The emergency is only temporary. There is nothing permanent about it. It is a temporary measure. Nothing in it. This bill will carry us through the present difficulty and repeals itself on the first day of April, 1901. * * * I am in favor of passing this bill. I realize how important it is to pass this bill. Its failure now would be a calamity, an affront to every man in the Philippines. * * * I cannot see how a Democrat can vote against it. It gives the president all the power he needs to carry on the government at the same time it does not increase its standing army a single man. After July 1, 1901, by virtue of this bill the president may will be just the same as it was before the war was declared with Spain. By that time let us hope the country will be at peace with all the world and the insurrection in the Philippines a thing of the past. It is the time to be patriots. This is no time to split hairs. This is no time to be Democrats. This is no time, we should be what is right, and the people will judge us accordingly."

Thus shown in a plain statement regarding the temporary increase in the army upon which Mr. Bryan builds his cry of "militarism." Every statement given above is from official records, entirely accessible to him, and with all of them he must be familiar if he is to be a presidential candidate. Can it be possible that he is doing what Representative Sulzer above describes as "sympathizing with the men in arms in the Philippines?"

Business Argument For McKinley.

Mr. J. Howard Cowperthwait, a prominent New York business man, writes as follows to the New York Times: "It is not necessary to prove that Bryan, if elected, would be able to put us on a silver basis. The clear headed man of affairs does not place in a position of trust an untrustworthy person, thus relying solely upon the safeguards surrounding the position. On the contrary, it is usual to select

IF BRYAN WINS, WHAT THEN?

The Country Will Be on a Silver Basis and Face the Ruinous Consequences.

On that fatal morning when it shall appear that Bryan has been elected there shall be neither a panic nor a rush for belief even that he may be elected, and it shall be announced that the foreigners are getting out from under, by sale of their American held securities on the New York Stock Exchange, necessitating the support of gold to for them, or there shall be a sharp upward start of a run by the prospective of notes for redemption to the treasury by our own people, long lines of clerks of the banks, financial institutions and financiers, lengthening out through the night, will besiege the doors of the subtreasury, on Wall street, and before noon demands will be made on our government to most time empty from the public treasury our government's entire stock of gold reserve to its last dollar. By this movement from the few eastern seaboard cities alone—New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore—before the windows of nightfall every dollar of our government's gold will be demanded.

What will the banks do with the gold that they thus acquire? Will they pay it out in the redemption of their own notes? No Indeed! They will hold on to it, not as money, but as property—as a commodity—an asset which they can always realize upon at the moment they need it, that it is worth. Every individual holder of gold throughout the country in any amount down to a single dollar will do the same thing, holding on to it to the day he can never extinctly, when he will convert it at a value vastly in excess of any money he consumed, for which he may be compelled by his wants to exchange it, and it will pass into stores, are hands better able to hold on to it. Then, in a single day, all of our beautiful stock of BRONZE money of gold will be completely retired from circulation as money.

Taken Completely Off Our Feet.

What will become of our remaining twelve hundred millions of circulating medium or various kinds? The scores of our national banks are required by law to be redeemed in government bonds, and the value of the bond value to the holder will be the exchange of a national bank note for a government note when the treasury is entirely emptied of its gold and the government no longer has the power to make its own notes good to the holder of them? The government will be taken completely off its feet. It will not be able to sell its bonds, at present interest rates, at 60 cents to one dollar. Nor would it be of any avail if it could.

E750.R

Republican Page

This page is supplied to you, free of charge, by the Republican National Committee. If you can use all of it or a portion of it a similar page of plates will be forwarded to you weekly during the campaign. Please mail marked copy of your issue of press Department, Republican National Committee, New York City.

M'KINLEY ON LABOR

His Record In Support of the Interests of American Workingmen.

CHAMPION OF THEIR RIGHTS.

For Twenty-two Years the President Has Made Constant Efforts In Their Behalf.

There is no better friend of American labor than William McKinley. During the 22 years since the beginning of his participation in national legislation he has repeatedly shown his devotion to the interests of the workingman. The quotations from his speeches here given are from public addresses, and they are necessarily incomplete and fragmentary, being in all cases brief extracts from speeches and addresses. They are sufficient, however, to show that William McKinley has been at every stage of his career and on all occasions an avowed, earnest and persistent friend of labor and of the protection and of the advance of its interests by every legitimate means.

In a speech in congress on April 10, 1876, Mr. McKinley first took a position in regard to this question. He said, in reference to a proposition for reducing wages:

"I most protest against this or any other measure which looks to the reducing down of the wages of labor. * * * Reduce the tariff and labor is the first to suffer. The difference between the present and the proposed rate of duty must be made up somewhere, must be compensated in some way. As always has been the case, when economy in production is to be studied, the manufacturer looks to his pay roll of labor and commences there first. * * * It is our duty, and we ought to protect as sacredly and assuredly the labor and the industry of the United States as we would protect her honor from taint or her territory from invasion. We ought to take care of our own nation and her industries first."

Again, on the 9th of April, 1892, he said to the house of representatives:

> "I have been for twenty years a protectionist and I have been a protectionist because I believed it was for the best interests of the people of this country that we should protect the industries of the country, compelling them to obey the wishes of the rich corporations who employ them and preventing strikes by the point of the bayonet. In subsequent speeches he sought to influence the poor against the rich by artful appeals to their envy and other bad passions, and stated that the Republican party's policy was such as to make the rich richer and the poor poorer 'because the Republican party made provision for the rich people.'
>
> Elected by great talk as this from Mr. Bryan and some of the other leaders close to him, the management of the Democratic campaign the Democratic rank and file have been gulled at various violent and lawless actions, and the tendency in that direction on their part is increasing at a rapid rate.
>
> At Victor, Colo., a short time ago, Governor Rosewater and his company of Republican speakers were assaulted by a gang of Democratic miners with clubs and other weapons. Governor Rosewater, one of his speakers and a stroke and considerably injured.
>
> At Chicago, Governor Rosewater was shamefully assaulted and abused with vile language by another gang of Democratic in front of a church where he was just attended service on Sunday morning. Governor Rosewater and Hanna was making a speech to a large audience when some sympathizers with Bryan threw a large piece of ice on the speaker and just missed his head. Again, in Chicago, a few evenings later, a Republican procession was assaulted by a gang of Bryanites who threw rotten eggs, stones and other missiles at marchers and were injured several of them.
>
> In New York Republican meetings have frequently been interrupted by similar assaults, and Mr. Odell, the Republican candidate for governor of New York, while listening to a speech made on the balcony of his hotel, was publicly insulted by the Democrats, who turned their dwelling assailant and Bryan mottoes full upon him.
>
> Commenting on these proceedings, Senator Scott of West Virginia said recently: 'The Bryanite Democracy has

BRYAN RIOTS

His Followers Make Practical Demonstrations of Their Badness.

The last stage of the Bryanite Democracy's campaign has degenerated into a mere demonstration of robber lawlessness. Mr. Bryan himself set the example to his followers when he began about a month ago to deliberately misrepresent the facts in regard to the employment of the United States army. He informed the public in several addresses that the Republicans proposed to employ a large standing army for the purpose of intimidating and coercing the voters and for protecting the wage earners of the country, compelling them to obey the wishes of the rich corporations who employ them and preventing strikes by the point of the bayonet. In subsequent speeches he sought to influence the poor against the rich by artful appeals to their envy and other bad passions, and stated that the Republican party's policy was such as to make the rich richer and the poor poorer 'because the Republican party made provision for the rich people.'

Elected by great talk as this from Mr. Bryan and some of the other leaders close to him, the management of the Democratic campaign the Democratic rank and file have been gulled at various violent and lawless actions, and the tendency in that direction on their part is increasing at a rapid rate.

At Victor, Colo., a short time ago, Governor Rosewater and his company of Republican speakers were assaulted by a gang of Democratic miners with clubs and other weapons. Governor Rosewater, one of his speakers was struck and considerably injured.

At Chicago, Governor Rosewater was shamefully assaulted and abused with vile language by another gang of Democratic in front of a church where he was just attended service on Sunday morning. Governor Rosewater and Hanna was making a speech to a large audience when some sympathizers with Bryan threw a large piece of ice on the speaker and just missed his head. Again, in Chicago, a few evenings later, a Republican procession was assaulted by a gang of Bryanites who threw rotten eggs, stones and other missiles at marchers and were injured several of them.

In New York Republican meetings have frequently been interrupted by similar assaults, and Mr. Odell, the Republican candidate for governor of New York, while listening to a speech made on the balcony of his hotel, was publicly insulted by the Democrats, who turned their dwelling assailant and Bryan mottoes full upon him.

Commenting on these proceedings, Senator Scott of West Virginia said recently: 'The Bryanite Democracy has

AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION
NEW YORK, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON, BUFFALO, PITTSBURG. GENERAL OFFICES, NEW YORK. CHICAGO, CINCINNATI, ST. PAUL, ATLANTA, DALLAS. OMAHA, SAN FRANCISCO.

BRYAN'S ARMY ISSUE

HIS MISREPRESENTATIONS DISPOSED OF BY THE OFFICIAL RECORDS.

Millionaire a Deceptive Pretense—Its Falsehood Exposed by a Plain Statement of the Facts in the Case.

In Mr. Bryan trying to deceive the public with his cry of militarism and large standing army?

He asserts over and over again that the president and the Republican congress increased the army to 100,000 men "when no one was raised against the nation anywhere in the world," and by his talk of the "large standing army" and the dangers of militarism under Republican rule evidently seeks to make the people believe that the increase in the army is a permanent one and that it has been brought about exclusively by the Republicans.

Here are the facts as shown by the official record: The army when increased the army at the beginning of the war with Spain provided that the army should be reduced to its former size (27,000) at the termination of that war. As a consequence the army additional force was necessary by reason of the threatening conditions in the Philippines. The reorganization of the war with Spain had to be provided by a subsequent act.

History of the Case.

Admiral Dewey destroyed the Spanish fleet in front of Manila on May 1, 1898; Aguinaldo arrived at Manila on May 19; on that day he issued a proclamation announcing the establishment of a dictatorship government with himself as dictator and decree for carrying on a military government and on July 1 proclaimed himself president. On July 25 General Merritt arrived and immediately sent the Spanish forces which had arrived during that month, and on July 30 General Merritt telegraphed the president: "Situation most critical. Army small. Insurgents most difficult problem will be how to deal with insurgents." Aguinaldo's army have become aggressive and even threatening toward our army."

On Aug. 13 the American troops attacked Manila, but Aguinaldo's forces fired on the Spanish fort and demand after the action had ended that the Spaniards turn over to them and they be permitted to loot the city. These demands were refused, and during the months which followed, as shown by the reports of the Philippine commission, "the feeling between the Americans and insurgents grew worse and worse day by day, and all manner of abuses were indulged in by the insurgents." Had I been present I should have voted in favor of the bill." Twelve Democrats and Populists voted against the bill, while 20 voted for it, thus giving to its support much more than a majority of the senate members of the parties now supporting Mr. Bryan. When the bill went to the house, the Democratic and Populist support was even stronger, the vote in that body standing 205 yeas to 35 nays, the Democrats being sufficiently strong to even command a yea and nay vote.

Mr. Salzer's Appeal.

When it came up for final action in that body, Representative Salzer of New York, one of Mr. Bryan's most ardent supporters, speaking of the bill said:

"I am in favor of it and shall do all I can to pass it. Fifty-five members of the senate voted for it, and only 12 voted against it. * * * I am in favor of it, and I hope it will pass. I am for the army because of the injustice if we now impede or defeat this bill. I trust that every Democrat who sympathizes with the men in arms at Manila, with our soldiers and sailors in the Philippines, will uphold, at this critical moment, the hands of the president and give him the power vested in him by the terms of this bill. I trust, gentlemen, that in this hour there I always shall be a Democrat who will stand by our soldiers and sailors. We must not forget, we must not forsake our brave, heroic soldiers and sailors who are upholding and defending our flag in the orient. We must stand by them. * * * The bill is only a temporary measure. It will cease to be operative in 1901. The increase of the army provided for is temporary and necessary. It is simply meeting the present emergency. * * * This bill can do no harm. It becomes a nullity and expires itself on the first day of April, 1901. * * * I hope the members of the house will realize how important it is to pass this bill. Its failure now would be a calamity, an affront to our men in the Philippines. * * * I cannot see how a Republican or a Democrat can consistently vote against this bill. Republicans voted for it because they felt the general emergency, and at the same time it does not increase the standing army to a dangerous extent. * * * The passage of this bill the regular army will be just the same as it was before the war was declared with Spain. By that time let us hope the country will be at peace and we will be able to reduce the army to the minimum of peace footing. This is a time to be patriots. This is no time to split hairs or play mean politics. We should do our duty, we should do what is right, and the people will reward us for it."

The above is a plain statement regarding the temporary increase in the army upon which Mr. Bryan builds his entire bogy of "militarism." Every statement above given is from official records, entirely accessible to him, and with all of them he could have learned if he is fit to be a presidential candidate, if he is possible that he is doing what Representative Salzer above describes as "playing small politics?"

Business Argument For McKinley.

Mr. J. Howard Cowperthwait, a prominent New York business man, writes as follows to the New York Times: "It is not necessary to prove that Bryan, if elected, would be able to put us on a silver basis. The clear business sense of affairs does not place in a position of trust an untrustworthy person, thus relying solely upon the unfortunate surrounding the position of the president. It is sound to select

IF BRYAN WINS, WHAT THEN?

The Country Will Be on a Silver Basis Sure, With Ruinous Consequences.

On that fatal morning when it shall appear that Bryan has been elected or there shall be reasonable ground for belief even that he may be elected, and it shall be manifest that the foreigners are getting out from under, by sale of their American held securities on the New York Stock Exchange, necessitating the export of gold to pay for them, or there shall be a sheer upward start of a run by the presentation of notes for redemption to the treasury by our own people, long lines of clerks of the banks, financial institutions and financiers, lengthening out through the night, will besiege the doors of the subtreasury, on Wall street, and before noon demands will be made on our government to more than empty from the public treasury our government's entire stock of gold down to its last dollar. By this movement from the few custom seaboard cities alone—New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore—before the shadows of nightfall every dollar of our government's gold will be demanded.

What will the banks do with the gold that they thus acquire? Will they pay it out in the redemption of their own notes? Not indeed! They will hold on to it, not as money, but as property—as a commodity, which they may then cry on always realize upon at any moment for all that it is worth. Every individual holder of gold throughout the country in any amount, seeks to a single dollar will do the same thing, holding on to it to the day of the street extremity, when he will convert it at value vastly in excess of any needed commodity, for which he may be compelled by his wants to exchange it, and it will pass into strangers' hands from which he hold on to it. Thus, in a single day, all of our boasted stock of $500,000,000 of gold will be completely retired from circulation as money.

Taken Completely Off Our Feet.

What will become of our remaining twelve hundred millions of circulating medium of various kinds? The notes of our national banks are required by law to be redeemed in government bond tender notes. But of what value to the holder will be the exchange of a national bank note for a government note when the treasury is entirely emptied of its gold and the government no longer has the power to make its own notes good to the holder of them? The government will be taken completely off its feet. It will not be able to sell its bonds, at present interest rates, at 60 cents to the dollar. You would be far out ahead if it could

E75R X-E738 .R4

Republican Page

This page is supplied to you, free of charge, by the Republican National Committee. If you can use all of it or a portion of it a similar page of plates will be forwarded to you weekly during the campaign. Please mail marked copy of your paper to Press Department, Republican National Committee, New York City.

AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION
NEW YORK, PHILADELPHIA, PITTSBURG, BOSTON, BUFFALO, GENERAL OFFICES, NEW YORK. CHICAGO, CINCINNATI, INDIANAPOLIS, OMAHA, SAN FRANCISCO, ST. PAUL, ATLANTA, DALLAS.

M'KINLEY THE MAN

Rising Tide of Popular Love and Esteem For Him.

SHARP CONTRAST WITH BRYAN

Noble Career of the President—A Tried and True Friend of the People—His Patriotism and Clean Record.

Who is William McKinley? His biography has been written too many times to make it necessary again to describe the place of his birth, his education, his army service, his legislative career. The American people know well enough who William McKinley is.

What is William McKinley? This is a question of more importance with regard to him, as with regard to any other man. The question is to be answered partly by reference to his public career and partly by an estimate of what his fellow citizens think of that career.

It is needless to recount the events of his early life further than to say that they were of a piece with and led up naturally to the events of his maturity. In every onward step of his career he has gone higher and higher in the esteem of his fellow countrymen, whether as lawyer, soldier, representative in congress, governor or president of the United States.

Treasurer Bliss' Tribute.

Hon. Cornelius N. Bliss of New York, treasurer of the Republican national committee, has well described the characteristics of President McKinley and contrasted his claims with those of Mr. Bryan in the following statement:

"Now that the campaign is approaching its close and the various issues have been sifted and analyzed by the voters so that they understand them thoroughly the personal element comes naturally into prominence.

"McKinley or Bryan? Can any one hesitate between the two? There is no cause or occasion for discussing Mr. Bryan's personal character, but as a candidate for the presidency what concdoes, and the people will see to it that he gets what he deserves."

M'KINLEY AND PENSIONS.

One Absurd Complaint Resembles Ten. Hot In Short Order.

The season of campaign rearbacks is at hand, and the most absurd one to date is an attempt to make it appear that President McKinley is opposed to the liberal administration of the pension laws. This is about the last allegation which it might be supposed would be brought against William McKinley. In a recent letter to Mr. J. W. Burst of Sycamore, Ills., Messrs. B. R. Brown of Jamesville, Co., chairman of the national pension committee, and John Palmer, past commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, give the quietus to this particular rearback. Their letter is as follows:

"In an interview Hon. D. L. Murphy, former commissioner of pensions, states that President McKinley on the morning of Sept. 4, 1896, said to the national committee on pensions, G. A. R., There is no use denying the fact, gentlemen, that the money power of the country is against further expansion of the pension roll." The undersigned members only of the pension committee called on the president by appointment that morning, and in the interest of justice we desire to say that this statement is not true. The president did not on that occasion nor at any other time make use of any such words, nor did he make any such suggestion then or at any other time, and we were present at all the conferences between the president and the national committee on pensions from July, 1896, until the passage of the bill amending

INDUSTRIAL COMBINATIONS.

Extracts From the Address by Charles R. Flint to the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, Oct. 8, 1896.

A combination of labor is a trades union, a combination of intelligence a university, a combination of money a bank; an industrial combination is a combination of labor, intelligence and money.

In studying the evolution of industrial life we find that combination is coincident with civilization. Savages have little power to combine, because combination depends on trust in our fellow man, and in primitive life it is fear that rules.

One of the first steps in industrial evolution was to subdivide production into trades. Each did what he could do best, settling accounts by an exchange of products. Later these engaged in the same trade formed partnerships, then corporations and finally consolidations of corporations.

Against this march of industrial progress there has always been opposition. There have always been those who, appealing to special interests, to the unsuccessful, the discontented and the misinformed, have endeavored to obtain political favor by opposing progress, by endeavoring to prevent the natural and mutually beneficial co-operation between capital and labor.

In this great territory of ours we always have with us those who try to make people believe that their salvation lies in the mass. We have had the "Know Nothing" crew, the "Greenback" crew, the "Crangers" crew and the silver crew, but they were all repelled by the good sense of the American people. Today our farmers recognize that the prosperity of the country has been opened to them through the great expansion of industry, which has resulted in the heavy steel rail, the low locomotive and the continuous bank. Economically the wheatfields of Dakota are nearer to London and Paris than the farmers of Pennsylvania and Kentucky.

The men of sound judgment, leaders in the industrial wars for the supremacy of the American flag, the American manufacturer and the American wage earner, should not be distorted by the demagogue who would use the struggle and therefore cannot appreciate the great responsibility and whose leadership, if accepted, owing to their inexperience, would conduct us to inevitable disaster.

Centralized manufacture permits the highest development of special machinery and processes. The factory running full time on large volume reduces the percentage of overhead charges, direct sales on a large scale minimize the cost of distribution. Centralization of manufacture and distribution reduce-

SUGGESTIVE LABOR FIGURES

Proofs of Prosperity Shown by Recorded Statistics.

Three publications recently issued—the "Annual Report of the Railway and Telegraph Employees' Political League of Illinois," the "Annual Statistical Report of the Interstate Commerce Commission" and "Poor's Manual of Railroads"—contain much valuable and unassailable evidence in support of the claim that President McKinley's administration has resulted in great prosperity to all lines of industry. It is interesting to notice from a study of these works how nearly railway expansion was at a standstill in the years from 1894 to 1897 and how remarkably rapid the growth has been since that time. The increase in freight rolling stock, for example, from 1894 to 1897 was only about 6,000 cars, whereas the increase from 1897 to 1899 was nearly 100,000 cars. The tons of freight moved was three times greater in 1897 than in 1893, but 1899 shows an increase of nearly one-fourth over 1897. Passenger traffic remains nearly stationary, the growth year by year being largely offset by the loss of suburban travel to electric lines. Earnings, both gross and net, show a like ratio of increase to the freight traffic in the less times and far times respectively.

The statistics of number of employes show a loss in 1898 of 10,000 as compared with 1897, but this is more than made up in 1899 when the total was 873,692, but the number reduced by more than 100,000 in the following year, and not till 1898 were the figures of 1893 equaled. Of this huge army, constituting, with their families, nearly eight nearly 4 per cent of the total population of the country, only about 9,100, or less than 1 per cent, are ranked as officers.

The following table gives the compensation paid to the different classes of railroad employees in the specified years:

| | 1895. | 1898. |
|---|---|---|
| General officers | $12,724,098 | $12,864,449 |
| Other officers | 4,480,000 | 4,480,000 |
| General office clerks | 19,080,000 | 21,780,000 |
| Station agents | 29,000,000 | 29,000,000 |
| Other station men | 98,480,000 | 97,010,000 |
| Engineers | 20,400,000 | 46,146,000 |
| Firemen | 32,000,000 | 32,000,000 |
| Conductors | 33,700,000 | 37,646,000 |
| Other trainmen | 38,004,000 | 42,000,000 |
| Machinists | 17,724,374 | 20,776,728 |
| Carpenters | 32,000,000 | 32,000,000 |
| Other shopmen | 44,730,000 | 53,730,000 |
| Telegraph operators | 12,000,000 | 12,000,000 |
| Other telegraph employees | 20,352,000 | 24,480,000 |
| Switchmen, flagmen and watchmen | 20,700,000 | 27,064,774 |
| Telegraph operators and dispatchers | 12,615,311 | 15,110,151 |
| Employes' account of floating equipment | 3,593,000 | 3,993,000 |
| All other employes and laborers | 49,272,337 | 53,080,154 |
| Totals | $446,580,763 | $493,962,806 |

Here is an increase of over $47,000,000 in the wages of railway employes in the four years of McKinley's administration.

RAILROAD OBJECT LESSONS.

Statistics Showing the Prosperity of Railway Men Under McKinley.

"Poor's publication recently issued the "Annual Report of the Railway and Telegraph Employees' Political League of Illinois," the "Annual Statistical Report of the Interstate Commerce Commission" and "Poor's Manual of Railroads"—contain much valuable and unassailable evidence in support of the claim that President McKinley's administration has resulted in great prosperity to all lines of industry. It is interesting to notice from a study of these works how nearly railway expansion was at a standstill in the years from 1894 to 1897 and how remarkably rapid the growth has been since that time. The increase in freight rolling stock, for example, from 1894 to 1897 was only about 6,000 cars, whereas the increase from 1897 to 1899 was nearly 100,000 cars. The tons of freight moved was three times greater in 1897 than in 1893, but 1899 shows an increase of nearly one-fourth over 1897. Passenger traffic remains nearly stationary, the growth year by year being largely offset by the loss of suburban travel to electric lines. Earnings, both gross and net, show a like ratio of increase to the freight traffic in the less times and far times respectively.

The statistics of number of employes show a loss in 1898 of 10,000 as compared with 1897, but this is more than made up in 1899 when the total was 873,692, but the number was reduced by more than 100,000 in the following year, and not till 1898 were the figures of 1893 equaled. Of this huge army, constituting, with their families, nearly eight nearly 4 per cent of the total population of the country, only about 9,100, or less than 1 per cent, are ranked as officers.

The following table gives the compensation paid to the different classes of railroad employees in the specified years:

| | 1895. | 1898. |
|---|---|---|
| General officers | $12,724,098 | $12,864,449 |
| Other officers | 4,480,000 | 4,480,000 |
| General office clerks | 19,080,000 | 21,780,000 |
| Station agents | 29,000,000 | 29,000,000 |
| Other station men | 98,480,000 | 97,010,000 |
| Engineers | 20,400,000 | 46,146,000 |
| Firemen | 32,000,000 | 32,000,000 |
| Conductors | 33,700,000 | 37,646,000 |
| Other trainmen | 38,004,000 | 42,000,000 |
| Machinists | 17,724,374 | 20,776,728 |
| Carpenters | 32,000,000 | 32,000,000 |
| Other shopmen | 44,730,000 | 53,730,000 |
| Telegraph operators | 12,000,000 | 12,000,000 |
| Other telegraph employees | 20,352,000 | 24,480,000 |
| Switchmen, flagmen and watchmen | 20,700,000 | 27,064,774 |
| Telegraph operators and dispatchers | 12,615,311 | 15,110,151 |
| Employes' account of floating equipment | 3,593,000 | 3,993,000 |
| All other employes and laborers | 49,272,337 | 53,080,154 |
| Totals | $446,580,763 | $493,962,806 |

Here is an increase of over $47,000,000 in the wages of railway employes in the four years of McKinley's administration.

"If there is any one who believes the gold standard is a good thing or that it must be maintained, I warn him not to cast his vote for me, because I promise him it will not be maintained in this country longer than I am able to get rid of it."

—WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN.
At Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 16, 1896.

HOW WILL YOU VOTE?

A Workingman's Plain Talk to His Fellow Workingmen.

Fellow workingmen, how are you going to vote?

I have made up my mind how I am going to vote, and I want to ask you to vote the same way.

I am not an orator nor a scholar. I cannot make a speech nor write a masterpiece. I am just an ordinary every-day workingman with intelligence enough to have a little common sense and not a lot of others.

I am a workingman with a wife and four children. Eight years ago, in 1892, I was doing fairly well, and my older boys were both at school. I voted, as did all good Democrats, for Grover Cleveland. In less than six weeks after election, just before Christmas, I lost my job. I could not get another. Things went from bad to worse. The boys left school and tried to earn the little money. We never got in the home line at Madison square, but we did sometimes get near the broad Bleeker Tenth street. I could not tell you all the hardships of those four years. Always behind in the rent and half the time without anything to eat. The wife worked, and the boys and I did anything to earn a dollar.

In 1896 came and another election. With thousands of other Democrats I voted for McKinley and hoped for a change. In less than a month I had a job and have had it continuously these four years. The boys soon went back to school. I am now getting rich, I think. My wife and I have plenty to eat and wear, and we are happy—happy as happy—for our boys growing to be educated men.

Fellow workingmen, do I need to tell you how I am going to vote?

I don't exactly understand this question of imperialism, except that I am for the stars and stripes, and I do not believe that any one wants to make this country an empire.

I know little about the money question, except that when I earn a dollar I want to get it back, and that a little money in the bank I want to be safe, or taking out as much as I put in, with a little interest.

I don't know much about the tariff, except that free trade made me and thousands of others out of a job, with no chance to get another.

I haven't anything to say against McKinley or Bryan, but I know, and you know, that if Bryan is elected thousands and hundreds of thousands of us are going to be out of work for the next four years, if not longer, while if McKinley is elected I believe there will not be an honest, capable man who is willing to work that will not be able to find it.

If Bryan is elected, my boys will

E750.12 E-738 R4

Republican Page

This page is supplied to you, free of charge, by the Republican National Committee. If you can use all of it or a portion of it a similar page or pages will be forwarded to you weekly during the campaign. Please mail marked copy of your paper to Press Department, Republican National Committee, New York City.

AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION
NEW YORK, PHILADELPHIA, BOSTON, BUFFALO, PITTSBURGH, CINCINNATI, CHICAGO, CINCINNATI, OMAHA, SAN FRANCISCO, ST. PAUL, ATLANTA, DALLAS.
GENERAL OFFICES, NEW YORK.

THE NATIONAL BANKING ACT

EXPOSITION OF ITS FEATURES AND ADVANTAGES.

The Secretary of the Treasury Corrects Misconceptions Regarding the Law.

BY HON. LYMAN J. GAGE, SECRETARY OF THE UNITED STATES TREASURY.

Among the many fortunes of financial misconception abroad in the minds of some people perhaps none is more prevalent than that relating to the national banking system. It has been vehemently charged that the national bank act was conceived by the banks and for the banks, that it was thus inaugurated and that for this purpose, and this purpose only, it is perpetuated. Erroneous opinion upon a subject so important as this is to be deprecated, while the truth about it should be encouraged and disseminated.

In order to understand the matter at all it is necessary to look back to the time when the national bank act was adopted by congress and become a law. As early as December, 1861, Salmon P. Chase, secretary of the treasury, proposed a series of measures which received little favor from congress until the month of February, 1863. By that time, owing to the enormous expenditures incident to the civil war, the finances of the government were in a dangerous situation. For the suppression of the rebellion, extraordinary expenditures to the amount of nearly $2,000,000 a day were an absolute necessity. The power of taxation could not be extended so as to take from the people the necessary means to provide for this enormous outlay. The resources of the future were of necessity anticipated. Borrowing was resorted to—borrowing by every device known to official ingenuity. Government bonds bearing 6 per cent interest were authorized by law and sold as rapidly as purchasers for them could be found, but this resource did not bring in money enough. The government found its own credit at hand, paying them out for supplies. These were followed by issues of greenbacks, the purchasing power of which rapidly fell, so that in February, 1863, the power of the greenback to purchase commodities compared with gold had fallen to 62 cents on the dollar. There was then outstanding of these obligations over $337,000,000. The 6 per cent interest bearing bonds of the government were selling at less than par in greenbacks, which made been absorbed and carried by the national banks, and to that extent the general market has been relieved from the pressure of government sales. The consequence, as every thinking man can comprehend, has been to secure to the government a more favorable rate of interest on its debt than would have been the case had there not existed this special demand for a part of its obligations.

At the present time the bonded debt of the United States amounts in round numbers to $1,000,000,000. Of this total, $530,000,000 is now owned by the national banks. All the other banks of the country, outside of savings banks and loan and trust companies, own only $8,000,000. Repeal the national banking act, and there would be no special motive for the national banks to continue their investments in United States bonds. They would naturally dispose of their holdings, or a large proportion thereof, and that they would thus sell would be added to the market supply, with the necessary depressing influence upon the price of our securities. If it made no difference to the treasury when it had to come to borrow, that difference would be experienced in a higher rate of interest whenever the public need should require such borrowing. The rate of the funding bonds, but it has been very great in clearly perceptible. The fact that the United States bonds, as an investment security, yielded a lower return of interest to the investor than do the bonds of any other nation could be accounted for by the operation of any other perceptible influence than the one just indicated.

Nevertheless at the outset there was no rush on the part of the government community to avail itself of what are now deemed the very favorable conditions.

At the present time there are more than 12,000 banks and banking institutions, exclusive of savings banks. It is a matter of record that 2,866 of these institutions have availed themselves of the privilege of the national bank act, the others, more than 9,000 in number, preferring to operate under the sanctions of state authority, even if they forego all the privileges of note issue. Since the national bank act, passed only $670,000,000 of circulating notes had been issued by the banks newly organized under the law were entitled to a circulation of $98,000,000. And so it has been from that day to this. The banks, as a whole, have never availed themselves of more than 50 or 60 per cent of their note issuing privileges. March 14 last, the date of the approval of the new financial law, the national banks of the United States were entitled to a bank note circulation of $374,000,000. On that day the circulation, in cash; Maryland, Kentucky, Missouri, Arkansas, West Virginia, South Dakota, Colorado and Washington, 3 in each, Florida, Louisiana, Tennessee, Montana, Wyoming, Oregon and California, 2 each, and New Hampshire, Nebraska, Delaware, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, New Mexico and Idaho, 1 each.

The wide distribution shows and the fact that these notable appropriations are not permitted in towns or villages of over 3,000 inhabitants, indicates clearly enough the appreciation of the people in these smaller communities of the facilities which the system of the act enables them to enjoy. But it is alleged that the whole principle is wrong, that no bank ought to be allowed to issue circulating notes under any conditions or circumstances, that the government, and the government alone, should issue the paper money and in an amount "adequate for the needs of the people." That objection cannot be taken up and discussed at length here. To those who hold the opinion that paper money may be made by printing upon certain sized pieces of paper a declaration in the name of a just which shall have all the power and efficiency of coined money, it is idle to address any argument upon the subject. They are incorrigible in the stands, but to those who comprehend that a promise to pay means a promise to pay, and to redeem, if it may be pointed out—indeed, it has been clearly pointed out—that the great drain—that the public treasury is a poor agent for banking paper money. The only way for the government to get out its paper notes is to pay them out for debts or for expenses, which simply changes the form of the debt without paying it at all. A large government may assess except an arbitrary stock of gold with which to redeem its outstanding obligations of a demand character. This is a fundamental objection to an issue of paper money by the government. It is of course true that well within the needs of the country for paper money circulation, the government can keep issue a volume of its demand obligations clothed with the power of legal tender, but we see, as in consequence, embarrassments have arisen, perturbations in government finance, have occasioned alarm, public alarms have been felt and serious disturbances from time to time experienced in general business affairs. A bank, on the other hand, banking notes, whether secured by a deposit of government bonds or otherwise, if worthy of the name of bank, has made no note consisting of claims on the community convertible into money; besides its cash reserve, with which to redeem its notes or to pay its depositors.

The business public and the bankers carriages and the cost of living has low, while one time interested during which employment was so steady and wages so high that large savings were possible, and another has followed with conditions permitting even greater accumulations. The explanation is to be sought and of necessity in a study of political causes and politics. Enterprise, activity and prosperity are in evidence, and what confidence rules. They require certainty upon which they may rest capital, revenues and tariff rates favoring American labor and industries. Denied these conditions, they hesitate, depression ensues, demand slackens, production is diminished, prices break, wages are cut and every interest suffers. The threat of changes in the first Cleveland administration wrought evil, and its consummation in the second caused panic and dire paralysis. Of course and inevitably labor suffered and to this fact the reports of the savings banks testify.

It is for dispatchers in these institutions to determine by their votes in November whether they will endure in the coming four years a repetition of the experience which they suffered from 1893 to 1897 or enjoy a continuation of the conditions which have blessed them under the administration of President McKinley. This, too, they need not hesitate. Mr. Bryan is unreal. He stands not merely for extreme tariff revision, but also for a financial revolution. Should his success cause panic precipitate a panic, bring business chaos and paralyze manufactories. It would be followed by action exercising the enormous influence of which the country to a silver basis. Then the wage earners who are depositors in the savings banks would find themselves not simply deprived of opportunity for toiling to their accustomed wages, subject to the payment of their deposits in dollars whose purchasing power would be halved. In a word, a vote for Bryan is a vote both to decrease future earnings and to cut savings already made in two.

A STRIKE TO LOWER WAGES.

Bryan's Attitude That of a Designing Demagogue.

BY HON. LOUIS WEINMULLER, TREASURER OF THE NEW YORK REPUBLICAN CLUB.

The consequences of Bryan's election and of the changes he threatens to make in the standard of values may be conjectured by our past experience. Want of confidence followed the passage of the legal tender act and caused widespread stagnation in enterprises which depended on our home market. As Hammond then above establishments

GREATEST TRADING NATION.

Proof of the Prodigious Power and Wealth of the United States.

BY PES. O. P. AUSTIN, CHIEF OF THE BUREAU OF STATISTICS, UNITED STATES TREASURY.

The United States is likely to permanently assume in the year 1900 the prime position of the world's greatest exporter of domestic products. In 1899 she was but $53,000,000 behind the United Kingdom in the exportation of domestic products, and, as the figures for the seven months of 1900, ending with July, show a gain of $135,000,000 as compared with the corresponding months of 1899, it seems reasonable to expect that we shall, at the end of the year, find ourselves ahead of the United Kingdom in the race for supremacy as exporters of articles of domestic production, and it is easy to see that when we once attain that proud position it will be retained, since our trade is growing much more rapidly than that of any nation of the world.

In a quarter of a century the exports of the United Kingdom were more than double those of the United States, being in the calendar year 1873 $1,087,497,000 against $497,205,737 from the United States. By 1890 our exports had grown to $845,000,000, showing an increase of nearly $350,000,000, while that of the United Kingdom amounted to $1,328,474,000, showing an increase of but $200,000,000. By 1899 our exports had grown to $1,250,000,000, an increase of over $400,000,000, in nine years, while those of the United Kingdom were $1,282,971,000, an increase of but $3,000,000 in the same period. Between 1895 and 1900 the domestic exports of the United States increased 350 per c. nt, while the same period the exports of the United Kingdom increased but 20 per cent. It is thus apparent that a sustained tenure of the relative growth indicated will shortly, probably within the present year, bring the domestic exports of the United States above those of the United Kingdom, and that, with the rapid growth which every year has shown in our exports, the commercial supremacy of the United States will be accompanied with permanent.

What is the cause of this wonderful growth in the exportations of the United States? The answer is easy. We are the world's greatest producer of iron, copper and timber for use in manufacturing, of coal for the factory, the workshop, the railway and the steamship, of cotton for clothing, of breadstuffs and provisions for food. We have the greatest railway system with

E7505R

X-E738

WHAT THE McKINLEY ADMINISTRATION HAS DONE

Summary of the Principal Achievements in the Departments at Washington Since March, 1897—Unprecedented Results Accomplished and Work Performed in Each Branch of the Government—Pledges Kept and Promises Fulfilled.

The three great pledges made in the Republican platform on which McKinley was elected four years ago, were:

1. To place the gold standard on a firm basis.
2. To reform the damaging Wilson tariff so as to protect American capital and labor.
3. To reassert the Monroe doctrine in its full extent.
4. To maintain a firm and dignified foreign policy with American control of the Hawaiian Islands.

ALL THESE PLEDGES HAVE BEEN FAITHFULLY FULFILLED.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

The Dingley Tariff for Protection. First in point of success is the Dingley tariff: second, the reform in the currency; third, the war loan of 1898; and fourth, the settlement of the Pacific Railroad indebtedness.

The tariff change was the one which pressed most urgently.

The House of Representatives promptly responded to the President's message. On the same day in which it was read to the House, the bill by Mr. Dingley, of Maine, chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, introduced the new tariff bill. Such unusual expedition had been made possible by the untiring work of the members of the Committee on Ways and Means during several months previous.

The bill was passed in the House of Representatives, March 31, 1897, less than a month after the inauguration of President McKinley and two weeks after Congress had been convened in extra session. It passed the Senate July 7, 1897, with amendments. Two days later its constitution was begun by a conference committee of the two Houses, and it finally passed the Houses July 19 and the Senate July 24. It became a law on the latter day when the President signed the bill. Thus, within five months (no other tariff law was ever passed in less than a year) after the inauguration of the President, a new tariff law was placed on the statute books.

Everyone knows the beneficent results of the Dingley tariff in restoring prosperity. It helped farms and factories, added labor to the mines, gave better wages to textile workers, revived the impulse industry, and in every line of business gave employment to tens of thousands.

The Gold Standard Law.

Equally striking was the course of the currency law placed on the statute book, March 14, 1900.

The currency law does more than reverse all doubts concerning the standard of value. It directs that all forms of money issued or coined by the United States shall be maintained at a parity of value with this standard, and it made the Secretary of the Treasury responsible to maintain such parity. A reserve fund of $150,000,000 in gold coin and bullion is set apart in the Treasury for the redemption of United States notes and Treasury notes of 1890, instead of $100,000,000, formerly recognized as the gold reserve.

Our Navy.

Our navy, which was in a state of disorganization when the Spanish war began, was put into efficient condition. We should not let the memory of a President who would, administratively, if he could, destroy the best standard of the navy, be forgotten. Mr. Cleveland's attempt to adopt the Spanish suggestion that he be given bond, and that the Republican Party will, after defeat, still have strength enough to save the temple. It will be much better for the Democrats to have Cleveland use his freedom to wear against the giddy.

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT.

Rural Free Delivery a Benefit to Farmers.

Rural free mail delivery is the most striking postal improvement of recent date, brought about in the last four years. On June 1, 1900, there were 82 rural carriers in actual operation, and 2,000 applications for an extension of the system in the process of adjustment.

The appropriations for the rural free delivery service have increased from $20,000 in the fiscal year 1897-8 to $150,000 in 1899-0, then to $450,000 in 1899-1900, and lastly to $1,750,000 for the present fiscal year 1900-1901.

Three years' experience has shown that it relieves the tenant of farms of the burden of contributing to the domiciles of the wealthiest class of citizens, and is a remarkable distance of the farmer's home at an expense of a small annual outlay and at a cost per piece not exceeding the free delivery in many cities.

Done by the Republicans.

It was a Republican administration that established the rural free mail, thus brightening the home of the farmer, educating his children, increasing the value of his land, compelling the improvement of his farm, bringing his produce more to the markets and of the weather, so as to secure better prices, and thus more in delivering his daily mail to him on his farm.

EVERY DEMOCRATIC HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES SINCE THE IDEA WAS FIRST PROPOSED HAS CARRIED INTO THE MAILS INTO THE RURAL DISTRICTS THE DEMOCRATIC SLOGAN: "FIFTY-FIFTH-THIRD CONGRESS, FIFTY-FIFTH-THIRD CONGRESS, WITH CAROLINA AS CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMITTEE ON POSTOFFICES AND POSTROADS, PROCLAIMED THE DOCTRINE THAT THE WORK DOWN, POSTMASTER-GENERAL HENRY C. MERRIAM, ASSISTANT PERSON AND FIRST ASSISTANT POSTMASTER-GENERAL JONES, MR. CLEVELAND ADMINISTRATION, ALL VOTED THE CRY OF EXTRAVAGANCE AND IMPOSSIBILITY OF EXPENDITURE.

Consequently little or nothing was done for the farmers in rural free mail, the mails until Cleveland went out of office.

When First Assistant Postmaster-General Perry S. Heath inaugurated the free delivery service under the direction of the Republican Postmaster-General, in March 1897, it was languishing to the point of extinction, and only a few months more would have been starved to death.

They at once grasped the possibilities of the system as a means of educating and a Republican Congress generously seconded their efforts. Under their vivifying touch it has grown until there is now but a state in the Union that has not felt the civilizing and educational influence of rural free mail delivery, and not one that does not desire a further expansion of the service.

PHILIPPINE PROTECTORATE.

Impossible Under American Treaties.

HARRISON.

"This (Mr. Bryan's election would, I believe, be the most fearful misfortune to befall our country. We should not add the Philippines to our dominions, and, satisfactory, if we could, destroy the best standard of the navy, administratively, if we could. Since the Secretary suggested that he be given bond, and that the Republican Party will, after defeat, still have strength enough to save the temple. It will be much better for the Democrats to have Cleveland use his freedom to wear against the giddy.

BRYAN.

"IF THERE IS ANY ONE WHO BELIEVES THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IS A GOOD THING, OR THAT IT MUST BE MAINTAINED, I WANT HIM TO CAST HIS VOTE FOR MR. BRYAN. I PROMISE YOU, MY FELLOW-CITIZENS, THAT IF THE COUNTRY CONSIDER THAT I AM ABLE TO GET RID OF IT.—WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, KNOXVILLE, TENN., SEPT. 16, 1899.

"THE UNITED STATES WHERE IT HAS NO RIGHT TO BE IS A DISGRACE.—WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, SANDUSKY, OHIO, SEPT. 4, 1899.

CLEVELAND.

"If reckless threatening and wild experiment should seven our currency from its safe moorings, the Democrats will be the people who will bear the blame and national disgrace and credit will be the gone, as they reckon the loss in their money support, and the honest and workingman, as he sees the money he earns shrink in value, will be the people who will be heard to curse the day he ever voted to supply his humble name.

HARMONY SPEECH BY CROKER.

Ugly! Ugly!
Big Tobin, Me!
I go for the setup
Of David Hill!
I follow his footsteps
Through the woods
Of the Democratic Solitudes,
In hotel lobbies,
Where concerning
The politicians,
I lie in wait
To give him a whack
In front of Mr. Bryan
Or behind him back!
The one or the other's
The same to me,
So long as either
Is David B.
I've got my warriors
On his path
To visit on him
The Croker wrath—
The one thing that puts
In a behave Sx
A New York leader
In politics.
I'm, I'm not on the trail
Of David B.,
And I won't let up
Till there's harmony.
My kite is up
My tomahawk sharp,
And it won't be long
Till I have his harp
Hung on the willow,
And by its side
The scalp of David,
And perhaps his bride;
For I'm a warrior chieftain
That
Goes out on a harmony-hunting
Bat,
With my war paint on
And a horse
To visit my vengeance,
Deep and dire,
On David Bennett,
Who has not his
There is nothing for him
To do but
I'm out for the scalp
And the crest it fills
And nothing is sight
Shall divert me
He has done me dirt—
He has, by gum!
And I'm bound to get even Before I quit.
That's Dick Croker
Tammany Sax,
The party's all right
When it goes my way,
But before I'll see
Myself flim-flammed,
May the party and Bryan
And Harmony go to—
WILLIAM J. LAMPTON.

FILIPINOS ON BRYAN.

Encouraged by the Democratic Leader to Keep on Defying the United States and Killing American Troops.

For over a year Bryan has been the main inspiration of the Filipino insurrection. Forty twelve months ago it was apparent the insurrection was kept alive only by the hope that he might become President and order a surrender to the rebels. A Filipino proclamation of Octowould have all the burden and no compensation; all the responsibility and no power. If independent, the Tagalos would clearly be ruled by Aguinaldo under an absolute dictatorship, a proposition buttressed by assassination. The republic would thus protect, exercising an imperial function, a despotism against foreign interference.

3. The warning against entangling alliances is really a warning against the foreign wars to which such alliances sometimes lead. By establishing a protectorate over the independent Philippine Islands all the civilized nations of the earth, we entangle themselves in a series of probable bootlicks, without giving ourselves the benefit of any alliances. Like China, we assume the chinese of the talismanic inscription, "Let whatever enemy can and every man's hand against him.

The acts of an independent Filipino government would be such as to embroil us promptly with several European powers. First, all the European prisoners would be killed or expelled, and their property confiscated. We may all agree that the treatment of the Spanish prisoners, managed in the interest of the islands and that Dewey generously permitted in hostile cases for their mindedness, but shall we not accordingly be thus exposed by retaining control of the situation and offering this result in an orderly and equitable manner? Are we ready to return the Spanish prisoners to death? Have we no obligations to Spain under the treaty which ferried us to manila and their murder? The Filipinos hate the Chinese, and, independent and unrestrained, would surely repeat the massacres which have attained the history of the Spanish treatment of the Chinese. But if the Filipinos are independent, by what right would we undertake to place restraint upon their acts of honicidy, no matter what direction their assertion of independence may take? Do we depend upon any people a government of force to an enthusiastic methods of independence for those of a republic?

4. Our government by protectorate is a little-breeding, war-provoking arrangement, robbing a people of part of their sovereignty, entirely outside of the constitution, and bringing the expense of dangerous foreign complications and quibbling to large armies and navies, the development of militarism and the overcome of the republic.

It is contended, however, that a Bryan administration is a very different sort of an affair. The Kansas City platform proposes a protectorate for the Philippines and Cuba which we have pledged to exercise over the Central and South American republics.

This "protectorate" is that declared by the Monroe Doctrine on the principle that the Americans are no longer material for European and monarchical colonization. In effect it is an attempt to extend this Monroe Doctrine to Asia.

It carries with it no control over trade, no consideration in affecting, no influence in any relation with the Spanish-American of Central and South America. They distrust us the more and like us the less on account of it. They resent what they consider our presumption. Very four one unexpected condition not merely to keep off all other powers

E75R

A

FOR USE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 24

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The Paramount Issue: Defeat Bryan.

The Democratic stoma and egg throwers have manifested their dislike for Governor Roosevelt, but the American voters will offset all that sort of thing on election day.

General Benjamin Harrison has pointed the way to Republican success. This is and a time for Republicans to differ on minor questions.

Are you a Flag-flyer or a Flag-furler?

Mr. Bryan insists that his tears for the Boers are the only genuine ones on record. It will be recalled that Mr. Bryan's political friends raised a fund for the Boer widows and orphans.

The English invested in Missouri mules and the Boers invested in Missouri statesmanship. It appears that the mules accomplished something.

A patriot makes a better citizen than a pessimist.—McKinley at Philadelphia, June 2, 1897.

Former President Harrison hits the nail on the head when he declares the full dinner pail is not a soulful emblem. The man who will not work and vote to provide for his family is not a good citizen.

Keep the mills open.

The handsome gain in population made by Memphis shows conclusively that the prosperity enjoyed by that Southern city is not of the temporary variety. The business men of Memphis are firm expansionists.

The Democratic thugs may continue to throw stones at Governor Roosevelt, but they cannot affect the opinion of the American voters.

You voted for prosperity and got it. Will you now vote against it?

In the Ninth Indiana Congressional district the Democrats have nominated the captain of a regiment now fighting in the Philippines. However, this is not more inconsistent than Mr. Bryan's attitude on several issues of the campaign.

1. Freeman Rasin, the boss of the Baltimore Democracy, declines to have anything whatever to do with the Bryan campaign. He blames Bryan and Bryanism for a 11k Democratic disaster in that former stronghold of Democracy.

Remember, that in 1892 you voted for a change, and had no change in your pockets afterwards.

The Kansas banks have over $61,000,000 they are unable to loan. Yet Mr. Bryan complains because we are loaning money abroad at a good rate of interest.

The only German daily newspaper in Kansas has joined the big procession in that prosperous state and declared for McKinley and Roosevelt.

The party (Democratic) stands where it did in 1896 on the Money Question.—Wm. J. Bryan, Zanesville, O., Sept. 4, 1900.

The editor of the Louisville Dispatch

FOR USE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 24

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

A vote for Bryan is a vote for Free Trade—free labor in Europe against American labor.

One of Bryan's policies, that of free trade, produced the distress experienced in 1894-5. What, then, would be the amount of suffering produced by a combination of both free trade and free silver?

A vote for Bryan is a vote to close our mills and factories.

The Democratic test of loyalty is that one must be willing to starve and stagnate under Democratic mismanagement, rather than prosper under one of the most magnificent administrations ever except by the Republican party.

A vote for the straight Republican ticket is a vote to continue prosperity.

Mr. Stevenson is called General, not because he was Fourth Assistant Postmaster General in one of Mr. Cleveland's Democratic administrations, but because he raised a regiment of Knights of the Golden Circle, which he led across the Wabash into Egypt; hence also the song, "On the Banks of the Wabash, Far Away," so deservedly popular in our time.

Vote for McKinley and the full dinner pail.

The larger the type in which the Hearst papers print it, the better you know it isn't so.

Vote for your Republican Congressman so as to sustain the President in his policies for good government.

Mr. Roosevelt may be a little out of practice as a rough rider, but he has unquestionably got the "drive" on the expansive, liberty-loving, loyal Western vote.

Vote for a Republican State Legislature which will elect a Republican to the United States Senate.

I have not promised Mr. Croker anything, but you can hardly expect me, in case of my election, to refuse such a wise and loyal statesman anything that he wanted.—Wm. J. Bryan.

The lawless element of the country is supporting Bryan because Bryan supports the lawless element.

It is true that under the national Constitution Bryan could be elected President of the United States, but that would not prevent the Boston Austins from nominating him.

Control of the next Congress by the Republicans is very important. See to it that your ballot is cast in the right way to help elect a Republican Congressman and a Republican Senator. Remember, too, that unexpected vacancies in the Senate may happen at any time, to be filled by action of the Governor or State Legislature, if in session.

No green goods for the farmer this time, if you please.

Mr. Bryan says that the President of the United States is only a hired man. Possibly that is the reason President McKinley is such a stickler for the full dinner pail.

FOR USE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 24

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The Paramount Issue: Defeat Bryan.

Victor, Colo., is the only place in the country where the Bryan enthusiasm appears to be unabated.

"We Want a President Like Lincoln" is the title of a Democratic campaign song. A Democratic glee club would have been mobbed had it dared to warble such sentiments in 1864.

Are you a Flag-flyer or a Flag-furler?

Mr. Wellington pays a high compliment to the discerning powers of his Maryland neighbors when he goes so far away from home to seek for campaign material.

The Bryan predictions are not harmonizing with the price the South is receiving for its cotton.

A patriot makes a better citizen than a pessimist.—McKinley at Philadelphia, June 2, 1897.

The Hon. Bourke Cockran's voice is weak, but it is much stronger than his reasons for deserting the position of 1896.

Mr. Bryan's New York friends declare that Mr. Croker is talking too much and Mr. Croker's friends say the same thing of Mr. Bryan. The Republicans are content to believe that both sides to the controversy have made out strong cases.

Keep the mills open.

Mr. Gorman has written a letter in which he says Mr. Bryan ought to be elected, but at the same time he is not doing anything to prevent his Maryland friend voting in the opposite direction.

Betting on the election doesn't constitute an argument, but it does show the estimate the direction of the political wind.

You voted for prosperity and got it. Will you now vote against it?

John D. Crimmins, a former Tammany leader, who is one of New York's most successful business men, has announced his intention of supporting McKinley and Roosevelt. Mr. Crimmins knows a successful administration when he sees it.

The politicians who have worked so hard to institute and prolong the coal miners' strike have the sympathy of Mr. Debs.

The English voters declined to Altgeld-ize their country.

Remember, that in 1892 you voted for a change, and had no change in your pockets afterwards.

The showing made by the United States at the Paris Exposition was in keeping with the healthy conditions which obtain in this country.

Mr. Bryan prates continually of what he is pleased to term "the inconsistency of the Republican party." Coming from a gentleman who was so lavish with his 1896 predictions, this is indeed refreshing.

The party (Democratic) stands where it did in 1896 on the Money Question.—Wm. J. Bryan, Zanesville, O., Sept. 4, 1900.

B

FOR USE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 24

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The chances for Republican victory are brighter than they were four years ago, and the countries of the belots will show that the people have not changed their views as to what policy tends to their progress and prosperity.

A vote for Bryan is a vote for Free Trade—free labor in Europe against American labor.

Earnest work, continent work, personal effort from now until the polls are closed will insure the greatest victory the Republican party ever gained over the enemy.

A vote for Bryan is a vote to close our mills and factories.

We still continue to hear that numerous travelling men are going to vote against McKinley, but nobody ever sees one.

A vote for the straight Republican ticket is a vote to continue prosperity.

Mr. Croker had better be careful in discussing too extensively his Imperial opinion that the Ice Trust is merely a reasonable reply to a knockout thought the tariff merely a local issue.

Vote for McKinley and the full dinner pail.

Chairman Jones gives Bryan 226 votes in the Electoral College; but the people will go through the usual formalities just the same.

Vote for your Republican Congressman so as to sustain the President in his policies for good government.

Mr. Bryan's well-known attack upon a factory in Nebraska City has not yet knocked the starch out of it.

Vote for a Republican State Legislature which will elect a Republican to the United States Senate.

Webster Davis has not been heard from lately, but it is understood that he considers the prospects of Boer success more promising than ever.

Republicans must not forget, in their enthusiasm for the national ticket, to look out for the candidates for Congress.

The heaviest Democratic arguments in this campaign are scuttlings, chunks of lies, brickbats and mud.

The lawless element of the country is supporting Bryan because Bryan supports the lawless element.

The announcement that the ice trust had declared a quarterly dividend may partially explain where Croker got so much money to bet with.

Control of the next Congress by the Republicans is very important. See to it that your ballot is cast in the right way to help elect a Republican Congressman and a Republican Senator. Remember, too, that unexpected vacancies in the Senate may happen at any time, to be filled by action of the Governor or State Legislature, if in session.

Bryan may get the lion vote this year, but it will be much smaller than it was in 1896. The mills are running on full time now.

C

FOR USE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 24

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The Paramount Issue: Defeat Bryan.

"Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad." In this connection it may be perceived that all the nowdyism of the campaign is practiced by the Bryanites.

Florida has the largest orange crop in the Southern states. Mr. Bryan may have to go to Florida and explain away this piece of prosperity.

Are you a Flag-flyer or a Flag-furler?

After his Chicago speech the voice of the Hon. Bourke Cockran was lost to him. So did a large number of his admirers.

"William Jennings Bryan," declared one of Missouri's Populist orators, "will sweep the country in November just like the storm swept Galveston in November last." If he does," was the quick response of one of the hearers, "the country will be as badly off as Galveston was."

A patriot makes a better citizen than a pessimist.—McKinley at Philadelphia, June 2, 1897.

Georgia Fred Williams threatens to tell all he knows about the disgraceful affair in Victor, Colo. If it is not any more than he knows of the other matters he discusses it will not take him very long to carry out his threat.

Keep the mills open.

Mr. Croker's "liberty" banners would be very much out of place in a certain Kentucky courthouse.

Mr. Tillman differs from his fellow Democratic orators in that he is not afraid to announce before election what will take place in case Mr. Bryan is successful.

You voted for prosperity and got it. Will you now vote against it?

The young Absaloms who venture into Mr. Croker's town and get a taste of the foxtail gamey Democratic oats are sure to be caught by his new variety of campaign chaff.

If the Republican party is responsible for the existence of "trusts," why not give it credit for building railroads in Egypt, for sending steel rails and locomotives to Russia, Germany, Italy, England, Africa and Australia, and for sending manufactures and Yankees into every corner and country of the habitable globe?

Remember, that in 1892 you voted for a change, and had no change in your pockets afterwards.

For a man who looks upon the army as a pack of "riders," Bryan is working pretty hard to become its Commander-in-Chief.

Were it possible for the soldiers now fighting in the Philippines to cast their votes in the coming Presidential election, Bryan would receive about 1 in 16 of them.

The party (Democratic) stands where

#138 X-E75R .R4

FOR USE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 24

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

As long as expansion planted the flag over what was possibly alone territory the Democratic party was in favor of expansion, but now that freedom follows the flag they fear the foundations of liberty will crumble if the country grows.

A vote for Bryan is a vote for Free Trade—free labor in Europe against American labor.

Bryan never denied that free silver would reduce pensions virtually one-half, by the cheapening of money in which they are paid. That is one reason why six-Confederate friends like the free-silver craze. If they should get rid of Union pensions altogether, they would like the next best thing—reduce them one-half.

A vote for Bryan is a vote to close our mills and factories.

If New York should go Democratic, and Governor Roosevelt be not the next President of the United States, Tammany Hall will dictate the distribution of federal patronage for the next four years.

A vote for the straight Republican ticket is a vote for continued prosperity.

Do you want to see Dick Croker Ambassador to England? If not, vote for McKinley.

Vote for McKinley and the full dinner pail.

Prosperity, sound money and the fulfilment of solemn international obligations are the things for which McKinley stands.

Vote for your Republican Congressman so as to sustain the President in his policies for good government.

There are multiplying signs that Democrats, Populists, Silver Republicans and all the others intend to blame it on Uncle Adlai.

After all, there was no need for Mr. Bryan to make a party platform for insisting that free silver should go in the Kansas City platform, when he can make $500 an hour lecturing.

The lawless element of the country is supporting Bryan because Bryan supports the lawless element.

No one has yet discovered where ex-Governor Olney last voted, or whether he has ever voted or not.

Control of the next Congress by the Republicans is very important. See to it that your ballot is cast in the right way to help elect a Republican Congressman and a Republican Senator. Remember, too, that unexpected vacancies in the Senate may happen at any time, to be filled by action of the Governor or State Legislature, if in session.

Soldiers who fought with Grant, as well as soldiers that fit mit Sigel, will easily recall that the great soldier's son, General Frederick Dent Grant by name, is on our side in the Philippines.

Surely, Bryan can read his fate in the fact that no ballots are being casted after him this fall.

Republicans must not forget, in their enthusiasm for the national ticket, to

E75DR

A

FOR USE WEDNESDAY, OCT. 17

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

After all is said the paramount issue is Bryan vs. Business.

Bryan's only possible chance of success rests on the effectiveness of Tammany's turn-over and the Southern shotgun.

A thimble-full of anarchy, flavored with State's rights, mixed with half a gram of free trade and all this poured into a tumbler nearly full of free silver, is the dose that he proposes to give the British exhilarating beverage composed of peace, prosperity and patriotism.

Are you a Plug-Ugly or a Plug-Ugliee?

Bryan's soldier experience was not very extensive, but it equipped his experience as a business man.

The Democrats say that our loaning money to other nations is evidence of our aptness at prosperity. They prefer to borrow than lend.

Bryan has an assorted collection of issues, but it should not be forgotten that all are silver-plated. Sterling goods are not to be found in his shop.

If American statesmanship had not been represented by men such men as Bryan, Allen, Pettigrew and Tillman, the country would have to confess that "the white man's burden" was too heavy. But the mantles of Jefferson, Jackson and Lincoln have been inherited by others as patriotic as they, who will not pawn their influence for nominations or trade their influence for votes.

The wild predictions indulged in by Bryan have that despair has smothered his judgment.

The political party that encourages labor strikes naturally has no use for arbitration.

Mr. Bryan is to help Mr. Bryan on his Western tour. This is the same Mr. Bryan who took up a collection for the suffering Boer widows and orphans.

With a partisan judge in the switch tower the work of unloading Kentucky Republicans to prison goes on definitely. Mr. Crokers "liberty" business would be badly out of place in Kentucky.

The Democratic committee at Zanesville, Ohio, announced that the engagement of Mr. Atwell to speak on that city. The Ohio Democrats have no time to waste on Atwell speeches.

Keep the office open.

The Hon. Joe Blackburn calls the Hon. John G. Carlisle a "political hack." Comment in this particular instance would be superfluous.

Mr. Bryan's speciality is gloom. He ought to receive the solid support of the anti-sunshine party.

An unprejudiced public will admit that the Hon. Carl Schurz in 1896 has made a complete failure of his effort to answer the Hon. Carl Schurz of 1896.

The Hon. Bourke Cockran is not expressing himself in a private car. When he speaks of his will probably shake it to much high tempo.

[illegible] Democratic [illegible] Bryan [illegible] Democrats [illegible] Bryan [illegible] Democrats [illegible] Bryan [illegible] Democrats

E7538

X-E738
#140
R4

To the Editor:

This story follows the plans and ideas of the Anti-Expansionists. It shows what could happen under the policy of Restitution. You will appreciate how ridiculous the Democratic party would appear if their theories were put into force.

RESTITUTION
OR # THE UNITED STATES OF ALASKA.

When the National Democratic Convention of 1900 adjourned, after having nominated Bryan and Stevenson and declared anti-expansion to be the paramount issue, there was a great hubbub among the self-called anti-imperialists and properly named copperheads.

A call was at once issued by the league of anti-imperialists for a Convention to be held at Indianapolis. Some there were who demanded that this convention be held at Hartford in deference to a well known literary production. Hartford, of course no enthusiasm at the gathering, but a vast amount of dignity, learning, perverted history and sedition. Strictly speaking, it was reported by a disappointed committee which prevented all but the truly elect from hanging out voices in the proceedings. The Committee on Conditions, also self-appointed—in fact were all the committees—after some little discussion, agreed to petition the Convention to endorse the Popocrat candidates who had been nominated at Kansas City. In fact the endorsement of Mr. Stevenson was costly brought about by his record as a copperhead and prominent Knight of the Golden Circle during the Civil War and his subsequent career as a Sockless Democrat Governor, where he demonstrated that grand old Democratic principle that loyalty to the party and its leaders was all American office seekers required of their leaders. A small minority of Massachusetts were anxious to see Mr. Edward Atkinson nominated for Vice-President, at large. Some there were who thought Mr. Atkinson should not be at large, but that he should really done anything and as the same applied to most of the delegates, Mr. Atkinson's friends were promptly voted down.

THE CAMPAIGN SLOGAN AND PLATFORM.

The call for the convention had been made on expressed lines. Anarchists, mossbacks, barnacles, theorists, demagogues, dreamers, knowsoftheyes and knowsoftheyes, anarchists, schemers, copperheads, mugwumps, quitters, quitterettes, the dwellers in the cave of Adullam, all the discontented were present in force. It was an alliance of theory, negation, hysterics and destruction, not a door or constructor among them. The Tahmian creed, the Pacific cable, sound currency, protection of American industries, obtrusiveness of wages, regulation of trusts and combines, the increase of the army and navy, the spread of American ideas and influence, the protection of American citizens and foisting of foreign trade, all these bad enemies who swelled the Trust, would be a safe man in the Law Department.

Postmaster General, Webster Davis, of British South Africa. (There was some demand that Mr. Irving Widener, of Massachusetts, be given this position, but it was felt that his geography for writing absurd letters would bring ridicule upon a very dignified Cabinet.)

Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. O. H. P. Belmont, of New York. Mr. Belmont's contribution to the campaign fund gave him this position, the only one left.)

SILVER QUESTION SETTLES itself.

Immediately after the inauguration, Mr. Bryan began to carry out his idea of the platform. Being a strong believer in the Monroe Doctrine, as was demonstrated at the convention at Kansas City, he proceeded to put in effect the demands and platform of the "Aunties." The silver question at once settled itself. The mere fact that Mr. Bryan was in the White House with a Popocrat Congress behind him produced a panic in business, a cessation of industry and justified all of the prophecies which had been made in 1896 as to the results of four years of Republican rule.

In the meantime, the Aunties, which principles had been accepted by Mr. Bryan, while he did not believe in them, he believed them as much as he did anything, and their radical difference from Republican principles and policies was ample reason to at once carry them out. This situation was at once seized upon as was not a new one to the Popocrats, so the wheel horses had no time in keeping pipe to take office-advantage of the victory so many years in the wilderness, but might regard pledges made in the heat of a political campaign, and matters not intended to be kept.

PROCEEDING TO RESTITUTE.

In his inaugural address the President laid down the proposition that it was "Theory and Sentiment" which confronted the United States of Middle North America, Little Mexico, and the first thing to be done was to "restitute."

He recounted how in the years when Restitution should have been accomplished the minor problems had arisen, and the time for which the Popocrat platform had made full provision, the people had found themselves or not be of sufficient moment in the world's power and consequence and emasculated the Republic, and the nation to require general treatment. Accordingly Congress was called in extra session and on set passed and approved substantially as follows:

1. The President should appoint five persons to be a Commission to meet representatives from other nations to arrange for the Restitution of domain, property and persons now under the control of this government.

2. Those present at any meeting to have full power to act.

3. The instructions to the Commission were very emphatic that all questions to this point and that while the United States of Middle North America, Limited, would not insist upon Honor upon anything at any time—yet it should be humbly but persistently urged.

Gen. Weyler here remarked that such instructions were not unusual under Spain, that its wales as a peace measure was recognized and that away back in the days of the progressive and enlightened Spaniard, after whose blade lands were named, the whole power and resources of the empire had been used to convince the Dutch of the necessity that the government should in every case give consent. After a hot discussion lasting some years, having failed to convince the Dutchmen owing to their unreasonable history and tradition, the Spaniard had withdrawn from the Low Countries and the rich and prosperous Kingdom of Holland was cooky a monument to Spain's recognition of the great principle. This reading of history was not just as Prof. Von Holst had been teaching it, but times had changed and he was enabled to take a larger broad and liberal view of the past now that the making of history had become a privilege and a duty.

COCKRANS' HEAVEN-BORN RATIO

Gen. Weyler then said that the whole thing as regards the Spanish delegation had spoke German fluently, went on to repeat, that Spain was a peace loving nation and that no nation in history had ever had more assumption from Spain. What she had assumed had always gone, generally with Special and Special assumptions like the United States of Middle North America, Limited.

This was so well-spoken that all were amused except Mr. Cockran. He colleagues were beginning to fear that his appointment on the Commission was a mistake. This was an injustice, for he proceeded to observe that he had visited the Philippines, having surreptitiously applied for the position of assistant cook of Staff, and that at all times there had been in the islands at least ninety-nine times as many Spaniards. It was more than a fair proportion for the ninety-nine-to-one ratio the consent of the governed could be fairly expected.

All were struck speechless with the weight of his argument and he has been the statistics handy—the only figures available for an Expansionist—because, which was wrong should it not agree and agreement if it did not agree. Some figures and deductions were admitted and made of record.

Gen. Weyler impulsively crossed the room and kissed Mr. Cockran on both cheeks. All present were visibly affected. Dr. Schurz, being a little jealous, closed the discussion by remarking that it was our duty to be generous, unselfish and not a trifle coarse and indelicate to open the bosom and chivalry of Spain. He had intended to say this earlier but had been absorbed in his own address on the innate perversity of history.

RESTORING WARSHIPS TO SPAIN.

At this point Admirals Cervera and Montejo, who had up to this time said little, brought up the subjects of the Spanish warships, gone but not forgotten. After some reflection the United States, now recognized our false position in this matter and agreed to give the Oregon, the Texas (this ship in lieu of the Maine, destroyed through our neglect) the New York, the Brooklyn and enough other ships, to be selected by the Spanish, to replace those sunk at Manila and Santiago.

Gen. Weyler endorsed the proposition in a thing being repugnant to Spanish self-respect and tradition.

Spain had not the money, the same when received having been promptly divided among the Spanish leaders in accordance with an old and venerable custom.

2. Such a large sum could not be held by any Spanish ministry long enough to let it be United States or to any one else.

The instructions to our Commission were, however, peremptory, although it was generally conceded that the President should be consulted.

A PHILANTHROPIST TO THE RESCUE.

Unfortunately, two years in the United States, one an insurrection of Indians, equitable in Tennessee and in other an invasion of tobacco worms in Connecticut, had depleted the national treasury that the Administration could not war then to the demand of the Spaniard. Matters were taking a very serious turn when a philanthropic Philadelphia, who had made an immense fortune in cotton futures, sent a telegram to Gen. Weyler saying that he was ready to pay the $20,000,000 on account, as he informed the news agencies, that he was not known in the transaction.

He also stipulated that the gift should be secret and that the money on the Islands and an issue of gold bonds to him as the trustee should be. The bonds were and mortgages never having been any trouble for Spain. Gen. Weyler and his fellows commissioners, the Spaniard, while not anything seemed to be constituted when Mr. Cockran suggested that the money be paid directly to the United States, and then through the hands of the Spaniards.

Gen. Weyler Spanish politeness flushed with anger and disappointment. Mr. Cockran asked that the payment should be in gold.

Gen. Weyler Gen. Bryan's representative to his feet with the indignant word of remonstrance.

In order to head off a silver speech and the question of silver was postponed, decided that the sum should be paid the Spaniard in gold and an equivalent number of silver dollars (Spanish) should be paid to the United States.

This arrangement, when reported to Spain and the followers in the United States was justly considered a distinct personal victory.

PART III.

RESTITUTION TO OTHER NATIONS.

At the next session of the Commission there were communications from various governments, including the Indians of peoples who had to the past been in Spain in their respective nations, asking for a hearing. Tribes with strange, well nigh forgotten names, from the Pacific, only Prof. Von Holst could recall and place on the proper mountains or islands. One claim to lands held by us for Spain. Accredited representatives, dark and happy years in Cuba, generations before they had been reduced to peonage and indentured to give Spain, Spanish, a pension. Other claims with like claims from the Philippines and even Cuba, came in the disgust of the United Statesians, to attack the title of the Yoquins to Lanon. From Arizona and the southwest came solid-mannered delegates whose ancestors had made their pottery and feather work and captured under hundreds of years before Cortez and Coronado obtained their consent to be governed and ruined.

Discussion of details was suspended to take up the general principle involved in these shortrical claims. It was plain that it would not be desirable for the United States to carry out the idea of immense action opened to them in a kind of national hari-kari and commit the decency of suicide. It was plain that England could expect nothing from us in case of a conflict, for we clearly had good wishes. Moreover, blood, thicker than water, the British government, with some feeling for those few United Statesians who still had a little of the red-blood fire in their veins, felt that another trial on the Western continent might in the Old Country result in handling colonies have a different result.

Gen. Weyler then further advanced for that portion of the United States east of the Mississippi River. The contention was that this territory had been swindled from the Crown by an unrighteous war carried on by an irresponsible minority of the colonists, and that on the eve of the centennial of the so-called Revolution had the descent of the people been obtained or even asked. It was conceded that after the war there had been pretty general acquiescence, but so had there been in Cuba, and the other countries, and this did not affect the grand principle.

CLAIM FOR OREGON AND NORTH-WEST.

Great Britain also put in a claim for Oregon and the Northwest and for indemnity for what had embroiled to our shores, induced by the superior opportunities we had been able to offer owing to our 48th section wealth of land and material resources.

At the point it was announced by Prof. Von Holst, that Germany, while not at this time ready to appear before the Commission, joined England in the claim for persons on the high ground of morality and justice. The philosophy of Germany what unexpected and were held in abeyance.

Twelve years have passed since the United States of Middle North America, Limited, was formed. Oregon was one of the Indian tribes, which, in the Spanish war, for this territory had been first taken by the United Statesian ship and was held by us by the antiquated right of discovery. Russia, Mr. Cockran's friend, the Boer. His speech was the gem of the commissioners of the Commission.

Thanks to the bilingual eloquence and knowledge of Spain of the philosophy of history of the learned Professor, what appeared to be a very serious matter was happily settled. The English gracefully withdrew from the Pacific Coast and the Commission promptly made out the transfer papers in the form of a quite-claim deed.

UNITED STATES OF ALASKA.

Upon the receipt of the news of the finishing up of the Spanish claims, there swept over the United States, for all recognition the logic of the situation. This gloom was happily dispelled by the intervention of the Czar of Russia, as an old friend of ours, had announced that he would not have Alaska back as a gift, much less return the $7,000,000 we had paid for it.

Feeling now sure of Alaska many promoters and capitalists made their arrangements for a change of abode. Mr. Croker and his New York friends, wishing congenial surroundings, made humestead entries on all of the larger islands, in a view of forming a trust, towing icebergs south for the tropical trade.

Mr. Atkinson and his many admirers organized a company to raise reindeer for the purpose of supplying pemmican to the Canadians.

Col. Bryan accepted a working interest in a bot-ail factory and, as it was a monopoly, he expected to become very wealthy.

There was a great boom in Alaska and nothing was needed there but some climate and a producing class.

L EXPANSION.

s Mineral Lands Increased to ...ewhat, Porto Rico and the Philippines.

s of the American Coal Miner n a Few Important—Its."

enendous growth in the export ... United States has been attract... of the industrial "statisticians" year ending with July, 1898, the ... from the United States were ... in the year 1900 they were 1,882,...

gports of coal increased in value ... In 1900 they reached $19,502,429, ... have gone to Great Britain, ... nmitria, Spain, Sweden, Denmark ... These countries have in the past ... ot entirely on Great Britain. The ... ntally indicative of the present ... showing signs of exhaustion. ... to New-castle no longer supp... ly, for it is the actual thing that ... ne.

the increased exports have been ... the Republican policy of ... owing comparative table of ex... ears ending July 30, 1900, and 1900, some percentage of gain in the ... ts now largely over which the ... has been waiting:

| | 1899. | 1900. |
|---|---|---|
| ..... | 132,968 | 158,000 |
| ..... | 41,960 | 54,800 |
| ..... | 1,882,000 | 2,000,000 |
| ..... | 19,502,429 | 14,000,000 |

SE OF CUBA AND OF PORTO ... THE EXPORTS OF AMERICAN COAL ... IN THE CASE OF HAWAII, ... INCREASED TWENTY-FIVE ... OF THE PHILIPPINES, ... INCREASED ONE HUNDRED ... CENT.

ITIES AND THE "IFS."

s increase in the export demand ... ed mean more than 1,000,000 ... DS OF SQUARE MILES OF ... NOW LYING IDLE ... THE WEST MAY BE ... TO THE WORLD'S EARNING CAPACITY OF ... T MAY BE NOTICED THAT ...

... investments of home and for... American coal lands are not ... enhanced because of the financial ... sing in connection with the tri... ut at the commencement of ... of keeping open the mills, that ... ad per cent of the American ... not reversed by the success in ... candidates who worked to ... e coinage of silver and close the ... ployment of labor.

MINING INVESTORS.

...urse, could be financially more ... welfare of the miners than ... has a great investment of new ... ed mining industry, in which ... extremely been the competition ... labor necessary to work new ... be demand for labor is greater ... the resulting wages is for the ... advance. When there is not ... to around among miners, when ... cars previous to 1896, the ten... wages to decline. When capi... an urgent competition to se... of coal miners, it is of course ... t labor to get satisfactory wages ... e in 1896, when arrears of ... ployment and eagerly looking for ... the place of some who ... their hard lot.

the stability of credit, and in the ... on and order, is as necessary ... ment in the coal mining ...

Philippines The great opportunities that now open open to the coal miner because of this heavily increasing export trade in coal would be ... ed if the operation of the tariff were given his attention to the prevention of great business loss at home He would have no inclination to go to any expense to cultivate an export trade, in which the margin of profit, owing to the excess freights, is never very large, and which UNDER THE SILVER STANDARD WOULD BE SUBJECT TO THE RISKS ATTENDANT ON ALL FOREIGN TRANSACTIONS IN THE PREMIUM ON GOLD.

WILLIAM T. BAKER.

Chicago's Prominent Business Man and President of the World's Fair, Leaves the Democratic Party and Comes Out for McKinley.

William T. Baker, ex-president of the Chicago Board of Trade, and of the World's Fair, and one of the leading Democrats of Chicago, has made an open statement of the reasons for his change of sentiment in favor of McKinley this fall. In a letter made public today, he states that he cannot support the party for it is the actual thing that ... ne.

the increased exports have been ... the Republican policy of ... owing comparative table of ex... ears ending July 30, 1900, and 1900, some percentage of gain in the ... ts now largely over which the ... has been waiting:

| | 1899. | 1900. |
|---|---|---|
| ..... | 132,968 | 158,000 |
| ..... | 41,960 | 54,800 |
| ..... | 1,882,000 | 2,000,000 |
| ..... | 19,502,429 | 14,000,000 |

SE OF CUBA AND OF PORTO ... THE EXPORTS OF AMERICAN COAL ... IN THE CASE OF HAWAII, ... INCREASED TWENTY-FIVE ... OF THE PHILIPPINES, ... INCREASED ONE HUNDRED ... CENT.

ITIES AND THE "IFS."

s increase in the export demand ... ed mean more than 1,000,000 ... DS OF SQUARE MILES OF ... NOW LYING IDLE ... THE WEST MAY BE ... TO THE WORLD'S EARNING CAPACITY OF ... T MAY BE NOTICED THAT ...

... investments of home and for... American coal lands are not ... enhanced because of the financial ... sing in connection with the tri... ut at the commencement of ... of keeping open the mills, that ... ad per cent of the American ... not reversed by the success in ... candidates who worked to ... e coinage of silver and close the ... ployment of labor.

MINING INVESTORS.

...urse, could be financially more ... welfare of the miners than ... has a great investment of new ... ed mining industry, in which ... extremely been the competition ... labor necessary to work new ... be demand for labor is greater ... the resulting wages is for the ... advance. When there is not ... to around among miners, when ... cars previous to 1896, the ten... wages to decline. When capi... an urgent competition to se... of coal miners, it is of course ... t labor to get satisfactory wages ... e in 1896, when arrears of ... ployment and eagerly looking for ... the place of some who ... their hard lot.

the stability of credit, and in the ... on and order, is as necessary ... ment in the coal mining ...

Philippines The great opportunities that now open open to the coal miner because of this heavily increasing export trade in coal would be ... ed if the operation of the tariff were given his attention to the prevention of great business loss at home He would have no inclination to go to any expense to cultivate an export trade, in which the margin of profit, owing to the excess freights, is never very large, and which UNDER THE SILVER STANDARD WOULD BE SUBJECT TO THE RISKS ATTENDANT ON ALL FOREIGN TRANSACTIONS IN THE PREMIUM ON GOLD.

WILLIAM T. BAKER.

Chicago's Prominent Business Man and President of the World's Fair, Leaves the Democratic Party and Comes Out for McKinley.

William T. Baker, ex-president of the Chicago Board of Trade, and of the World's Fair, and one of the leading Democrats of Chicago, has made an open statement of the reasons for his change of sentiment in favor of McKinley this fall. In a letter made public today, he states that he cannot support the party for it is the actual thing that ... ne.

the increased exports have been ... the Republican policy of ... owing comparative table of ex... ears ending July 30, 1900, and 1900, some percentage of gain in the ... ts now largely over which the ... has been waiting:

| | 1899. | 1900. |
|---|---|---|
| ..... | 132,968 | 158,000 |
| ..... | 41,960 | 54,800 |
| ..... | 1,882,000 | 2,000,000 |
| ..... | 19,502,429 | 14,000,000 |

SE OF CUBA AND OF PORTO ... THE EXPORTS OF AMERICAN COAL ... IN THE CASE OF HAWAII, ... INCREASED TWENTY-FIVE ... OF THE PHILIPPINES, ... INCREASED ONE HUNDRED ... CENT.

ITIES AND THE "IFS."

s increase in the export demand ... ed mean more than 1,000,000 ... DS OF SQUARE MILES OF ... NOW LYING IDLE ... THE WEST MAY BE ... TO THE WORLD'S EARNING CAPACITY OF ... T MAY BE NOTICED THAT ...

... investments of home and for... American coal lands are not ... enhanced because of the financial ... sing in connection with the tri... ut at the commencement of ... of keeping open the mills, that ... ad per cent of the American ... not reversed by the success in ... candidates who worked to ... e coinage of silver and close the ... ployment of labor.

MINING INVESTORS.

...urse, could be financially more ... welfare of the miners than ... has a great investment of new ... ed mining industry, in which ... extremely been the competition ... labor necessary to work new ... be demand for labor is greater ... the resulting wages is for the ... advance. When there is not ... to around among miners, when ... cars previous to 1896, the ten... wages to decline. When capi... an urgent competition to se... of coal miners, it is of course ... t labor to get satisfactory wages ... e in 1896, when arrears of ... ployment and eagerly looking for ... the place of some who ... their hard lot.

the stability of credit, and in the ... on and order, is as necessary ... ment in the coal mining ...

WHAT BRYAN'S ELECTION WILL MEAN TO AMERICAN LABOR.

[By Hon. Charles H. Grosvenor, M. C., of Ohio.]

In the ordering fight, amid din and roar of the fallen gods of imperialism and militarism, there is danger the people of this country may lose sight of the fact that the election of Mr. Bryan means the abandonment of the protective tariff system and the introduction of a free-trade program into the affairs of the American people have short memories and they sometimes forget and need to be reminded.

Mr. Bryan was a member of the 52nd and 53rd Congresses and took a very active part at once upon taking his seat in the 53rd Congress, of which I was a member, the Wilson bill was under consideration. It was the passage of that bill which plunged this country into ruin. It was not made a matter of discussion of any sort about the origin of hard times, the intelligent people of this country had known very well that he ceased to earn a living for himself and family because of the depression of business caused by the repeal of the McKinley law and the passage of the Wilson act. It was that which precipitated wages to the lowest ebb that they have been for many a year. It was that which sent marching columns of hungry men over the country demanding work. It was the passage of that bill that made it possible for any intelligent man to say that there was no money in the air, much less in Bryan in 1896.

In the first year of his tenure in the debates on the Wilson Bill Bryan took the extreme free-trade ground. His language was not mild and soft-laboring men of the country can find them and read them. He practically announced himself in favor of absolute free-trade upon many of the articles produced in this country which could be insured should he put upon the free list of the Wilson bill. We know how he voted upon the concurrence of the House in the six hundred amendments adopted by the Senate to that bill. Jos. Bailey, a representative from the State of Texas, who was a free-trade Democrat, and one who was the putative father of the law, the Hon. W. L. Wilson, of Bryan's own State, and who on their shoulders in a triumphal procession through the Democratic Congressional Hall of cloak-room and a satrmalia of joy resounded from those precincts. Bryan was for immediately the introduction of foreign material into this country free of duty. He was for having it so mended that all raw material such as wool, coal, iron, and everything else which entered into the manufacture of goods, should be imported free, and he was his effort to bring about that result, that brought about the terrible result with which we are so familiar.

It was Bryan's earnest demand that put wool on the free list and in the debate he declared that he did not care whether it benefited or hurt the producer of wool. He was for having our tariff on coal down to such an extent as to flood the eastern coast cities with foreign coal and the growth of the development of coal in the Bituminous regions of Pennsylvania and Maryland drove us out of the schooled markets with the cheap foreign product. He was for the repeal of vocated the low tariff on agricultural products and utterly refused to discriminate or allow discrimination in favor of the products of the silver and middle west. The laboring men of the country and the farmers of the country saw and felt the plunge themselves into the vortex that is being filled out, which has been ever since and still is, and is a very interesting chapter in the personal politics of that period. The Democrat convention at Kansas City is very adroit in laying the foundation for an excuse for the Democrats to support Bryan be elected, satisfactory to his history and record. Not daring to avoid promotion directly he came at it in the platform which he personally conducted as follows:

"Tariff laws should be amended by putting the products of trusts upon the free list. We condemn the Dingley tariff law as a trust breeding measure, skillfully devised, and Trust, monopoly, and the tariff were the three leading issues of the party discussion at the Democratic Convention. Bryan nomination Mr. Bryan accepted "Democratic Popular party, whose candidate Mr. Bryan now is, I refer to Bryan's nomination that shows itself on every hand. There is no doubt but that the tariff issue was the most clearly the bone of contention in the minds of the advocates of free trade than does wool. The facts are conclusively stated in the following table:

| Year. | Price washed Value per pound. | Total production. Pounds. | Imports. Pounds. | Imports. Value. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1892 | 14¢ | 150,000,000 | 28 | $115,241,290 |
| 1893 | 12¢ | 150,000,000 | 18 | 1,153,000 |
| 1894 | 12¢ | 150,000,000 | 18 | 1,153,000 |
| 1895 | 12¢ | 150,000,000 | 18 | 1,153,000 |
| 1896 | 12¢ | 150,000,000 | 18 | 1,153,000 |
| 1897 | 12¢ | 150,000,000 | 18 | 1,153,000 |
| 1898 | 12¢ | 150,000,000 | 18 | 1,153,000 |
| 1899 | 12¢ | 150,000,000 | 18 | 1,153,000 |
| 1900 | 12¢ | 150,000,000 | 18 | 1,153,000 |

| Year. | Total production. Pounds. | Imports. Pounds. | Imports. Value. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1892 | 150,000,000 | 28 | $115,241,290 |
| 1893 | 150,000,000 | 18 | 1,153,000 |
| 1894 | 150,000,000 | 18 | 1,153,000 |
| 1895 | 150,000,000 | 18 | 1,153,000 |
| 1896 | 150,000,000 | 18 | 1,153,000 |
| 1897 | 150,000,000 | 18 | 1,153,000 |
| 1898 | 150,000,000 | 18 | 1,153,000 |
| 1899 | 150,000,000 | 18 | 1,153,000 |
| 1900 | 150,000,000 | 18 | 1,153,000 |

PARDON ME, BUT

Pardon me, but ——

If you were to run your farm for a man, you would feel sure of getting your money if that man had a lien on everything on the farm, wouldn't you? If you have a job, a steady job, and you have there was going to be a change of managers of the business, factory or whatever concern it is that you work for, you would feel safer if you knew that the incoming manager had had experience in managing such a concern, wouldn't you? You'd feel more certain of his managing the business successfully, wouldn't you? You'd feel surer of holding your job, wouldn't you? If you are building around the house, you'd rather get one if you could, on a farm, in a factory or in anything else, to do it by an experienced manager, wouldn't you? For you'd think it was safer, and you'd more likely to pan out, to be a steady one, wouldn't you? Pardon me.

When you take a ride on a railroad train, you wouldn't feel comfortable if you knew that, because the train was in your care saw a young dry goods clerk pick up the engine cab and begin to yank the lever. Now would you? You wouldn't even let a man who had never been in mine and know that a poet was running the working mine, would you? You'd be afraid of your corpus, eh?

"That's what!"

Now, when it comes to politics, don't you think a man ought to be very sure of his experience in voting as he does in his trade or business? If you don't, you can all have confidence that; but black has got the engineer's license. Black been over the road. But Bryan claims he has an entirely new method, and if he runs, he promises to run the locomotive himself. He's crazy to try his new method—and if she busts, she busts. Mack maintains, though, that you can't monkey with a steam engine. Yes, and do no harm to water and iron, and you've got to shovel something besides air into the fire-box.

Bryan said in 1895

"That just as sure as Mack got into the cab the boiler would explode, the road would become foreclosed and the sheriff would be in possession of the locomotive and the inhabitants of the territory along the route would become paupers."

But

Bryan says now that he can run the old engine it still doing his. They've lengthened one her boiler some and bolted on some new coaches. The same still sits on the cowcatcher and has both eyes peeled for obstructions. There was a foreign spot on the track once, but when the eagle screeched and Mack, he turned on fifty million dollars of steam, it went. Mack, he has any post-mortem because the foreigner was so all up and scattered, he couldn't find the remains. Because of the fact that the foreigner, however, did undertake to cross the track, there have been several important branches added to the road.

JOHN LIVINGSTON WRIGHT.

MISTAKEN.

He said: "You shall not toss
Your heart to Love
Of shining gold."
'Nor press his brow with thorns,
Nor tread upon his crown
Of fame." ...

home consumption figures for this year not yet being obtainable.

| Year. | CORN. Home consumption. Bushels consumed. | Exportation. Bushels exported.* |
|---|---|---|
| 1892 | 1,063,667,000 | 76,602,285 |
| 1894 | 1,153,008,891 | 66,489,529 |
| 1897 | 1,246,033,782 | 172,455,408 |
| 1900 | 1,299,338,273 | 99,338,273 |

* Export figures are for fiscal years.

ROOSEVELT'S POPULARITY.

[By R. P. Clarkson, of the Des Moines Register, Des Moines, Ia.]

Theodore Roosevelt has the affection of the people of the Western States. Each year his career is watched and followed with a depth of interest and enthusiasm that has no a fixed place in our hearts. In this establishing himself with the Western States, the West, the West and as a leader of the Rough Riders during the war with Spain, he has made what was his own. He has within him the qualities which are possessed and admired in the Western States. He has them in such a degree as to naturally make him a leader from the West.

Roosevelt is a man of action. He is direct, practical and energetic. He is practical and resourceful and proves himself the master of every situation in which he is placed. With intelligent and well directed effort he surmounts every obstacle, hurtling over, or trampling under foot all obstacles. And without he does not stoop or cringe, and, respectably others, he respects himself for himself. Of such stuff are made the men who have adopted the West in its present position of power and influence. These qualities in combination have wrought the Western States, they have hewed out material wealth and security to its homes, and have made Roosevelt, Western born, to the halls of National council and legislation.

The West claims Theodore Roosevelt. He is the favorite son of Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, of the Dakotas and Montana—we might say, of the West. He is the favorite son of all the Western people whose hearts have been warmed to him in his daring, courage, skill and patriotism. The rugged honesty, unswerving integrity of Roosevelt, the qualities of character which marked the career of Roosevelt as Civil Service Commissioner, as Republican governor of New York, and as Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and as a leader of the Rough Riders in the Western States as a man worthy of the highest honors. His course after the declaration of war with Spain fully revealed him to the Western people as the leader of the Rough Riders.

Roosevelt was active in the department of the Navy at Washington, but he proved the activity of his life. He sought opportunities for glory and exercise to those hardy accomplishments acquired in the West. Roosevelt was himself; he was conscious of his capacities and qualifications. He was a man of action. Success of men he was a leader. Of daring and love of adventure he was full. Of hardy life he was acquainted with the methods of the Navy Department at Washington. He was a man of technical military education, but he sought a field where he could find the fruits of his accomplishments and took a position in command where no man was qualified. Roosevelt was or added danger by lack of his military training. He sought the Western States, Western States. Colonel Wood, an old officer, was first in command of the Rough Riders, but the Western means had passed until "Teddy" was as thoroughly trained in the business of the Rough Riders as the Rough Riders in the Republican Tective Tariff, operating according to the word Gold standard.

Similar ratios of business improvement and profit during the last four years are proved by the official statistics relating to our banks, both commercial and savings, our coal, iron and steel products, our railways, our cotton products and our manufactures generally. McKinley and other products are terrible at ...

SOUTHERN PROGRESS.

Business Improvement There Directly Traceable to the Republican Policy of Protection.

[By Hon. N. B. Scott, U. S. Senator, of West Virginia.]

The South is the citadel of democracy in this country; it has also always been the citadel of free trade. Twenty-five years ago a prosperous Southerner was almost as rare as a white black bird. The overthrow of the old Whig party had practically eradicated that element of political society in that section.

But since then a great change has been gradually going on. The growth of nationalism sentiment in the South during the last quarter century is one of the most interesting developments of recent political history. And as the protective tariff is the cornerstone of the Republican party, so the growth of the Republicans and old political associations and principles, cannot but tend to the gradual upholding of a strong Republican party in the South.

It is a fact susceptible of ample proof that whenever we have had a protective tariff the industries of the North and South have prospered and wherever we have had a low tariff, or practically free trade, the industries of both have suffered from hard times. The latest instance is to be found in a comparison of the condition of the country under Grover Cleveland's second administration and with the Wilson low-tariff law in operation, and the present McKinley administration, under the Dingley protective tariff law. The following table is a very condensed form may be cited in illustration:

| | 1895 | 1899 |
|---|---|---|
| Number of employees in U. S. | 785,091 | 926,924 |
| Wages of ... | $ 445,586,261 | $ 522,969,896 |
| Net earnings of ... | $ 349,521,047 | $ 495,541,119 |
| Value of Exports | $ 793,389,891 | $ 1,203,931,222 |
| Value of Imports | $ 731,969,219 | $ 616,827,087 |
| Balance of trade in ... | $ 61,420,545 | $ 586,782,733 |
| Value of Manufactures ... | $9,402,993,000 | $14,277,078,555 |

| | 1895 | 1900 |
|---|---|---|
| Value of horses, mules, sheep and cattle | $1,541,396,339 | $ 2,042,840,824 |

In regard to the former item, the increase in the value of live stock in Southern states, during the period named, was nearly $35,000,000.

These are the most important details in every branch of productive industry that can be named there has been increased activity and prosperity under the Republican policy of protection as compared with the previous low tariff of Cleveland's administration. In these benefits the South has had her participation and shared equally with the North. In fact, in many lines the South has contributed the North in the record of commercial development during the past four years. This is due especially in regard to the cotton and tobacco industries. The progress of the South since 1895 in agriculture, commerce, manufacturing, mining, railroading and other transportation enterprises, etc., is simply wonderful. All this progress, improvement and growth is due mainly to the Republican tective Tariff, operating according to the word Gold standard.

Similar ratios of business improvement and profit during the last four years are proved by the official statistics relating to our banks, both commercial and savings, our coal, iron and steel products, our railways, our cotton products and our manufactures generally. McKinley and other products are terrible at ...

E750.R #142 X-E738 .R4

JOHN H. BARROWS

President of Oberlin College and the Former Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of Chicago, is Out for McKinley

President John H. Barrows, of Oberlin College, Ohio, former pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of Chicago, one of the best posted Orientalists in America, and well known throughout the religious circles of the world, Pagan as well as Christian, in connection with the famous parliament of religions held in Chicago in 1893, has written a remarkably strong letter in favor of the re-election of President McKinley. It is addressed to F. B. Whitney, manager of the Republican College League. The letter follows in part:

"The triumphant re-election of President McKinley is demanded on grounds of patriotism, good sense, national honor. I agree heartily with Dr. Albert Shaw that Mr. McKinley is the best equipped man in America for the Presidency of the Republic. He has gained in public estimation, and grown in wisdom much after the manner of Abraham Lincoln. His temper is very much like that of Lincoln, and the criticisms which he has borne are precisely those which were made against our martyred President.

"We have already expanded; the nation is out of its shell. We must adapt ourselves to new responsibilities. I agree heartily with those who regard Imperialism as a false issue, a bugaboo, a ghost, a meaningless phantom. America has destroyed imperialism in the East and West Indies. The talk about militarism is, of course, the sheerest nonsense, and known to be such by those who are guilty of such reckless speech. Every sensible man knows that Mr. McKinley is a peace lover and peace maker, and not a dictator. He has none of the qualities or ambitions of a Cæsar. The New York Times has well said: 'The man on horseback cannot keep his ear to the ground.'

"I am in hearty sympathy with the cry, 'Four more years of the full dinner-pail.' It was said, 'Man does not live by bread alone.' But he must have bread or he cannot live. Jesus Christ made bread for the multitudes. When the contest is between a full dinner-pail for the working man and an empty or half-filled dinner-pail, such as the Democratic administration helped to provide a few years ago, every benevolent and sensible man should prefer the full dinner-pail. I am persuaded that an empty dinner-pail is utterly unnecessary in America, and that the most emphatic condemnation should be pronounced upon those policies which heretofore have wrecked disaster to the working men. A full dinner-pail means much physical well-being. It means the possibility of comfort and happiness at home, it means education, it means the preparation for higher and better things.

"I have had a warm admiration for the courage and many intellectual powers of Mr. Bryan. He is a man that has kindled generous enthusiasms and no one has regretted more deeply than I that his great powers were given to the service of false and misleading theories. I have also regretted that during the present campaign he has allowed himself to indulge in much clap-trap, which may and does capture the crowd, but which makes the judious grieve. Few men in the country seem to me so poorly qualified for the Presidency of the great Republic as Mr. Bryan. He has wrong ideas, he lacks balance and good judgment, he couches his lance against almost every windmill. I do not believe the nation is to suffer the unspeakable calamity and dishonor of his election.

"America has never been so proud a name to my mind and heart as during the last few years. The path of national Democratic leadership. Because his election will do more to secure the benefits of sound money than his defeat would do to avert the evils of Imperialism. Because the burial of Bryan now past all hope of political resurrection is the best way to prepare four years hence a Democratic opposition sane and strong enough to undo most of the mischief which has been and will be done by the McKinley Administration."

PRESIDENT G. STANLEY HALL, of Clark University: "I shall vote for McKinley because I fear free silver more than I do Imperialism."

PRESIDENT CARTER, of Williams College: "It is my intention to vote for McKinley. I cannot conceive that the forces and ideas which Mr. Bryan represents can fail to be, if put into the possession of the Government, disastrous to the best interests of the country. It seems to me that neither friendliness between classes, nor sound doctrine in finance, nor the cause of civil-service reform, nor justice to oppressed citizens, nor respect for the established courts will be promoted by his election."

PRESIDENT BUCKHAM, University of Vermont: "I shall vote for McKinley. The greatest dangers to American political life are anarchy and demagogism, and Bryan represents them both. Though I was opposed to the war with Spain, and wish the Philippine question had never arisen, I have not seen the time when I wished the course of the Government to be materially different from what it has been."

FROM JONES' OWN STATE

An Arkansas Official Comes Out for McKinley and Roosevelt.

Hon. W. H. H. Hanley, three times elected Mayor of Paris, Ark., also ex-county and probate judge of Logan county, Ark., is out for McKinley and Roosevelt. In a letter to the Secretary of the Republican National Committee, Hon. Perry S. Heath, he says in part:

"I feel like I ought to do something or say something to encourage the voters in the contested States to rally to the support of McKinley, and re-elect him by such an over-whelming vote as to forever crush all opposition to protection, the gold standard, progress and prosperity.

"It has been demonstrated that the policies of the Republican party are the policies to be adopted permanently as the settled policy of our government in the administration of public affairs and private business enterprises in our country. The prosperous condition of our people—the laborers all employed at good wages—the railroads doing well and the products of farmers commanding good prices, the balance of foreign trade largely in our favor, our money circulation large and our nation's credit good, seem to indicate that self-interest would prompt the people to vote for a continuance of these conditions.

"Bryan's policy of free trade, free silver and the contraction of our nation's commerce, would ruin the business of our country by precipitating a panic of the most dangerous character. He has a good deal to say about "imperialism," which is a sham issue to conceal his position on the currency question—already been condemned by the people. There are no "imperialists" in this country outside of his own party. Bryan is insincere and dishonest in his affected opposition to imperialism. He also disputes our title to the Philippine Islands and yet he urged his Democratic and Populist friends in the Senate to ratify the treaty by which the sovereignty passed to us. This inconsistency makes him appear as a demagogue instead of a statesman and intelligent voters will so regard him, I hope, when they go to vote in November.

IDAHO REPUBLICAN

Hon. Charles Himrod Says: "When a Man is Well He Don't Need Medicine."—Another Life-Long Democrat Out for McKinley.

Idaho comes to the front again with another of its prominent Democratic citizens who will this year vote the Republican ticket.

Hon. Charles Himrod, cashier of the First National Bank of Idaho, is the man. He has twice been Democratic State Treasurer, and was once Receiver of the Land Office. Now he is for McKinley and Roosevelt. He says:

"When a man is well he don't need medicine.

"The unprecedented prosperity that we have enjoyed for the past three years has convinced me that a change to the policy advocated in the Democratic platforms of 1896 and 1900 would prove almost as disastrous as the panic under the last Democratic administration. I can conceive of no calamity that would be so great to the business interests of the country as the election of Mr. Bryan. Not that the tariff would be interfered with in the near future, but an event of this kind would create such a feeling of uncertainty and distrust in business connections that we could hardly recover from it during his term. Gold would naturally be relegated to the stockings from whence it came in 1897. Capital would be hoarded and necessarily the vast industries of the country would be impeded. While, at present, he is saying nothing about free silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, we all know this to be his pet scheme, and the platform on which he stands advocates this principle.

"In relation to the anti-expansion views expressed in their platform: The Philippine Islands came to us as the result of a war waged in the interest of humanity. They came unbidden. They are ours by conquest and purchase. To virtually pull down our flag in these possessions, after March 4, 1901, would be the darkest blot in the history of American politics.

"HERE WE HAVE AN INSTANCE OF A MAN SEEKING THE VOTES OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE, AND WHO EXPECTS TO BE ELECTED PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, ON AN ISSUE THAT IS FOREIGN TO EVERY PATRIOTIC IMPULSE AND FOREIGN TO EVERY PRINCIPLE OF MANHOOD IN AN AMERICAN.

"I am content to let well enough alone. I shall stand by President McKinley whose consistent administration, and whose course in connection with the war with Spain and the rebellion in the Philippines I so ardently admire. Nor can I

FACTS ABOUT PORTO RICO.

Out of Poverty, Want and Distress the People are Being Lifted to the Enjoyment of Prosperity and Plenty.

HAVE FAITH IN NEW GOVERNMENT

(Special Correspondence.)

San Juan, Porto Rico, Sept. 29.—To be enabled to speak truthfully and intelligently of the effect of American rule in Porto Rico one needs to have knowledge not only of conditions as they are to-day but as they were when the Spaniards surrendered the island in October 1898.

Porto Rico has always to provide the means for building, extending and maintaining the fortifications, the expenses of the army and navy contingent deemed necessary by the home government for defense against enemies without of strife, the support of the priesthood, the maintenance of the Civil Guard, a local semi-military organization designed for the persecution of suspected disloyalists, the conduct of the mail and telegraph services, and to pay a large and ever-increasing corps of Spanish officials, the whole amounting $2,000,000 a year.

Then when trouble in Cuba came, Porto Rico, as the penalty for being good, was compelled to advance large sums of money for the suppression of the rebellion. The accounts of this matter showed a balance, mostly accrued since 1895, of $2,253,216.51, for which amount I claim it now pending. The one thing plentiful was taxes, the exceptional benefit the gatherer of titles. Aptitude in making appropriations and skill in manipulating them for the benefit of the parties free were marked features of Spanish administration. There were appropriations for schools, but as a school teacher in the barrio provided for roads, but only one road worthy of the name; there were endowed charitable funds, but hospitals only in name. Bagasse of every degree extended omnicited hands on every side, and evidence of diseases produced by long continuance of deprivation of wholesome food was painfully apparent.

The sugar industry of the island had materially declined, the cultivation of the abundant of lands never fertilized but partilicularly to the employment of ancient methods. The tobacco industry had materially reduced the profits. One market only, Cuba, was open for the tobacco crops. The people were prohibited from establishing trade with the United States, hence as the fruit lands as exist in the world for vanilla. As a rule, the plantations were heavily mortgaged, and the mortgages were disposed to foreclose.

With the foregoing conditions existing, American occupation began. A military government was established, which, by what will mildness and justice, holding steadily in view the succession of a civil government, which should be established as soon as practicable, and the people were gradually given control of local affairs. Mortgage foreclosures were suspended. Work was provided for the poor on the roads and trails, a plan of roads covering the island was prepared, and in the time the municipal elections a year ago were hotly contested and one party showed a majority of about six thousand votes on the island, inspired by a feeling of expressing its desires this year manifested the attitude of critics of the Government, nothing done or proposed has united them and they have grown quite hostile. As a result many of the most prominent adherents have left the ranks and the party broken and disorganized.

A convention has been called to determine the future. In the light of recent events, it is possible for the Federal party to continue its struggle," and the consensus of opinion is that it is not, since the people are fully aware of the great opportunity presented for self-government, prosperous and peaceful. They are opposed to political agitation, and have neither sympathy for or patience with demagogues who preach discontent for their personal benefit.

SENATOR GEORGE L. SHOUP

Tells Why the Mountain and Western States Will Go for McKinley and Roosevelt.

There are many reasons which impel the voters of the mountain states to support the nominees and the policy of the Republican party. First and last, first and last, this is the reason why the mountain states will go for McKinley and Roosevelt. Because they have confidence in the administration and in the policy of the Republican party. Because they have confidence in the ability and integrity of the Republican party to carry out its promises to the people

SECRETARY JOHN D. LONG.

Explains to First Voters the Facts Which They Must Consider Before Casting Their Ballots.

(By Hon. John D. Long, Secretary of the Navy.)

The intelligent young man, who, on November 8th, will cast his first presidential vote, is in a fortunate position. He is unprammeled by party prejudice and is free to act on his own unbiased conviction. He has the opportunity to help fixing his party affiliations, from which it is never always easy to break, he should fix them in the line of his matured convictions.

In doing this he should not be swayed by personal considerations, but be guided by a careful study of the principles of the two contending parties. The problems before him are vital to the welfare of the nation.

He must decide whether, being now on a tidal wave of prosperity brought about as the result of Republican principles, he is justified in promoting the supremacy of Democratic principles which were responsible for the years of national depression which characterized the recent administrations of the Democratic party.

He must decide whether he covers honest and stable money, which the Republican party insured by its enactment of the gold standard, or debased money, the sure consequence of the free silver policy which the Democratic party specifically advocates.

He must decide whether he shall support the Administration which carried his nation through a successful war and which by its wisdom, its patriotism, which by country's intelligence and humanity had dictated its policies to secure a stable institution, and local self-government, or shall repudiate the party which put his brothers-in-arms wounded and dying on the battlefield, and which came near to the ruin of foreign governments, the islands which are now subject to our American people.

These are important questions he must determine, and it behooves him to study them with patriotism, with earnest and right decision. He will find ample evidence to guide his judgment. He himself is its living example, for the opportunities for employment which he now enjoys were enjoyed by his older brother four years ago.

If he live in the country, he sees the product of his farm fetching a higher price than it did before the Republican party assumed the reins of National administration.

If he live in the manufacturing town, he sees the doors of the factories open and hears the hum of busy looms and wheels. In all walks of life he finds that labor is receiving a larger wage for his services and carrying his investigation still further, he discovers that he has a greater purchasing power.

If he desires to extend the scope of his investigation and ascertain the extent of his prosperity compared with the year previous, he will examine the statistics of exports and imports. He will learn that in 1894, the most prosperous year of Mr. Cleveland's administration, the balance of trade in favor of the United States was $237,145,000, little in the last year, the balance of trade in favor of the United States was $564,000,000, or nearly two and a half times as great.

He will find that the total commerce of the United States for the past fiscal year surpasses by $137,729,250 that of any preceding year, and that for the first time in our history its exports exceed $2,000,000,000.

Turning to the statistics relative to Hawaii and the Philippine Islands, he will find a condition equally satisfactory. The most prosperous year since 1890 for American sugar finds with the Hawaiian planters, recently published in Collier's Weekly, "the overwhelming majority will determine the votes of the people in the great Democratic one of their own interest, welfare and prosperity. They are an intelligent, and they know perfectly well on which side their bread is buttered. They have had the object lesson of experience. They know the difference in a campaign between chaff and sawdust on the one hand and substance on the other. They know that in both parties there is the usual resort to make mountains out of molehills, to make black white, and to raise issues out of personalities and petty trivialities. They know, too, that in both parties there are honest differences of opinion on honest principles of policy.

But when they take up the argument between the Democratic Administration and the present Republican Administration they will find, as a matter of history will see it, the difference which is as broad as a pike staff. Nobody in his sober senses questions the honest purpose and fidelity to the principles of his party, either of President Cleveland or of President McKinley. Nobody doubts that the four years of the Cleveland rule, he had the Democratic party could give us or that the four years of the latter exemplify its spirit, its enterprise, its humanity and the beneficial effect on the interests of the people; and yet one was a period of continual depression, of industrial degeneration and the other of good times and prosperity. It is simply a question which set of administration, which kind of policies, which application of principles, the people the best results.

I do not think that we are going to determine this question on the ground that a period there came about 1893 and has been published for it; or that the prosperity of the country is attributable to the fact that the Treasury so that the people could have the money to buy with to his vanity; or that in the treasury, which was in a condition worse than the war there may have been a mistake in the methods or manner of the purchases of canned beef. On the contrary, I think that the question of employed? Are more men at work? Are the factories, the mills, the mines and workshops idle or busy? Have we more money to spend? Are we in a better market at home and abroad for the product of our farms? Are our factories enlarging? Is the balance of trade for or against us? Are we prosperous as every water of the globe? Is our navy strong in its commissioned ships, our national needs? Are we meeting the responsibilities of our international trust to us by the result of the Spanish-American War? Are the Spanish-American and American institutions to the islands of the sea that are under our care and sway to them, upon the commissions charged with their welfare and government, the United States, men of high character, of commanding ability? Have we been four years of plenty and prosperity or four years of hard times, of the sheriff up out of the river four well-favored kine, fat-fleshed, or lean-fleshed? Are the cars of corn and cattle and corn fat-fleshed or lean-fleshed? Are the ears of corn full-eared and corn fat-fleshed or lean-fleshed?

These are the questions which will determine the issues of the campaign. It will be for the people to determine, or quips and partisan criticisms, but of the general issues of the campaign.

On that ground, and in the face of the record of the Administration of President McKinley and of the inevitable comparison between it and that of the Democratic Administration, especially between 1893 and 1896, I do not believe that the policies so thoroughly defeated in 1896, and so utterly exploded by the irresistible logic of events and results since then, have gone, in the discretion of the voters, the country will not or now and so soon invite the same battle on its course from which it has not yet ceased to congratulate itself.

SHALL I VOTE THIS FALL?

Am I Republican, Democrat or Populist?

Let me reason with myself—and you.

Suppose, for a moment, I am a farmer, and I own or rent land. Five years ago I farmed 160 acres out west. Times were bad, crops were poor, my wheat brought only 40 cents a bushel at the farm, and my corn only 15 cents. It was cheaper to burn corn in the stove than to buy wood or coal. I moved enough wheat for seed, and sold the rest, and borrowed money to buy some cattle, and I was lucky if I made a little more than I owed as a poor man. I owed a big payment on my farm machinery. Thank Heaven, the agent of the Harvester Company extended time on me one year for another year. That saved my home and the livre of myself and family.

Now, I am a farmer in Republican administration.

Four years ago McKinley was nominated for President. It was a happy omen for McKinley, for I was a Republican voter.

In 1896 my crops were good. My wheat and corn, cattle and hogs, brought good prices.

I paid off the storekeeper, settled with the Harvester Company, took up the mortgage on the farm, and I am independent and happy.

Another year and three more years have gone by, and I am still prosperous. So prosperous, that I am considering the question of buying a second farm for my boy. My boy came to the President of the greatest Republic in the world. But I have not forgotten the days of 1893 to 1896, when I was a Democrat and voted the Democratic ticket, but my wife and daughters are well dressed, and that the old man himself is talking like a mighty sensible man.

Prosperity has increased the size of my waistband, and I guess I am just good enough Republican to vote once more for Major McKinley. What say you?

BILLIONS OF DOLLARS GAINED BY THE FARMER

Mr. Bryan and his followers are having a hard time in convincing the farmers that they are worse off under protection and honest money in 1900 than they were under free trade and the labor policy of 1896. The statements upon which they base their attempt to prove this are that the prices of articles of farm consumption have advanced more than the prices of articles of farm production.

A general comparison of prices of articles of farm consumption and farm production at Chicago shows that the Bryan party, if it believes its own statements, should disprove this theory.

The little table printed below, showing the value of farm animals on January 1, 1896, and then a comparison of the value of farm animals on January 1, 1900, is a conclusive illustration of it. It is worth studying. Horses, cattle, sheep, and all farm animals decreased enormously in value in 1896 as compared with 1895, and the decrease was greater in 1896 as compared with 1895. The value of horses and mules, for instance, fell from a little over one billion dollars in 1892 to 600 million dollars in 1896. The value of cattle and sheep decreased in value in 1896 to a proportionately as much as in 1893, and the value of pigs fell from a little over 100 million dollars in 1892 to 60 million dollars in 1896. The value of farm property in 1896 was nearly 2000 million dollars less than in 1895.

In cattle the increase is much greater, the value in 1899 being 872 million dollars and in 1900 the value has increased to 1,000 million dollars, an increase of 128 million dollars over 1898.

In sheep the reduction of value by low tariff and advance in value under protection is even more strongly marked. The value of sheep on farms was 121 million dollars in 1895, 100 million in 1896, 121 in 1897, and then increased under protection to 132 millions in 1900, thus practically doubling in value in the brief period since Mr. Bryan was proposed free trade free silver and free country four years ago.

Taking the entire list of farm animals reported by the Department of Agriculture, the value fell between protection 1892 and the single year of free trade 1896 from $1,461,000,000 to $1,227,000,000, and increased again to $2,312,000,000 on January 1, 1900. Mr. Bryan's party made the country poor in the single year of free trade, and it has made every few farmers are found who want to go back to the free trade experiment of 1895-97.

VALUE OF ANIMALS ON FARMS JANUARY 1, 1892, 1896 AND 1900.

| Date. | Horses and Mules. | Cattle (all) Dollars. | Sheep Dollars. | Total Farm Animals. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1892 | ...1,132,475,000 | 822,197,267 | 116,000,000 | 2,461,175,000 |
| 1896 | 993,244,642 | 872,183,961 | 65,167,215 | 1,927,595,818 |
| 1900 | 773,606,524 | 1,000,280,300 | 122,665,915 | 2,312,756,878 |

GEO. H. GRUNDY, OF MISSOURI.

Has a Common-Sense Talk to Common-Sense Men who Asks What Can They Expect From Bryan.

Under the Wilson tariff, farm products and live stock sold lower than ever before; the farmers and stockmen, the laborers were empty; and the country was filled with tramps, asking for work and begging for bread.

More than half of those tramps had families at home, suffering for the necessities of life. So hard was their lot that thousands of despairing women accepted employment at starvation wages, so low that men, driving men out of work.

When the election of McKinley gave assurance of better times, money was

CAPT. WM. E. ENGLISH.

What a Democratic Paper Says of His Leaving the Democratic Party.

(From the National Democrat, Sept. 8, 1900.)

Capt. Wm. E. English, of Indianapolis, once a Democratic leader of the Ninth and son of the late Hon. William H. English, candidate for vice President with Gen. W. S. Hancock, twenty years ago, has turned his back squarely on Democracy and comes out for McKinley and the whole Republican ticket.

Capt. English gives good reasons for his change of heart. It has been growing some time gradually. He did not vote for Bryan in 1896 because he could not endorse the 16-to-1 heresy, but says he voted that silly 16-to-1 heresy

HUGO DENKENSPRUCT.

I am going to conduct a brief examination of Mr. Bryan. This examination shall be true and impartial. Mr. Bryan, I shall treat him more honorably than he does the dead and famous patriots. He rots off little slips of their political ground to make his political heresies attractive.

Hugo: "Where were you, Mr. Bryan, and what were you doing while you admitted Prince McKinley and Hanna Kong making the great Consent of the Governed Republic annexed 90,000,000 people of the Philippine Islands?"

Bryan: "I was busy preparing to keep the American people intent."

Hugo: "What did you try to keep them interested in, Mr. Bryan?"

Bryan: "In myself."

Hugo: "Were you in favor of the war with Spain?"

Bryan: "Yes, and patriotically entered the service as a Colonel of Volunteers."

Hugo: "What particular service did you render in that brief, but bloody struggle?"

Bryan: "I did not get to fight, I was quietly though busily occupied in getting ready."

Hugo: "Did you not fear that this occupation might not be quiet, but pour men into the service of a military despotism in this country?"

Bryan: "My men were all American citizens with homes in Nebraska—from every walk of life—general parts of the political tebriss—"

Hugo: "Never mind the rest; we know in what speech to find it. You mean to tell me that a common soldier in this country can not be made a terror to their fellow-voters in a military despotism of policy. Did you remain with your regiment till your men were mustered out?"

Bryan: "No; I thought I could be of more service in Washington, and so resigned."

Hugo: "And went to Washington?"

Bryan: "Yes."

Hugo: "What particular service did you render your country at Washington?"

Bryan: "I was constantly engaged in the settlement of a treaty of peace with Spain, then being in process."

Hugo: "Were you in favor of the treaty of peace in the form it was ultimately made?"

Bryan: "Most certainly, I was."

Hugo: "Did you make the ratification of the treaty?"

Bryan: "I did, with reservations."

Hugo: "Did you proclaim your reservations, as you made them?"

Bryan: "I could not have changed the articles of the treaty if I had published them."

Hugo: "Could any member of Congress or President McKinley have changed the treaty?"

Bryan: "No! it had to be adopted or rejected just as it was, to secure the great peace commission."

Hugo: "Did President McKinley have to obey and enforce the treaty?"

Bryan: "Certainly; he was sworn to support the constitution and the laws, he had to enforce the terms of the treaty."

Hugo: "So your service to your country to perform what you felt was being by camp was to advise the ratification of the treaty as it was? How many votes do you think you controlled or contributed to the ratification?"

Bryan: "I advised my friends to vote for the ratification of the treaty."

Hugo: "What was your friend Aguinaldo doing at this time?"

Bryan: "I advised my friends to vote for the ratification of the treaty."

Hugo: "What was your friend Aguinaldo doing at this time?"

Bryan: "Two days before the vote of ratification was cast, he had been the dupe of war on the American troops at Manila."

Hugo: "Did you know of the when you advised ratification?"

Bryan: "I was among the number of those who believed it better to ratify the treaty and end the war, release the volunteers, remove the expense for war expenditures, and then, if necessary, to

R. E. MELVIN FOR McKINLEY.

Leading Young Democratic Lawyer of Kansas Tells Why He Will Vote for McKinley and Roosevelt.

R. E. Melvin, of Lawrence, Kas., has always been a Democrat. He comes from a democratic family. This year he will vote for McKinley and Roosevelt.

Mr. Melvin is one of the leading young lawyers in his city. He graduated from the Kansas State University. He is a man of integrity and high standing. Mercantile and professional life. He is a man of manly. The reasons why he votes the Republican ticket are best given in his own words:

"I have always been a Democrat—never a Populist. When Mr. Bryan was nominated in 1896 he was comparatively unknown.

"We know him now!

"During the campaign of 1896 he revealed the most horrible calamities, the most frightful disasters, the most enormous terrors, the widespread and awful ruin, want and misery that would fall upon people if the Republican party was elected President and the gold standard adopted.

"He is at the same old game now.

"Less than four years have demonstrated that Mr. Bryan is a false prophet—not a leader, but one of his affected predictions having come to pass, and in almost every instance just the opposite property time.

"He was wrong in '96. He is wrong now; and I firmly believe that the almost universal utterance of Mr. Bryan and the so-called anti-imperialists are doing injury to American interests in the Philippines, are responsible for the deaths of more of our American soldiers than, then all other agencies combined.

"Mr. Bryan says he would rather see two flags waving over two separate republics than one flag over an empire. Jefferson Davis said exactly the same thing in 1860.

"Mr. Bryan also says we have no title to the Philippines. Spain relinquished to Spain received the Philippine archipelago by a formal treaty (the treaty is the right of discovery), by a decree of the Pope (which was in 1493 for all practical purposes) continuously ever since, in Kansas fifteen years (seven years, seven years) open, notorious, adverse possession, and by conquest (title, if fifteen years in Kansas gives a good title then it certainly not illegal to so get the most four centuries' possession of the Philippines. Mr. Bryan says that the whole world, exercising every right and prerogative of absolute ownership, has already recognized by all the nations of the earth the right of conquest, and that it is a good title as it is possible to have. By treaty and ratification of which was signed by Mr. Bryan himself and purchase, ratified by the Congress of the United States under our constitution, a perfect title to the sovereignty.

"Our flag is in the Philippines not for aggrandizement, not for conquest, not as a symbol of oppression, enslavement or tyranny, but for the advancement of liberty, right, humanity, justice and civilization. That our first duty is to suppress the rebellion.

"The scare-cross—Imperialism—and Militarism—frighten no thinking persons. They are mere bugs-boos, conjured up for every other purpose than to frightfully mistrust and frighten the timid and uninformed.

"The Democratic party has abandoned

E750.R

#145

X-E738

FARMERS NOT DECEIVED BY BRYAN'S ARGUMENTS.

Figures that Prove to What Extent They Have Been Visited by General Prosperity.

INCREASE OF $836,640,209 IN CROP VALUES.

In his speech accepting the nomination by the Populists and Free Silverites at Topeka Kansas, August 22, W. J. Bryan said:

"The prosperity argument which the Republicans bring forward will not deceive the farmer."

Now let us see how the "prosperity argument" comes home to the farmer. If the crops increase in value because the Republican party restored the protective tariff policy that started up the mills, reopened the factories and put millions of idle men to work, thereby increasing the sale of the farmer's crops, then it has brought prosperity to the farmer, and no idle and false assertions to the contrary can obscure this great fact.

The following figures are from the reports of the United States Department of Agriculture, Division of Statistics, and are official. They show the value of the leading farm crops in the principal states of the Union:

| | |
|---|---|
| Total value corn crop, 1899 | $628,210,110 |
| Total value corn crop, 1896 | 491,066,967 |
| Increase corn crop | $138,203,143 |
| Total value cotton crop, 1899 | $263,465,500 |
| Total value cotton crop, 1896 | 292,234,437 |
| Increase cotton crop | $71,221,163 |
| Total value oats crop, 1899 | $198,187,975 |
| Total value oats crop, 1896 | 132,486,993 |
| Increase oats crop | $65,862,942 |
| Total value barley crop, 1899 | $28,594,254 |
| Total value barley crop, 1896 | 22,491,241 |
| Increase barley crop | $7,103,013 |
| Total value wheat crop, 1899 | $319,942,720 |
| Total value wheat crop, 1896 | 210,602,529 |
| Increase wheat crop | $8,942,720 |
| Total value rye crop, 1899 | $12,214,118 |
| Total value rye crop, 1896 | 9,860,769 |
| Increase rye crop | $2,353,349 |
| Total value buckwheat crop, 1899 | $6,193,676 |
| Total value buckwheat crop, 1896 | 6,522,339 |
| Increase buckwheat crop | $661,336 |
| Total value hay crop, 1899 | $411,926,187 |
| Total value hay crop, 1896 | 388,143,614 |
| Increase hay crop | $23,789,673 |
| Total value potato crop, 1899 | $89,828,832 |
| Total value potato crop, 1896 | 72,182,359 |
| Increase potato crop | $17,146,482 |
| Total value farm animals, January 1, 1900 | $2,042,840,812 |
| Total value farm animals, January 1, 1896 | 1,541,396,329 |
| Increase farm animals | $501,444,474 |

TOTAL INCREASE IN VALUE—1899.

| | |
|---|---|
| Farm animals | *$501,444,474 |
| Corn | 138,203,143 |
| Cotton | 71,221,163 |
| Oats | 65,862,942 |
| Hay | 23,789,673 |
| Potatoes | 17,146,482 |

MICHIGAN.

| Crop. | Value December 1, 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Corn | $9,810,063 | $9,831,486 |
| Oats | 5,715,959 | 8,587,733 |
| Barley | 539,154 | 446,029 |
| Rye | 364,178 | 570,446 |
| Hay | 13,983,546 | 14,828,188 |
| Potatoes | 5,484,130 | 3,857,667 |
| Buckwheat | 214,630 | 129,652 |
| Total | $35,011,681 | $36,940,201 |
| Increase in crops specified | | $2,928,620 |
| Increase in farm animals | | 10,964,896 |
| Total | | $14,893,516 |

MINNESOTA.

| Crop. | Value December 1, 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Corn | 8,644,925 | $7,481,192 |
| Oats | 5,434,950 | 11,591,433 |
| Barley | 2,268,670 | 2,524,679 |
| Rye | 333,031 | 467,238 |
| Hay | 9,663,337 | 11,202,238 |
| Potatoes | 1,116,000 | 2,722,142 |
| Buckwheat | 77,907 | 190,662 |
| Total | $27,498,126 | $36,089,628 |
| Increase in crops specified | | $2,590,402 |
| Increase in farm animals | | 18,705,581 |
| Total | | $22,298,983 |

MISSOURI.

| Crop. | Value December 1, 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Corn | $13,332,729 | $48,874,619 |
| Oats | 1,274,053 | 1,844 |
| Barley | 3,498 | 6,449 |
| Rye | 36,055 | 63,720 |
| Hay | 15,996,276 | 18,329,962 |
| Potatoes | 1,435,969 | 2,502,500 |
| Buckwheat | 42,270 | 21,241 |
| Total | $32,002,279 | $72,879,327 |
| Increase in crops specified | | $19,377,048 |
| Increase in farm animals | | 8,451,649 |
| Total | | $27,829,097 |

MONTANA.

| Crop. | Value December 1, 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Corn | $26,784 | $18,921 |
| Oats | 945,729 | 993,812 |
| Barley | 78,389 | 110,367 |
| Rye | ..... | ..... |
| Hay | 3,271,675 | 3,967,260 |
| Potatoes | 269,345 | 343,534 |
| Buckwheat | ..... | ..... |
| Total | $4,686,812 | $5,333,904 |
| Increase in crops specified | | $748,092 |
| Increase in farm animals | | 11,359,583 |
| Total | | $12,106,675 |

NEBRASKA.

| Crop. | Value December 1, 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Corn | $38,817,953 | $61,600,852 |
| Oats | 3,700,389 | 11,324,206 |
| Barley | 172,478 | 293,853 |
| Rye | 232,289 | 228,200 |
| Hay | 7,930,916 | 13,487,483 |
| Potatoes | 3,345,715 | 3,232,666 |
| Buckwheat | 65,640 | 99,852 |
| Total | 4,614,216 | $79,016,796 |
| Increase in crops specified | | $35,699,570 |
| Increase in farm animals | | 43,222,839 |
| Total | | $78,921,409 |

PENNSYLVANIA.

| Crop. | Value December 1, 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Corn | $17,316,760 | $16,594,908 |
| Oats | 8,840,337 | 11,352,020 |
| Barley | 76,627 | 88,124 |
| Rye | 2,119,542 | 2,007,406 |
| Hay | 32,960,581 | 35,292,155 |
| Potatoes | 5,718,896 | 6,504,946 |
| Buckwheat | 1,660,103 | 2,616,624 |
| Total | $68,597,436 | $74,417,977 |
| Increase in crops specified | | $5,910,541 |
| Increase in farm animals | | 17,154,187 |
| Total | | $23,044,728 |

SOUTH DAKOTA.

| Crop. | Value December 1, 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Corn | $5,804,621 | $7,804,628 |
| Oats | 2,384,498 | 3,528,421 |
| Barley | 628,660 | 660,002 |
| Rye | 8,212 | 13,803 |
| Hay | 8,271,968 | 8,616,369 |
| Potatoes | 1,096,344 | 1,198,940 |
| Buckwheat | ..... | ..... |
| Total | $18,044,283 | $21,808,764 |
| Increase in crops specified | | $3,814,471 |
| Increase in farm animals | | 19,359,900 |
| Total | | $13,174,371 |

WASHINGTON.

| Crop. | Value December 1, 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Corn | $54,468 | $70,662 |
| Oats | 1,207,109 | 1,152,147 |
| Barley | 416,972 | 620,568 |
| Rye | 18,112 | 21,662 |
| Hay | 4,027,259 | 6,481,610 |
| Potatoes | 712,509 | 1,988,528 |
| Total | $6,446,500 | $9,316,469 |
| Increase in crops specified | | $2,869,969 |
| Increase in farm animals | | 5,028,480 |
| Total | | $7,898,449 |

WISCONSIN.

| Crop. | Value December 1, 1896. | 1899. |
|---|---|---|
| Corn | $9,656,816 | $12,066,910 |
| Oats | 11,662,866 | 16,088,997 |
| Barley | 2,414,952 | 3,062,220 |
| Rye | 1,559,387 | 1,476,100 |
| Hay | 11,817,335 | 13,386,918 |
| Potatoes | 2,397,164 | 4,199,705 |
| Buckwheat | 226,489 | 232,346 |
| Total | $37,763,937 | $50,421,395 |
| Increase in crops specified | | $12,657,458 |
| Increase in farm animals | | 28,767,009 |
| Total | | $41,464,677 |

THE COTTON STATES.

The splendid prosperity that has come to the cotton-growing states of the union under the gold standard and McKinley administration is shown in the following figures. Many of these states grow large corn and other crops, but we have only compiled the figures on their great staple and leading crop—cotton, comparing the years 1896 and 1899. The cotton figures for 1900 are supplied by Latham, Alexander & Co., of New York, the others being from the Department of Agriculture.

ALABAMA.

| | |
|---|---|
| Value cotton crop, 1899-1900 | $49,246,900 |
| Value cotton crop, 1898-1899 | 28,280,766 |
| Increase in cotton | $11,965,295 |
| Increase in farm animals | 2,548,727 |
| Total | $14,316,022 |

ARKANSAS.

AMERICA IN THE ORIENT.

Our Position as a World Power and Our Possibilities in the Markets of the World.

MUST HAVE PROSPERITY AT HOME.

[By Hon. J. Sloat Fassett, of Elmira, N. Y.]

During the administration of President McKinley great and important changes have been taking place in the general estimate put by the Orient upon the United States of America.

Previous to 1896 there was prevalent only a vague notion of our wealth and our power as a nation. It was generally understood that we were great money-makers, manufacturers and traders; that we had a small and inefficient army and a small and untried navy. Compared with the military and naval strength and display of European nations, and compared with the diplomatic equipment of these nations, the United States suffered in the minds of most Orientals, who are profoundly impressible by the outward and showy demonstrations of wealth and power and the disposition and ability to use them.

Since the resurrection of industrial activity, due to Republican policies under President McKinley's administration, and more emphatically since the demonstration of our vast military and naval resources in the Spanish and Philippine wars, a new and truer conception of our power and dignity as a nation has taken deep root in the Oriental world, as indeed it has throughout all the world. New consideration has been extended to our diplomatic, consular and military and naval representatives abroad. Traveling Americans have been treated with increased respect. Greater interest has been manifested in American machinery and manufactures and wider fields have been opened for the investment of American capital and the operations of American enterprise.

It is understood that America has no sinister designs, politically or territorially, upon the Oriental states, but that her interests are all in the line of universal peace and general order and security for the purposes of mutual intercourse and trade. The change of attitude from tolerant indifference to solicitous friendliness has already greatly increased existing sources of trade and opened up many new ones. This change of front, which is so manifest is to deeply impress Americans who have long been in the East, comes at a time when existing conditions at home are more happily fitted to enable us to avail ourselves of it than for many years. The return of prosperity at home, due to an honest monetary standard and a protective tariff, has enabled our merchants, manufacturers and investors to reach out into the new and attractive fields of the Orient as never before.

We have impressed the East with our power, our wealth, our restlessness and our

BRYAN KNIFED THE FARMER

How He Helped to Slash the Tariff on Farm Products in 1894

Bryan has been telling the farmers of the West that when he served on the Ways and Means Committee in 1894, nobody appeared to look after the interests of the farmers. Perhaps that was the reason Bryan and his associates knifed the farmers so frequently in revising the tariff. Certainly Bryan did not look after their interests, as a comparative showing of tariff rates will attest.

The farmers got Protection under the Republican McKinley and Dingley tariffs. Bryan took it away from them in the Wilson bill of 1894. Thus:

TARIFF RATES ON FARM PRODUCTS.

| | Wilson-Gorman Act of 1894. | | Dingley Act of 1897. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Horses and mules | 20% ad val. | | $30.00 per head. |
| Cattle one year old or over | 10.00 | " | 27½% ad val. |
| Calves (under one year) | 2.00 | " | $2.00 per head. |
| Sheep | 1.50 | " | 1.50 " |
| Hogs | 1.50 | " | 1.50 " |
| Barley | 30 per bush. | | 30 " |
| Buckwheat | 30 | " | 30 " |
| Corn | .15 | " | 15 " |
| Oats | .15 | " | 15 " |
| Wheat | .25 | " | 25 " |
| Potatoes | 25c per bush. | | 25c " |
| Onions | .40 | " | .40 " |
| Beans | .40 | " | .40 " |
| Peas, green | .40 | " | .40 " |
| Peas, dried | .40 | " | .40 " |
| Cabbage | .40 each. | | .40 each. |
| Other vegetables | 25% ad val. | | 25% ad val. |
| Apples, green or ripe | .25 per bush. | | .25 per bush. |
| Apples, dried | .02 per lb. | | .02 per lb. |
| Eggs | .05 per doz. | | .05 per doz. |
| Poultry, live | .02 per lb. | | .03 per lb. |
| Poultry, dressed | .02 " | | .05 " |
| Bacon and hams | 20% ad val. | | .05 " |
| Lard | .02 " | | 20% ad val. |
| | | | .02 " |
| | | | 1c per lb. |

TAXING DEMOCRATIC CLERKS

A Washington dispatch says the Democratic advice in the Departments are in receipt of the Democratic form a well known as one of Bryan's most intimate friends:

"120-131 B street SE, Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—Dear Friend: I willing to have you call at my office between the hours of 1 and 5 o'clock p. m. at your earliest convenience, on a matter of important business.

"C. T. BRIDE."

When Democrat called Mr. Bride would, it is said, tell him that the Democrats were hard pushed for money for conducting the campaign, and he thought every Democrat employed in the departments here should contribute to the campaign fund.

"You know I am one of Mr. Bryan's closest friends, and in the event of his election I will be in a position to help you out," added Mr. Bride.

This, of course, was construed as a promise of material assistance in event of a contribution and the election of Mr. Bryan

A CANDID CANDIDATE

Mr. Bryan as a candidate professes to be very candid, and glories in the fact that the whole world knows precisely where he stands, and yet his position on every really important matter before the

JEFFERSON AND McKINLEY

Their Actions Compared in Regard to "Entangling Foreign Alliances"

"Jefferson said: 'Peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations, entangling alliances with none.' We approve this wholesome doctrine' and we specifically condemn the proposed Republican alliance with England."—Kansas City Platform.

The Jefferson, whose words are thus cited to denounce entangling alliances, himself contemplated a formal, indissoluble, entangling alliance with England, in connection with the Louisiana controversy, in case France closed to us the navigation of the Mississippi.

2 Adams, p. 3 & 46.

Our forefathers' doctrine of opposition to "entangling alliances" merely meant

BRYAN'S WHITE MAN'S GOVERNMENT

Labor Has Experienced One of Them But Never Wants to Have Both

In 1892 the Democrats triumphed on a platform which pledged their party to the enactment of a low revenue or Free Trade tariff bill. A bill slightly tinctured with what had been promised was passed, but the disaster occasioned by that bill to the business and industrial interests of the country was such that, in 1894, the party was defeated by an overwhelming majority.

In 1896, without confessing that their tariff views were wrong, they abandoned free trade and shouted free silver, possibly as a cloak to conceal their purpose with reference to the tariff, assuring that free silver would give relief from the conditions produced by their sad free trade experiment.

When sound money triumphed, the Democrats without confessing their error on the question of free trade, their slogan in 1892, or free silver, their paramount issue in 1896, come up again in 1900 with another issue. They have not renounced either free trade or free silver, for both are in their platform at the present

OLD SOLDIER STANDS UP FOR OUR NATIONAL HONOR

Colonel William Colville of Bellingham, Washington, writes: "I was a veteran of the United States land office at Duluth during President Cleveland's administration, will support President McKinley. Colonel Colville is an old soldier and was wounded at Gettysburg. His opinion of Bryan is as follows: "I cannot support any man who favors 16 or any of its candidates. I feel proud of our whole country when the Spaniards surrender to the islands and China. Our army never has been and never will be

MINNESOTA FARMER TELLS THE TRUTH ABOUT BRYAN

A. H. Hulls of Winonebago City, Minn., who was a Democrat, voted Lincoln for Congress in 1885, and who has been a Free Trade Democrat since joining the Civil War, is out for McKinley. Mr. Hulls is a farmer in the Northwest state. He says: "It is this way. In the first place the prosperity of the day, particularly the farmers, are prosperous and generally contented. The administration of President McKinley, it seems to me, has been honorable and businesslike, which fact has, without a doubt, contributed largely to this prosperous and healthy condition. I believe in letting well enough alone. In the second place, while I am a farmer, and rather old-fashioned and conservative, yet I am not afraid of expansion. It seems reasonable that more territory, particularly countries which do not raise what we produce must abundantly would make us a better and more market. I cannot see why it is not just as wise for a nation to expand and new individuals to take up in one form of progression and acquisition as it is for a young man fresh from the Pacific ocean big enough to set down on, and to begin a business, about such a sentiment that is inconsistent with true Democracy of the past or present. I could not stand for Bryan's expansion views or theories because they are not only narrow, insular and retrogressive, but many of them are false. No sir, I shall vote for McKinley. I have no use for a man who used all his influence to secure the adoption of the Paris treaty knowing as well as any one else what the consequences might be, and one is finding fault with the administration for dealing in the only honorable way with those consequences."

DR. JOHN W. TRADER

Judge L. C. Whitney of Washington Has Become a Convert to Republicanism

Announcing his change of faith, Judge L. C. Whitney of Washington said in a recent speech:

"I cast my first vote for Horace Greeley, and at all the political obsequies since, with but two exceptions, I have been there to furnish the corpse, and sat in the front seats among the mourners. The corpse in each case was awfully tired. The weary feeling would naturally often be manifested by the mourners, and the new associates we acquired in these years and the company some of others we have espoused, I stick to it through all, but, as I said, and never recant what I, or my party, was wrong. But events came as swift and startling after 1896 that the light penetrated even my political spectacles.

"The wonderful results of the application of the wise business method to the administration of public affairs by our political statesman, President William McKinley, was such a swift, sharp and complete answer and refutation of all our fears and prophecies of that year that even a Democrat was forced to acknowledge. (Applause.) We helped impatiently after his assassination for the relief of government the paralyzed and unbusinessed, and the disorganized, life and activity, as if touched by a magician's wand; idle and hopeless labor

DUELEUW V. MAYNARD, JR.

Begs the Voters to Help Him Beat Bill McKinley's Full Dinner Pail

"By the tender memories of our sainted copperhead sires, by the glorious traditions of old Hickory Jackson and the early fathers of the republic, I conjure you, fellow-single-taxers, to refer round the banner of Karl Shirtz, Secretary Bardwell, Dr. Hughes, Gamaliel Bradford, Moorefield Story and the Doctor Bonds of Anti-Imperialism and Mugwumpe, and support me for the treasury and defeat Bill McKinley.

"If I can't make the rifle this fall I'm a busted Boy Orator and will have to hike back to Nebraska.

"By the dear and venerated shades of Aaron Burr and Benedict Arnold I charge you to chase round the Stadium of Agitualia, and elect me President and I will withdraw the American Soldiers from the Philippines, and scuttle home and let Germany and England seize the islands for which we spent so much treasure and shed so much innocent blood, and back down and crawfish before the nations of the Earth.

"The Free Silver issue, I regret to say has petered out. The Boom breed are also a thing of the past in the unfettered region of Bramaghan's Patch, and the Full Dinner Pail of Bill McKinley has punctured the Windy Nasdats and the Joy Spellsbiner.

"Never more can I stir up the shiftless rabble denouncing the Wall Street Shylocks and money sharks, or starting an elegant rattlon between the Eastern Plutocrat and the Kansas Populist.

"Cheap money has finished out like Rudyard Kipling and too many McKinley Prosperity has ruined the Democratic curbstone speechifier and Andrew and Karl Shirtz see our only hope of reaching the promised land, Andrew against the fat offices and turning the rascals out in the street."

"Mite I as a fellow Single Taxer ask a question," said a public, catching the Boy Kruncifixer's eye with all ends optic and hearing him to the speech.

"Certainly," says Wilyum Jennins Bryan longfelling, "and I two if you like and be quick about it."

"Wot abolished the Soup houses on Rainbow Hill and started the Soup Mills in South Chicago running night and day, and brought back Prosperity to the Horny handed toiler and gave him constant employment at the Full Dinner Pail, was it Ed Atkinson or Sinathor Hanna?" he asked.

"No," see the Boy Kruncifixer, bearing to weird mysteries, "I mean my Sinathor Bostwell or the Boston Bunch of Bean Eaters."

"Was it Aguinaldo or his right hower Karl Shirtz?" see I.

"No," see he solemnly taking a chew of fine cut and brovvling Darkly at a hornet buzzing in the front row, "it was neither Karl Shirtz or Bonnie Aguinaldo or Admiral Dewey."

"Then, you in the blue blazes was it?" Kride I asked. "Somebody must be in the billing deal, I tell thee to your face and beg our next President to succeed Bill McKinley."

"It was Mark Hanna and the Money Power," ondly see the Boy Kruncifixer, solemnly wiping away a lotney juicy tear that ripped down his alabaster jaw, and one hawky finged Taxer in the front seat, with a copious bunch of fiery red whiskers streaming down his vest like a Halsted Street torch light procession on a windy night, groaned a ghastly grave yard groan and Kride asoud.

"Down with the Wall street Shylocs and Money sharks and the Whisky Trust and

Bryan's Plan for Lowering Duties Would Destroy Protective Tariff.

The all-important question that overshadows all other issues to be decided at the approaching November election is the manner in which the Democratic party proposes to deal with trusts. Instead of framing a law to prohibit trusts and combinations of capital against labor in the Democratic platform they propose to make all articles manufactured by trusts free of duty, and in W. J. Bryan's letter of acceptance he announces about everything that is or can be manufactured by men as produced by huge and gigantic trusts.

Now, if Bryan is correct, it will destroy the tariff to place them all on the free list, and yet Germany and England seize the islands for which we spent so much treasure and shed so much innocent blood, and back down and crawfish before the nations of the Earth.

"The Free Silver issue, I regret to say has petered out. The Boom breed are also a thing of the past in the unfettered region of Bramaghan's Patch, and the Full Dinner Pail of Bill McKinley has punctured the Windy Nasdats and the Joy Spellsbiner.

"Never more can I stir up the shiftless rabble denouncing the Wall Street Shylocks and money sharks, or starting an elegant rattlon between the Eastern Plutocrat and the Kansas Populist.

"Cheap money has finished out like Rudyard Kipling and too many McKinley Prosperity has ruined the Democratic curbstone speechifier and Andrew and Karl Shirtz see our only hope of reaching the promised land, Andrew against the fat offices and turning the rascals out in the street."

"Mite I as a fellow Single Taxer ask a question," says a public, catching the Boy Kruncifixer's eye with all ends optic and hearing him to the speech.

"Certenly," see Wilyum Jennins Bryan longfeling, "and I two if you like and be quick about it."

"Wot abolished the Soup houses on Rainbow Hill and started the Soup Mills in South Chicago running night and day, and brought back Prosperity to the Horny handed toiler and gave him constant employment at the Full Dinner Pail, was it Ed Atkinson or Sinathor Hanna?" he asked.

"No," see the Boy Kruncifixer, bearing to weird mysteries, "I mean my Sinathor Bostwell or the Boston Bunch of Bean Eaters."

"Was it Aguinaldo or his right hower Karl Shirtz?" see I.

"No," see he solemnly taking a chew of fine cut and brovvling Darkly at a hornet buzzing in the front row, "it was not Karl Shirtz or Bonnie Aguinaldo or Admiral Dewey."

"Then, you in the blue blazes was it?" Kride I aloud. "Somebody must be in the billing deal. I tell thee to your face and beg our next President to succeed Bill McKinley."

"It was Mark Hanna and the Money Power," ondly see the Boy Kruncifixer, solemnly wiping away a lotney juicy tear that ripped down his alabaster jaw, and one hawky finged Taxer in the front seat, with a copious bunch of fiery red whiskers streaming down his vest like a Halsted Street torch light procession on a windy night, groaned a ghastly grave yard groan and Kride aloud.

"Down with the Wall street Shylocs and Money sharks and the Whisky Trust and

"By the tender memories of our sainted copperhead sires, by the glorious traditions of old Hickory Jackson and the early fathers of the republic, I conjure you, fellow single-taxers, to refer round the banner of Karl Shirtz, Secretary Bardwell, Dr. Hughes, Gamaliel Bradford, Moorefield Story and the Doctor Bonds of Anti-Imperialism and Mugwumpe, and support me for the treasury and defeat Bill McKinley."

"If I can't make the rifle this fall I'm a busted Boy Orator and will have to hike back to Nebraska.

"By the dear and venerated shades of Aaron Burr and Benedict Arnold I charge you to chase round the Stadium of Agitualia, and elect me President and I will withdraw the American Soldiers from the Philippines, and scuttle home and let Germany and England seize the islands for which we spent so much treasure and shed so much innocent blood, and back down and crawfish before the nations of the Earth.

"The Free Silver issue, I regret to say has petered out. The Boom breed are also a thing of the past in the unfettered region of Bramaghan's Patch, and the Full Dinner Pail of Bill McKinley has punctured the Windy Nasdats and the Joy Spellsbiner.

"Never more can I stir up the shiftless rabble denouncing the Wall Street Shylocks and money sharks, or starting an elegant rattlon between the Eastern Plutocrat and the Kansas Populist.

"Cheap money has finished out like Rudyard Kipling and too many McKinley Prosperity has ruined the Democratic curbstone speechifier and Andrew and Karl Shirtz see our only hope of reaching the promised land, Andrew against the fat offices and turning the rascals out in the street."

"Mite I as a fellow Single Taxer ask a question," see a public, catching the Boy Kruncifixer's eye with all ends optic and hearing him to the speech.

"Certenly," see Wilyum Jennins Bryan longfeling, "and I two if you like and be quick about it."

"Wot abolished the Soup houses on Rainbow Hill and started the Soup Mills in South Chicago running night and day, and brought back Prosperity to the Horny handed toiler and gave him constant employment at the Full Dinner Pail, was it Ed Atkinson or Sinathor Hanna?" he asked.

"No," see the Boy Kruncifixer, bearing to weird mysteries, "I mean my Sinathor Bostwell or the Boston Bunch of Bean Eaters."

"Was it Aguinaldo or his right hower Karl Shirtz?" see I.

"No," see he solemnly taking a chew of fine cut and brovvling Darkly at a hornet buzzing in the front row, "it was not Karl Shirtz or Bonnie Aguinaldo or Admiral Dewey."

"Then, you in the blue blazes was it?" Kride I aloud. "Somebody must be in the billing deal. I tell thee to your face and beg our next President to succeed Bill McKinley."

"It was Mark Hanna and the Money Power," ondly see the Boy Kruncifixer, solemnly wiping away a lotney juicy tear that ripped down his alabaster jaw, and one hawky finged Taxer in the front seat, with a copious bunch of fiery red whiskers streaming down his vest like a Halsted Street torch light procession on a windy night, groaned a ghastly grave yard groan and Kride aloud.

"Down with the Wall street Shylocs and Money sharks and the Whisky Trust and

E75R X-E738 .R4

PRESIDENT McKINLEY EXPOSES ATTACK ON GOLD STANDARD

Shows How the Democratic Tri-Partite Alliance Would Quickly Attack the Currency

SPLENDID SHOWING OF PROSPERITY

The President's letter of acceptance opens with the silver question, saying that in 1896 the friends of the gold standard and sound currency were triumphant and that the country enjoys the fruits of the victory, but that our antagonists compel a second battle on the same lines.

"Reopening of this question, which can only disturb the present satisfactory financial condition of the government and visit uncertainty upon our great business enterprises, we accept the issue and again invite the sound money forces to join in winning another and we hope a permanent triumph for an honest financial system which will continue inviolable the public faith."

The Violent Revolutionary Language of the Try-partite Party Alliance

Immediately after the election of 1896 Mr. Bryan issued an address to the silver party, saying they had not been vanquished, and that he believed the gold standard a conspiracy of the money changers against the welfare of the human race, and that the warfare against it would be continued. The platform of the Democracy and their allies, in 1900, continues the warfare upon sound money, and says its supporters repeat the demand of the Chicago platform:

"For an American financial system made by the American people for themselves, which shall restore and maintain a bimetallic price level; and as part of such system the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present ratio of 16 to 1."

The Paramount Issue Is Not Business—The Silver Mania Demands "Immediate" War on the Gold Standard

The President calls attention to the fact that this is a demand

"For the immediate restoration of the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1. If another issue is paramount, this is immediate. It will admit of no delay and will suffer no postponement."

The President's sentence, "If another issue is paramount this is immediate," is a felicity in stating a most important point already famous. The President turns his opponent's flank and shatters his line of battle with one sentence of eight words.

According to Mr. Bryan's three parties hammered into one, Aguinaldo's cause might be postponed for a few days, but for no reason in the world can the 16 to 1 assault upon the public honor and credit wait for time or opportunity. The storming parties must advance immediately.

The Populist platform reaffirms the old battle order of the assailants of sound money and explains how the war is to be carried on, and gives this detail of how is is to be done. First:

"The immediate increase in the volume of silver coins and certificates thus created to be substituted dollar for dollar for the bank notes issued by private corporations under special privileges."

This more than confirms what Secretary Gage said of the silver danger. The plan is, and the Populists are very kind to point it out with precision, to force the retirement of national bank notes by the substitution of silver dollars.

The President quotes the silver party at Kan-

The President's patriotic citizens, Thos. S. Lewis, "believes it to be the duty of men who have the interest and welfare of country at heart to lend what aid they can to re-elect our President." Mr. Obear of the Obear-Nester Glass Company in charge employer of labor. He speaks to his fellow-workmen as follows:

Republican National Committee, Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen: Believing it to be the duty of all men, who have the interest and welfare of country at heart, to lend what aid they can to re-elect our President, we enclose what we consider a practical lesson in prosperity under a practical lesson in prosperity under our present administration.

Permitting to you the statement of wages paid in the years 1892 to 1896, we wish to state that after the passage of the Wilson bill, under the Democratic administration, we were compelled to reduce the wages of our skilled workmen, reducing their wages ranging a reduction to them of 9 and according to the class of work they performed. It was very hard for us to keep our operation and we were only enabled to keep our operation and by working very hard to dispose of our product. Our materials and purchases prices declined to the lowest ebb ever heard of, declining in some cases 25 and 30%.

The McKinley administration we have been enabled to increase our product by the capacity of our plant. We have paid the wages of our skilled workmen, giving them now the highest wages ever paid them, with the exception of on one class of work, paying them 5% less than the highest wages ever paid them. Our sales last year were 50% greater than any previous year. The materials that enter into the manufacture of our product, including fuel, has advanced 30 to 40%. The price of our product, notwithstanding new methods of manufacturing, notwithstanding the increased cost of production, has declined only from 5 to 10% to the con-

Commenced business in 1891 and, of each year would show an enlarged business for the first few years. You will note that the statement that the year 1896 to 1900, during the McKinley administration, was a great falling off in skilled labor. This was partly due to one of our works being destroyed by fire and out of operation for a time, and partly to dispute as to the amount of wages for skilled labor. You see that from there on, since the McKinley administration got into good working order the Dingley tariff bill was passed, a large number each year in both skilled and unskilled labor during the year ending September 1st, 1900, paid out in wages, not including officers, a total amount of $160,507.50, $224,949.00 for the year ending September 1st, 1895, which was a fair average of our business under a democratic administration.

We wish furthermore to state that we are members of any trust and that there is no such thing as the bottle manufacturing business. We think that the intelligence of the workmen of our country is such that they will come home to him the evidence of practical prosperity, he will not be carried away by the cry of the populistic democratic party, socialism, millinarism, etc., to the extent of voting against what we consider the greatest good to both the employer and employee, of the Dingley and Free Silver, but will cast his vote in favor of the grand old party that has the solid rock, "Protection to Home Industry, American Labor."

STATEMENT OF WAGES PAID.

| Year | Skilled Labor. | Unskilled Labor. |
|---|---|---|
| 1893 | $32,005.59 | $22,000.35 |
| 1894 | 43,805.45 | 20,424.10 |
| 1895 | 48,834.67 | 23,414.40 |
| 1896 | 51,047.85 | 24,763.65 |
| 1897 | 59,020.85 | 24,406.65 |
| 1898 | 55,026.75 | 30,470.77 |
| 1899 | 56,196.66 | 31,428.74 |

E759.R
X-E738
R4

BRYAN IS FOR FREE TRADE

An Absolute Free Trader, No Difference What It May Cost American Labor —Fanatically Opposed to Protection Regardless of Its Benefit to Industry and Labor.

In one of Bryan's speeches in Congress, he said:

"I WANT TO STATE AS EMPHATICALLY AS WORDS CAN STATE THAT I CONSIDER IT AS FALSE IN ECONOMY AND VICIOUS IN POLICY TO ATTEMPT TO RAISE AT A HIGH PRICE IN THIS COUNTRY THAT WHICH WE CAN PURCHASE ABROAD AT A LOW PRICE IN EXCHANGE FOR THE PRODUCT OF OUR TOIL."

There you are. Free Trade, pure and simple, and the repeal of all duties enacted to keep higher wages in this country than abroad.

Even more specific is the following from his speech in the House of Representatives, on March 16, 1892 (Congressional Record, Vol. 122, page 2129):

"What I denounce is a protective tariff levied purely and solely for the purpose of protection. It is false economy and the most vicious political principle that ever cursed this country. I am ready to stand by it anywhere, that a tariff levied, not to raise revenue, but to protect some particular industry, is wrong in principle and vicious in practice."

As an explanation why he could hold such sentiments, Bryan took as a text and motto for his free trade speech of January 13, 1894, the following from Proverbs (Congressional Record, Vol. 26, Part 1, page 219):

"BETTER IS LITTLE WITH RIGHTEOUSNESS THAN GREAT REVENUES WITHOUT RIGHT."

As if American workmen must give up their high wages as not right, and come down to the foreign level in the name of religion. A man who talks this way may be sincere, but he is dangerous. Let workingmen beware of the fanatic, possessed, as he is, with the idea that the high wages of this country are not right and must be reduced in the name of religion. Free trade appeals to not across him of that, but point to his words where he himself says it most explicitly.

Fanaticism is never so dangerous as when it gets to quoting religion.

LET LABOR BEWARE OF BRYAN.

BRYAN'S PROTECTION METHOD

He Has "Government By Injunction" to Protect His Copyright—Common Law Suits Would Not Suffice—Enjoying Protection Himself He Would Deny It To Others—"All Rights Reserved" By Bryan.

The protection which William J. Bryan secured when he copyrighted his book is of an extraordinary character.

First, Bryan's monopoly in the book is not left to the ordinary protection of the law, but is specially secured through "government by injunction"—the precise thing which he and his party denounce.

If anyone should venture to infringe on Bryan's monopoly and reprint his book, an injunction would be clapped on the infringer forthwith.

Manufacturers have no such protection as this.

In the second place, Bryan's protection is unlimited, whereas manufacturers are only protected up to a certain point. If a manufacturer raises his price beyond the level covered by the tariff duty, the foreign article at once comes in end competes against him.

Not so with Bryan's copyrighted book. Let him charge what he pleases, there is still no competition. He can demand any price and the buyer has no choice, but to pay it or go without the book.

It is right that authors should have this special protection, and be shielded by injunction. The shame is that William J. Bryan, in the full enjoyment of such protection and getting rich by it, should go around the country demanding that protection be taken away from other people, and abrogating the legal process which is the only adequate defense of his copyright—government by injunction.

BRYAN'S DOUBLE TRUST TRICK

Bryan is prating of a federal license law for trusts as if it would be a measure of unlooked constitutionality. Yet they differed was his at the Chicago Democratic Conference a year ago. He admitted then that there was the gravest doubt about it. "I am not sure that the remedy I propose is unconstitutional." That was his language then. He continued:

"The supreme court did not say that a broader law than the present one would be unconstitutional. It is true there are some things in the opinion which indicate that, until that question is presented to the court you cannot say that the court has passed upon it. It is also true that Justice Harlan, in his dissenting opinion, assumed that a broader law would be unconstitutional."

Hence the strongest argument he could make in favor of his license scheme a year ago was that he was "not sure it was unconstitutional," and was willing to take decisive chances, admitting that indications were all against him.

"We are not met here to destroy the trusts." So said the Nebraskan, trying to lure Republicans into his license scheme. Doubts, great doubts! "But what is the alternative? Sit down and do nothing?" So said Bryan.

Not able to get Republicans to go into a scheme which he admitted to be doubtful, he now turns on them for rejecting the plan which he himself discarded when half praise.

This is the same Bryan who, when the Republicans proposed a constitutional amendment as a safe and secure foundation for anti-trust bills, including any such plan as his, forthwith went back on the whole thing.

Not many politicians would play as scurvy a trick as he has on the trust question.

WAYSIDE POLITICIANS DISCUSS FREE SILVER.

Overworked Statesman—Well, Innocent, I suppose you are going to vote with us this fall?

Innocent Smith—Wall, I donno as to that yit. What's yure racket this time?

Overworked Statesman—Free silver.

Innocent Smith—Wall, that sounds nice. I'm for anything good that yore feels. But my ole pap used to tell me there was suthin' true hit and wuhst. I drawed the line on free water when I had to pay a dollar a foot for hunkin' a well through a ledge of rock that undertays my dooryard. Air ain't so free neither, if a feller wants a good quality. We-all pay a dime to git yure free silver? What's the is the poor man's money, I don't see why we oughtn't keep it just as good as the rich man's gold. And I don't see where's the sense in Uncle Sam givin' his money fur a passel of silver, and payin' twice as much as it's worth in the market. Seems to me it's a durn fool idee. Why does he want to buy it at all, anyhow? It does want to buy it, why doesn't he buy it for 1, like other buyers, and coin the hull own hook? No, Overworkt, I haven't got no silver, nor silver mine, nor any scrap metal, to onload on to the gurvernment. I'm a poor feller myself and coin jine yore fur a while. If you'll git up a scheme to coin any corn, stainin' bushels o'corn for a bushel of silver, and git Uncle Sam to back the enterprise with his name, it would be more persuadin', and strike me where I'ts have ought to be well after corn-outfin' season is over. But I can't see how free coinage of silver at sixteen to one, which you say means nuther free nor silver, free coinage, or sixteen to one.

Besides, you know, I was in the shelter the poorest boy in the land may aspire to the highest place in the government of the republic. The citizenship that comes out of the schools of the country is the hope of the country. When our war commenced in 1861—the Civil War—the young men from the colleges and universities in every part of the North enlisted under the banner of liberty. When our recent war with Spain commenced, the young men from the schools and colleges, and from the universities, and from every rank and station in life, enlisted to carry forward that banner of liberty into a foreign land, and die, if need be, for the honor of the republic. It is a glorious citizenship we have. It meets every emergency and responds to every crisis in the life of the nation. The American people have never failed, no matter how great the emergency, no matter how grave the crisis, to measure up to the highest responsibilities of manhood and duty.—President McKinley's Speech at Ames, Iowa, October 11, 1898.

TAILORS FOR McKINLEY.

The following statement was made by one of the leading merchant tailors of Salem City, Ohio, describing the conditions between conditions this year and in 1896:

"Tailors are affected by hard times sooner than any other class of business men. In 1896 I bought goods for suits at their present prices, and could get two tailors to one job, at my own price; for there was no business to encourage the employment of tailors even at the low prices then prevailing. I can behind in business, nevertheless, I bought the cheap goods and cheap labor. This was the general report from all tailors throughout the country; at least one-third of them failed in business.

"Since 1896 times have changed. To-day the price of goods is high; there is an increased demand for them; and labor is scarce even at high wages. Tailors are now so scarce that I am putting in my establishment a boss to my tailors, in order to hold them.

"In 1896 I voted for Bryan, as a Democrat, but this year my vote, and the vote of practically every tailor in America, will be for McKinley and prosperity."

SOME ADVICE TO THE G. O. P.

Say, G. O. P.
Do you see
That geese there,
Playing you for fair?
That big one, see,
With the heavy b'Gee
Style? Hip chin stuck out
Like a bull-pup's snout
And his heavy, wise
Shoulders swinging from side to side;
And a stride on him, that would shock
A fighting cock.
As he walks
And talks,
My word,
He's a bird;
Listen to his lay:
"I'm the Democrat
He's going to punch in the slats.
Aw, don't throw yore hat
Fer yore coins to stay;
Nuthin' is up to me,
But I kin see,
Yet I can't down,
In country or town.
Say,
G'way;
N' way quick,
Er I'll make yer sick.
That's me,
See?
Who's do row?
Wot wo'ks entirr pouse anyhow?
Do you see this, G. O. P.?
Are you on to his gooey tweedledee?
Are you on to his friend
Who's making his talk
For sal
The parties you must fight this Fall?
You think he's all right,
Do you?
Well, I'm not.
That's what
Your betrow is over-confident.
He's Big Sam Sassy
From Sassyville
And the graft he's giving you
Will break your neck
And leave you busted in the wreck.
If you listen to what
He tells you in true,
When you know it's not,
You want to chuck him,
And chuck him now.
Can't you see he's nothing but wind
And words?
Go throw him to the birds.
He's the bird
That goes it blind;
And when he real scrap begins,
Where the ready slide wins,
You'll be ready
Now, hark,
We've got no easy mark
In the job before you;
And if
You think you'll not get a biff
In the jaw,
Good and raw,
Well, you don't know
Holly Gee;
Yes, G. O. P.,
You'd better brace
Up a bit
Or you will be spit
While open; and you want to whack
This Over-confidence in the hack
And break him in two,
P. d. q.
Or you
Will be getting the tin le too
And the little change
And the rat-a-tats
Ketchum.

STEVENSON BEATEN OFTEN.

Claim that Adlai Has a Rabbit's Foot His No Foundation.

Regarding the claim that Adlai E. Stevenson has never been defeated for any office for which he has ever been a candidate, there is this to say:

The first important office to which Mr. Stevenson was nominated was that of presidential elector in Illinois, on the ticket with McClellan, on a platform declaring the Civil War a failure and demanding its immediate termination, and the withdrawal of the Union troops from the Southern States. Notwithstanding all this, Mr. Stevenson was defeated along with his colleagues. Two years later he began his successive career as a candidate for Congress, the record of which is briefly this: Elected as a greenbacker in 1874, he ran for re-election in 1876 and was defeated. In 1878, the banner year for the greenback party in the country, Mr. Stevenson was elected, and was beaten when a candidate for re-election in 1880, as he was again in 1882. Nominated in 1884 for Congress in Illinois, in the three which were the most important he was beaten. He was twice elected in 1890 years."

PORTO RICO IS SATISFIED.

Dr. J. H. Hollander, treasurer of the school of Porto Rico, and formerly associate professor of economics of the Johns Hopkins University, delivered an address to graduate students of the university a few evenings ago, on the condition of the island. After describing the manner of government and the conditions of local self-government, he said:

"The condition of affairs is hopeful, and everywhere the best element of the island is rallying to the support of Mr. McKinley's administration. The feeling is growing among the people that the administration is doing its best to benefit the island. What Porto Rico needs is an intelligent appreciation of the real conditions of prosperity. I do not not think that an intelligent man could feel that the Porto Rico tariff was anything but a necessary fiscal device. We need 1,500,000 for the island if we are to accomplish anything. The alternatives of the tariff law were either a subsidy from the United States, or else the paperless status of the island. At the present time if the alternative were presented of derriving the necessary revenue from direct taxation or from the tariff, the decision would be overwhelmingly in favor of the tariff. The discontent that once existed was caused by the delay that occurred in taking any action at all."

EX-CONFEDERATE OFFICER

Gives His Reasons for Renouncing Democracy and Supporting McKinley.

[The following article is from the pen of a brave and conscientious officer and member of one of the Confederate regiments in the South, who never lost his allegiance to the Union. The article, originally, was published in the Chicago Tribune, Sept. 22, 1896.]

Theoretical reformers of all kinds are well. They are the educators of public opinion and indirectly they make a condition for the acceptance of a higher idea of government. They make a milder and more equitable government practical. When the people are strengthened in the understanding of and capability of submitting to a milder and more equitable government, the party of police can put in practice any new ideas that are deemed practical.

The Democratic party is a party of theories—regardless of facts as they actually exist or may exist to-morrow. With them, government must not conform to the conditions existing and necessary to be governed, but the governed must conform to a theory of government regardless of its adaptability to the genius, the moral and educational and social condition of the people to be governed.. Hence the Democratic party is not a practical secured party. It is good in its place; it administer some pretty theories and is educational. But when put in charge to administer the government, it has never failed to show itself impotent; and if continued in power and without serious attempt to put its theories in practice would most certainly bring destruction upon the country.

I believe in certain Democratic theories as theories, and wish that mankind could practically realize the realities in the truths as taught by Jesus and am sorry that they are not. But I know that since they are entirely impractical. Whether during 1900 years more men will have reached a sufficiently high place to be governed by Christian ideas I don't know. I am certain that if to-day a government should attempt to carry these truths into based, and attempt to govern accordingly, society would go to pieces and anarchy and movement would afford no protection to the rights of life and property. Right now, We would have but a repetition of the Paris Commune. There are many people in the world who are Christians, and their actions and lives show that they make no superficial impression on the moral condition. They cannot have an ideal government until men are angels. People cannot be made for any particular government. The government is made by the people, and must be adapted to conditions

E750.R

X-E738 .R4

BRYAN EXPOSED AS THE WORLD'S FALSE PROPHET

ALL HIS PREDICTIONS WERE WRONG.

Facts and Figures from Official Sources Show that No Faith or Reliance Can Be Placed in a Single Promise that Bryan Makes to the People.

HE IS A BIG DELUSION AND A SNARE.

Four years ago, when he was making his canvass for the Presidency, William J. Bryan, in a manner truly terrifying, pictured to his audiences the disaster which he said would befall the nation if free silver was repudiated at the polls. His predictions were shrieking and pentrabtic. They stirred the people deeply. They were made with the greatest force and fire. But a majority doubted, and the advocates of a sound monetary system were victorious at the elections.

The Bryan party. Has its making prophecies in the same spirit of recklessness, and with the same disregard and indifference to the possibility of their fulfillment that he did in 1896. He again is endeavoring to frighten the country with gloomy pictures of the future of the Republic if he is not elected. He tried to bamboozle the people four years ago; he is trying to do it now.

The history of the last four years shows him to have been a false prophet in 1896. Here are collated many of the most startling predictions which he made during the last Presidential campaign. First is his prophecy, then comes the showing how it has been falsified. All the statistics and data used are taken from official documents and reports, therefore they are accurate and absolutely correct.

Fiction and Fact As to Prices.

Some of the lines of finance—I may say all the great lines of finance—are certain to their operation and so irresistible in their force as to be well understood by those who have given the law, and have it will come to pass. Why? Because it is drawn towards the center of the earth. The law upon which we base our hope is as sure as the law of gravitation. HE WILL PROVE BY THE FIGURES THAT THE PRICE OBTAINED FOR OUR PRODUCTS WOULD BE THROWN INTO THIS ALT.—From an address delivered in Cincinnati, Ohio, August 8, 1896.

Iowa is one of the greatest corn-growing States in the Union. In 1896 the average price within the State of Iowa received for corn on the farm was 14 cents a bushel. In 1897, the first year of President McKinley's administration, the price rose to 20 cents. In 1898 it jumped to 23 cents, and in 1899, the last year for which official figures have been compiled, it was 22 cents. In 1896, when Mr. Bryan made his address in Iowa, the average price of corn on the farm throughout the United States was 21.5 cents, last year it was 30.2, an increase of 41 per cent.

Since 1896, one of the Bryan cures of the terrible panic which followed the election of a Democratic President in 1892 Congress, to 1899, the average price of wheat on the farm throughout the United States has gone up from 49.1 cents a bushel to 62.4 cents, an increase of nearly 29 per cent. Oats, since 1896, have gone up from 18.7 cents a bushel to 23.6 cents, an increase of 23 per cent. During the four years of the McKinley administration, President Cleveland the average price of wheat on the farm was 54.1 cents; during McKinley's term it has been 57.5 cents.

Wool of the 1895 clip was sold in New York for 18 cents per pound in July, 1896. Since that time it has fluctuated steadily until in July, 1900, it brought 36 cents a pound.

Another way of showing how prices of farm products "have fallen under the McKinley standard" is to give a simple statement of the value of the 10 leading per cent; bricklayers, stonemasons, locomotive engineers and coremakers, 12 per cent; electricians and molders, 15 per cent; machinists, 16 per cent; blacksmiths, machinists and pattern makers, 15 per cent; tobacco workers, wood workers and carpenters, 8 per cent.

MICROFILMED

Bryan's Tight Money Scare.

A gold standard encourages the hoarding of money because money is richer. Mr. Bryan's Madison Square address, August 31, 1900.

This is how money has been "hoarded" under the gold standard: On August 1, 1896, the total money in circulation in the United States was $1,519,000,000 or $21.18 for every person in the country.

ON JULY 1 THE TOTAL MONEY IN CIRCULATION IN THE UNITED STATES REACHED THE ENORMOUS AGGREGATE OF $2,662,425,485, AND THIS REPRESENTS AN INCREASE CAND ABSORPTION WITHOUT THE AID OF THE MILLIONS OF COINAGE OF SILVER. THIS IS AN INCREASE IN THE TOTAL CIRCULATION. SINCE MR. BRYAN MADE HIS ADDRESS IN MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, OF $547,056,000, OR MORE THAN $8 PER CAPITA, AND AN INCREASE FROM $21.18 PER CAPITA TO $26.78 PER CAPITA.

That is to say, for every man, woman and child in the whole country there was, on July 1, 1900, $5.60 more in circulation than there was on the day Mr. Bryan declared that there would be a contraction of the circulation.

How Industry Was Paralyzed.

A gold standard Democratic platform did paralyze industry.—From Mr. Bryan's Madison Square address, August 31, 1900.

The most accurate barometer of business conditions which we have examine is other than cenens years is the clearing house statement. Commerce is merely a measure of the volume of business done in the aggregate throughout the country and in the whole country. Mr. Bryan says that the gold standard encourages enterprise and paralyzes business. But here are the official figures.

In 1892, the year of the Bryan-McKinley Presidential contest, the clearances in all the clearing houses of the United States aggregated $51,935,621,723. The next year, the first year of President McKinley's term, they were $54,179,545,030; the next year, the year of the Dingley tariff, the last year they reached the prodigious total of $61,000,000,000, the last year, the last year, of 27 billion dollars. TO PUT IT ANOTHER WAY, $61,000,000,000 OF BUSINESS WAS TRANSACTED IN 1899 AND $51,935,621,723 IN 1892, AND DURIBLE THE VOLUME DONE IN 1894.

Industry was not paralyzed. Commerce was paralyzed' is found in the traffic of railroads. In the 1896 Democratic platform, panies carried 775,868,716 tons of freight, in 1899 they carried 1,139,062,352 TONS. (These figures are the latest obtainable. Mr. Bryan's speech in October 11, 1899.

"The revival of industry which we have witnessed within the past year is the direct result of legislation, and it should be our purpose to endeavor to produce the same conditions of employment and industrial activity. In this effort we have not been patient or assisted labor. If we but follow a wisi and practical course.

"It is beyond question that the wages of the organized workmen have increased, and in many instances the hours of labor either have been reduced or at least maintained.

"The report which your officers are enabled to submit to this convention, so far as the growth and progress of our movement during the past year are concerned, is of a most gratifying

re-employment less certain.—From a speech made in Madison Square Garden, New York, by Mr. Bryan, August 31, 1896.

"Gold and silver are dearer money, dearer money means cheaper property; cheaper property means more property for the same money; more people out of work, more people out of work means more people destitute.—From an address to the women of Minneapolis by Mr. Bryan, October 12, 1896.

The following is an excerpt from a signed article published in New York, January 1, 1896, by Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor and Democrat:

"That terrible period for the wage earners of this country which began in 1893 and which has left behind it such a record of misery, suffering and poverty, practically ended with the down fall of the Democratic party, and has steadily forced down from 1893 till now, when the end of 1895, and it was confidently estimated that between two and three million men and a half million wage earners were unemployed.

The following is a quotation from the report of President Gompers to the convention of the American Federation of Labor held in Denver, December 11, 1899:

"The revival of industry which we have witnessed within the past year is the direct result of legislation, and it should be our purpose to endeavor to produce the same conditions of employment and industrial activity. In this effort we have not been patient or assisted labor. If we but follow a wisi and practical course.

"It is beyond question that the wages of the organized workmen have increased, and in many instances the hours of labor either have been reduced or at least maintained.

"The report which your officers are enabled to submit to this convention, so far as the growth and progress of our movement during the past year are concerned, is of a most gratifying

How Gold Was Abroad.

Our opponents cannot ignore the fact that gold has come from abroad. In spite of all legislation intended to prevent it, and on silver is being brought to us in exchange. Not only is gold abroad now, but it must continue to go abroad so long as our laws are unchanged. Gold is attracted to us, unless we continue to borrow from across the ocean, and even then we simply postpone the evil day. Our exports are increasing, imports are falling, the balance of trade is in our favor, in unprecedented volume. There is only one way to stop the increasing flow of gold from our shores, and that is by the restoration of bimetallism.—Speech at Madison Square Garden, Madison Square, August 31, 1900.

When Mr. Bryan made this prophecy gold was leaving the United States at the rate of six and one-half million dollars a month. During 1896, the total exports of this precious metal amounted to $59,821,117,325, and in 1893, the first year of President Cleveland's administration, they reached $97,275.

BUT THE TIDE TURNED AS SOON AS A SATISFACTORY TARIFF BILL WAS RETURNED TO POWER. INSTEAD OF EXPORTING GOLD, WE BEGAN TO IMPORT IT. UNDER THE CHANGED BUSINESS CONDITIONS, THE RESTORATION OF CONFIDENCE AND OF INDUSTRIAL PROSPERITY FOLLOWING McKINLEY'S ELECTION, EUROPE BEGAN TO SEND US GOLD TO THE UNITED STATES. IN 1897, $44,609,941 IN GOLD CAME TO THIS COUNTRY FROM ABROAD, WHICH MEANT A NET BALANCE OVER THE PRECEDING YEAR OF ABOUT $122,000,000 IN OUR FAVOR.

THE FOLLOWING YEAR—1898—$104,691,139 GOLD CAME TO THE UNITED STATES FROM FOREIGN COUNTRIES, AND THE NET GOLD AMOUNT WAS $51,429,988. THE YEAR THE FIRST YEAR OF THE TERM OF McKINLEY'S ADMINISTRATION GOLD TO THE AMOUNT OF $98,906,418 WAS IMPORTED TO THE UNITED STATES, WHILE DURING CLEVELAND'S ADMINISTRATION $90,891,928 WAS SENT ABROAD FROM THIS COUNTRY.

Furthermore, instead of this country surrendering its gold to keep up foreign, American financial institutions have loaned security on land mortgages and gold to Germany, Sweden, Great Britain and other European nations within its months. New York financial institutions have loaned the money of the world, and several foreign governments have promoting to float heavy loans here.

Bryan's Prophecy—Bryan's Prophecy.

I assert the right of the people, in order to lay the foundation of a financial system and to regulate their affairs, to demand that the law do not make the rich richer and the poor poorer, that the law do not make the rich richer and the poor poorer, that the law do not make the rich richer and the poor poorer,

E750R

X-E738
.R4

FARMERS ARE PROSPEROUS, SAY THE BANKERS

LABOR WELL EMPLOYED AND MONEY ABUNDANT.

MUNICIPALITIES ABLE TO BORROW AT LOW RATES

FARM VALUES HAVE DOUBLED AND HALF THE MORTGAGES ARE PAID.

NO GAIN IN VALUE OF GOLD COMPLAINS SOUTH DAKOTA BANKER.

In order to secure some up-to-date facts relative to financial conditions in the great agricultural sections of the United States west of the Allegheny Mountains, letters have been sent to business men in the large cities and to country towns of these sections.

They were asked how the bank deposits of their communities compared with four years ago; to what extent their banks been improvement in the credits of their municipalities or townships, and what betterment, if any, was noticeable in the condition of the borrowing classes.

The business men to whom letters were sent were selected without any reference to, and without knowledge of, their political affiliations. Its several instances extremely interesting replies came from Democrats having a national reputation in Democratic party circles, such as John R. Walsh, President of the Chicago National Bank.

Out of all the answers thus far received the only note discordant with a story of remarkable prosperity of industries and of a general good humor in money has come from a banker in the town of Deadwood, South Dakota. The principal business there is gold mining, and the complaint is that gold is worth no more than it was four years ago, while coal, coke, iron and copper have doubled in value. Of course, the interesting instance only goes the more to prove the utter absurdity of Bryan's talk of four years ago to the effect that the gold standard was making "gold go up" and "depreciating the purchasing power of wages." go down."

Some of the strongest replies have come right from Bryan's own state of Nebraska. The property there has become so wonderful that Bryan can have had no excuse for being unhorsed on it. The town of Lincoln, in which Bryan is a taxpayer, now has 2 per cent bonds selling at a premium, which fact gives a sign of exceptional difficulty in floating loans at 6 per cent. Adlai E. Stevenson is a taxpayer in that city, but does not see evidences of prosperity right in his own town, for the city of Bloomington, Illinois, he recently sold its bonds on a basis of 3.40 per cent, which is lower than any municipality in the United States could get in 1896.

COLORADO.

The First National Bank, of Gonnison, Colorado, ancwerrd through their attorneys, Brown Teller, as follows:

"The business of this part of the country has vastly improved under the Republican administration; we are unable to give exact details, but it is certain that municipal and other bonds are very much improved; bond values are much higher; many of our local debtors have been able to pay their debts, and some have surplus funds, now.

"Our immediate community is both mining and agriculture; this county being one of varied interests; there are many coal mines and metal-liferous mines, smelting gold and silver; there is a large stock industry, and farming (ranching) much; the value of cattle are worth twice as much as they were four years ago, sheep three or three times as much, and wool three times as much. Many of the farmers (or ranchers) have paid up mortgages existing years ago; collections are much easier to make, and merchants have little trouble in collecting.

"While the silver mines have been a great factor in our section of the country, more attention is now paid to gold mining and other mining industries, and this part of the country is more interested in gold than silver.

"We do not know if any material increase in business capacity who have not very materially improved their position."

A. L. Alness, President, Scandinavian American Bank, St. Paul, Minnesota:

"This bank's deposits compared with three years ago have increased 20 per cent. I estimate the average increase in deposits of all the banks in our city to be 50 per cent greater than three years ago. The bonded indebtedness of the city has been reduced from $2,000,000. I estimate 65 per cent of mortgages on homesteads of mechanics, farmers and small business men have been paid, and 25 per cent have been reduced. Money has been cheap and abundant since 1897."

MONTANA.

H. H. Matteson, Cashier, First National Bank of Great Falls, Great Falls, Montana:

"Bank deposits have increased in our community as compared with four years ago of 148 per cent. Of deposits show 85 per cent is due to new business and 33 per cent to increase in balances on deposits that we had at that time.

"Four years ago the bonds of this city sold on a basis of about 6 per cent; today they have sunk on a basis of 4½.

"Four years ago our sheep interests, which comprised almost wholly our borrowing class, were heavily in debt; today, while they have not become leaders of money, they are far less in debt, and as a general rule are carrying no crossed flocks. If their flocks were reduced to the average of four years ago they would probably be out of debt.

"We expect, however, that within the course of a short time the new money law will quite materially change the situation in our city and state. The current rate loop now is 10 per cent. We anticipate that the rate of other years rates will fall to seven or eight per cent."

NEBRASKA.

S. H. Burnham, President, First National Bank of Lincoln, Lincoln, Nebraska:

"Bank deposits have increased in the banks of this city about 50 per cent in the last four years.

"The credit of this municipality has improved. We were paying 6 per cent on our city indebtedness four years ago. Our bonds are selling at a premium, at a 2 per cent. There was a large amount of floating warrants four years ago. We now anticipate no floating indebtedness.

"Never in the history of this state has money been at so low a price and cheapening the at the present time. Farmers can borrow all the money they want, first mortgage loans on farms at 5 per cent interest, while four years ago it was difficult for them to get it at all. Four years ago it was almost impossible for a business man to obtain a dollar from any bank in the City of Lincoln, while to-day we are leaning low as 4 per cent.

"A very large percentage of mortgages have been paid, or are in a different position, with much lower rate of interest. The merchants and business men are in a much better position in exception, are smiling money, and never in the history of the city are their business prospects so prevailing than at the present time.

"As I said, in my opinion, there will be a very material change in the political results in this state this fall. It will be a point to see the farmers coming from different precincts, and from different sections of the state, and almost without an exception they tell me they have or many, or the most, different parties who are going to let well enough alone and vote for McKinley. Quite a change from the Bryan vote of years ago. The general feeling here is that the Republicans can elect a governor, carry the legislature, and secure the Pectoral vote for McKinley."

NORTH DAKOTA.

Lumon National Bank, Grand Forks, North Dakota:

"Bank deposits in our community, as compared with four years ago, are shown from 25 to 30 per cent increase, including both savings, financial condition have become very much better.

"We do not know of any material increase in business capacity who have not very materially improved their position."

A. L. Alness, President, Scandinavian American Bank, St. Paul, Minnesota:

"This bank's deposits compared with three years ago have increased 20 per cent. I estimate the average increase in deposits of all the banks in our city to be 50 per cent greater than three years ago. The bonded indebtedness of the city has been reduced from $2,000,000. I estimate 65 per cent of mortgages on homesteads of mechanics, farmers and small business men have been paid, and 25 per cent have been reduced. Money has been cheap and abundant since 1897."

MONTANA.

H. H. Matteson, Cashier, First National Bank of Great Falls, Great Falls, Montana:

"Bank deposits have increased in our community as compared with four years ago of 148 per cent. Of deposits show 85 per cent is due to new business and 33 per cent to increase in balances on deposits that we had at that time.

"Four years ago the bonds of this city sold on a basis of about 6 per cent; today they have sunk on a basis of 4½.

"Four years ago our sheep interests, which comprised almost wholly our borrowing class, were heavily in debt; today, while they have not become leaders of money, they are far less in debt, and as a general rule are carrying no crossed flocks. If their flocks were reduced to the average of four years ago they would probably be out of debt.

"We expect, however, that within the course of a short time the new money law will quite materially change the situation in our city and state. The current rate loop now is 10 per cent. We anticipate that the rate of other years rates will fall to seven or eight per cent."

NEBRASKA.

S. H. Burnham, President, First National Bank of Lincoln, Lincoln, Nebraska:

"Bank deposits have increased in the banks of this city about 50 per cent in the last four years.

"The credit of this municipality has improved. We were paying 6 per cent on our city indebtedness four years ago. Our bonds are selling at a premium, at a 2 per cent. There was a large amount of floating warrants four years ago. We now anticipate no floating indebtedness.

"Never in the history of this state has money been at so low a price and cheapening the at the present time. Farmers can borrow all the money they want, first mortgage loans on farms at 5 per cent interest, while four years ago it was difficult for them to get it at all. Four years ago it was almost impossible for a business man to obtain a dollar from any bank in the City of Lincoln, while to-day we are leaning low as 4 per cent.

"A very large percentage of mortgages have been paid, or are in a different position, with much lower rate of interest. The merchants and business men are in a much better position in exception, are smiling money, and never in the history of the city are their business prospects so prevailing than at the present time.

"As I said, in my opinion, there will be a very material change in the political results in this state this fall. It will be a point to see the farmers coming from different precincts, and from different sections of the state, and almost without an exception they tell me they have or many, or the most, different parties who are going to let well enough alone and vote for McKinley. Quite a change from the Bryan vote of years ago. The general feeling here is that the Republicans can elect a governor, carry the legislature, and secure the Pectoral vote for McKinley."

NORTH DAKOTA.

Lumon National Bank, Grand Forks, North Dakota:

"Bank deposits in our community, as compared with four years ago, are shown from 25 to 30 per cent increase, including both savings,

A CHRONICLE OF MONEY

CHAPTER I.

1. The people that dwelt in the Land of Uncle Sam had stores of money, and it was of two sorts, in that some of it was made of silver and other some of gold.

2. And it began to be noised abroad that the gold money was worth more than the silver money than that which was made of silver.

3. Some said, The pieces of silver, when there be many of them, are a burden that men grow weary to bear.

4. And they that were skillfull in business said, Behold, in the market place where silver that is not money is sold, we can buy more with a piece of silver than we can in the place wherewith it is bought; whereas, we can buy of gold only so much as is in the piece of gold money given for it.

5. Then the people, all of them save those who dug silver out of the earth, began to ask, Wherefore should it be decreed by our rulers that a piece of silver money shall be of greater worth than a piece of gold? Is not the money made and that contrariwise, a piece of gold money shall be weighed in the balance against no money gold that is not money?

6. And they said one to another, Go to: this thing is not equal, in that it enriches those that dig silver out of the earth at the cost of all the people.

7. Moreover, the merchants of other countries, when the people of the Land of Uncle Sam bought of them, said, Ye must pay us in gold, for it is good; or else, if it be in silver that ye pay, the price of the goods shall be as if ye pay in gold.

8. And it came to pass, when the merchants of other countries had gathered together of the same silver money, that they did cast it into the Land of Uncle Sam and bought therewith wheat and corn and horses of burden and beasts for the slaughter.

9. And it was so that the people of the Land of Uncle Sam could not compel the merchants from afar to pay them wheat and their corn and their beasts in gold money; neither could they say unto them, Ye must pay us in gold, or much if ye pay us in silver.

10. For it had been decreed that whosoever should demand more for his merchandise when the silver money was made of Uncle Sam was offered therefor than when gold was offered should be hanged before the magistrate and be punished.

11. Then the people cried out as with one voice, Behold, this thing is against us. If we go unto our agents for the merchandise we buy from afar, and are paid but once only for that which we sell, how shall we, the people, live and how shall we and our wives and our little ones shall have neither food to eat nor raiment to put on.

12. And there have been some, Moses, who demanded of their rulers a new decree that would protect our silver money as good in the system of the strangers of whom they bought merchandise and themselves as a money that be in their own land.

13. But the rulers said unto their rulers, Let it be so that according to the rule of the nations therewith we buy strangers, a piece of silver money be it of silver or of gold, will buy in the market place no more and no less of gold or of silver than is in the piece of money.

14. And the people said unto the rulers, Nay, not so this present; for we must first agree with the rulers of other nations what shall be the decree and for us, the value of silver in comparison of gold, but we will ordain that of all the silver that is offered only a little, so much as is needful for economical, shall hereafter be made into money. And the rulers straightway proclaimed the ordinance.

CHAPTER II

1. Now, in certain regions of the Land of Uncle Sam, there were countries men, sons of Mammon, who had great store of silver which they had dug out of the earth; and they had rulers would make all the silver into money. Then there would be abundance in the land: yea, would flourish like the green bay tree; ye would have more than heart could wish and your eyes would stand out with fatness.

2. And in the event so to be, If, now, ye will hearken diligently unto me, and choose me to be your Chief Ruler, all the silver that is in the land and all that shall yet be dug out of the earth, shall be made into money, and there shall be so many pieces for each one of you;

3. Then there shall be days of plenty, such as ye have never seen, and ye and your household, and the strangers within your gates, shall eat and drink and be merry and rise up to play instead of pining anyer no longer as ye now do.

4. Then shall ye say, Behold, I, and all these things, cried out, It is the voice of a God! Let us, then, make him our Chief Ruler!

7. But other some, being of the silver sort, said unto the lawyer, We will ask of thee one question, and if thou answerest well, haply we will make thee the Chief Ruler:

8. Will the nations that are beyond the sea, when we buy stuff of them, continue to say so therefore. Ye must pay in gold, or, if it be in silver that ye pay, the price will be twice as much?

9. Or will they humble themselves before the decree thou wilt make in the Land of Uncle Sam, and ordain from an sixteen shekels of silver as equal to one shekel of gold when they can buy in their own marketplaces thirty and five shekels weight of silver that is not money for one shekel of gold?

10. And the lawyer was dumb with silence, for he could not tell what to say.

11. Then they said, Peradventure that question is too hard for thee. Tell us, then, what the law that dig silver out of the earth will do with their wealth when they have dug out of the earth their silver that is not money, every sixteen shekels of silver equal one shekel of gold. Will they distribute their riches to all the people so that every one may have a sufficiency of everything?

12. Or will they, as aforetime, say unto those that labor, Ye must pay us ye shall be paid so much; and to those that sell, We will pay the price of ye sons of Mammon, whatever is the market-place, and no more?

13. Then the lawyer answered not a word.

14. Then they of the wiser sort said unto him, Wise man, if thou be wise, thou hast, as, Moses hath compelled with the law that dig silver out of the earth to make three pieces of silver equal to one shekel of gold.

15. Woe unto them and unto thee; for ye would lay this heavy burden and grievous to be borne upon our shoulders, but ye yourselves would not move it with one of your fingers.

16. And that the people of the land of them not a man that was the friend of all the people, Moses, they made him the Chief Ruler of the Land of Uncle Sam.

17. And when it was brutted abroad through all the world that the rulers of the Land of Uncle Sam had made a decree that whosoever should have there was great joy; and the people of the land began to be merry, for they were able, the people by their merchandise with the peoples that dwelt beyond the sea.

18. But the sons of Mammon, that thought to enrich themselves at the cost of all the people, were wroth, and they sent for the lawyer and he fled him sharply because he had been respected, saying:

19. Behold thou hast betrayed us. We, Moses, thee liberally of our money, and thou hast failed to become the Chief Ruler and to keep covenant with us concerning the silver. What hast thou to say for thyself?

20. And the lawyer made answer, If I had been made the Chief Ruler, and then had failed to make your silver into gold in value as sixteen to one, ye would have had just cause to condemn me.

21. But ye know how this money of the people found the taste in your silver so the taste of bitter medicine, and that they spoiled it, and ye

E75D.R

SILAS THOMPSON.

Gives His Opinion On Free Silver.

"Lias Jones set to me, "Si, it's a dogone shame we can't go not to see come to the town hall w'en that feller from New York told wat Bryan's goin' to do for the country, w'en he's elected."

"Sho," see I, "that air speechifier don't know wot he's a-talkin' 'bout. McKinley's good 'nough for me."

"Wat kes McKinley ever did for you?" set Lias.

"Thet's what 'tis," see I, "I don't want McKinley to do nothin' for me. I want him to lemme alone. The hell trouble in is folks allus a-doin' things to us 'cellin' 'em 'bout."

"Do you means to say," pursoud Lias, "thet McKinley's all right, and thet's nothin' can't be done 'bout it?"

"That's jes' what I mean to say," see I. "Kin you look me straight in the eye, Si Thorasaple, an' tell me thar's nothin' wrong with the country, w'en you an' everybody else knows wat Bryan's a-hetin' ?"

"As to how?" see I, "I've been so taxed lemme wuckin' the farm, thet I hain't had no time to watch the kentry."

"See here, Si, you've got some grain, or rather I sh'o ought to have yo hev. Now, hev you ever thought to pay off that air mortgage on thet farm o' yours?" An' Lias laughed kinder triumphant like.

"No, I hain't, 'Lias Jones," see I, "an' if I ever hev talkin' politics with yo much longer, I never will git it pale off."

I was gittin' kinder mad, for I wanted to git back an' strain yore.

"I ask, Si Thorasaple, thet air Bryan's 'lected we'll git yer mortgage paid right off, for thet air Bryan's goin' to lend us money."

"Ah! w'o's a goin' to give it to me' 'thout I work an' 'arn it, yo gal durned tjet," see I, right out. "An' w'o's a-yo goin' to git the money to give me? Air you an' Willyum C. Bryan jes' to take it outen' yer own pockets, or steel from somebody else's pockets?"

"Sho," see he, "ye needn't git so mad 'bout a thing thet's yet to do by good. Ye curpose we can't take the money out yo' own pockets, 'cause we'll have to take out. An' w'o ain't goin' to take it out yo' neighbor's pockets neither, 'cause thet'd be stealin'. We're goin' to put silver back onto its proper place, an' the remoh'tisin' ye it, as Bryan see, an' makin' it 16 to 1."

"An' what ye goin' to git the silver?" see I.

"Why, out w'er the ground," see 'Lias. "All yo'n have to do is to dig the silver out w'er the ground', take it to the mint an' git it made into silver dollars. Ain't thet simple 'nough?"

"Simple 'nough," see Chase Creaker from Billy Bryan gotn' to make his room rent and his grub chaw an' a-smokin' tobacco w'en all the lads are workin' nite and day in the farmers and rollin' mills."

All the Halsted street curb stone philosophers from the little street bunch of Body Snatchers and Boy Orators down to the Pool Sharks posing about the iron lions of Capitol avenue, and the nests out of the Bagpipe Smashers' Union and kickin' the tinpan out of the Amalgamated Order of Lumber Shovers and Pickle Peddlers.

The other night I enshayed down to hear the Boy Kruezfixer roast Bill McKinley for bringing on Good Times and a Full Dinner Pail to the sturdy toiler, as if it was a capital crime and Mark Hanna was a deep dyed traitor for startin' the factory fires and opening the factories and rolling mills.

The Boy Kruezfixer wore a pensive smile and a shrill cry to shield his escaping lungs from the blistering Bryan.

PETROLEUM V. HASBY, JR.,

Writes About the Boy Kruezfixer of the Platte.

Over here in Brennahan's Patch, which is in the unfletted 19th Ward, the presidential campaine is on, full blast, and the Dimmycrats and Sheep Herders are yerrin' for the fray and picking out the soft jobs for the boys.

Billy Bryan's old mag about Kruezfixin' the horny handed toiler on a cross of gold and silver, a shamarage, and like a grand stand play to catch a nickle and the gallery gods, but the Halsted street bels are too busy working overtime in the rolling mills to be caught by the Boy Kruezfixer and his beautiful harvey, and his elegant hot-air sofa.

Whether we are drifting, fellow Dimmycrats and Sheep Herders? I'm afraid they've stacked us up formitat the gain this tide.

Our platform is Free Beer, Free Silver, Free Lunch, Free Trade, Free Lards and Free Soap Hoosee on Halsted Street in the Patch, and the lads in the rolling mills gives out and the boys have to hustle for their pork chops and roast beef and meat tickets.

Well this yere country needs is more Breweries and Distilleryes; that's the Purpose of Bryan's Free Silver Speeches to our Distillery would preserve the heavenly malts, consecrated by Billy O'Bryan and bring prosperity to down-trodden Halsted Street.

There would be no money in counterfeitin' "Cross Cut Dollar," you couldn't ring in a lead dollar on the darling public, but Bryan, he see, he ever caught a patriot switching the shinplasters, he would hang the lad to a Hickory hatch at Joliet for about ten years. It don't pay to counterfeit with the Immortal Sixteen and the full dinner pail brings prosperity to the Rolling Mills.

Purity in politix is mitey curious, mighty curious, yet it seems with the sturdy toiling masses will drive the Boy Kruezfixer to the Crosby Halsted Street Free Lunch Shirts bunch of Aunty Imperialists.

Wot this yere country needs is more torch lite processions and Halsted street spellbinders, so the young men can run strike a soft job over near in the City Hall and the Boy can stay out on the stagrants and take our place at the crib, and get a crack at the taxes and the Blosted Boneholders.

The full Dinner Pail and this yere blessed Prosperity of Bill McKinley is a deep, damned lie, and I'm ready for the Bryan and takin' the head and butter out of the Walking Delegates' pockets and makin' him go to work.

How's that, Chase Creaker from Billy Bryan gotn' to make his room rent and his grub chaw an' a-smokin' tobacco w'en all the lads are workin' nite and day in the farmers and rollin' mills?

All the Halsted street curb stone philosophers from the little street Bunch of Body Snatchers and Boy Orators down to the Pool Sharks posing about the iron lions of Capitol avenue, and the nests out of the Bagpipe Smashers' Union and kickin' the tinpan out of the Amalgamated Order of Lumber Shovers and Pickle Peddlers.

The other night I enshayed down to hear the Boy Kruezfixer roast Bill McKinley for bringing on Good Times and a Full Dinner Pail to the sturdy toiler, as if it was a capital crime and Mark Hanna was a deep dyed traitor for startin' the factory fires and opening the factories and rolling mills.

The Boy Kruezfixer wore a pensive smile and a shrill cry to shield his escaping lungs from the blistering Bryan.

FARMERS' LOSS UNDER DEMOCRACY

The actual value of farm productions of the United States can never be told in accurate figures. The butter, eggs, and poultry, fresh vegetables, fruits and melons and other articles which the farmer takes to the market seldom get counted in the general figures which foot up the enormous sums that are credited to the producers of agricultural products.

The little table given below shows the value of principal farm crops and animals on January 1, 1893 and 1899. It gives a hint as to the reduction in actual cash received by the farmer in the Democratic and low tariff period, as compared with that received under protection and sound money and the splendid home market which accompanied them.

The table shows the value of the principal crops and of animals on farms in 1892, 1893, and 1899, the final official figures for farm animals being for January 1, 1900.

The value of the wheat crop fell from $22,000,000 bushels in 1892 to 227,000,000 in 1893, and recovered again to 258,000,000 in 1899. The figures in the following three-line table are a sufficient evidence that the general loss in the three years of Democracy must have been not alone millions or hundreds of millions, but actually billions of dollars.

VALUE OF PRINCIPAL CROPS AND ANIMALS ON FARMS.

| Year. | Wheat. Dollars. | Corn. Dollars. | Oats. Dollars. | Animals on Farms. Dollars. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1892 | 332,111,881 | 662,135,520 | 209,253,811 | 2,461,756,498 |
| 1893 | 227,958,000 | 544,183,824 | 163,635,000 | 1,818,446,990 |
| 1899 | 258,548,000 | 629,219,110 | 198,167,476 | 2,212,755,579 |

YOU GOT IT, ALL YOU ASKED FOR.

[From the Colorado Springs Gazette.]

To the People of the United States, Greeting:

Your years ago—

You demanded work for your idle idea.

You got it. You never had so many people employed as now.

You wanted your idle capital to be employed.

You got it.

You wanted to see the army of tramps mustered out.

They are out.

You wanted your soup houses closed.

They are closed.

You wanted to get rid of the receivers of your railways and banks.

They are gone.

You wanted to see the smoke coming from the stacks of your smelters, mills and factories.

It come. Many have since been kicking about the smoke nuisance.

You wanted the demand for your products to increase.

Never so large in your history as at present.

You wanted to see interest rate decrease that your people could borrow more cheaply wherewith to develop your resources.

You got it. Interest has never been so low as now.

You demanded that the circulation must be increased per capita.

You got it. It has increased with marvelous rapidity for four years.

You demanded that one dollar be just as good as another.

You got it. That is the kind we have now, and you can get all the silver or paper you want at any bank.

You demanded the markets of the world for your surplus products and goods.

You got it. And it so unlikely it almost danced some.

You wanted us to stop borrowing money in Europe.

You wanted the foreigner to borrow your money from us.

You wanted the government to collect every dollar of the Pacific railroad debt, instead of a FORTION as Mr. Cleveland proposed.

Mr. McKinley made them pay every cent, principal and interest.

You wanted Cuba liberated.

It is done.

You wanted the rights of our people maintained at home and abroad.

It has been done.

What you really wanted the worst was what Mr. McKinley promised: "AN HONEST DOLLAR AND A CHANCE TO EARN IT."

Well, you got it. The Republicans, but it was none the less acceptable to the man behind the dinner bucket.

If you want more things of this sort you can get them from the same source.

Yours devotedly,

AMMI PETTIGREW.

HAS RECOGNIZED LABOR.

M'Kinley Gave Mare Appointments to Workingmen.

TIN PLATE.

If we made no tin plate in this country we would have to import it from Wales.

RAILROAD PROSPERITY.

How Southern Industries Have Improved with the Better Condition of the Southern Roads.

BENEFITS OF SOUND MONEY AND EXPANSION.

The railroads of the Southern States experienced, during the fiscal year 1899-1900, by far the most prosperous period in their history, and this, too, notwithstanding the fact that the previous year, 1898-1899, broke the record of the 1897-1898 year by a big margin, which, in turn, had surpassed the business returns of former years by a great leap and a bound.

POPULAR DIFFUSION OF THE BENEFITS.

The phenomenal increase in the prosperity of Southern railroads and companies has meant:

First, Enormous gains to the investors in the stocks and bonds of Southern railroads, Southern people where savings were invested in these Southern properties, have had their incomes materially increased. They have had opportunities given them for further investment in further in the Northern and Western, and Eastern, and abroad have had their opinions strengthened as to the utility and profitableness of business conditions in the South, and were induced to increase their investments in that section.

Second, The gains in net earnings, while enormous, have not time, it was conditional to gains in gross earnings. The reason is that the expenses of the roads had its proper share in the increased prosperity. With better times, and year have the wages of employes been greatly increased, the expenses increased. The enormous increase in the cost of the operating of roads, equipment and repairs, and the increase in the cost of the operating of roads, equipment and repairs, and the increase in the cost of the operating of roads, equipment and repairs, and the

MINISTER LOUMIS

Talks About Business Conditions and Labor's Interest in the Elections

Francis B. Loomis, United States minister to Venezuela, gives his opinion of existing business conditions as follows:

"The result of the presidential election will be keenly felt in all the financial centers of the world. The success of the Democratic ticket carrying with it, as it will, a declaration in favor of sound money and free trade, would probably be the means of precipitating a general, far-reaching and direful business crisis.

"The real issue in the coming campaign is the party of the American people. The success of all discussion of the present time, so far as the individual voter is concerned, is 'Shall I vote to convert a condition of prosperity into one of adversity?' Shall I vote to change an era of good business for one of bankruptcy? The country, generally speaking, is more prosperous now than it ever has been. Money is accumulating rapidly in the savings banks in every state in the Union. Hundreds of mortgages are being paid off monthly. In the state of Ohio, there were created last year about 19,000 new buildings, representing an outlay of some eleven million dollars. Nine-tenths of these new structures were dwelling homes. These facts indicate prosperity. Other signs are not wanting. The banks of the East are seeking vast sums of money to Europe. We have become a creditor nation. Our export business is growing by leaps and bounds, records are smashed monthly. Confidence prevails, but for the moment it is held in suspense, as it were. There is a disposition now on the part of investors to refrain from embarking in new enterprises, till the result of the presidential election is known.

"If President McKinley is re-elected, there is ample reason to believe that prosperity will continue. Capital will be invested; Labor will be employed at higher wages, in many lines, because the demand will increase. But, on the other hand, if Mr. Bryan is elected, lack of confidence and a general feeling of doubt and uncertainty will be swiftly engendered. There will be a well-grounded fear of widely disturbing currency and tariff agitation. We all know what that means.

"Everyone who realts recent history, and who has felt the stress of hard times, knows that years of confidence and continued agitation of the tariff and currency question produces a feeling of distress, dread and uncertainty, which is fatal to commercial enterprise and business, and which, in the end, spells widespread disaster and bankruptcy. All of these economic questions have been settled for the time by the Republican party, and our present unexampled, splendid prosperity had its foundation and growth in that adjustment.

"Every man who is earning wages, every man who has money to invest, every man who conducts a business enterprise, must know that if Bryan is elected, the country will be given over for at least four years of costly, fruitless and ruinous agitation of economic questions. Every man who votes for Bryan votes to commit financial suicide. He votes to reduce his income and to limit his business opportunities."

PROSPERITY

"I do not know a period of our history when the country enjoyed more real and substantial prosperity than it does today. The job hunts the man, not the man the job. When that condition exists labor is always better rewarded. In every one of the great industries of the country we are feeling a degree of prosperity.

CHICAGO LETTER

Chicago, Oct. 17.—(Special.)—It is quite evident, from conservative reports received from hundreds of localities in the Prairie States, that the attempt on the part of Mr. Bryan and the rest of the Democratic-Populist party to lead the farmers astray on the Trust question is not proving effective. In his speech accepting the Populist nomination he charged that the trusts fix the price of everything the farmers buy; and that, since the trusts pay as little as they can for raw materials, the farmer is the most agriculturist both coming and going.

Straight for Mr. Bryan, the farmers know better; they have had some experience of their own. It is doubtful if ever that the prices of some manufactured articles have not been lower than now, but only slightly; and farmers are well aware that the prices of farm and manufactured articles that they consume have not been considerably lower. Moreover they are even surer that Mr. Bryan's other statement is false, namely that they cannot get so much for their own products. They know that they can get as much as they have had and do—and can continue to do so.

In a word, if the reports received at headquarters may be believed, and they have a monotony of undertone favorable to a continuance of McKinley prosperity, the Western farmer regards the trust question as a business proposition, rather than a politicoeconomic. They are farther about than their own noses, and they know well enough that it is a Corporation scheme of legislation, intended to prohibit the organization of combinations of concerns for economic production and distribution, and to compel, into effect, the most dominion of the Louisiana Purchase the owner, agent or tenant, and another Democratic lie, or not the big sum from Republican Protection.

Now, my dear father, if the chemerical party would only be at the expensive way I could forgive its faults and blunders on account of its good intent to swallow free silver. But Bryan proposes to go back towards Pittsburg in the future Nation; when he died we only had 1,000,000 Democrats, and 1,000,000 the vast dominion of the Louisiana Purchase the owner, agent or tenant, and another Democrat. Now

Non-partisan Annual Dinner League of 218

#153

Common Sense Arguments for Business Men

THE NATIONAL BANKING ACT

EXPOSITION OF ITS FEATURES AND ADVANTAGES.

The Secretary of the Treasury Corrects Misconceptions Regarding the Law.

BY HON. LYMAN J. GAGE, SECRETARY OF THE UNITED STATES TREASURY.

Among the many features of financial misconceptions abroad in the minds of some people perhaps none is more prevalent than that relating to the national banking system. It has been vehemently charged that the national bank act was conceived by the banks and for the banks, that it was thus inaugurated and that for this purpose, and for no other purpose, it is perpetuated. Erroneous opinion upon a subject so important as this is to be deprecated, while the truth about it should be encouraged and disseminated.

In order to understand the matter at all it is necessary to look back to the time when the national bank act was adopted by congress and became a law. As early as December, 1861, Salmon P. Chase, secretary of the treasury, presented a series of measures which received little favor from congress until the month of February, 1863. By that time, owing to the enormous expenditures incident to the civil war, the finances of the government were in a dangerous situation. For the suppression of the rebellion, extraordinary expenditures to the amount of nearly $2,000,000 a day were an absolute necessity. The power of taxation could not be extended so as to take from the people the necessary means to provide for this enormous outgo. The resources of the future were of necessity anticipated. Bonds, drawing was resorted to—borrowing by every device known to affluent impotency. Government bonds bearing 6 per cent interest were authorized by law and sold as rapidly as purchasers for them could be found, but this resource did not bring in money enough. The government issued its own notes of hand, paying them to its creditors. These were followed by issues of greenbacks, the purchasing power of which rapidly fell, so that in February, 1862, the power of the greenback to purchase commodities compared with coin had fallen to 82 cents on the dollar. There was this outstanding of these obligations over $357,000,000. The 6 per cent interest bearing bonds of the government were selling at less than par in greenbacks, which made their real value about 60 cents on the dollar. Thus the outstanding of national bonds, and to that extent the general credit has been relieved from the pressure of government sales. The consequence, as every thinking man can understand, has been to accrue to the government a more favorable rate of interest on its debt than would have been the case had there not existed this special demand for a part of its obligations.

At the present time the bonded debt of the United States amounts in round numbers to $1,000,000,000. Of this total, $770,000,000 is now owned by the national banks. All the other banks of the country, outside of savings banks and loan and trust companies, own only $30,000,000. Beyond the national banking act, and there would be no specific source for the national banks to continue their investments in United States bonds. They would naturally dispose of their holdings, or a large proportion thereof. What they would then sell would be added to the market supply, with a seriously depressing influence upon the price of our securities. If it made no difference to the treasury when it had no need to borrow, that difference would be experienced in a higher rate of interest whenever the public should necessitate such borrowing. The value of the factor here suggested cannot be specifically stated, but that it has been very great is clearly perceptible. The fact that the United States bonds, as an investment security, yield a lower return of interest than do other issues than the bonds of any other nation cannot be accounted for by the operation of any other perceptible influence than the one just indicated.

Nevertheless at the outset there was no cash on the part of the banking community to meet the itself of what are now decided by some as extraordinary call-loans.

At the present time there are more than 12,000 banks and banking institutions in the country of savings banks. It is a striking fact that only 3,803 of these institutions have been organized of the privileges of the national bank act, the others, more than 8,000, in number, preferring to operate under the authority of state authority, even if they forego all the privileges of national issue. Almost a year after the act was passed only $50,000,000 of circulating notes had been issued, while the banks overly organized under the law were entitled to a circulation of $90,000,000. And so it has been from that day to this. The banks, as a whole, have never availed themselves of more than 20 or 60 per cent of their note issuing privileges. March 14, 1884, the date of the approval of the new financial law, the national banks of the United States were entitled to a bank note circulation of $354,000,000. On that day the amount issued under authority aforesaid, 5 each; Maryland, Kentucky and Missouri, 4 each; West Virginia, South Dakota, Colorado and Washington, 3 each; Maine, Florida, Louisiana, Tennessee, Montana, Wyoming, Oregon and California, 2 each, and New Hampshire, Connecticut, Delaware, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, New Mexico and Idaho, 1 each. The wide distribution thus made and the fact that these smaller organizations are not permitted in town or village of over 3,000 inhabitants, indicates clearly enough the appreciation of the people in these sections of consequence of the facilities which this feature of the act confers them to enjoy. But it is alleged that the whole principle is wrong, that no bank could be allowed to issue its own money under any circumstances, conditions or circumstances, that the government, and the government alone, should issue the paper money and to its account—and not to that of the people." That allegation cannot be taken up and discussed at length here. To those who hold the theory that paper money may be made by printing upon certain sized pieces of paper a declaration in the nature of a fiat which shall give it the power and efficiency of coined money it is idle to address any argument upon the subject. They are irretrievably in the clouds, but to those who comprehend that a promise to pay means a promise to pay, and to pay money, it may be pointed out—indeed, it has been clearly pointed out time and time again—that the public treasury is no longer the agency for issuing paper money. The only way for the government to put its paper notes is to pay them out for debts or for expenses, which single expression from the fiat of the third without paying it at all. Nor has the government any power to compel the general stock of gold with which to redeem its promissory obligations of a demand character. This is a fundamental objection to an issue of paper money by the government. It is of course quite true that within the needs of the country the paper money circulating in the government can keep afloat a volume of its personal obligations clothed with the power of legal tender, but even so, as a consequence, embarrassments have arisen, particularly in the government finances have been occasional, public finances have been full and serious disturbances from time to time experienced in general business affairs. A bank, on the other hand, issuing notes, whether secured by a deposit of government bonds or otherwise, if worthy of the name of bank, has ample access questioning of claims on the community convertible into money, being its own promises, which are to redeem its notes or to pay its deposit certificates.

The business public and the more

THE INDEX OF PROSPERITY.

Proof of the Good Times For Workingmen Under Protection Kind Shows by the Savings Banks.

BY HON. F. B. KILBURN, SUPERINTENDENT OF THE BANKING DEPARTMENT, STATE OF NEW YORK.

No better index to the country's prosperity or business depression can be found than that which is furnished by our savings banks. While they may not much experience the personal care of industries that are active or of labor that is employed, they do indicate with unerring correctness in which direction the current acts and with what force it flows. Logically, it should be so, and experience verifies this conclusion to which logic points. The savings banks being distinctively the depositaries of the helpless and of the frugal poor, the entire portion of their deposits consists of funds of widows and orphans and of the savings of wage earners. The former do not fluctuate largely, while the latter are variable, as times are "hard" or "good." Therefore the gain or loss, or the rate of gain, in deposits reflects necessarily labor's condition from year to year, and, since capital and labor are interdependent, prospering or sharing disaster, as the case may be, reflects the trend of business in general.

A striking illustration is afforded by the figures returned by the savings banks in the state of New York for 1892 and 1893. During the former year, which is generally regarded as one of the most prosperous ever known in the United States, the deposits increased in round numbers $11,000,000. In 1893, the year when the last Democratic national administration began, the tariff was worked into the law, business and money, not only did deposits cease to increase, but the depositors, instead of adding to their accounts, had made withdrawals of nearly $2,000,000 in excess of the deposits made in the year 1892. Thus, the total deposits increased by showing the unparalleled increase in deposits in year 1892, 900, which is at the rate of nearly a quarter of a million dollars for every working day in the year.

A comparison of three years under the Wilson tariff law with the four years of President Cleveland's administration is interesting and suggestive. In the latter period the savings banks deposits in New York increased by $88,818,615, an average of $22,204,654 per year. During the first three years

GREATEST TRADING NATION.

Proof of the Prodigious Power and Wealth of the United States.

BY HON. O. P. AUSTIN, CHIEF OF THE BUREAU OF STATISTICS, UNITED STATES TREASURY.

The United States is likely to permanently assume in the year 1900 the proud position of the world's greatest exporter of domestic products. In 1899 she was but $35,000,000 behind the United Kingdom in the exportation of domestic products, and, as the figures for the seven months of 1900, ending with July, show a gain of $35,000,000 as compared with the corresponding months of 1899, it seems reasonable to expect that we shall, at the end of the year, find ourselves ahead of the United Kingdom in the race for supremacy as exporters of articles of domestic production, and it is easy to see that when we once attain that proud position it will be retained, since our trade is growing much more rapidly than that of any nation of the world.

A quarter of a century ago the exports of the United Kingdom were more than double those of the United States, being in the calendar year 1873 $1,007,000 as against $765,737,000 for the United States. By 1890 our exports had grown to $845,000,000, showing an increase of nearly $350,000,000, while that of the United Kingdom amounted to $1,282,474,000, showing an increase of but $200,000,000. In recent years had grown to $1,253,000,000, an increase of over $400,000,000 in nine years, while those of the United Kingdom were $1,287,971,000, an increase of but $5,000,000 in the nine years mentioned. From 1875 to 1899 the domestic exports of the United States increased 100 per c[illegible], while during the same period those of the United Kingdom increased but 20 per cent. It is thus apparent that a nation's trade of the relative growth indicated will shortly, probably within the present year, bring the domestic exports of the United States above those of the United Kingdom, and that, with the rapid growth which every year has shown in our export trade, the commercial supremacy of the United States thus established will be permanent.

What is the cause of this wonderful growth in the exportations of the United States? The answer is easy. We are the world's greatest producer [illegible] the farm, the factory, the workshop, the railroad and the steamship; of cotton for clothing, of breadstuffs and provisions for food. We have the greatest railway system with which to transport the products of the

A STRIKE TO LOWER WAGES.

Bryan's Attitude That of a Designing Demagogue.

BY MOSES LOUIS WITHMULLER, TREASURER OF THE NEW YORK INFORM CLUB.

The consequences of Bryan's election and of the change he threatens to make in the standard of values may be exhibited by a concrete case. The passing of confidence followed the passage of the legal tender act caused widespread stagnation in enterprises which depended on our home market. As happened then, many establishments [illegible] labor's earnings and the cost of living ran low, while one term intervened during which employment was so steady and wages so high that large earnings were possible, and another has followed with conditions peculiarly even greater accumulations. The explanation is to be sought and discovered in a study of political causes and activities. Enterprise, activity and prosperity are in evidence only when confidence rules. They require certainty upon which they may rest calculations and tariff rates favoring American labor and industries. Denied these conditions, they hesitate, apprehension enters, demand slackens, production is diminished, pieces break, wages are cut and every interest suffers. The threat of change in the first Cleveland administration brought evil, and its consummation in the second caused panic and then paralysis. Of course and inevitably labor suffered, and to that fact the reports of the savings banks testify.

It is for depositors in these institutions to determine by their votes in November whether they will endure in the coming four years a repetition of the experience which they suffered from 1893 to 1897 or enjoy a continuance of the conditions which have served them under the administration of President McKinley. Thus, the time should not forget: Mr. Bryan is a strike. He stands not merely for extreme tariff revision, but also for a financial revolution. His election would surely precipitate a panic. Tariff revision closes and paralyzes manufactories. It would be followed by action concerning the currency which would bring the country to a silver basis. Then the course earners who are depositors in savings banks would find themselves not simply deprived of opportunity of adding to their accounts, but made subject to the payment of their deposits in dollars whose purchasing power would be halved. In a word, a vote for Bryan is a vote both to decrease income earnings and to cut savings already made in two.

750.R X-E7
54 .R4

A

FOR USE NOT BEFORE WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 26

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Mr. Bryan produces a decided novelty in argu when he declares that the way to continue Mcinley times is to defeat McKinley.

When Mr. Bryan is engaged in making a calamity speech the toot of a factory whistle is every bit as annoying to him as the hiss of an auditor.

Fictitious fears and false forebodings constitute the Democratic stock in trade.

Keep the mills open.

Mr. Bryan's great love for free speech was not on tap when his Kentucky friends turned out and threw three bad eggs at that distinguished Democrat, the Hon. John G. Carlisle. At least the Democratic nominee offered no protest at the time and later proceeded to that state and made speeches for the egg-throwers.

The Richmond Times, the organ of the Virginia Democrats, declines to accept the free silver and anti-expansion mandates of the Kansas City platform.

The work of producing a coal miners strike was intrusted to the labor bureau of the Democratic National Committee. The Democratic managers don't underestimate the value of discontent to their cause.

The Hon. George Fred Williams' success in carrying Vermont and Maine for the Democrats will be sure to make him a drawing card in other sections of the country.

Mr. Bryan has attempted a mild defense of his party in the ratification of the Paris treaty. His explanation is on a par with that offered for the fulfillment of all of his 1896 predictions.

The Populists reluctantly nominated Mr. Stevenson in place of Mr. Towne, but they neglected to provide him with a notification committee. Perhaps they feel that the less he hears of it the better it will be for all concerned.

The editorial contemporaries of Colonel Watterson have been feeding him his 1896 words in such profusion that there is grave danger of an attack of indigestion.

In his message to the Kentucky legislature Governor Beckham speaks of "imaginary ills." As a receiver of stolen political goods the Governor is disposed to be over-polite.

Keep the flag flying.

Those persons who cannot understand why the Hon. Adlai E. Stevenson can run on the Kansas City platform after indorsing sound money in 1892, simply admit that they are not acquainted with the record of the man. Mr. Stevenson is fond of holding office.

Now is the time to speculate upon the personality of a Bryan cabinet. There will be no occasion for such pastime after the election.

Mr. Bryan thinks Indiana will reverse its election results of 1896 and 1898. Mr. Bryan evidently believes that the public mind is as changeable as his views.

If everybody could be made wealthy by reducing the value of the dollar, the Democratic party would be the logical custodian of the affairs of the nation.

Massachusetts is the next state the Hon. George Fred Williams expects to carry.

Mr. Bryan shows up much stronger in the notification than he will in the votefication.

Mr. Olney terms the McKinley administration is being weak and silly. Possibly the former Secretary of State would like a comparison of the administration of which he was a conspicuous part.

C

FOR USE NOT BEFORE WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 26

THE UNITED STATES TREASURY.

Washington, Sept. —.—(Special.)—The Treasury was never in a stronger position than at the present time, both in its relations to the money market and in its resources for meeting expenses. The wise and far-sighted measures of Secretary Gage have put back into the market much money which would otherwise be locked up in the Treasury surplus. This will give greater facilities for obtaining funds for moving the crops than have been witnessed for many years.

The gold in the Treasury is near the highest point ever attained in the history of the country. This point was touched in August, when the combined gold held by the Treasury on government account and that held against gold certificates was $435,000,000. The amount held on government account on Monday, Sept. 10, was $219,381,027, and the amount held against gold certificates in circulation was $213,293,659, making a total gold fund in the Treasury of about $432,600,000.

When to this amount is added the $179,291,900 in specie in the New York Clearing House banks on September 8, there is a visible gold fund in these two centers alone of nearly $600,000,000. A part of the gold held by the New York banks is in Treasury gold certificates, but the allowance for them would impair only slightly the total gold holdings in Washington and New York, and would be offset many times by the fund of gold in the banks, in circulation and in private hands outside of these centers.

It became evident with the close of the Spanish war that the liberal provision made by Congress for carrying on the war by loans and the increase of taxation would soon accumulate a large surplus in the Treasury. It was not thought prudent to reduce taxation until it became more clear what contribution would be made by the new dependencies towards their own expenses, or what charge might fall for a time upon the Federal Treasury while arrangements for self-government were being made.

Secretary Gage soon perfected a series of important measures by which the surplus was kept under control and money released for the use of the people in moving the crops and carrying on production, instead of permitting its contribution in the Treasury. One of his first steps was to resume the issue of gold certificates, which was suspended by Secretary Carlisle in 1893 when the gold reserve dropped below $100,000,000. The issue of certificates did not affect directly the volume of money, but afforded great relief to the market, because it enabled the public to get the use of convenient paper currency in place of gold coin.

Several other steps were taken which more directly diminished the idle funds in the Treasury and put them to use among the people. One of these was the purchase of four and five per cent bonds, in the autumn of 1899, to the amount of $19,300,650. The amount of currency released in paying for them, including the premiums, was $21,771,867.

Then came the refunding law, which was largely the work of Secretary Gage, under which he was authorized to anticipate out of the present surplus the future interest payments upon the public debt by issuing two per cent bonds for the outstanding threes, fours and fives, and paying the necessary premium in cash. The amount of these bonds exchanged, up to September 7, was $330,982,150. The premiums paid in anticipation of interest were $32,977,328. The interest saved to the government was about $41,500,000, making the net saving about $8,500,000.

The amount of this saving was less important than the benefits to the Treasury and the money market, both in the present and the future, by enabling the Treasury to anticipate $41,500,000 in future interest payments while it had abundant surplus by putting about $33,000,000 at the command of the money market instead of keeping it locked up.

Secretary Gage took another step on May 18, 1900, to reduce the surplus by announcing his readiness to redeem at par $25,364,500 of outstanding two per cent bonds, which were extended at that rate in 1891 by Secretary Foster. The amount of these bonds presented up to Monday, September 10, was $18,400,150.

The operations already set forth put back into the money market more than $72,000,000, which

D

FOR USE NOT BEFORE WEDNESDAY, SEP

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Four years of a Republican administ have made hives of industry out of more 350,000 haunts of idleness and soup-houses

Maine, Vermont and Oregon's pluralities large enough to take these States out "doubtful" column.

President McKinley's letter of acceptance properly be said to be a message to the A can people.

The most remarkable significance in Mr. an's letter of acceptance to the Democrats, silence upon everything and every subj which American workingmen as a class ha interest.

The vein of apology in which Bryan is ported by Olney, Hill, Cochran and Schur curiosity of the campaign.

Already the census man has found over 5 manufacturing establishments, as against 3 in 1890. This looks as though the trusts not crushing out individual enterprise at a great rate.

Keep the mills open.

Mr. Adlai Stevenson is enjoying all th tinction without any of the fame and fret campaign activity.

Trade is much freer under protection under free trade. This is true of our foreg well as our domestic trade.

The announcement that Mr. Bryan woul liver but two speeches a day in future was by the Democratic National Committee wi the consent of Mr. Bryan.

There seems to be a general dispositio the part of the Democrats to blame Pre McKinley for making his letter of acce such a strong document. It was pretty on Bryan.

William Jennings Bryan seems to be h difficulty in stirring any enough opposin terest to make the campaign look even li argument.

If we understand Governor Roosevel thinks the American army savors of milit about as much as a Bryan dollar does of ho

T. V. Powderly, while in Chicago the day, said that labor conditions were exceptio gratifying and entirely in keeping with the eral prosperity, but he never will be able to Bryan acknowledge that—not before the N ber election, at any rate.

What has become of that "war of exter tion on the gold standard" that Mr. Bryan so determined to wage until he had snuffe blamed thing out?

Secretary Gage may not be much of a manipulator, but it is evident that he has aged to corner Carl Schurz.

Stanchfield, the labor baiter, has been nated by the Democrats for Governor of York. His finish is easy to foretell.

Croker is the chosen leader of Mr. Bry New York. Thus does reform go marchin Ex-Secretary Whitney is not naming an his winning race horses Willie J. Bryan.

Mr. Bryan confesses that he has not been to make his farm pay. It is quite evident he chickens have not been photographed enough.

Chairman Jones of the Democratic Cor tee now confesses to a million, and he thinks, being in the Cotton Bale Trust, th is a business man, which at last account the fact that the Bryanite campaign is well

E750,R #155 X-E738 .R4

B

FOR USE NOT BEFORE WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 26

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The doctrine of discontent is Candidate [illegible]'s specialty. The satisfied man is an [illegible]ta to the Democratic nominee.

It looks as if the Hon. George Fred Williams and the New York Journal might have to draw straws in order to decide which is entitled to the credit for the Democratic victories in Vermont and Maine.

Mr. Gorman evidently feels that there is enough Democratic enthusiasm in Maryland to enable him to negotiate for a seat in the United States Senate.

Keep the mills open.

Just at the present patriotism is the paramount issue. The gentlemen who favor flag-furling have chosen the wrong time.

Mr. Bryan was compelled to travel over a road of broken predictions in order to reach his present shaky position.

Mr. Croker's humiliation of the Hon. David B. Hill is a finished piece of work.

Count von Waldersee's war record differs from that of Colonel Bryan in one important respect. The Count is still moving to the front.

By taking another twist in his logic Mr. Bryan may be able to show that the money England is borrowing from the United States is but another provision of that secret alliance.

Criticism of our soldiers and officers of the law by the Hon. John P. Altgeld comes in exceeding bad taste. It will be recalled that Mr. Altgeld was the official who was ignored by the last [illegible]ocratic President of the United States when [illegible]led out the troops to suppress Mr. Altgeld's friend, Mr. Debs.

Will Mr. Gorman abdicate his boss-ship of the Maryland Democrats in favor of Mr. Wellington? Mr. Gorman is not much given to relinquishing the scepter voluntarily.

The repeal of the Goebel law by the Kentucky Democrats is equivalent to a confession of political theft. Mr. Blackburn's credentials as a United States Senator receive additional taint by the action of the legislature in destroying the corrupt machinery by which he was declared elected to that high office.

There are surface indications to show that Mr. Bryan's vote crop will turn out as badly as his oat crop.

Keep the flag flying.

Reports of the bravery of our soldiers in China continue to reach us. All of the American cowardice is to be found in the Democratic campaign speeches.

It was Li Hung Chang who solemnly warned us that the advance of the allied forces upon Pekin meant sure death for the entire diplomatic corps in the Chinese capital. If Li is not more careful he may become as unreliable as a Bryan prediction.

Boss Croker described David B. Hill as a person "who is deceitful, tricky and cannot tell the truth." In view of the fact that Croker wanted Hill as Bryan's running mate it may readily be seen how sincere the Tammany boss is for the success of the Kansas City ticket.

[illegible]. Bryan's contention that every American citizen is carrying a soldier on his back is a rather reckless campaign fiction to indulge in during a year in which the census is being compiled.

The cry of militarism didn't scare the sturdy New England voters worth a cent.

The party that thrives on labor strikes is naturally delighted over their inauguration.

E

FOR USE NOT BEFORE WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 26

NEW YORK LETTER.

New York, Sept. —.—(Special.)—The result in Maine is satisfactory to Republicans here for the same reason that the result in Vermont was, only it is more so. That is because the proportion of Republican apathy is manifestly smaller. Many Republicans stayed at home, for instance, and for that reason those best qualified to judge of the exact situation feel even more certain than before that there is not a Republican or expansionist, or Sound Money man, or loyal supporter of prosperity, of law and order, but needs to do his utmost to win over to the side of the right cause as many voters as he can. The uncertain element is the really independent vote—the class of thinking, quiet, conservative business men, who are very busy making money now and have little time for politics, but who usually decide a contest, in a close State at least.

To illustrate: In a certain ward in Brooklyn recently less than 25 per cent of the voters in the last election were willing to declare their allegiance to a certain party at the primaries. The 75 per cent or over of these voters are evidently influenced on most occasions, when it is necessary for them to vote and when they are sufficiently aroused to vote, by the considerations which immediately surround them. In an average community, whether in New York or Kansas, will McKinley and Roosevelt get that vote? It would seem as if they must. This kind of thinking, quiet, conservative business men—and this class includes all the clerks, wage-earners, etc., who depend upon business for their occupation—would reflect that present conditions of prosperity are good enough for them; that McKinley is tried and has been found true; that Roosevelt represents the aggressive American sentiment which, whatever they may say, is exactly what they like; that it made as well as National affairs they had better place control in the hands of those who, from experience and wisdom, not to say from a superior stock of patriotism, have proved all right.

Yet work needs to be done among all such voters. Suppose every man of this kind were to secure for the Republican ticket a single additional vote; suppose one in ten among them secured a single vote additional, the result would be secure; for who is there who needs to be told that it is only the 5 per cent, or even the 2 or 1 per cent, of independent, changing voters that determine the result?

* * *

It is expected that this work will be done. It has not been done thus far. The Democrats are not inactive; they are neglecting no opportunity. It is even more evident than before Senator Jones came here this time that his campaign chest is well filled—partly because his own turn for business, since becoming a millionaire within a year, has "put him on" to certain new methods, partly because he is undoubtedly getting the financial support of certain Gold Democrats who want to crawl back into their party and who are willing to pay for it—and will consider that a business panic, which they admit to be entirely possible, is a "small price to pay."

There is another interesting thing that every antagonist of Bryanism ought to know. It is that the most socialistic and incendiary utterances of the Populists are now being repeated in hundreds of places and are likely to be repeated in thousands of places before this campaign is over—not merely in the socialist and incendiary newspapers and on the stump of the Bryan orators in the usual way, but in hundreds of unusual ways and in thousands of unusual places. It has been Mr. Bryan's plan, which he is taking pains hereto fore to deny, to hit with charge that "the laborer is not receiving his share," and "where do you come in, my poor working man?" and all that sort of thing, shall be taken from person to person in the workshops, mills, offices, barber shops, saloons, in short, everywhere that there is a listener.

What is going to be done to meet this kind of faking? Shall the Republicans try to send around their insinuating talkers with every kind of argument, and right ones, so that they may be effective? Manifestly this ought to be done but quite as manifestly every natural enemy of [illegible] and especially of that socialistic and incendiary [illegible] ought to know what is going on. He should accordingly make extra personal efforts to counteract this to get religion; and that the Lord was 'two or three were gathered together i name,' and so on. Then he pulled out the of a sermon which he got from one of the [illegible] and said his clients were in church to have worship. I remember the text. It was, into all the world and preach the gospel t people. Wasn't that a coincidence to [illegible] me of Bryan's pious remarks on the same

F

FOR USE NOT BEFORE WEDNESDAY, SE

"The lawyer got along so well that I made up my mind to kvit the prisoners the schmart young lawyer didn't know it began to go for big Johannes and cross-ki him. Johannes was the only witness, yo and didn't have much experience. By [illegible] Johannes could not stand so much fun expense, so he got mad and yelled out: may all be, Mr. Lawyer, what you say. seem to know that the notes of the sermo got from that big hobo were his own not I know what you don't know, and that the gang you say he was preaching to t of the pulpit Bible all the book of Gene Exodus, including the ten commandme light their pipes with while they listened sermon." Then I reversed by decision, Jo and sent those fellows to the calaboose."

So you say that catches you, Jonatha Bryan's improved plans of settling the pine kvestion? Yes, I read it. He says he first establish a stable government in the [illegible] Next he would give the Filipinos an indep form of government.

Third, protect them with the Monroe d while they work out their destiny. "Is simple?" you say. Yes, that is just si simple a piece of statesmanship as this intelligent piece of farming, namely, to-w "You turn your colts out in the big m without a fence. Then you walk arou round the field and say to the colts: "See, I walk is the fence." Then you go ir house and say to your wife: "I'll those c in the neighbor's corn and he complains, h— with him with my mouth."

It makes me smile to think what an ex pansionist Bryan would have to be to m Monroe doctrine fit the job he undertake perhaps he would succeed better at exp the Monroe doctrine in expanding the curren cause he can fix any ratio he likes and [illegible] will kick. If you tinker with inflating ci some will win and more will lose, but b in general will suffer, but with doctrines i nothing lost but air and ink. Mr. Bryan' lamation in Asia, based on the Monroe d in America would cut a big swath in diplomacy. But it would not stand off [illegible] ironclads if the Filipinos should c that to drive out, kill or rob European i it was the chief privilege of being indep In that case which would as surely ha the colts would get in the corn.

Mr. Bryan would have a test case on hi of a Monroe doctrine on a big scale. Ne than, no army and navy as a final reso would be imperialism and too expensive people. "What then?" do you enkvire. One result, namely, the contempt of the world.

"DEAR BOY" LETTERS. N

My Dear Boy:

You inform me that John Jones, Tom and old Harry Weldon say that th going to vote for McKinley and Roosev that they will vote against our songr now a candidate for re-election.

Well, the Republican party is very m Bro. Robinson's church. Bro. Brown a Robinson, two clerical friends of mine, w ing about the churches under their care Brown said:

"My church has a large membership, t about one-fourth of them are active memb

Bro. Robinson replied:

"My church members are all active. [illegible] one of them is active. Those who won't thing else will kick."

The Republican party is a very active [illegible]ation. There is nothing dead about i last one of its mighty membership is doin thing, and it is not surprising that some activity should display itself in kicking.

ADLAI STEVENSON'S RECORD

When Adlai Stevenson was a candidate for Vice-President in 1892, the New York Press, in its issue of Aug. 18, 1892, published a cartoon entitled "Mr. Stevenson's Patriotic Services."

With the cartoon were printed the following paragraphs, showing Adlai Stevenson's record as a Patriot and an American:

"MR. STEVENSON'S PATRIOTIC SERVICES."

[From the New York Press, Aug. 18, 1892]

Stevenson said he was glad Lincoln was shot and that he should have been killed earlier.—Affidavit of William B. Whiffen, editor of the Mesmora Sentinel, where Stevenson resided in 1862.

Stevenson was throughout the war a friend of the Copperheads.—Affidavit of Rev. G. B. Snetleker, pastor of the Methodist Church in Mr. Stevenson's home in 1862.

Stevenson sold revolvers to traitors.—Affidavit of Parker Gardner, Wabash, Ind., Aug. 6, 1892.

If "General" Stevenson could produce even one little bit of a speech or public utterance made by him in 1863 or 1864 in favor of a vigorous prosecution of the war for the Union, or of sustaining the hands of Abraham Lincoln, typical people may forget or believe Stevenson's record in their firm recollection that in 1863 and 1864 A. E. Stevenson was a rank Copperhead politician and candidate for office in Woodford County.—Ex-Governor Hamilton, of Illinois, who lived at Bloomington during the war.

Stevenson's name appeared on the record of membership of the Knights of the Golden Circle which I captured.—Statement of Major J. Olmstead, now of Los Angeles, Cal.

WHAT McKINLEY SAID.

The war has made us a united people.—Speech at Kokomo, Indiana, October 21, 1898.

We are fortunate in the virtue of our people and in the valor of our soldiers and sailors.—Speech at Red Oak, Iowa, October 13, 1898.

Our army and our navy are entitled to every honor that a generous nation can bestow.—Speech at Indianapolis, Indiana, October 21, 1898.

No nation ever had a more superb army than mustered in thirty days, under the flag of the Union, to fight for the honor of the country and for the oppressed so near our shores.—Speech at Hamilton, Ohio, October 21, 1898.

We are stronger and have a more perfect Union than we ever had before. And I wish you all prosperity in your workshops and love and contentment in your homes.—Speech at Atlanta, Indiana, October 21, 1898.

What a glorious future awaits us if unitedly, wisely and bravely we face the new problems now pressing upon us, determined to solve them for right and humanity.—Speech before the Legislature in Joint Assembly at the State Capitol, Atlanta, Georgia, December 14, 1898.

It is a great thing for the farmer to have man employed in shop and factory. It is a great thing for men to be employed; and I have discovered that when given employment to many working men. It has made us, from the greatest consuming nation of tin-plate in the world, to be among the greatest of nations to make tin-plate.—Speech at Atlanta, Indiana, October 21, 1898.

We have grown from a little more than three millions of people to seventy-five millions. We have become the greatest agricultural and manufacturing nation of the world. We have been making progress at rapid strides in all the arts of peace. We have a nation from whose history we need not turn away. We can study it with pride and profit. We can look back without regret or humiliation, and forward with hope and confidence.—Speech at Clinton, Illinois, October 18, 1898.

What a magnificent army was mustered in less than sixty days! More than two hundred thousand soldiers responded to the call of country, coming from the centers of our fields and workshops, the bravest and the best, willing to go into foreign climes to fight the honor of our flag and for oppressed humanity. There was no hesitation in our column. There was no division in any part of the country. North and South and East and West alike cheerfully responded.—Speech at Decatur, Illinois, October 15, 1898.

Abraham Lincoln did not start out to free the slaves, but to save the Union. The war with Spain was not of our seeking, and some of its consequences may not be to our liking. Our vision is often retrospective. Short-sightedness is a common malady, but the closer we get to things on the set to us, the clearer our vision.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, Oct.—(Special)—A close friend of Bryan's says that he is absolutely sure of being elected to the President, if he wins in Nebraska. He will do when he comes to Washington, and is making his arrangements with the apparent view that there can be no question of his election. In view of the fact that Bryan was so absolutely sure in 1896 as he is now, and was so overwhelmingly defeated, it must be that there is something wrong with the man's intellect. Having made the best fight he could four years ago, how can he now make the same boast with the same apparent belief in what he says? More than this, he made all kinds of dire predictions and prophecies of disaster which would befall the country if McKinley was elected. But not only have all his prophecies proven false, but nearly every assertion and argument he made has been refuted. With slight modifications he is making the same assertions now. But he is using a little different tact. He is so solid on all new propositions as he was four years ago. There is evidently something the matter with the man's head.

One of Bryan's favorite assertions this year, besides the dire disaster he predicts in case the policy of expansion is continued, is that there will be a military post at every large town, which will oversaw the people of this country. Bryan seems to forget that the whole movement of the Anglo-Saxon has been in an opposite direction from that, and it has been the purpose of the new dominant race of the globe to no further and further towards self-government, and to reduce the military to actual necessities. It is not possible that the people will overlay by raising or military posts at every town.

There is this to be said: If Bryan should be elected and carries out all his threats it would mean the practical disbandment of the army, so far as he could accomplish it. He would be busy enough to know whether the defenses of our coasts would be left or not, for further he would in his theoretic way practically leave the country open. He is so far from apparently seeking to injure the officers, but also he admits that they are all wrong, and that the Democrats would never have the opportunity. There is too much sense left and reasoning among the American people to permit it.

The people of Washington are very glad to have President McKinley return to the city, and that there will be no reason enough to begrudge him the time he has spent in his old home. It is well known that although many prominent matters required his attention, that he went away solely on account of the health of Mrs. McKinley, who has been very precarious during the summer. It is not a short time ago that Bryan would single important affair in the nation's welfare, and he has been so occupied with all the questions considered by his supporters. By telegraph and from distance telephone he has been informed of and directed every movement, which has led to such a triumph in Pennsylvania.

The Democrats have at least three mountebanks, besides Bryan, on the stump. They are William Sulzer of New York, John J. Lentz of Ohio, and James Hamilton Lewis of Washington. Lewis is the brainiest man of the whole outfit, not excepting Bryan. If he was known in his convictions he would be quite a valuable man. Lewis joined the Democracy in Washington for two reasons: first, being a Southerner, his affections led him to the Democratic party; and, second, he thought that the Democracy might be successful, as the wave of populism was sweeping over the country at that time adjoining. He was not a politician, but had come to Washington to attend to some business. He was explaining the great change that had taken place not only in Montana, but elsewhere. "The republicans are," he said, "that Bryan will give her electoral vote to McKinley. I have heard them talk that the republicans may not carry Maryland and Kentucky this year. These votes will be offset in the States of Montana, Idaho, Utah, Wyoming, South Dakota and Washington. These States have always been Republican, and if it had not been for the Silver Republican fusing with the Democrats they would never have gone Democratic. Now the Silver Republicans are nearly all coming back, and we are going to carry these States named. I do not know so much about Nevada or Colorado, but these other States are going to get into line."

It is very interesting to see the wild cry of alleged corruption in bringing voters in New York by Republicans, coming from such men as Croker and Tammanyites, who have become past masters in the art of election frauds. The fact is, when the Republicans heard Croker talking about 115,000 majority in New York City, they knew that he intended to perpetrate the greatest possible fraud upon the voters, not only of New York City, but of the State of New York, and thence upon the nation if New York's electoral vote should decide the contest. It is to cover up these frauds that the cry of Republican corruption has been hung on the Democracy. It is evidently the last flying wail of Democratic claims of New York State.

Evidence continues to multiply that Democrats in the Philippines, are encouraged by the advices they receive from the anti-expansionists and those who oppose the American policy in regard to the Philippine Islands. The mails are now bringing in captured correspondence showing that the hope of the Filipino cause is in the election of Bryan, and that the Filipinos have been advised through the Hong Kong Junta and Aguinaldo that they must accept no overtures from the civil commission representing the United States until after election. They acknowledge that their cause will be lost if McKinley is elected. A parallel case of this is the fact, now well established, that the Southern Confederacy was kept alive by the hope of the encouragement received from the Copperheads in Northern States. It is not likely that the people of this country are going to give aid and comfort to the Filipinos or to any people who are in sympathy with them here by voting against the Republican ticket.

Such men as Senator Daniel of Virginia, Senator Gorman of Maryland, and even Bourke Cockran of New York, all spoke a short time ago that Bryan would be elected. I do not take so much stock in what is said of Bourke Cockran, because he continues to go on the stump and is gaining nothing in the flop he has made since 1896. But I really believe Daniel and all the others at that time afraid Bryan might win. Daniel recognizes that all the material interests of prosperity of Virginia depend upon McKinley's election, and he is supporting Bryan. Gorman knows that not only his interests, but the best interests of his State, will be benefited by McKinley's election. He is only giving that passive support to Bryan which will probably result in Maryland casting her electoral vote for McKinley.

WALLACE SEELEY.

BRYAN'S LABOR HUMBUG.

One might suppose from Bryan's constant prating about labor and the rights of workingmen that some grave issue of

BRYAN'S FRIENDS TALK.

[Extracts from a book published in Madrid, during the present year, entitled "Independence and Revolution," written by Isabelo de los Reyes, editor of the paper called "Filipino ante Europa."]

The world knows that the Filipino soldiers are skillful marksmen and have excellent discipline, and perhaps no one will deny the statement when I say that twenty Filipino insurgents can put into motion five hundred Yankees, because each Yankee soldier needs five more to carry his rations, arms and other effects.

McKinley should for patriotic reasons resign his position because this is the best way to secure cordial reconciliation between the North Americans and the Filipinos.

A duel to the death has been commenced which can be amicably arranged only by substituting McKinley with Mr. Bryan.

The wave of anti-imperialism each day increases in North America Republic, frequent meetings are being held to protest against expansion and threatening to down McKinley in the next Presidential election.

All the Masonic lodges of the United States support the cause of Philippine Independence.

Imperialists, does not in any manner favor the interests of the grand republic, but only the bastard and unclean interests of some syndicates and those of some military and civil chiefs.

The Central Philippine Committee of Hong Kong writes that the war between the Yankees and the Filipinos is the exclusive work of the friars, to whom also are attributed the numerous accusations and incendiaries committed by the Americans.

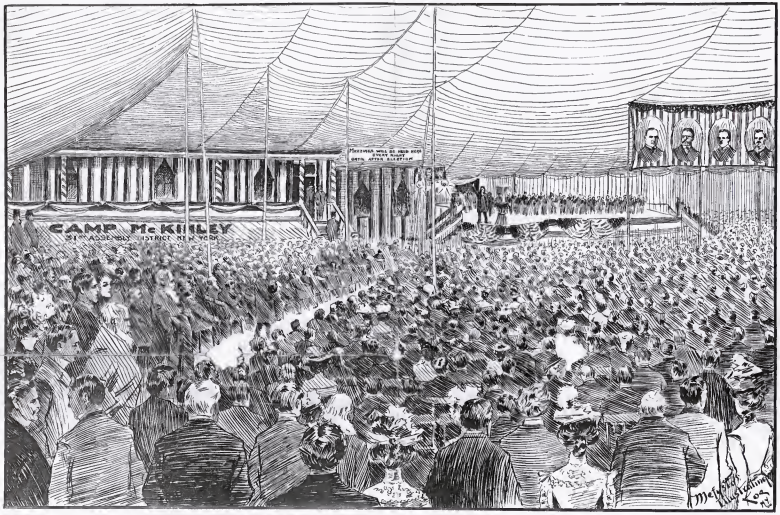
One of the difficulties in accepting the offers of peace would be the difficulty in getting the United States to agree to pay the debt contracted in the country by the government of Aguinaldo, who has issued bills of one and five dollars, to the amount of $125,000 obligations on the Philippine Treasury, created in virtue of the decree of November 29, 1899. Should the United States acknowledge these bills, the holders thereof, the modest capitalists, would be enemies of peace and oppose it at all cost. General Otis, when trying to secure peace, acknowledged that the government at Washington would recognize the bills issued by Aguinaldo and would redeem the same.

McKinley says that he purchased us for twenty millions from Spain. Many think that he was for this that you took Aguinaldo to the Philippines, and, after arming him and causing him to lose many lives in the war against Spain, that you bought the Filipinos like a herd of swine of the enemy against whom both have fought!

The American Civil Commission says that the Filipinos who have favored the Americans are fearful in the event of independence that they will be assassinated, but everywhere, except in the few nations which have abolished capital punishment, treason to the country is punished with death.

The Americans seduce our poor young

X-E738
.R4
157



Copyright Nov. 1st, 1900, by "Harlem Life," N. Y.

MILLARD J. BLOOMER, Publisher.

Camp McKinley,

Republican Headquarters, 31st Assembly District, 125th Street and Seventh Avenue. New York.

From the original drawing presented to President WILLIAM McKINLEY by the Campaign Committee November 1st, 1900. Dimensions of tent, 150 feet by 90 feet, on plot 200 feet by 125 feet. Over 20,000 square feet of lumber used in construction. The historical house to the left is entirely occupied for this memorable campaign by the Headquarters Committee. Silas C. Croft, Esq., Surveyor of the Port of New York, who conceived the idea of the tent over a year ago, is Chairman; he has been personally in charge of the Camp every night. The First Presidential Voters McKinley and Roosevelt Club, 1,000 members, and the McKinley Guards (Khaki uniform), 500 members, who make the Cottage and Camp their headquarters. A large reading room, filled with campaign literature, is a feature. The capacity of the tent is 4,000. Forty-five nightly meetings have been held since September 14th, with a total attendance of 180,000.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

SILAS C. CROFT Executive Member.

GEORGE H. SUTTON
WILLIAM SIDERER
ORLANDO ROCKEFELLER

JOHN J. N. SYMES
FRANKLIN H. SMITH
FREDERICK DIELBERG

JAMES Y. WATKINS
HENRY C. ROBINSON
HARVEY T. ANDREWS

SAMUEL S. SLATER
HENRY GRASSE
ALFRED R. PAGE

SAMUEL STRASBOURGER
THOMAS O'NEILL
EDWARD S. CLINCH

HENRY B. SMITH
RICHARD T. ASHMAN
MAX D. OUTMAN

BRYAN KNIFED THE FARMERS

How He Helped to Slash the Tariff on Farm Products in 1894

Bryan has been telling the farmers of the West that when he served on the Ways and Means Committee in 1894, nobody appeared to look after the interests of the farmers. Perhaps that was the reason Bryan and his associates knifed the farmers so frequently in recasting the tariff. Certainly Bryan did not look after their interests, as a comparative showing of tariff rates will attest.

The farmers not Protection under the Republican McKinley and Dingley tariffs. Bryan took it away from them in the Wilson bill of 1894. Thus:

TARIFF RATES ON FARM PRODUCTS.

| | McKinley Act of 1890. | Wilson-Gorman Act of 1894. | Dingley Act of 1897. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Horses and mules | $30.00 per head. | 20% ad val. | $30.00 per head. |
| Cattle one year old or over | 10.00 " | 20% " | 27½% ad val. |
| Calves (under one year) | 2.00 " | 20% " | $2.00 per head. |
| Sheep | 1.00 " | 20% " | 1.00 " |
| Hogs | 1.50 " | 20% " | 1.50 " |
| Barley | .30 per bush. | 20% " | .30 per bush. |
| Buckwheat | .15 " | 20% " | .15 " |
| " meal | .15 " | 20% " | .15 " |
| " flour | .15 " | 20% " | .15 " |
| Wheat | .25 " | 20% " | .25 " |
| Potatoes | .25 " | 15c per bush. | .25 " |
| Onions | .40 " | 20c " | .40 " |
| Beans | .40 " | 20% advel. | .45 " |
| Peas, green | .40 " | 20% " | .45 " |
| Peas, dried | .40 " | 20c per bush. | .40 " |
| Cabbage | .02 each. | 20% " | .03 each. |
| Other vegetables | 25% advel. | 10% advel. | 25% advel. |
| Apples, green or ripe | .25 per bush. | .25 per bush. | .25 per bush. |
| Apples, dried | .02 per lb. | .02 per lb. | .02 per lb. |
| Eggs | .05 per doz. | 3c per doz. | .05 per doz. |
| Poultry, live | .03 per lb. | 3c per lb. | .03 per lb. |
| Poultry, dressed | .04 " | 3c " | .05 " |
| Bacon and hams | .06 " | 20% advel. | .06 " |
| Lard | .02 " | 1c per lb. | .02 " |

TAXING DEMOCRATIC CLERKS

A Washington dispatch says the Democratic clerks in the Departments are in receipt of the following from a man well known as one of Bryan's most intimate friends:

"1319-21 B street SE, Washington, D. C., Oct. 4—Mr. ——, Sir—I would like to have you call at my office between the hours of 6 and 8 o'clock p. m., at your earliest convenience, on a matter of important business.

"C. T. BRIDE."

When a Democrat called, Mr. Bride stated. It is said, tell him that the Democrats were hard pushed for money for conducting the campaign, and he thought every Democrat employed in the departments here should contribute to the campaign fund.

"Do you know I am one of Mr. Bryan's closest friends, and in the event of his election I will be in a position to help you out," added Mr. Bride.

The clerk was constrained as a premium of material assistance in event of a contribution and the election of Mr. Bryan.

A CANOIO CANDIDATE

Mr. Bryan as a candidate professes to be very careful and jealous in the Best

JEFFERSON AND M'KINLEY

Their Actions Compared in Regard to "Entangling Foreign Alliances"

"Jefferson said: 'Peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations, entangling alliances with none.' This was the Democratic issue doctrine " " and we, especially condemn the Ill-conceived Republican alliance with Russia."—Kansas Platform.

The Jefferson, whose words are thus used to denounce entangling alliances, himself contemplated a friendly, indissoluble, entangling alliance with England, in connection with the Louisiana controversy, in case France closed to us the navigation of the Mississippi.

J. Adams, p. 3 & 68.

One forefathers' doctrine of opposition to "entangling alliances" merely means

BRYAN'S TWIN EVILS

Labor Has Experienced One of Them But Never Wants to Have Both

In 1892 the Democrats triumphed on a platform which pledged their party to the enactment of a low revenue or Free Trade tariff bill. That slightly improved with what had been promised was passed, but the disaster occasioned by that bill to the business and industrial interests of the country was such that, in 1894, the party was defeated by an overwhelming majority.

In 1896, without confessing that their tariff views were wrong, they abandoned Free trade and adopted, "revised, probably as a cloak to conceal their purpose" with reference to the tariff, asserting, that free silver would give relief from the conditions produced by their and free trade experiment.

When sound money triumphed, the Democrats without confessing their error on the question of free trade, their slogan in 1898, or free silver, their paramount issue in 1896, come up smiling in 1900 with another issue. They have not announced either free trade or free silver, for both are in their platform as the great

OLD SOLDIER STANDS UP FOR OUR NATIONAL HONOR

Colonel William Colville of Red Wing and Grand Rapids, Minn., who was registrar of the United States land office at Duluth during President Cleveland's administration, has reported President McKinley, Jesse Coville is an old soldier and was wounded at Gettysburg. His opinion of Bryan is as follows: "I cannot support anyone who favors it or any of its confederates. I feel proud of our whole record in the Spanish war and since in the Island of Cuba. The army never has been and never will be composed of "hirelings." Remembers were formerly to take up arms because filled with the warmest love of our country and its free institutions. There is no difference in this respect between its regulars and volunteers. Thinking of their sacrifices, I pray for us, their valor in action and their great endurance, that they cement hardships, bow dauntedly, for stay at home, to the enemy, and then be specific" Proterian Guards," instruments of empire, etc.!

MINNESOTA FARMER TELLS THE TRUTH ABOUT BRYAN

A. H. Bolin of Winnebago City, Minn., who ran against John Lind for Congress in 1894 and 1896 and been a life-long Democrat except during the Civil War, writes to Mr. Bryan Mr. Bolin is a leading farmer of the state. He says: "I feel bound to be the first place the people down and way, particularly the farmers, are prosperous and generally contented. The administration of President McKinley, it seems to me, has been honest and businesslike, which fact has, without a doubt, contributed largely to this prosperous and healthy condition. I believe in letting well enough alone. In the second place while I am a farmer, and rather old-fashioned and conservative, yet I am not afraid of expansion. It seems reasonable that such territory, as Hawaii, Philippines, which do not raise what we produce must absorb

ABANDONS CANDIDACY

Judge L. C. Whitney of Washington Has Become a Convert to Republicanism

Announcing his change of faith, Judge L. C. Whitney of Washington said in a recent speech:

"I cast my first vote for Horace Greeley, and at all the political changes since, with but two exceptions, I have voted to furnish the corpse, and to the front seats among the chief mourners. Of course, it made me awfully tired. The weary feeling would naturally often come, but nevertheless, duty, and the new associates we acquired in these times, and the strange sights of other wars have espoused, I stuck to it through thick and thin, and, I sometimes think that I, or any party, was wrong. But events of late years, and startling events at home that the light penetrated even my political epidermis.

"The wonderful results of the application of wise business methods to the administration of public affairs by our political statesman, President William McKinley, was such a swift, sharp and complete answer and refutation of all our fears and prophecies of that year that even a Democrat was forced to do something. (Applause.) We behold immediately after his assumption of the reins of government the paralyzed and paralyzed industries of the country spring into life and activity, as if touched by a magician's wand; idle and hopeless labor

PROBLEM W. NASBY JR.

Begs the Voters to Help Him Beat Bill McKinley's Full Dinner Pail

"By the tender memories of our ancient cooperated ties, by the glorious traditions of Andrew Jackson and the early fathers of the republic, I pray you, fellow citizens, to rally round the banner of Karl Shirts, Secretary Boswell, Big Tommy Ryan, Gamaliel Bradford, Moorfield Story and the Doctor Bunch of Annex Imperialist and Mugwump, and support me for the President and defeat Bill McKinley.

"If I can't make the rifle fetch fall I'm bested they don't know what will have to bite back to Nebraska.

"By the dear and venerated shades of Aaron Burr and Benedict Arnold I charge you to cluster round the standard of Aguinaldo, and elect me President and I will withdraw the American Soldiers from the Philippines, and gentle home, and let Germany and England take the Islands for which we spent so much treasure and shed so much blessed blood, and back down and crawfish before the cannons of the Earth.

"The Free Silver Issue, I regret to say has petered out. The Sony Bonnet, and also a thing of the past in the unfettered union of Hermann's Lodge and the Full Dinner Pail of Bill McKinley has upset the Walking Delegate and the Boy Spellbinder.

"Never mind can I stir up the shiftless rabble denouncing the Wall Street Shylocks and money sharks, or starting an elegant rumbles between the Eastern Plutocrat and the Boston Poet.

"Cheap money has finished our Silver Yard Kipling and too much McKinley Prosperity has ruined the Democrat orthodoxy spellbinder Jim Jamahlin and Karl Shirts are only hope of reaching his proscribed land. And finally I'm for offices and turning the rascals out in the street."

"Mike I am a fellow Single Taxer ask a question," sez I polite, catching the Boy Knockoffery one with his elastic optic and nailing him to the spot.

"Certainly," sez Wilyum Jennins Bryan laughing, "ask two if you like and be quick about it."

"Wot abolished the Soop bonnes on Halsted St. and started the Grinding Mills in South Chicago running night and day, and brought back the Prosperity to the Horsy handed toiler and gave him constant employment and a Full big Dinner Pail, was it—Ed Atkinson or Stanhope Boutwell?" sez I.

"No," sez the Boy Knocktyer, heaving a weird sordid sigh. "It was neither Stanhope Boutwell or the Boston Bunch of Bean Eaters."

"Was it Aguinaldo or his right bower Karl Shirts?" sez I.

"No," sez he solemn, taking a chew of fine cut and twirling darkly in a hungry big puncher in the front row. "It was not Karl Shirts or Bourke Cockran or a Admiral Dewey."

"Then was it the bine kisses was it?" Kride I asked. "Somebody must be in the foolish pitch to kill your chances for doing our next President to succeed Bill McKinley?"

"It was Mark Hanna and the Money Power," sadly sez the Boy Knowitlyer, solemnly wiping away a briny juicy tear that rippled down his alabaster jaw, and one hunc- Bingl Tarer in the front seat, with a copious bunch of Bury red whiskers streaming down his vest like a Halsted Street torch light procession on a windy night, groaned a ghastly grays yard groan and Kride shook.

RUIN TO LABOR

Bryan Plan for Lowering Duties Would Destroy Protective Tariff.

The all-important question that overshadows all other issues to be decided at the approaching November election is the manner in which the Democratic party proposes to deal with trusts. Instead of framing a law to prohibit trusts and combinations of capital against labor in the Democratic platform they propose to make all articles manufactured by trusts free of duty, and in W. J. Bryan's letter of acceptance he emphasizes that everything that is or can be manufactured by men as produced by huge and combined trusts.

Now, if Bryan is correct, it will destroy the tariff to place them all on the free list, and the country will be flooded with all manner of manufactured articles free of duty, leaving comparatively little for working men to do, and the little they have to do will be at pauper wages.

W. J. Bryan exclaim the Chinese as pauper labor, but can they not manufacture at home and send here free of duty? This rule will apply to all nationalities, and where will our wage-earning citizens be? Instead of being protected by a tariff they will have the competition of the world. Instead of getting the benefit of the tariff and being the finest people on the face of the earth, they will sink to the level of pauper wages.

This will not come by chance, but by wise and prudent legislation. Three years ago this nation was a borrowing nation and now it is a lending nation, and in that time the unprecedented amount of new business transacted and the balance of trade is in our favor; but without the wise provisions of our tariff it would have been the reverse.

These threats are not idle tales or dreams; they stand out in black and white in the Democratic platform. Are you ready for such a change? If so, cease saying you are the happiest and best-paid working men in the world; cease saying you are for better pay and for 20 or 30 cents a day.

A government must be supported, if not by tariff, then by direct tax out of your pocketbook. Tell us, I call upon you, countrymen and fellow-citizens, to stop and ponder well these momentous issues. A change in administration may bring a change for the worse, and we will be letting well enough alone and voting for the administration that has brought this prosperity. In the name of humanity, for the sake of wives and children, for fellow wage-earners, I entreat you to be careful how you approach the ballot box.

It matters but little to you who is President, for he will be gone in a full three years and your wives and little ones are happy. W. J. Bryan's platform is not Democratic. For the last quarter of a century they have advocated a tariff for revenue only and the Republicans have advocated protection, but to protect our workmen. Now, W. J. Bryan said "Give City speech, which was delivered officially to workmen, to find out the capital voted and then vote the other way." This is very low demagogery. Labor cannot live without capital, and capital

X-E738
.R4
#759

More than 500 depositors in the Greenwich Savings bank, the Immigrants' Industrial Savings bank, the Bowery Savings bank and the Union Dime Savings Institution, alarmed at the danger which would threaten their savings in those banks in the event of Mr. Bryan's election, have addressed to the presidents of the four institutions named an open letter, calling upon them to state what, in their opinion, would be the effect upon those deposits of the passage of a free silver coinage bill. The petition and replies given by the bank presidents follow:

To John Hansen Blunden, President Greenwich Savings Bank, 346 Sixth avenue: James McMahon, President Immigrants' Industrial Savings Bank, 31 Chambers street; John D. Hicks, President Bowery Savings Bank, 130 Bowery; Charles E. Spencer, President Union Dime Savings Institution, Broadway and Thirty-second street:

New York, Oct. 16, 1900.

Gentlemen—We, the undersigned, depositors in the savings institutions of the city of New York, mindful of the fear that it is charged by campaign speakers of the Republican party that in the event of Mr. Bryan's election and the consequent enactment of a law for the free coinage of silver that the value of our deposits will be seriously impaired, hereby petition you, as the custodians of our savings, to make clear to us, that we may act accordingly, what effect the actual effect upon our deposits by the passage of a free silver coinage bill such as is advocated by Mr. Bryan.

Respectfully yours.

Edward N. Elmore, 37 W. 14th st.
C. F. Serre, 27 W. 14th st.
G. W. Cuntze, 116 W. 109th st.
A. R. Reynolds, 9 Bank st.
Thos. M. Mulligan, 2 E. 14th st.
Th. B. Dove, 1 W. 27th st.
George Wilson, 1 W. 27th st.
Chas. T. Bernhauer, 9 W. 27th st.
John Gunther, 27 W. 27th st.
Annot Reoffers, 786 6th av.
A. C. Ballantine, 13 W. 27th st.
John Kimber East, 13 W. 27th st.
William Gates, 206 E. 155th st.
John A. Welsh, 540 W. 34th st.
Thos. T. Fleming, 1172 Broadway.
H. Perle, 9 W. 30th st.
Herbert Bean, & Co., 20 W. 30th st.
George Lee, 1542 3d av.
J. M. Reichmann, 1383 Broadway.
Samuel Cohlitz, 1180 Broadway.
Ernest Gellert, 1 W. 6th av.
N. A. Pool, 1273 Broadway.
James Hutchinson, 1348 Broadway.
Mrs. S. F. Allen, 79 E. 111th st.
F. Mathews, 1320 Broadway.
Mrs. M. Schoomaker, 1179 Sedalwick av.
C. E. Hicker, 1298 Broadway.
Whitney Bros., 1128 Broadway.
Wm. J. Brown, 1 Madison Ave.
A. R. Richmond, 141 W. 116th st.
G. H. Lehmann, 983 Broadway.
M. Lichtenhone, 937 Broadway.
M. P. Bolton, 1 Madison ave., Brooklyn.
C. E. Kelly, 549 E. 164th st.
William F. Mosser, 549 E. 164th st.
J. Alfred Beuthell, 218 W. 127th st.
Lewis L. Lewis, 58 W. 45th st.
W. H. Lowndes, 921 Broadway.
Giles A. Bicks, 54 Tulsa st.
E. Wessel, 438 W. 49th st.
J. M. Byrd, Summit, N. J.
W. H. Beaumont, 250 4th av.
C. D. Van Brielle, 239 4th av.
Frank L. Hopper, 1301 Broadway.
Bernard J. Hinchliffe, 1161 Broadway.
Henry Heilman, 1303 Broadway.
Annie J. Hilton, 540 W. 29th st.
Eureka V. Hyler, 313 W. 29th st.
Mrs. A. J. Saunders, 309 W. 29th st.
John J. McAuley, 405 W. 22d st.
Hy. L. Stuart, 401 Monroe st.
H. J. Herbt, 231 Bloomfield st., Hoboken.
J. J. Scully, 2378 8th av.
H. T. Bell, 24 W. 12th st.
S. B. Wood, 108 E. 17th st.
H. A. Stuart, 491 Monroe st., Brooklyn.
W. Finey, 557 3d av.
A. G. Bertram, 837 Broadway.
Sol. Rosenthal, 30 W. 118th st.
Chas. Kirn, 172 Broadway.
C. King, 170 Broadway.
Jos. H. Kavanagh, 239 Bergen st., Brooklyn.
H. C. Bodewart, 1818 Bathgate av.
J. H. Harrison, 134 South st., Mt. Vernon.
M. H. Green, 353 W. 119th st.
J. G. Lamb, 279 Broadway.
Alfred J. Cohn, 767 Broadway.
C. R. Goepel, 502 Broadway.
Sol. Travers, 259 W. 54th st.
Jas. Jordan, 122 W. 117th st.
W. Bernhart, 91 Middleton st., Brooklyn.
L. R. Crosby, 767 Broadway.
Alex. M. Cohn, 767 Broadway.
H. A. Gaffin, 2005 Broadway.
T. N. Bartell, 139 W. 109th st.
Thomas O. Nichols, 800 Broadway.
Orrin Van Deusen, 800 Broadway.
Louis Sabosdehl, 335 2d st.
Sophia M. Bammann, 197 4th st., Hoboken, N. J.
S. S. Cairney, 303 E. 90th st.
H. Cohen, 1 E. 17th st.
Fred Kroll, 271 W. 117th st.
D. Eitesh & Bro., 1 E. 17th st.
John Burdsheim, 100 E. 81st st.
J. H. Dutch, 2 W. 30th st.
W. L. Mills, 41 Union sq.
E. Hein, 29 Union sq.
Wm. Sunbulian, 39 Union sq.
A. D. Jacot, 39 Union sq.
Cassel & Co., 740 Broadway.
W. S. Conklin, 726 Broadway.
I. S. Rombach, 726 Broadway.
Frank Mitchell, 1268 Broadway.
Louis Pulitzer, 22 E. 100th st.
L. A. Chapin, 1 Madison ave.
Julius M. Goodman, 708 Broadway.
Mrs. Kate Goodman, 1056 Bedford av.
F. Schobelt, 22 Lafayette pl.
Frank Trelas, Hells ave. and Grand st.
M. O'Dea, 228 W. 59th st.
Anna Pulaski, 1822 6th st.
Edw. B. Storm, 24 University pl.
Henry Arnholz, 877 Thirty-ninth st.
O. N. Cappes, 315 E. 17th st.
Frank Morrison, 30 Lafayette pl.
J. P. Kulp, 52 University pl.
John Doyle, 109 Hanover st., Brooklyn.
Chas. Schimmel, 431 W. 49th st.
E. B. Dunn, 171 W. 28th st.
Manuel H. Wolf, 57 W. 31st st.
A. Kaufman, 239 E. 53d st.
H. Holmes, 523 8th av.
C. A. Seyfert, 1 Broadway.
Geo. E. Adams, Middagh st., Brooklyn.
Louis Wilkowski, 131 Broadway.
Louis Sasenge, 1373 Broadway.
Wm. Schmidt, 1 W. 30th st.
Wm. Hatler, 149 E. 2d st.
Geo. B. Brauer, 1 W. 17th st.
P. Schiffer, 738 W. 49th st.
Geo. Fleischer, 1376 Lexington av.
J. L. Cupey, 250 W. 23d st.
Edwd. P. Bailey, 109 E. 21st st.
Thos. O'Beirne, 61 W. 26th st.
R. J. Kornfeld, 8 W. 26th st.
C. J. Hynes, 63 W. 26th st.
J. A. Bowker, 32 E. 23d st.
Chas. M. Lawrence, 438 Putnam av.
R. J. Kornfeld, 8 W. 116th st.
C. F. Farrell, 269 6th av.
W. T. Gregory, 32 E. 23d st.
J. Kanoffs, 397 Hope av., Astoria, L. I.
A. L. Tucker, 42 Lexington av., Brooklyn, L. I.
E. Bickler, 7 Hopkins st., Brooklyn.
Wm. M. Ambler, 24 W. 22d st.
C. Heber, 84 W. 134th st.
Joseph B. Ryan, 341 E. 87th st.
Sarah L. Davidson, 237 Broadway.
H. C. Davidson, 237 Broadway.
Wm. Bulger, 340 Broadway.
George M. Ryan, 149 Broadway.
J. P. Grace, 36 W. 38th st.
H. L. Janeway, Midway st.
Stanley Clay, 224 E. 23d st.
H. T. Kirk, 34 ss. and 37th st.
Aymar Embury, 50 Pine st.
William C. Ingersoll, 7 Church st.
Edward James, 37 Liberty st.
Joseph Kamp, 1234 3d av.
J. Rudy, 1 Park ave.
Edward Zierath, 2 Hamilton av.
Geo. Ehrhardt, 345 W. 35th st.
J. B. Key, 253 Broadway.
R. S. Gibson, 1500 Broadway.
Adolph Kleiner, 44 E. 57th st.
Chevron Bros., 1 Madison ave.
Chas. H. Brown, 29 Harlem slip.
C. J. Kelly, 1 Park ave.
Geo. J. Bowman, 108 W. 34th st.
Sam'l. H. Barrett, 239 W. 43d st.
G. H. Gibbs, 80 Bowery.
Dan Rudgley, Hoffman House.
John Hobart, 377 Broadway.
Dr. R. J. Hall, 105 W. 11th st.
W. Paisley, 78 W. 79th st.
Mathew F. Beal, 1453 3d av.
Frank Whitehouse, 99 Columbus av.
Louis Lachenmeyer, 2 Park ave.
Peter J. Carey, 24 Rose st.
Jos. Milton, 221 10th ave.
Richard Carmean, 28 Madison av.
Thomas H. Hendry, 82 West st.
Henry Bristed, 208 8th av.
Ray Donaldson Thomas, 520 W. 57th st.
John Carlile, 39 Broad st.
O. O. O'Connor, 153 Broadway.
J. Cave, 106 Canal st.
Truman Cleaver, 31 W. 21st st.
H. D. Zyss, 83 Stone st.
Jno. Cross, 73 Broadway.
Max Bergwood Sherwood, 397 2d av.
Henry Cuyler, 108 Madison av.
Thos. Fitzsimmons, 1496 Broadway.
Barnard Ehrlich, 1 E. 125th st.
W. H. Hogans, 137 4th av.
Philip H. Schenck, 525 6th av.
George Wahl, 80 E. 3d st.
John Pratt, 227 E. 25th st.
Philip Thompson, 204 E. 23d st.
Louis Lane, 1 Park ave.
James Scott, 90 Bowery.
William Peabody, 1822 6th st.
A. Y. Pringle, 136 W. 57th st.
Henry Brinckerhoff, 1 W. 24th st.
Lemuel Evans, 200 Broadway.
John Wolf, 693 1st av.
John Shaw, 49 48th st.
Jas. H. Dennison, 1307 W. 125th st.
Emile Carley, 39 Broad st.
Thos. O. Moeths, 690 10th av.
Eugene S. Lamb, 550 Columbus av.
Henry B. Knight, 54 Nassau st.
W. H. Hearn, 131 East 20th st.
Jas. G. Fallon, 88 Perry st.
James B. Kyle, 630 3d av.
Joseph Pierce, 40 Chatham st.
Peter Walker, 20 Amsterdam av.
Edgar Stone, 1 W. 19th st.
Richard Shaw, 21 State st.
J. A. B. Smith, 156 E. 26th st.
Chas. A. Avery, 156 Broad st.
J. Aronhson, 1376 Lexington av.
W. G. Bale, 156 Bowery road.
C. J. Murphy, 1376 Lexington av.
George Rutledge, 161 Bank st.
George S. Bell, 28 Clinton st.
Phillip West, 22 W. 25th st.
John Goff, 9 Irving pl.
F. Avenanas, 192 West 38th st.
Reuben Weinstein, 86 4th av.
Harris Marks, 1870 Pitkins ave., Brooklyn.
Sol Gottlieb, 1570 1st av.
Reuben Weinstein, 86 4th av.
Harris Marks, 1870 Pitkins ave., Brooklyn.
Sol Gottlieb, 1570 1st av.
Jos. M. Cramer, 1620 6th av.
Patrick McNarny, 627 Amsterdam av.
John Silvert, 326 Bleecker st.
W. H. Fellows, 93 Morton st.
Patrick O'Hare, 77 Bank st.
M. Meacer, 193 Broadway.
Patrick O'Brien, 109 Bleecker st.
Jennie Sharpe, 243 Barclear pl., Brooklyn.
Rev. Ralph J. Walker, 27 E. 63d st.
F. H. Suffrin, Montclair, N. J.
Marcus Marks, 240 W. 28th st.
J. Peterson, 117 W. 28th st.
Samuel F. Wagner, 227 W. 25th st.
E. J. Sulzer, 204 W. 77th st.
W. P. Reinhold, 43 W. 42d st.
George Cantel, 217 6th av.
Samuel Goldsby, 69 W. 28th st.
Simon Brown, 74 W. 10th st.
John Cleary, 80 Washington st.
Peter Shoemaker, 741 Hudson st.
Owen McCormick, 83 Broome st.
C. J. Rickert, 1 Park ave.
E. B. Corrigan, 80 Horatio st.
Samuel B. Barrett, 239 W. 43d st.
Samuel Simons, 77 Greenwich st.
Orlando Jones, 98 Greenwich av.
Philip Southerland, 353 W. 31st st.
Dr. W. J. Walsh, 105 W. 11th st.
Thos. J. Bell, 93 Bank st.
George Beckman, 25 Lovey st.
J. H. Hilliot, 163 W. 26th st.
E. H. Faulds, 36 W. 26th st.
Charles G. Bird, 89 W. 17th st.
Geo. H. O'Brien, 10 Spruce st.
Robert Freeman, 427 W. 27th st.
Thomas Patterson, 595 Boston st.
George Robertson, 86 Charles st.
George Stanley, 420 Greenwich st.
Ephraim Pratt, 97 Bank st.
Wolcott Fiske, 65 Stanton st.
George Hutchings, 13 Leroy st.
Samuel Ross, 131 W. 21st st.
Patrick Miles, 66 Charlton st.
Thos. Reik, 156 Greenwich st.
Andrew Jones, 432 W. 37th st.
Charles Smith, 337 W. 24th st.
Isadore Chasky, 86 W. 4th st.
J. Ackerly, 1893 Lexington av.
Wm. H. Cromwell, 129 W. 129th st.
Philip H. Schenck, 525 6th av.
H. H. Benham, 525 6th av.
Percy Jenkins, 42 E. 4th st.
H. Stern, 316 6th av.
William F. Smith, 62 St. Mark's pl.
John W. Lewis, 596 6th av.
P. W. Salzenbach, 189 6th av.
Peter Bergen, 469 4th av.
M. Stern, 149 6th av.
John Globmith, 422 6th av.
John Wolf, 693 2d av.
Henry Haas, 548 6th st.
James B. Dennison, 1307 W. 125th st.
Geo. W. McNally, 320 4th av.
Edward Brock, 168 Bedford st.
A. R. Verrill, 56 W. 10th st.
Samuel Cohen, 1 East 64th st.
Geo. Webber, 900 Columbus av.
John G. Fuller, 385 Perry st.
Peter Peabody, 504 6th av.
Joseph Pierce, 40 Chatham st.
George Washington, 80 W. 31st st.
Oscar Johnson, 310 W. 19th st.
Joseph Pulitzer, 87 Bleecker st.
Daniel E. Hughes, 156 Perry st.
E. W. Burns, 191 W. 14th st.
Charles Brooks, 325 8th av.
Charles Tooks, 203 6th av.
John W. Lewis, 596 6th av.
Emile Strauss, 67 Lenox st.
Max Gerst, 97 Greenwich av.

Answering your inquiry of Oct. 15 I have to say that the election of Mr. Bryan and all that it implies, so relative to the coinage of silver, would be a serious menace to every interest that the savings bank represents. As a representative of the largest savings bank in the country, proud of its success and jealous of its depositors' interests, I say, most emphatically, do not vote for any one who proposes the free coinage of silver.

These are facts proved by experience and the history of nations. The tests are so true as the movements of the barometer, and no man who will inquire can say that he gave his vote upon an issue so grave in ignorance of the facts as they exist.

Today the credit of this nation stands higher in the market of the world than ever before and we are foremost in commerce, diplomacy and in the arts of peace and war, while never did the people of the full blue the law of the nation and stands waiting to know if we are to revive or to reopen its blockade for four years to come.

Such is the present position of America—a position which could only have been reached, and the foundation of which could only have been laid in a fixed and stable currency based upon a standard of value adopted by the civilized nations of the earth.

If gold goes to a premium (as it surely will in case of the free coinage of silver) the savings bank depositor would find that the money he always has been wont to purchase so much as they have do, owing to the rise in prices which must take place. The difference in value between gold and silver, measured by the international, is now adjusted, and that adjustment is never stable, but moves up and down as the relative purchasing value between the two metals.

Higher rent, higher price for clothing and house supplies must and will come, and shorty higher prices for labor will be paid, but never in proportion to the increase in price of general commodities. The struggle to live will not be increased, but gradually increased, and if the experiment is continued long enough the impoverishing of labor will work out itself effect, and this country will stick to the level of a sound currency.

Such are the conditions existing in all countries now on a silver standard, and history again and again has proved the truth of the assertion that a debased standard of values upon which credit is based produces moral degradation and poverty wherever it is in operation.

So far as my interests represented by the banks are concerned, the principal of which is not due and cannot be paid, the interest received will be paid in a depreciated currency. So far as those not covered which can be sold, they will depreciate to a point where the difference in value between gold and silver is adjusted. So far as new investments are concerned, they will be made upon a basis giving a return equivalent to the difference in value between gold and silver, when the equivalent of all credit could be or violent a change in standards, and and will cause a serious business depression, loss of confidence, forced liquidation and general disaster until the difference in value between gold and silver is adjusted.

Thou will follow a period of wild speculation and inflated values that the people have learned by bitter experience the evil of the charter, and seek through another period of depression and loss and suffering to amend once more upon the firm ground where we now are.

The maintenance of the conditions as they now exist is the supreme issue in this contest, for under these conditions credit is maintained, capital is employed and the workingman is busy, and he cannot be busy if capital is idle.

It is for reasons such as these that the officers of savings banks, recognizing that they are the servants of the people, having in their charge the moneys of the people and bound by honor and duty to serve them to the best of their ability, warned as one man, feeling what they believe to be a serious danger to the

"LUCK" IN POLITICS

Good Fortune of William McKinley Through Life—How "Duty Makes Destiny"—Bryan's Unlucky Prophecy.

At the Coliseum, Chicago, October 4, about 13,000 people had gathered at 7 p. m. to make sure of hearing Governor Roosevelt speak at 8 p. m. They were entertained in the meantime by a speech from John W. Hill, of Pontoria, Ohio. Mr. Hill began:

"SOME MEN ARE BORN LUCKY.

"SOME MEN ARE BORN IN OHIO."

The effect of this palpable hit on the great audience was tremendous. The big hall was shaken with one of the greatest demonstrations of approval ever accorded a public speaker. Mr. Hill had brought thousands to their feet in the enjoyment of a joke which was to be kept alive by the crowd.

WILLIAM McKINLEY,

PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES,

BORN IN OHIO,

WAS BORN LUCKY.

The American people do not seriously begrudge LUCK to a GOOD man. It is only to bad men that luck is a popular disputation to begrudge LUCK. In literature, the popular novel is always that one whose hero is GOOD, is LUCKY, and whose LUCK NEVERTHELESS persevers in GOOD DEEDS to the very end make possible the final "AND ALL LIVED HAPPY AFTERWARDS."

THE LUCK OF WILLIAM McKINLEY consists in the following facts:

1. HE HAS A GOOD FATHER.

"William McKinley, Sr., was a man of character, and of the highest integrity. While, at times it was a struggle to provide for such a large family he conscientiously performed what he believed was his duty, and made every possible sacrifice to educate and make useful men and women of his children."—Robert P. Porter's Sketch.

2. HE HAD A GOOD MOTHER.

"Mrs. McKinley was one of those rare women who shine in all roots of good and useful work. She had that blending of gentleness and strength of will and purpose that has been a rich inheritance to her children."—Robert P. Porter's Sketch.

3. HE HAD A GOOD HOME.

"A pure, American home, where sound religion and love of country were inculcated from childhood. It was typical of those homes of the best class and most useful citizens of the Republic." Of Poland, Ohio, where his early days were spent: "Stirring scenes have taken place in this village. In its street lies a runaway slave was secreted, and after his pursuers had been thrown off the scent the unhappy wretches were sent on to Canada and freedom. Many people in this day is that she never stood the draft. Her quota was always full and overflowing."—Robert P. Porter's Sketch.

4. PARENTS TAUGHT HIM HONESTY.

"His, with me, entered upon a new stage: life as a soldier's life, in the school of actual war. We were in a FORTUNATE regiment. Hayes, Comly, Lawrence, Rosecrans, a graduate of West Point, a brave, patriotic and a very able man who afterwards came to command and command well, Stanley, of famous battles, Ste. Lizemann-Colonel, and Major Matthews, a scholar and a true lawyer, who after his appointment to the supreme bench, the whole bar of the United States, was soon convinced, was of unimpeachable integrity and character for that high place."—Rutherford B. Hayes, President (LUCKY) of Ohio, who became President of the United States), in a letter concerning McKinley.

5. NEVER WOUNDED IN BATTLE.

His regiment participated in all the West Virginia campaigns and in the bloody battles of the Shenandoah Valley. He was promoted for gallantry at Antietam, one of the bloodiest battles in history. At Winchester he was shot in front, by a rebel, to what appeared almost certain death, but a minie cartridge in his pocket. For this he was brevetted Major by Lincoln. He was never wounded in battle.

6. HE WAS FORTUNATE IN LOVE.

He was married in 1871, to Miss Ida Saxton, whose beautiful traits of character made it literally correct to say: "Behold, a lady who is worthy of a husband."

7. LUCKY IN WINNING ELECTIONS.

He had the novel reputation of having three perry-winning elections under him, out of winning twice in spite of the efforts of the Democracy to retire him from Congress to private life. He was twice elected Governor of Ohio, and twice to the Presidency in 1896, his opponent being "LUCKY" WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, who, in the famous "Cross of Gold" speech, unfortunately prophesied McKinley's destiny in the following words:

"Why, the man who was once pleaded to this land as the Napoleon—that man sanders to-day when he remembers that he was nominated on the anniversary of the Battle of Waterloo. Not one that, but one as fatal to him as bear, with ever increasing distinctness, the sound of the waves as they beat upon the lonely shores of St. Helena."

BRYAN WAS WRONG, BECAUSE

President McKinley, however, during the four years of his WHITE HOUSE life, has known nothing of those St. Helena waves. Bryan prognosticated his own DESTINY when he prophesied that

BRYAN SLANDERS THE NATION

In his Cooper Union speech in New York, Bryan said it we should send a collection of patriotic songs to the Philippines, we could not complete if the Filipino changed the words a little, and sang: "My Country, Tis of Thee, Land of Hypocrisy, of Thee I Sing."

How do patriotic people like that kind of language?

Heretofore Bryan charged all sorts of vice on the Republican party, but now he so realizes that the country approves the Philippine policy he maligns the nation itself.

"Land of Hypocrisy."

A fine thing to install as President, a man who slanders his country in that way.

But Mr. Bryan's experiments in the use of abhorrent and forbidden language does not stop with the country. At Madison Square he said: "When Republican policy is complete, hundreds of thousands of workingmen, instead of addressing their appeal to the Almighty, will have to pay to the trust magnates: 'Give us this day our daily bread.' Such language as that is more than an insult to workingmen—it is most offensively sacrilegious. Intoxicated by his love for oratorical effects, Bryan is carrying abuse of language to a great length.

BRYAN'S MONOPOLY

"I do not believe," said Bryan at his reception in New York, "that God ever made a man good enough to be trusted with the private monopoly and fix the price of the food necessary to the support of life." How about Bryan's book? By taking up the subject of rights he says Bryan has a complete monopoly of that book. He also monopolizes the idea that the world would bring under free competition, "the trusts, the syndicates, the dollar trusts." Bryan's followers seem to think that Bryan has a patent right, and according to his own representations, Bryan's patent is a monopoly of good people. At least, his arguments are calculated to be for the poverty-stricken and they must be the people interested in discharging our political debt to our right monopoly. Bryan is extoring from labbing people and is monopolizing something which they regard as a necessity. Such language is more in the nature of an insult than it is a monopoly.

THAT "CROSS OF GOLD"

What about the cross of gold? Four years ago Bryan solemnly warned the Democratic party that nominating a Republican kind on such a cross, saying, "You shall not press upon

According to Bryan the maintenance of the gold standard is a cruel crucifixion and in his view such torture has been going on for four years and yet he will not accept protest against it now. Where is "shall, shall not?"

Silence gives consent. Is Bryan continuing to TRUNNION his adherents on the cross of gold? Apparently so, but this is a very serious charge against the Democrats.

Bryan's silence in regard to silver is conspicuous; it is a matter of indifference. He sorry outbreak at Ann Arbor, where he forgot all about the crucifixion, the fanatical devotion to silver was revealed.

He cannot talk about crucifixion, the cross of gold lest people laugh at him when they find he is crucifixion devotion to them under the gold standard. He has to move his feet and hands, and the opportunity ever comes his devotion to it will be found to be as reckless as ever.

BRYAN ATTACKS LABOR

At Anderson, Indiana, Bryan deliberately repeated his plea for turning the tariff to get rid of the trusts, saying:

"The Republican party has no plan for dealing with the trust question. We have. We say, first, put the tariff on the trust made article, so that the trust cannot hide behind a tariff wall."

No remarks he made had an effect on labor. Not a moment's thought that such a change will take place from tenths of the manufacturing industries of the country.

Bryan's threat to remove the tariff from all things produced by trusts would take protection entirely away from nearly all the industrial interests of the country and expose them to unchecked competition from cheap foreign labor.

Among the manufacturers affected would be those producing food and shoes, brassware, boxes, cigar moulds, clay and pottery, clothing of all kinds, cordage, cotton goods, dentists' materials, electrical apparatus, emblems, fancy goods and machine shop products, furniture, gas and lamp fixtures, glass and glassware, hats and caps, household goods, scientific instruments, iron and steel, jewelry, knit goods, mattresses and spring beds, millinery and lace goods, plumbing goods and fitting articles, rubber and elastic goods, silk, silk ribbons, silk thread and cases, trunks and valises, wirework, etc.

BRYAN'S INJUNCTION

Although Bryan copyrighted his book and gives notice to pirates that "All rights are reserved," he could never protect these without the aid of the injunction. If it was not for injunction anybody could pirate Bryan's book with impunity. Bryan, or any other author, should use an injunction for protection. Bryan approves or reverent enough to pay a third part of his earnings. Hence he invokes the courts apply the writ of injunction to

HON. C. A. PIGOTT,

A Life-Long Democrat, of Michigan, Gives Business Reasons for Supporting the Republican Ticket.

Fatio Colt, a life-long Democrat and a prominent attorney of Bay City, Mich., supports McKinley and Roosevelt and the full Republican ticket this year. He views the country purely from a sound business standpoint and says:

"In the present condition of our national affairs, both at home and abroad, I do not consider a change in the administration of the government advisable. I have come to this conclusion after mature consideration, and with due regard to my duties as a citizen, and after a careful examination of the claims put forward by the opposition party. The Democratic party for an entire change in the administration of the government of the country.

"In the conduct of matters of ordinary business, men are not apt to change agents or servants who have prospered and successfully managed their affairs, and whose continued service has proved satisfactory to the end that the places of those discharged may be filled by others possessing no better work, even upon the lines before pursued; but this conservatism would be regarded as absolutely insane if it should be carried to the extent of discharging men of careful plans and proven ability, and adopted in the business of those assuming to be the successors of those, that this success was a mere discussed, and that a continuance in business and methods will certainly bring ruin and disaster. Yet, this is what the Democratic party, discharge its agents and employes, changes its methods, and assumes its business back over untried seas toward an unknown coast.

"Why should we not apply the same rules which have serves to guide us in ordinary business affairs, to our conduct in discharging our political in our relations of the Republic? I have asked myself this question and I can give no good reason why we should not.

"The administration of Mr. McKinley has been in a remarkable degree conducive to the safety and honor of our common country, and to the comfort and happiness of its people. Trade has advanced and consummate statesmanship the United States has assumed a position among the nations of the earth that it never occupied before, and which it is in alike distinguished by the good sense and tactful courtesy of its government in its dealings with other nations, and by its firmness in maintaining its rights and upholding its influence and power in every quarter of the globe.

"Under the administration of Mr. McKinley, an era of unprecedented prosperity has blessed our country, a prosperity which has brought about the wide adaptation of the means to the end; which has made more than ever, to a great extent, protection to American products, and a financial system based on a stable standard of value with a stable government at the back of it."

BRYAN AND TRUSTS

Bryan says that more trusts have been formed under the present than under any other administrations. If so, there must have been a corresponding increase in the amount of business for them to transact. We never hear of trusts being formed or organized in bad times. Then, too, the increase of money also says means more employment for wage-workers and more profits to bosses. The tariff is entirely dissipated, but in the course of any century it must pay taxes, and may go down to disaster, and fail to return any revenue to capital, but the wage and pay wages and benefit labor as long as their continue to prosper. Bryan's claim certain to gain is labor. Working-men understand that this is great deal better than Bryan does.

WHAT OLNEY SAYS

"Whether we want the Philippines or not, and whether we ought to have them or not, that we have got them is something that cannot be denied." Thus spoke Richard Olney. The islands were thrust upon us by the fortunes of war and now if they are bonbonnesse we must hold them. But how many times we hear, it seems as if sample profit and reward will come to us from that which we took opportunity as a burden and duty.

BRYAN AND OLNEY

Olney and Bryan cannot agree. In his article in the Atlantic Monthly on Expansion, Mr. Olney said: "The best duty of every nation is to itself—is the promotion and conservation of its own interests." That is what justifies protection, Bryan is giving that is reason why the tariff should be cut down when it was pointed out to him that Olney had quoted from Proverbs: "Better is little with righteousness than great revenues without right."

BRYAN'S GOOD TRUST

At Anderson, Indiana, Bryan said: "I tell you the only difference the Republican party makes between good

CAPT. HOUSTON'S MOTHER

Her Son Fought With Roosevelt and Afterwards Died Fighting in the Philippines.

At Hamilton, Ohio, Oct. 16, while Gov. Roosevelt was addressing a big audience word was brought to him that the mother of Capt. Houston was in the crowd and touched an interpreter.

Roosevelt stopped talking and asked that Mrs. Houston come upon the stand. Capt. Houston died in the Philippines fighting with Lawton. He was one of the eight captains whom Roosevelt took with him to Cuba into the rough-riders which made the crush-rider regiment famous. Houston was conspicuous at Las Guasimas, El Caney and two of them pet bear the wounds of Mosser bullets. Houston was one of Col. "Teddy" favorite officers, and he asked to see his mother.

She came through the crowd wearing the widow's mourning for her boy. Willing hands helped her up the platform and Roosevelt rushed and grasped her hands, with "God bless you, Mrs. Houston; there was no honor to you and to his country."

Her sons was choked with tears as she put aside her veil and looked tearfully at the hero who had her hero to victory in Cuba. She said:

"Mr. President, I thank you, Col. Roosevelt. That's why I wanted to meet you. I want to see my boy with sir. My son thought you should be President. I want to see you and shake hands. I wanted to mean to stand for the things that he stood for and for which he died, so I hope you will win."

Then she turned to the mother except Roosevelt and those nearest to her. The crowd cheered lower her and her story and the women there wept. She was aided to the platform and mingled with the crowd.

"THE MEN AT THE WHEEL"

1.

Somber skies from pointed and sullen,
Rushes a storm from the north,
Big, brooding clouds in tattered colons,
Call along the range forth.
And no splendid star is gleaming,
Blazing on dark wave of night,
And no gracious moon is beaming,
Lustrous with light.

2.

For some monstrous storm is brewing,
Whistling through the straining sails,
Never stirring, never bound pursuing
Whips along the shrieking gales,
And the little vessel creaking,
Keening like some maniac night,
The ship of Stars is speeding
Breasting starting billows' spite.

3.

Will the good ship crime detained?
Will she scape the reefs and rocks?
Will she bounce the billows
Safe against these shivering shocks?
Her wake like silvery moonlight
Raise their arms to pull her down,
Shrieking, shrieking, shrieking, aloud
While the somber Heavens frown.

4.

Who will save the ship from danger?
Who will pilot her through the storm?
Will you trust some reckless ranger
As your pilot far from home?
Here's your hammerman, stanch and steady
Here's Mr. Gompers, stanch and true,
With young Roosevelt, rough and ready
Here's your pilot at the wheel!

5.

For the crew are valiant yeomen,
Seasoned for the stress and strife,
McKinley's the ship's dauntless foreman
Roosevelt's saved a nation's life.
Let the ship sail out from the shoreline
Safe will steer her through the brine,
And our ship will sail safe never perish,
For her charter is divine!

CHORUS

Harbor lights of home are gleaming,
And the cruiser's port looms near,
Brawny hands are ready beaming,
Hark unto the alphabet cheer.
Wives and sweethearts, and the stranger,
Hearts of oak and true as steel,
Hail McKinley, hail Roosevelt!
He's our helmsman at the wheel!

JAMES B. KINSELLA.

Chicago, Oct. 17, 1900.

WILL YOU DO IT?

Will you still—Republicans, Democrats, Populists (or whatever may be your title) stand on your working clothes and vote at the polls on November 6 and vote the straight Republican ticket that gave you your victory for one of the best men that ever occupied the President's chair since it was vacated by that wisest of wise men, Abraham Lincoln?

William McKinley is the man—a human being like unto yourself—good man, honest man, a statesman, a soldier, a diplomatist, a patriot, a Christian, a Republican, a marcus. None can better serve the people—the toiling people—of the United States, and, we, the people—the whole people—have given him a four years' reprieve, yet honored Chief Magistrate—for four years more. He is our country's mascot.

X-LIV RA

ATS KICKING AT PROSPERITY OF FARMERS

ts Advance Much Faster Than Farmers Have to Buy at the Stores

CAUSE OF MORTGAGE CANCELING

finders base their efforts ing the farmers in 1900 rom that of 1896. Then ent the prices of farm Now they complain that persons and the prices of gift.

ated in Chicago on July Kansas City on July 5, ponstations of the first July, 1900, the respective ely as practicable to the ominations.

the fairness of selecting ork, beef, cotton, wool, epresentative articles of ll anybody questions the , tea, coffee, rice, petro- th, tin plate, steel (from ) and Bessemer pig central requirements in epresentative articles of w show the prices of the function and of an equal rm consumption at the rcentage of increase in ngs increase, at the date nomination as compared ate of his first nomination.

ncipal Articles of Farm Production in New York Market at dates of and second nominations, showing the per cent of increase in 1900 over 1896.

| | July 2, 1896. | July 5, 1900. | Per cent of increase. |
|---|---|---|---|
| | .05 1-2 | .80 | 35 |
| | .33 1-2 | .49 5-8 | 48 |
| | .21 1-4 | .26 1-2 | 24 |
| | .04 1-2 | .07 1-2 | 66 |
| $ 6.75 | $14.00 | 00 | 107 |
| 8.50 | 12.00 | 61 | 41 |
| .06 13-16 | .10 1-16 | 58 | 48 |
| .28 1-2 | .28 1-2 | 00 | 00 |
| 14.09 | 15.88 | 11 | 11 |
| .131 | .16 | 22 | 22 |
| | | | 45.6% |

ncipal Articles of Farm Consumption in New York Market at dates st and second nomination, showing the per cent of increase or de

| | July 3, 1896. | July 5, 1900. | Per cent of increase or decrease. |
|---|---|---|---|
| | .04 1-2 | .05 | 11 |
| | .05 1-2 | .05 3-4 | 11 |
| $12.25 | $14.00 | $16.50 | 35 |
| | .0690 | .0755 | 9 |
| | .0757 1-2 | .0660 | 12 |
| | .013 1-4 | .09 1-8 | 31 |
| | .043 | .0425 | 1 |

WHEAT

The people of the United States were on "half rations" in 1894, but on full rations in 1899 and 1900. The official publications of the Treasury Bureau of Statistics show that the wheat consumed in the United States in 1896 was but 3.41 bushels per capita, while in 1892 it was 5.91 bushels and in 1899, 5.95 bushels per capita. In 1900 the home consumption will probably exceed 6 bushels per capita and be nearly if not quite double that of 1896.

This illustrates the advantage to the farmer of a flourishing business condition, which means him a satisfactory home market. In 1892 and 1893 factories were running on half time. Both employers and employes were less busy and making full earnings. Everybody has been able to buy all the food that he wanted. In 1899 and 1900 conditions have been even better.

The official publications of the Department of Labor show that wages are higher to-day than ever before in the history of the country, and far even than in the prosperous year 1892, when they reached the highest wage that had ever been known up to that time.

The effect of this condition upon the farmer is shown by the figures quoted below. In 1892 and 1899 the people of the United States consumed practically 6 bushels of wheat per capita, and in 1892 had little over 3 bushels per capita. The home market took, in 1892, 65% of the total crop of that year, and in 1899, 72%.

But in 1894, under the depression and retrogrey for economy on the part of a large proportion of the consumers, it took only 38% of the total production. Even the fact that wheat was cheaper in 1894 than in 1892 or 1899 did not enable the people of that time to consume as much as they are now consuming under the present high prices which the farmer is getting for his wheat crop. The average export price of wheat in 1894 was 60c per bushel, as against 75c in 1899 per bushel. It is still higher in 1900. Yet with the general depression which existed in 1894 the home market was less valuable to the farmer than for many preceding years, and less than in prosperity which protection and sound currency brought to pass. It was a market which sold his products and at higher prices in 1892 and 1899.

Mr. Bryan and the Democratic party propose to return to all of the conditions which produced the depression of 1894, namely, the depreciation in value of the home market and the price of everything that the farmer has to sell.

The following table shows the home consumption, total and per capita, consumed in 1892, 1894 and 1899; also the quantities of wheat exported in each of those years, the average export price, and the per cent of the crop retained for home consumption in each year. The prosperity of the farmer and indeed every one interested in sentiment and prosperity in all branches of our home industries:

HOME CONSUMPTION

| Year. | Bushels per crop. | Bushels per capita. |
|---|---|---|
| 1892 | 386,747,294 | 5.91 |
| 1894 | 232,151,841 | 3.41 |
| 1899 | 432,470,332 | 5.95 |

EXPORTATION.

| Year. | Exports wheat. | Export price. | Per cent retained for home use. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1892 | 225,966,811 | $1.03 | 63.12 |
| 1894 | 150,000,000 | .60 | 38.00 |
| 1899 | 222,618,420 | .75 | 67.03 |

COTTON

The price of an ounce of silver in New York in March, 1896, just prior to the nomination of Mr. Bryan, was a little over 70 cents and the price of a pound of cotton was 5½c dollars.

LABOR AND WAGES

One of America's patriotic citizens, Thos. S. Baur of St. Louis, "believes it to be the duty of all citizens who have the interest and welfare of our country at heart to lend what aid they can to re-elect our President." Mr. Baur is President of Obear-Nester Glass Company and is a large employer of labor. He speaks to the wage-earners as follows:

The Republican National Committee, Chicago, Illinois—

Gentlemen: Believing it to be the duty of all citizens, who have the interest and welfare of our country at heart, to lend what aid they can to re-elect our President, I feel it is wise that we consider a practical lesson in prosperity which the Republican administration.

In submitting to you the statement of wages paid from the years 1892 to 1899, we wish to state that after the passage of the Wilson tariff bill, from the Democratic administration, we were compelled to reduce the wages of our employes, and continuing their wages twice, making a reduction to them of 9 and 18%, according to the class of work they performed. It was very hard for us to keep our works in operation and we were only enabled to do so by such reduction and by working very short hours, and at a loss on product. In spite of that we purchased, prices declined to the lowest we have ever had, in the years 1894 and instances 25 and 30%.

Since the Republican administration we have been enabled to increase our product by doubling the capacity of our plant. We have advanced the wages of our skilled workmen twice, giving them now 18 and 36 per cent over and above, with the exception of one one class of work upon which we have made the same wages paid them. Our sales last season were over 50% greater than any previous year, the price of materials that enter into the manufacture of our product, notwithstanding, has advanced to 20%. The price of our product, owing to our increased manufacturing facilities, withstanding the increased cost of production, has advanced only from 5 to 10% in the consumer.

We commenced business in 1891 and, of course, each year would show an enlarged business by the fact we were in business, and from the statement that the year 1896 to 1899, during the Republican administration, showed a great falling off in skilled labor wages. This partly due to the fact that factories being destroyed by fire and out of operation for a time, and partly to dispute as to adjustment of wages for skilled labor. You will notice that from the time that the Republican administration got into good working order and the Dingley tariff bill was passed, a large increase each year in both skilled and unskilled labor. Our total wages paid in 1892 amounted to [illegible] in wages, not including officers' salaries, a total amount of $160,292.80, against $224,429.07 for the year ending September 1st, 1899, showing an increase in our business under a democratic administration.

We wish therefore to say to you that we are not members of any trust and that there is no truth in the statements circulated, that we are an institution that the intelligence of the workingman of our country will see that, having brought home to him the evidence of practical prosperity he will not be carried away by the fallacies of the populistic democratic party, imperialism, trusts, etc., to the extent of voting sight of what we consider our best interest to be, the employer and employee, of Free Trade and Free Silver, but will cast his vote in November for the grand old party that stands on the solid rock, "Protection to home industry and American Labor."

STATEMENT OF WAGES PAID.

| | Skilled Labor. | Unskilled Labor. |
|---|---|---|
| Sept. 1, 1892 | $10,065.80 | $20,000.38 |
| Sept. 1, 1894 | 43,805.45 | 20,424.10 |
| Sept. 1, 1895 | 48,814.67 | 23,414.40 |
| Sept. 1, 1896 | 51,047.81 | 24,563.65 |
| Sept. 1, 1897 | 44,408.67 | 24,408.67 |

PRESIDENT McKINLEY EXPOSES ATTACK ON GOLD STANDARD

Shows How the Democratic Tri-Partite Alliance Would Quickly Attack the Currency

SPLENDID SHOWING OF PROSPERITY

The President's letter of acceptance opens with the silver question, saying that in 1896 the friends of the gold standard and sound currency were triumphant and that the country enjoys the fruits of the victory, but the same antagonists compel a second battle on the same lines.

Continuing, he says of this question, which can only disturb the present satisfactory financial condition of the government and visit unwarranted upon our great business enterprises, we accept the issue and again invite the sound money forces to join in winning another and we hope a permanent triumph for an honest financial system which will continue invisible the public faith."

The Violent Revolutionary Language of the Tri-partite Party Alliance

Immediately after the election of 1896 Mr. Bryan issued an address to the silver party, saying that they had been vanquished, and that he believed the gold standard a conspiracy of the combined forces of the Republican and the human race, and that the warfare against it would be continued. The platform of the Democracy and their allies, in 1900, continues the warfare against the gold standard, and supporters repeat the demand of the Chicago platform:

"For an American financial system made by the American people for themselves, which shall restore and maintain a bimetallic price level; and as part of such system the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present ratio of 16 to 1."

The Paramount Issue is Not Business—The Silver Mania Demands "Immediate" War on the Gold Standard

The President calls attention to the fact that this is a demand

"For the immediate restoration of the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1. If another issue of bimetallism is immediate, the party will admit of no delay and will suffer no postponement."

The President's sentence, "If another issue is bimetallism is immediate," is a great one, stating a most important point already famous.

The President proceeds to place in array a few of the points of the marvelous financial success in the administration. September 1, 1900, there was in the Treasury a balance of $152,424,000 gold in addition to the gold reserve of $150,000,000, which is the property of our government.

"A greater per capita than it has ever been. It was $1,026,000,000 in the aggregate on September 1 in July 1, 1900, and $26,625 on September 1, 1899, and $1,000,000 on July 1, 1896, was $1,506,434,966; on July 1, 1900, it was $2,062,452,460, and $2,056,062,042 on September 1, 1900."

The splendor of these figures startles the world. The President is so well accustomed to them that he does not undertake to give them emphasis. He says:

"Our industrial and agricultural conditions are more promising than they have been for many years; probably more so than they have ever been. Prosperity abounds everywhere throughout the republic. I rejoice that the prosperity as well as the possible danger of

The President's letter of acceptance opens with the silver question, saying that in 1896 the friends of the gold standard and sound currency were triumphant and that the country enjoys the fruits of the victory, but the same antagonists compel a second battle on the same lines.

Continuing of this question, which can only disturb the present satisfactory financial condition of the government and visit unwarranted upon our great business enterprises, we accept the issue and again invite the sound money forces to join in winning another and we hope a permanent triumph for an honest financial system which will continue invisible the public faith."

The Violent Revolutionary Language of the Tri-partite Party Alliance

Immediately after the election of 1896 Mr. Bryan issued an address to the silver party, saying that they had been vanquished, and that he believed the gold standard a conspiracy of the combined forces of the Republican and the human race, and that the warfare against it would be continued. The platform of the Democracy and their allies, in 1900, continues the warfare against the gold standard, and supporters repeat the demand of the Chicago platform:

"For an American financial system made by the American people for themselves, which shall restore and maintain a bimetallic price level; and as part of such system the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present ratio of 16 to 1."

The Paramount Issue is Not Business—The Silver Mania Demands "Immediate" War on the Gold Standard

The President calls attention to the fact that this is a demand

"For the immediate restoration of the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1. If another issue of bimetallism is immediate, the party will admit of no delay and will suffer no postponement."

The President's sentence, "If another issue is bimetallism is immediate," is a great one, stating a most important point already famous.

The President proceeds to place in array a few of the points of the marvelous financial success in the administration. September 1, 1900, there was in the Treasury a balance of $152,424,000 gold in addition to the gold reserve of $150,000,000, which is the property of our government.

"A greater per capita than it has ever been. It was $1,026,000,000 in the aggregate on September 1 in July 1, 1900, and $26,625 on September 1, 1899, and $1,000,000 on July 1, 1896, was $1,506,434,966; on July 1, 1900, it was $2,062,452,460, and $2,056,062,042 on September 1, 1900."

The splendor of these figures startles the world. The President is so well accustomed to them that he does not undertake to give them emphasis. He says:

"Our industrial and agricultural conditions are more promising than they have been for many years; probably more so than they have ever been. Prosperity abounds everywhere throughout the republic. I rejoice that the prosperity as well as the possible danger of

O. R

ATOR WARREN

ntical Conditions and the Prosperity in Wyoming.

GO FOR McKINLEY.

arison Between Agricultural d Pursuits Under Democratic nd Republican Administrations.

I Wyoming are vitally and in the outcome of the present ming has been a State but a years, and of the period from democratic and Republican ved to impress upon the people r distinct and impressive object ng period was during the Demo- ration from 1893 to 1896 in- ly we suffered so severely the ; and when our material con- ed so intimately to the capital ld seems like a hideous night- period of four years is that Kinley administration. As the were awakened to life and hope, r our industries, depressed and ng Democratic policies, have be- ly and our business ventures satisfactory. Our ranches, eep, mines and railroads of our bulandi seemed to the capital ied upon them, and our people constant borrowers are now s and becoming leaders. ntine statements, the truth of to every resident of Wyoming resident having business ple, it is easy to state what the ngers now to Wyoming. The are we to again be pledged into ing? or of Democratic times, nitme our present satisfactory ndness? Do we wish to see d homes and ranches, value- and horses, idle mines, tor- railroads in the hands of re- ed distress? Or, on the other n prospering industries, paying ar prices for live stock, ed wages for our miners, rail- ed trends in wages, but hope ; pay their employes adequate d all other co- tions indus- and contentme. ; stress which are resented to ouning at this time. Bryanism ne first and fundamental in heads—"Expansion, Imperialism"—are not an issue of the ign. This idea is the prod- . Every foot of its area of ts was formed from territory d expansion such as the Louisi- ersaure of the Oregon treaty, ntreaty, and the California pur- without the consent of people think of militarism was r action at the commencement ion. The Republican party ntices, but sent over a thousand Tag of our volunteers, ho- ice out was a leading Democ- the State, who went to the ernate and through merit wor- ightly were made officers. ed to be home so that I could ed. I hope he will be defeated n bugaboo word imperialism d against.

ses in Wyoming are live stock cal mining, and railroad oper- also has extensive and rich as yet but partially developed, ousand men are employed in cattle and horse raising iom ity of the State. During the ation, administration, and ope- erations of the Wilson tariff satisfied with its State administration, which is Republican, as well as with the national administration. Under the economical and careful direction of State affairs given by its officials, all of whom are Republicans, the State has no growing indebtedness, has a surplus in the treasury, and will be prepared when has a comparatively small bonded indebtedness becomes due to pay it off. The public institutions of the State are all conducted within the appropriations made for them by the legislature and some of them are self-supporting.

"The most hopeful feature of Wyoming's business conditions is to be found in the fact that its local banks now carry the credits of its business people. The deposits in Wyoming banks have increased four-fold in the past four years and the business of the State is conducted on a cash basis. Western banks are now as independent of the East and its money market as it will be difficult, I think, for Mr. Bryan to convince the people of Wyoming that this condition of affairs is not due directly to the wise and patriotic policy of the Republican party.

In 1896, when four years of depression and disaster had almost driven our people to despair, the alluring panacea held out in the plausible promises of Bryan was the salvation of Wyoming and he carried the State by about 250 plurality. Now it is proper that I should tell you how, from the ranch and from the mine to go to the polls, that plurality will not only be lost to Mr. Bryan but the McKinley and Roosevelt electors will carry the State by a substantial majority.

FRANCIS E. WARREN,
United States Senator.
Cheyenne, Wyo., Sept. 26, 1900.

We expended under Jefferson. Why not expend under McKinley?

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, Sept. 28. [Special.]—For four years the Democrats have made a campaign for free silver. The Democratic platform and the position of Congress in that time that the speeches of Bryan have been echoed and re-echoed in both the United States Senate and in the House of Representatives. Silver was hailed as the "paramount" issue, and the position of the Democratic party was that the prosperity of this country until after free coinage had been halted was due to the predicament of affairs at this time, they turn and scan the "imperialistic" issue. Bryan and his party have had proven fistic in 1894, 1896, 1892 and in fact every time the Democrats have been in power and when prosperity was spending over the country. Prosperity ceased dire when entered in 1896 were made when the Republicans were passing the gold standard law, the act which has so strengthened the financial credit of the nation. The echoes of the campaign of 1896 were heard in the 54th Congress—the 55th Congress in deep consideration, and the Democrats, not having proof that prosperity was upon them, continued still insisted that silver was necessary to the people.

Speaking of this same financial measure that was passed in the last session, it is certainly amusing to hear the Democrats talk about the matter, even if Bryan was elected and there should be a Democratic Congress with him, is sure to be the case, "the Republican Senate would have passed the Democratic House." The people of the country and the legislation passed by the Republican party have had sufficient proof in front placing the country on a silver basis." Bryan, the Democratic leader, has called attention to the ridiculousness of this assumption. It ought to be given the "hoarse hoot" from one end of the country to the other. It shows to what depth the Democrats will descend in order to secure a victory.

It is just possible that the Democrats are not going to attempt to get the financial legislation of the country as they were four years ago, and it may be that a lot of them have some sense on the subject of finance. But there is one thing that the Democratic leaders attempt to

SENATOR JONES SUED

Bryan's Democratic Manager is Defendant in Texas Suit Under Anti-Trust Law.

HIS COTTON BALE CONNECTION

Charged That It is a Conspiracy Against Cotton Trade and Free Competition—Why Won't Bryan Denounce It?

Senator J. K. Jones, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is a defendant in a proceeding brought under the Anti-Trust law of Texas. He has company in his trouble.

John E. Searles, known as "Bill" Jones as one of the biggest "Trust Magnates," is a co-defendant.

The Texans have placed these two gentlemen under fire because they are the heaviest stockholders in a concern known as the American Cotton Company. John E. Searles is president of the organization.

The chairman of the Democratic National Committee says his company is but "a large business concern." But the Texans—and Texas is a Democratic state—think differently.

It is charged that the Jones-Searles combination constitutes a conspiracy against law and free competition.

The American Cotton Company is a trust if there ever was one. Not only is it capitalized at $100,000,000 cash, but it is formed in pursuance of a plan which excludes the possibility of competition.

Nicoll's Stock Exchange handbook, a recognized authority, says: "The American Cotton Company is a corporation which controls the patents for machinery and processes in making round-lap bales."

"Controls"—that word itself is suggestive of the "Octopus." It is the word over which Mr. Bryan raves in his St. Louis denunciation of Trusts.

Every cotton-ginning plant in the south must have one of the machines manufactured by the American Cotton Company. They save time and money. The manufacturer must make his purchase of the Jones-Searles combination. It has exclusive possession of the field. The buyer must pay the price on terms of the combination. He can buy no plant else. He cannot even buy independence from this $7,000,000 combination.

The American Cotton Company refuses to sell its patents. It leases its machines. The manufacturer attaches one to his plant and yearly pays tribute to the American Cotton Company. So great are the profits of this combination that in the short time the concern has been in existence Texas has claimed to have risen from the rank of a comparatively poor country to be now regarded as a millionaire. And the southern manufacturers continue to swell the bank account of the Democratic Campaign Manager.

William Jennings Bryan, in his denunciation of Trusts at St. Louis, gave a list of the great corporations of the country. But he left out the American Cotton Company and the American Ice Company. The others he denounced. But these two Democratic organizations he ignored. He exclaimed: "Those who attempt to divide private monopolies into good monopolies and bad monopolies will never make any progress toward the overthrow of Trusts." Therefore Mr. Bryan will not denounce the Trust association.

Even in making his division in monopolies Mr. Bryan showed strong discrimination. He specified such concerns as the Standard Oil Company. Yet this concern is only one of several dozen oil companies in the country. Not one is forced to do business with the Federal Steel. There are the American Steel & Wire Company, The Republic Iron & Steel Company, The National Steel Company, The Carnegie Company. And there are others.

But Mr. Bryan made his division in favor of the American Ice Company, which has absolute control over the prices in New York city, and which, during the past year, has raised some of the tenement house districts and added to its wealth by the suffering of the poverty-stricken.

Mr. Bryan also makes his division in favor of a concern which is to fortified that every cotton-growing state is forced to pay tribute to it.

It depends, when Mr. Bryan denounces Trusts, upon whose ox is being gored.

PRICES OF FARM PRODUCTS, 1896 TO 1900

Democratic orators who are attempting to create discontent among the farmers are finding much to complain of the prices they receive for their products. A comparison of the prices of farm products on September 1 of each year, from 1896 to 1900, presents some extremely interesting facts.

PRICES OF LEADING FARM PRODUCTS, 1896 TO 1900.

| First Week in September. | 1896. | 1897. | 1898. | 1899. | 1900. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Spring wheat, No. 2* bush | $.85½ | $.84 | $.65½ | $.69½ | $.73½ |
| Corn, No. 2* per bush | 19½ | 27½ | 29½ | 31½ | 40½ |
| Oats, No. 2* per bush | .14½ | .20½ | .21 | .21 | .24½ |
| Rye, No. 2* per bush | .30½ | .46 | .48½ | .54 | .51½ |
| Baled hay, No. 1, Timothy* per ton | 8.00 | 8.50 | 8.50 | 9.50 | 11.00 |
| Potatoes,* per 180 lbs | | | 1.32 | 2.5 | 1.00 |
| Hops, choice,* per lb | .07 | .07 | .11 | .12 | .13 |

watches closely the question of prices and obtains frequent reports of the prices in the leading markets of the country and the principal cities produced by farmers. A comparison of the prices of farm products on September 1 of each year, from 1896 to 1900, presents some extremely interesting facts.

As an evidence of the way Croker is reaching out I call attention to his desire to increase his control of the United States Senate. He has already a number of southern senators now under his thumb, and he would like to have more. He is now anxious to have his personal friend, John H. Gear, a resident of West Virginia, elected to the Senate, and it is understood that a part of the large Tammany contribution to the campaign fund went into that state for the purpose of electing Gear. Croker's interest in West Virginia, Croker would be dominated absolutely by Croker, and would be one more senator added to those Croker has already acquired. Croker tried the same game two years ago, but he was not able to land McGraw in spite of the attempt of the Democrats to rob the people of their choice.

The development in the Philippines of two islands which will produce enough rubber to supply not only this country but the world, will be a great thing for the United States. We now are abroad about 300,000,000 annually.

NEW YORK LETTER.

(Special.)

Washington, Sept. —.—Calamity always has been, and always will be, the cry and stock in trade of the Democratic party. It has always been a calamity howler, always prosperous only during the imaginary land rather than the real—and yet it has been the record of that party for more than forty years that it has brought calamity threfold greater than its enemies complained of whenever it secured power in the United States. It is a party of contrast. Consequently it is with great glee that the Democrats hail the strike in Pennsylvania. The prospect for higher prices for coal is joyful to the rich and poor alike, seems to be a tonic to the Democratic spirits, for they figure on making political capital out of it in the Pennsylvania. The general impression in New York is that it is a democratic strike, was organized, originated and fostered by the Democratic leaders for political effect in this presidential campaign. Of course every one who knows anything about it perfectly aware that the Republican party and the National Administration have nothing whatever to do with the strike or the grievances of which the miners complain. Every Democratic orator on the stump and the Democratic papers have already laid the blame on Republicans as responsible for all the ills that may grow out of this strike which may have deplorable consequences behind it. Democrats are responsible solely for political effect is nothing short of crime.

Croker is reaching out. For a long while Tammany was content to control New York city. From time to time, however, ambitious leaders have made a strong fight for control of New York, and even to enter national politics. Croker has been the undisputed leader of Tammany who thinks that his success in Tammany can be extended if he can get a foothold, he can be the United States. He has already shown that he absolutely controls the Illinois Democratic machine in spite of Hill and the better element of the party in that state. Croker is sent in no doubt very strong. The chairman of the Democratic national committee is a resident of New York to consult Croker on national affairs. Croker's interest in West Virginia is to have the elected would no doubt give him control of a vast deal of money, and there is now before the people of the United States the prospect of a Democratic national machine being dominated to the Tammany machine in New York city, in which event the Democratic party would be compelled to pay a heavy tribute for maintaining the Democratic party in New York. It would be Crokerism carried out to its logical ends, and the position of the Democratic party in controlling the civil service is certainly based upon the Tammany idea.

Taking the Hocking District, the largest coal field in the State, as a basis, the mining rates and values, according to the following table shows the highest average rate in any year for pick-mined, shipment of Ohio coals including the Ohio Coal Traffic Association, from all fields, which Association is composed of seven of the most prominent coal carrying roads of the State, and which represents the shipment of more than one-half of the State's production:

| Year. | Mining Rate Per Ton. | Highest. Lowest. |
|---|---|---|
| 1890 | | |
| 1891 | | |
| 1892 | 0.70 | |
| 1893 | 0.70 | |
| 1894 | 0.70 | 0.50 |
| 1895 | 0.70 | 0.51 |
| 1896 | 0.70 | |

OHIO'S OFFICIAL MINERS

State Bureau of Labor Statistics Gives Some Interesting Facts.

LABOR WORKS LESS FOR MORE MONEY.

This is the Banner Year for the Miners—Shipments of Ball This Year Have Doubled the Amount of Last Year.

Bureau of Labor Statistics, Columbus, Sept. 15, 1900.

Mr. E. W. Sa[illegible]
Secretary Indepen[illegible]
Wahington, D. C.

Dear Sir—

In reply to your [illegible] regarding the coal [illegible] State, I submit [illegible] period of the year [illegible] touching the coal [illegible] appended tables, comp[illegible] in reports of the Chief [illegible] from other authentic sources [illegible] of Mines, and the number of miners employed, [illegible] average, the average number of days work[illegible] the average earnings of the miners of the State.

It will be noticed that the mining rate per [illegible] and the value of coal at the mines are not given for the first two years of the decade, and that the average earnings of the miners only date back to 1894, as the records upon these subjects are unavailable; in fact, I have no knowledge of any such record being kept as to the average earnings before the year mentioned. You will also notice that the figures for the current year are incomplete, though they are given as fully as they can be obtained for the first seven months, or up to August 1, 1900.

From the tables herewith it will be seen that the increase in the number of miners from 1890 to 1899 inclusive is 9,354, and that the increased production for the same period is 4,120,179 tons, and that the increase over 1896 is 2,996,326 tons, the number of days worked shows a decrease of 505; days for 1899 as compared with 1894. Yet the average earnings for 1899 is $825.66 increase over that of 1894, and 25 days higher than the average for any other year for which we have a record, according to that, where it shows an average of $242.57 per miner per year.

| Year. | No. Employed. | Total Tonnage. |
|---|---|---|
| 1890 | 11,788,899 | |
| 1891 | 21,081 | 11,788,899 |
| 1892 | 21,000 | 14,909,008 |
| 1893 | 22,463 | 12,848,049 |
| 1894 | 21,000 | 11,970,228 |
| 1895 | 22,416 | 15,829,879 |
| 1896 | 24,145 | 12,912,508 |
| 1897 | 22,323 | 12,948,842 |
| 1898 | 21,819 | 14,068,133 |
| 1899 | 21,531 | 15,968,934 |

Yours respectfully,
[illegible]
Chief.

#75 X-E738
R4

How Labor Has Fared Since 1894 as Seen by Samuel Gompers, Democrat, in the "American Federationist."

Four years ago it was the hum of the coup kettle in the thousands of free soup houses that the workingman heard all over the land.

Hardly had William McKinley been elected president of the United States, and even before he was inaugurated, the hum of the free soup kettle began to die out and the whir and clanking of machinery could be discerned from one end of this country to the other. Since then the soup houses have gone out of business and in their places have been reared factories, workshops and manufacturing plants, and the hard times of the last Democratic administration, while fortunately of the past, should not be forgotten.

In no way can the transition be better stated than in the following excerpts or paragraphs taken from the editorial columns of the "American Federationist," the official organ of the American Federation of Labor, whose editor, Samuel Gompers, is a Democrat and a believer in free silver. The paragraphs are taken for publication, beginning with the initial number in March, 1894, to the present time, and tell the trials and hardships of labor during the last Democratic administration, and the good times, high wages, steady employment at good remuneration of the general prosperity of the workingman and his family for several years past. Quoting Samuel Gompers: "This country is the most prosperous whose workers enjoy the highest wages." The editorial quotations follow:

1894.

MARCH, 1894:—Work, not charity, is that labor wants. We recognize the fact that in the face of our present industrial stagnation, with its consequent trail of misery and poverty, our royal will not be drawn with roses.

APRIL, 1894:—In the ever-present contest for maintenance, they (the laborers) are engaged in a tragic battle for work, for bread, for better homes.

MAY, 1894:—To-day, in the midst of an appalling amount of industrial stagnation and misery among the forces of labor in the industrial centers of the country, the first thunderings can be heard of the rallying cry of "eight hours for work, eight hours for rest and eight hours for what we will."

JUNE, 1894:—The world's thinkers are now beginning to appreciate the fact that the demand of labor is not to shirk the duty to toil, but the unnecessary toil to which the workless workers may find the road to employment.

JULY, 1894:—Workers, will you endeavor to avert your doom before it is too late?

AUGUST, 1894:—It (the industrial stagnation) has made the foolish as well as the wise stop and think and ask: "Which way are drifting?"

SEPTEMBER, 1894:—To-day more than ever the tollers recognize how essentially they are thrown upon their own resources; that they have to take care of, outside of their own ranks who sympathize with them in their effort for the emancipation of mankind.

OCTOBER, 1894:—Our King-President (Cleveland), as is natural, he carries out the will of his political party.

NOVEMBER, 1894:—A principle in the economy of our lives must be established, and that is a living wage, that those who the wage-workers should not permit themselves to be driven.

DECEMBER, 1894:—The following telegram is self-explanatory:

"New Orleans, Nov. 7, 1894.

"To Grover Cleveland, President, Washington, D. C.:

"Without much concert of effort by organized labor the people have answered in the ballot your assumption of unconstitutional and unwarrantable use of the military power to crush labor. Thought he change may benefit you. Hope the rebuke will nevertheless be appreciated and remembered.

1895.

JANUARY, 1895:—We meet under most auspicious circumstances, and at a time when the workers are still suffering from the paralysis of industry resulting from the incompetency of our modern capitalists of industry.

MARCH, 1896:—Who cares for the worker when unemployed?

APRIL, 1896:—Although the eight-hour movement this year may not take on the dimensions we hoped for we must all recognize that the past few years have put our unions to severe tests of steadfastness and perseverance.

MAY, 1896:—At this juncture of industrial development and the countless number of well, but unemployed workers, further argument in favor of the reduction of the hours of labor of the employed is superfluous.

JUNE, 1896:—With the coming of Labor Day this year, Sept. 7, 1896, we have greater cause for joy and celebration, sorrow and demonstration than any since the day has been observed. Sorrow for the untold misery existing in this great age and world of plenty; sorrow at the sight of myriads of willing, but unemployed workers.

JULY, 1896:—Well may the trade unionist declare that it is not only the philosophy of misery which is preached to them, but that their pseudo friends make a woeful exhibition of the misery of their philosophy.

AUGUST, 1896:—No one, without personal observation, can form a conception of the horrors involved in that system (chaos) of labor. To see the bent forms and pinched cheeks of men and women; to see the emaciated forms of children, prematurely aged; to witness the masses of men and women with hope almost despairing, of not to sympathize with them in their sad and their awful struggle, to impose a heart as impregnable of sympathy and a mind devoid of the conception of human rights.

SEPTEMBER, 1896:—Whatever change for the better in the homes, the firesides and the surroundings of the toilers, must inevitably reflect their benefit effect on our civil society, upon all progress, upon all civilization.

OCTOBER, 1896:—The world is filled with the idea that there is something wrong at the foundation of society. There are but few who hesitate to admit that we will admit that there is something wrong with our social system. The fields are green, the rivers flow, the ships journey, the sea and soil their riches, all nature is generous in her bountiful gifts, but man is a willing worker, genius has made it possible to make the laborer's productivity capacity equal to supply his fellow toilers. Yet, in spite of nature's bounty and man's energy and willingness to strive, despite progress made, there can be no doubt that misery, heart-rending misery, abounds.

NOVEMBER, 1896:—Work out work and as workers to organize the unions of our respective crafts, trades and callings. Bring the unorganized within the fold. Make the unions what they should be in a conflict with an employer, or whether it be to aid the unemployed among our fellow toilers resulting from false economic conditions.

DECEMBER, 1896:—For obvious reasons the law-makers and the executors of the law are not those who possess where their independence shall direct the course by which the trusts may be successfully reached or attacked.

1897.

JANUARY, 1897:—We have not yet emerged from the stagnant condition resulting from the panic of 1893 and there is every reason to believe that an industrial revival is impossible.

FEBRUARY, 1897:—The year in which we live should be one fraught with great results in the strides and onward march of the labor movement.

MARCH, 1897:—Reports to the office of the American Federation of Labor, submitted by affiliated organizations and organizers, as well as the labor press, reflect the fact that the agitation for the inauguration of the eight hour work day has fully set in.

APRIL, 1897:—During the industrial crisis and stagnation with which we have visited since 1893 large numbers of workingmen lost their employment. This the new impetus which the movement is about to receive will impress on the minds of the workers and all friends that they should start right. Greater self-reliance and more self-sacrifice.

JUNE, 1898:—(Congress passed a bill for the arbitration of disputes in interstate commerce. President McKinley signed it and it became the law of the land. This the first law enacted in this country which recognized labor organizations and gave them equal standing.)

JULY, 1898:—Successful efforts to secure improved conditions for the toilers are made day by day.

AUGUST, 1898:—With each such advance (in wages) the vision becomes clearer and their (the workers') determination more firmly to eliminate from the lives of the human family every element by which one class can impose injustice upon another.

SEPTEMBER, 1898:—Labor Day—What It Portends.—To make our lives and environments of to-day more in harmony with the wonderful achievements of modern industry, to participate in the results—rewards of the beautiful peace and our beautiful land, to make them in receiving deserved renown for our services and sacrifices in a just war, we (the workers) must organize more thoroughly than ever.

OCTOBER, 1898:—Contains a lengthy editorial of the Federal Industrial Commission created by a Republican Congress and expresses the hope that through its investigations the laborer will get his just dues, as he is ably and amply represented on the Commission.

NOVEMBER, 1898:—The splendid address of Governor Tanner, the (Republican) governor of Illinois, in the Virden matter, will prove a monument to his honor, courage and sterling American. All honor to Virden's valiant citizens.

DECEMBER, 1898:—Contains editorial on the action of Secretary John D. Long, secretary of the navy, in granting to the laborers and artisans employed by the navy department "time and a half" for all labor performed in the navy yards when more than the eight-hour work hours per day, and highly commends the government for the strict stipulation that the eight-hour day be strictly enforced. Under this order machinists and other artisans employed in the navy yards of the country received over $35,000 in back pay.

1899.

JANUARY, 1899:—Comments favorably for the first time since the organ was published on the convention and growth of the American Federation of Labor, and says that "Second question the largest, most representative and best convention of organized labor of the country was held in the American Federation of Labor, which was held at Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 12 to 22, 1898, in which every industry and section of the entire country was represented.

FEBRUARY, 1899:—Social degradation and, democracy are incompatible, Either the social character of the masses must be elevated to the level of that of the political institutions under which they live, or no power on earth can prevent the character of the latter from falling to that of the former. The verdict of universal social law from which there is no appeal.

MARCH, 1899:—The Fifty-fifth Congress has adjourned. During its life it has enacted 4,000 laws. Not a law enacted affecting the interests of labor may be enumerated.

The bill for the improvement in the condition of the men and the exercise in their rights to equal to any American port, or in any nearby foreign port, and the restriction in the allotment of their wages.

The railroad arbitration bill.

The bill creating the Federal Industrial Commission.

The bill to protect the Plate Printers from having their trade ruthlessly destroyed by a dishonorable official.

A law to restore the wages of employes of the Government Printing Office to the eight-hour hours was enacted.

Fixing wages for printers in the Weather Bureau at not less than $1,000 per year.

APRIL, 1899:—Wherever a union exists the laborer should be conscious of the advantages of the revival in industry.

DUTY DETERMINES DESTINY.

"Duty determines destiny. Destiny which results from duty performed may bring anxiety and perils, but never failure and dishonor. Pursuing duty may not always lead by smooth paths. Another course may look easier and more attractive, but turning aside for duty's sake is always sure and safe and honorable."—William McKinley.

NO SECTIONAL LINES.

Sectional lines no longer mar the map of the United States. Sectional feeling no longer holds back the love we bear each other. Fraternity is the national anthem, sung by a chorus of forty-five states and our territories at home and beyond the seas. The Blue is once more the common altar of our love and loyalty, our devotion sad sacrifice. The old flag again waves over us in peace, with new glories written upon its stripes and new stars upon its sacred folds. What cause we have for rejoicing, saddened only by the fact that so many of our brave men fell on the field or crowded and died from hardship and exposure, and others returning bring wounds and disease from which they will long suffer. The memory of the dead will be a precious legacy and the disabled will be the nation's care.—President McKinley's speech before the Legislature in Joint Assembly at the State Capitol, Atlanta, Georgia, December 14, 1898.

TO OUR YOUNG MEN.

To the youth of the country trained in the schools, which happily are opened to all, must we look to carry forward the fabric of government. It is fortunate for us that our republic appeals to the best and noblest aspirations of its citizens and makes all things possible to the worthy and industrious youth.—President McKinley's speech in the Coliseum, St. Louis, Missouri, October 14, 1898.

WHERE DESTINY LEADS.

We have one flag and one destiny, and wherever that destiny shall lead us we will have to meet it, and meet it in its responsibilities.—President McKinley's speech at the Marchants' Exchange, St. Louis, Missouri, October 4, 1898.

BRYAN IN LOUISVILLE.

Times change, and in politics as in every other field of experience, opinions change with them. When Colonel Bryan went into Kentucky on one of his speaking tours four years ago, the Louisville Courier-Journal greeted him thus:

"William J. Bryan has come to Kentucky, and the Democrat has come in disgust. He is a boy orator. He is a dishonest dodger. He is a daring adventurer. He is a political fakir. He is not of the number of which the founders of the United States have ever made a President, nor is he even of the material of which any party ever before made a candidate."

The other day Colonel Bryan spoke again in Louisville. But the Courier-Journal sagely made no comments this time on the change in visitor since theories it despises, but whose candidacy it is rather shamefacedly sustaining.

WE ARE ALL EMPERORS HERE.

Speaking to the Twentieth Century Club in New York, Bird S. Coler said:

"Our government is not going to be converted into an empire. Looking into the horizon of our political future, there is no more reason to expect that the possibility that the people will surrender their rights and powers into the hands of one man. We may, in time, create an empire of the Republic, equal in extent and power and reach around the world, but while a man

27 HOW HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF

In 1848 Calhounites Declared the Constitution Followed the Flag Into New Territory, While the Van Burens and Tildens Protested—Democrats Condemned a Fire in the Rear.

The New York Democratic Address of 1848, written by Martin Van Buren and Samuel J. Tilden, said, in referring to those who schemed to nationalize slavery while the country was involved in war with Mexico:

"Heroes we may all be; but every lover of his country must desire that we should be known abroad as one and undivided; that being at war the only question should be, how it might best be brought to an honorable conclusion.

Further along in this address it was said the men who attacked the President in time of war sought to "overturn the security administration through the bleeding sides of the country."

When Tilden and Van Buren laid down these doctrines they were trying to do what many old-fashioned Democrats have sought in vain to accomplish in recent years—save the party from a desperate attempt to carry it into ruin. Calhoun and his following, in their effort to push slavery into the new territory acquired from Mexico, insisted, just as administration Democrats do now, that the Constitution followed the flag. Said Van Buren and Tilden:

"The doctrine is therefore plainly stated that the Constitution, of its own proper force, carries with it, it overturns the local institutions no matter how strongly intrenched in the feelings, the habits and the interests of the people, if freedom be their fortunate condition, and establishes in its place slavery; it respects the local laws, if they guarantee freedom to all, and authorizes slavery."

Tilden and Van Buren thereupon made an exhaustive review of the question, and very effectively refuted the doctrine of the Constitution following the flag, and showed that Congress had full authority to rule new territory as it thought best. Tilden and Van Buren quoted from the decision of the Calhoun party:

"Nowhere found in the Constitution, repugnant to its spirit and abhorrent as we have shown it to be to the principles and sentiments of the generation who framed it, we are called upon to interpolate this new theory upon the Constitution, as a sort of second common law, not implied in any provision of it, nor to be inferred from the general nature of that instrument."

Thus the anti-expansion doctrine was laid down by John C. Calhoun for its author and originator, while anti-Northern Democrats as Samuel J. Tilden and Martin Van Buren condemned it then, as thousands of old-fashioned Democrats do now.

AMERICA IN THE ORIENT.

Our Position as a World Power and Our Possibilities in the Markets of the World.

MUST HAVE PROSPERITY AT HOME.

[By Hon. J. Sloat Fassett, of Elmira, N. Y.]

During the administration of President McKinley the world's markets have changed have been taking place in the general estimate put by the Europeans of the United States of America.

Previous to 1896 there was prevalent only a vague notion of our wealth and our power as a nation. We were generally considered that we were great money-makers, manufacturers and producers, that we had a small and inefficient army and a small and untried navy. Compared with the military and naval strength and display of European nations, and compared with the diplomatic equipment of these nations, the United States suffered in the minds of most Orientals, who are profoundly impressed by the pomp and show of demonstrations of wealth and power and the display of military and navy on them.

Since the remarkable of industrial activity, due to Republican policies under President McKinley's administration, and more emphatically since the demonstration of our skill and prowess in the resources in the Spanish and Philippine wars, a new and more respectful view of our power and dignity as a nation has taken hold of the Oriental world, and we are, as has throughout all the world. New Commissioners, Consuls, Ministers and diplomatic consuls and officers and naval officers, representing the United States, have been treated with increased respect. Greater consideration has resulted to American merchants and manufacturers and other fields open for the investment of American capital and the operations of American enterprises.

It is understood that America has no similar designs, politically or territorially, upon the Oriental states, but that her interests are all in the line of universal peace and renewed order and security for the purposes of national intercourse and trade. Our sense of attitude from Lis-

SOUTHERNER FOR McKINLEY.

Another Life-Long Democrat Leaves His Party and Scores Its Policies

SOME HARD HITS FOR BRYAN.

Another life-long Democrat, James S. Evans, has come out for President McKinley and against Bryan, Evans is the first member of his family who has ever left the Republican ticket. His letter follows:

Mr. T. Newell, President Southern Democratic Club:

My Dear Sir:—I thank you for your invitation to the Southern Democratic Club, the headquarters of which are at Chicago, to be present at its meeting. I most respectfully decline to become a member of the organization. The purpose of which is to assist Mr. William Jennings Bryan to the Presidency, I am satisfied within the gift of a sovereign people.

I come of a long line of Democrats, many of whom have been conspicuous in our Republic, and I am a Democrat. From them I was taught the cardinal principles of the Democracy which I remembering these. I cannot subscribe to the principles of Mr. Bryan, the Democratic candidate who are advocating them, because they are not in accordance with the people and especially detrimental to the interests of the South. I am a native born Indian against the Kansas City nominees and for the first time in my life cast a member of my family vote the national Republican ticket.

The cry of imperialism raised by Mr. Bryan is a political bugbear to scare the credulous. And it seems to me it is to be regretted that intelligent Southern Democrat shall at this juncture lend his aid to the silver mine owners, the right of the overseed to be consulted in matters of organization, that all so long ago agreed that the negro's place was a majority in the South or expect them to accomplish anything in behalf of the independence of the Philippine Island.

In 1896 you regarded Mr. Bryan's campaign as "a common crusade of Bolshevist." I am and I sincerely wish every office holder, not only Democrat, Republican, Populist, Bryan, or any other organization, in Tugalo that he may be "Bolshevist" in the sense that he has not thus

SENATOR PLATT

Has No Confidence in a Party that Denies Self-Government at Home

The Real Issue Is the Preservation of National Financial Honor and Not Whether Expansion Shall Succeed

I am asked to state briefly why I think anti-imperialists should vote for President McKinley this fall. There is no need to argue about the imperialism, and such a thing as anti-imperialism. The Philippines belong to the Philippine islands are ours. The anti-imperialists say the Philippine Islands belong to the Philippine people. The imperialists say he will establish for them the best government we think they are fit for. The anti-imperialists say they have right to establish for themselves such a government as they think good for themselves.

It is thoroughly unmanly and un-American to charge that Mr. Bryan's Democratic friends or Mr. Bryan will be chosen. Voting for a third ticket is simply throwing away your vote and not to vote at all. You may as well leave your vote with the tellers or leave it with the polling election officer, unless you vote for one or the other of these two men.

Now, President McKinley made the treaty, and Mr. Bryan, when he was defeated, came home to Washington and saved it. These two great political leaders, between whom you are to make your choice, are equally responsible for everything that has happened so far. When the treaty became the law of the land, the public faith was pledged to pay Aguinaldo for our sovereignty over the Philippine Islands, and that Congress, and not the people, should dispose of their bodies. It is a constitutional duty of the President, until Congress should act, or otherwise, to protect them to order and submission. The Supreme Court of the United States so laid down law. The only difference up to this point between President McKinley and Mr. Bryan is that President McKinley believed he was doing right, belonged to party which had always been in favor of liberty, and, the champion of political liberty, in the past, and is right now in the world's conflict. He is not stake in the coming election, and it is to be hoped that he will remember, if he is, that the other hand, Mr. Bryan thought the whole transactions were a violation of the principles dearest to his conduct, and the party with whom he acts; and that he was so sorry that he could not stand him as his counselors are men who have been the greatest and most conspicuous friends and civil liberty always in the past, are wrong and all the other American people are wrong in the present election, and are not, in my judgment, to be trusted with the interests, the most important or vital, that are to come up in the future.

I say to the anti-imperialist, I say to the anti-imperialist, I say to the man who thinks the Republic is wrong in the Philippine Islands, you cannot look for the correction of that mistake to a candidate or to a party who, when ever they may think of the principles applied to the Philippines, have shown that they have no principles in their worst form to citizens of the United States.

In the matter of imperialism there has been the practical difference between Mr. McKinley and Mr. Bryan in the past. There will be the practical difference between Mr. McKinley and Mr. Bryan in the future. Mr. Bryan has not even promise to use his power as President of Congress to make it correct treaty from the Philippines. He only promises to call Congress together. He knows very well he can give no promise that Congress will do anything to make the school which is citizen of his own State, Nebraska, and which the Congress of Congress has then enabled the many—Mexico, Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii, Philippines, Samoa, Tutuila Islands, Guam, Tutuila, Tutuila, Tutuila by Professor George Gunton, you will find an able discussion ation. It is so written that you can use a section, or a para- graph or Leaders as quoted herein are very interesting.

UST ISSUE DISCUSSED

(BY PROFESSOR GEORGE GUNTON)

Thus by the power of its large capital, this concern gives employment to over 7,000 men, and in Lowell, there are over one hundred thousand dollars a day in wages and hundreds of thousands of gold to the country a year, all of which would be lost to this country but for the superior management and large capital of this company.

Small oil producers, such as existed here the first year, before this was organized, could not hold the American market against Russian competition.

THE RAILROADS.

The railroads are another type of the large corporations concerning which the Democratic party is now waging war. What effect have these corporations had on the cost of carriage? Perhaps at this point facts are stronger than phrases. In 1873 with a relatively small and uninteguated railroads, it cost the public 2.21 cents a mile to ship a ton of merchandise, but by the steady amalgamment of system into larger units it cost without reducing and in many instances raising wages, the freight charge to be reduced from 2.21 cents a mile to 75-100 cents a mile or about 64 per cent, as shown by the following table:

| Years. | Miles of railroad. | Average rate per ton per mile (cents). |
|---|---|---|
| 1873 | 70,268 | 2.210 |
| 1874 | 72,385 | 2.040 |
| 1875 | 74,096 | 1.810 |
| 1876 | 75,805 | 1.855 |
| 1877 | 79,088 | 1.524 |
| 1878 | 81,767 | 1.401 |
| 1879 | 85,884 | 1.301 |
| 1880 | 93,296 | 1.348 |
| 1881 | 103,145 | 1.264 |
| 1882 | 114,712 | 1.236 |
| 1883 | 121,455 | 1.224 |
| 1884 | 125,370 | 1.152 |
| 1885 | 128,361 | 1.035 |
| 1886 | 135,279 | 1.042 |
| 1887 | 142,357 | 1.014 |
| 1888 | 136,150 | 0.977 |
| 1889 | 151,153 | 0.970 |
| 1890 | 166,698 | 0.927 |
| 1891 | 170,750 | 0.929 |
| 1892 | 175,198 | 0.941 |
| 1893 | 177,485 | 0.893 |
| 1894 | 179,203 | 0.864 |
| 1895 | 181,031 | 0.839 |
| 1896 | 182,777 | 0.806 |
| 1897 | 184,428 | 0.798 |
| 1898 | 185,836 | 0.753 |

THE SURFACE RAILROADS.

Next to the steam railroad corporations those most railed against are the surface railroad syndicates, the methods by which control the surface railroad systems in our large cities. Take New York as an example. All the surface railroading in New York City is in the hands of two companies. It was once in the hands of a dozen or more companies. Every avenue line and every crosstown line was run by a separate company. Under that regime the motive power was horses, and the public had to pay a separate 5-cent fare for every car boarded. With the disclosure that the election of candidates for office, and that is the signal for the workingmen to vote against them, instead of being controlled by the corporations, they act almost uniformed on the role of defying and opposing them.

Nor is there any loss of individual liberty in becoming a fractional part of a large productive concern. What society wants is not individuality as produced by individualism, but individuality. What we need is that the laborer should give less and less of his personal energy to earning a living and more and more to the social and individual improvement. A prominent statistician pointed out the first step towards real individual freedom for the laborers. Nothing is so degrading to manhood, nothing makes men so cowardly as precariousness of income. The small business man who does not know the morrow, the clerk who earns his income from month to month, whether he can meet his obligations, is neither an heroic, nor intelligent, nor free a citizen as the wage laborer in the safe employ of a large corporation. As a matter of fact, the corporation and banker have far more influence over the votes of small business men than they have befriended or patronized, than they have over their own laborers. A laborer's freedom does not depend upon the fact that he works for wages, but on the amount of his wages. With high wages and permanent employment, with shorter hours, his freedom and welfare are secured. The laborer has no a single interest, social, economic or political, in the existence of employers with small capital.

EFFECT UPON WAGE AND EMPLOYMENT.

It is also asserted that large corporations increase enforced idleness by displacing labor with machinery. This is another of those flippant statements made without regard to the facts. It is the history of improved machinery, which is the same as large corporations, that while the new machine does more work with the same labor, through lowering the price of commodities, it puts the products within the reach of a constantly increased number of consumers and thereby ultimately increases the demand for labor. This is demonstrated by the facts in the following table taken from the United States census in 1890. It shows the number of laborers employed in sixty-four industries in 1880 and 1890, and the yearly wages. The two right-hand columns show the amount and per cent of increase in wages:

| INDUSTRY. | Number of Employes. 1880. | Number of Employes. 1890. | Yearly Wages. 1880. | Yearly Wages. 1890. | Increase of Wages. Amount. | Increase of Wages. Per cent. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Boot and shoe cut stock | 2,885 | 5,503 | $234 | $192 | $168 | 66.1 |
| Boot and shoe uppers | 157 | 1,700 | 360 | 322 | 136 | 24.0 |
| Boots and shoes factory product | 171,152 | 198,035 | 347 | 396 | 49 | 14.1 |
| Boots and shoes rubber | 4,092 | 9,241 | 315 | 428 | 113 | 35.8 |
| Boxes, cigar | 2,265 | 5,537 | 318 | 383 | 65 | 21.8 |
| Boxes, fancy and paper | 9,078 | 19,954 | 215 | 314 | 99 | 46.4 |
| Boxes, wooden packing | 7,722 | 13,952 | 338 | 465 | 127 | 38.8 |
| Brass castings and brass finishers | 9,227 | 11,886 | 437 | 584 | 147 | 33.6 |
| Brassware | 1,142 | 7,318 | 360 | 539 | 179 | 49.7 |
| Clear molds | 7 | 142 | 422 | 474 | 52 | 12.5 |
| Clay and pottery products | 19,321 | 29,208 | 352 | 396 | 117 | 31.7 |

to all laws aiming at the improvement of the condition of labor, such as shortening of the working day, legislation favorable for working children, abolition of the truck system and other beneficent measures that have been secured during the last quarter of a century, were all obtained against the bitter and often petty and persecuting opposition of the small employers, the employers in whose behalf this campaign against corporations is being waged. The workmen, that is the intelligent workmen, know that they have nothing and never can get from the small, the best treatment and the highest wages at the hands of the small employers. In the coal strike now going on in Pennsylvania the grievance against which the miners complain, like numbers before them, the fortnightly payments are not practiced by the large concerns, but are practiced in only by the small mines. I am an example of attitude of large corporations in this matter, on the first of May, 1899, the Standard Oil Company, voluntarily increased the pay of its 40,000 employees 10 per cent, and reduced the working time an hour a day. Nobody is more familiar with this fact than the leaders of trade unions.

LABOR LEADERS ON TRUSTS.

This was shown by the addresses of the leaders of the Federated Unions before the Trades Conference in Chicago in 1899, where Mr. Gompers also spoke. Mr. Bryan poses as the friend of labor. In his attacks on large corporations he pretends to be holding a brief for the workingmen, but before this conference the organized labor leaders, the representatives, and when the turn came for the labor representatives to speak Mr. Bryan and his denunciations were not anti-trust Bryan orations, but in their authoritative the labor speakers did nothing of the kind.

The addresses delivered by Mr. Gompers, Mr. Wise and Mr. Garland were strong, intelligent, logical, well-verified, indictive arguments. Each showed familiarity with the facts of the case. No one could listen to any of these papers without believing that the speaker was at once earnest, intelligent and informed; that he was not playing the demagogue, that the gathering was not his audience; that he was presenting deductions from the experience of the wage laborers he represented. Bryan's speech was a different set of facts. Mr. Gompers for the various trades in different parts of the country; Mr. White from the sea-board and from the organized garment makers of New York City, and Mr. Garland, who spoke as known in the history of front steel and tin workers of Pennsylvania. Three the evidence of impenetrable nature of the matter which was irresistible. Each in his own line, and from the point of view of the group of laborers represented, could cite facts that when mentioned everybody knew, and that one after another exploded the fallacy of the whole series of Mr. Bryan's assumptions.

The difference between the representatives of trade unions and Mr. Bryan, as they appeared before this conference discussing this important public question, liberty, guardians of manhood and saviors of society.

The corporation is a legal personality, but it has no soul; the trust has neither personality nor soul, but soulless as the first is, and bodyless and soulless as the trust is, it is utterly impossible for either both to exceed in inhumanity, cruelty, the record you individual employers and individual business men have already made.

* * *

"It is very interesting and somewhat amusing to the socialist to watch your movements as you have suddenly become, you try to escape in every conceivable way, but remember, that the conference proves beyond a doubt that as the years are great distress—are very sick—and the socialists, and the socialists, by the assertion that the disease which afflicts you is fatal, that in the very near future you will die, and that it shall be present and rejoice at your funeral."

SECRETARY OF GARMENT WORKERS' UNION ON TRUSTS.

In his address before the Chicago Trades Conference, Mr. Henry White, general secretary of the United Garment Workers, said:

"We must distinguish between the use and abuse of a thing, otherwise no human institution could stand. Discriminating is the soul of an argument. While pointing out the evils of trusts we must not forget the serious grievances of organized business—its limitations, its wastes, its uncertainties. Workingmen are only too willing to work with the employer even when asking for an increase of wages, but they want it on account of competition." The trust seeks to avoid this, changes the situation as far as ability to concede the conditions are concerned. * * *

"The real reason why trusts have grown so wonderfully in this country is because it is a country of continent, and big things upon a large scale, and putting natural forces to the best use. * * * Now, that it gives the consumer the benefit of increased economy in production by lowering prices, and by which consumption is increased. That it makes employment more regular and enables higher wages to be paid. That it makes more economical and system in business, thus making panics less likely. That it opens up foreign markets on account of the superior productive methods."

HOW LARGE CORPORATIONS AFFECT FARMERS.

How do large corporations affect the interest of the farmers? This is probably no class in the community who derive more benefit from the economic improvements of large corporations than the farmer has received all the advantages which cheaper transportation, domestic appointments, art, literature and general refinements are the products of industrial centers where large capitalistic enterprise abound. Every form of commodity outside of food which enters into the farm owners life has been immensely improved and greatly cheapened by the efforts of large corporations. Transportation, which is an important item in the farmer's economy, has been greatly improved and cheapened by the efforts of large corporations. Transportation, which is an important item in the farmer's economy, has been greatly improved and cheapened by the efforts of large corporations.

Thus by the power of its large capital, this concern gives employment to over 7,000 men, and in Lowell, there are over one hundred thousand dollars a day in wages and hundreds sixty millions of gold to the country a year, all of which would be lost to this country but for the superior management and large capital of this company.

Small oil producers, such as existed here the first year, before this was organized, could not hold the American market against Russian competition.

THE RAILROADS.

The railroads are another type of the large corporations concerning which the Democratic party is now waging war. What effect have these corporations had on the cost of carriage? Perhaps at this point facts are stronger than phrases. In 1873 with a relatively small and uninteguated railroads, it cost the public 2.21 cents a mile to ship a ton of merchandise, but by the steady amalgamment of system into larger units cost without reducing and in many instances raising wages, the freight charge to be reduced from 2.21 cents a mile to 75-100 cents a mile or about 64 per cent, as shown by the following table:

Nor is there any loss of individual liberty in becoming a fractional part of a large productive concern. What society wants is not individuality as produced by individualism, but individuality. What we need is that the laborer should give less and less of his personal energy to earning a living and more and more to the social and individual improvement. A prominent statistician pointed out the first step towards real individual freedom for the laborers. Nothing is so degrading to manhood, nothing makes men so cowardly as precariousness of income. The small business man who does not know the morrow, the clerk who earns his income from month to month, whether he can meet his obligations, is neither an heroic, nor intelligent, nor free a citizen as the wage laborer in the safe employ of a large corporation. As a matter of fact, the corporation and banker have far more influence over the votes of small business men than they have befriended or patronized, than they have over their own laborers. A laborer's freedom does not depend upon the fact that he works for wages, but on the amount of his wages. With high wages and permanent employment, with shorter hours, his freedom and welfare are secured. The laborer has no a single interest, social, economic or political, in the existence of employers with small capital.

EFFECT UPON WAGE AND EMPLOYMENT.

It is also asserted that large corporations increase enforced idleness by displacing labor with machinery. This is another of those flippant statements made without regard to the facts. It is the history of improved machinery, which is the same as large corporations, that while the new machine does more work with the same labor, through lowering the price of commodities, it puts the products within the reach of a constantly increased number of consumers and thereby ultimately increases the demand for labor. This is demonstrated by the facts in the following table taken from the United States census in 1890. It shows the number of laborers employed in sixty-four industries in 1880 and 1890, and the yearly wages. The two right-hand columns show the amount and per cent of increase in wages:

to all laws aiming at the improvement of the condition of labor, such as shortening of the working day, legislation favorable for working children, abolition of the truck system and other beneficent measures that have been secured during the last quarter of a century, were all obtained against the bitter and often petty and persecuting opposition of the small employers, the employers in whose behalf this campaign against corporations is being waged. The workmen, that is the intelligent workmen, know that they have nothing and never can get from the small, the best treatment and the highest wages at the hands of the small employers. In the coal strike now going on in Pennsylvania the grievance against which the miners complain, like numbers before them, the fortnightly payments are not practiced by the large concerns, but are practiced in only by the small mines. I am an example of attitude of large corporations in this matter, on the first of May, 1899, the Standard Oil Company, voluntarily increased the pay of its 40,000 employees 10 per cent, and reduced the working time an hour a day. Nobody is more familiar with this fact than the leaders of trade unions.

LABOR LEADERS ON TRUSTS.

This was shown by the addresses of the leaders of the Federated Unions before the Trades Conference in Chicago in 1899, where Mr. Gompers also spoke. Mr. Bryan poses as the friend of labor. In his attacks on large corporations he pretends to be holding a brief for the workingmen, but before this conference the organized labor leaders, the representatives, and when the turn came for the labor representatives to speak Mr. Bryan and his denunciations were not anti-trust Bryan orations, but in their authoritative the labor speakers did nothing of the kind.

The addresses delivered by Mr. Gompers, Mr. White and Mr. Garland were strong, intelligent, logical, well-verified, indictive arguments. Each showed familiarity with the facts of the case. No one could listen to any of these papers without believing that the speaker was at once earnest, intelligent and informed; that he was not playing the demagogue, that the gathering was not his audience; that he was presenting deductions from the experience of the wage laborers he represented. Bryan's speech was a different set of facts. Mr. Gompers for the various trades in different parts of the country; Mr. White from the sea-board and from the organized garment makers of New York City, and Mr. Garland, who spoke as known in the history of front steel and tin workers of Pennsylvania. Three the evidence of impenetrable nature of the matter which was irresistible. Each in his own line, and from the point of view of the group of laborers represented, could cite facts that when mentioned everybody knew, and that one after another exploded the fallacy of the whole series of Mr. Bryan's assumptions.

The difference between the representatives of trade unions and Mr. Bryan, as they appeared before this conference discussing this important public question,

#166
X-E738
.R4

Speech delivered by C. C. Shayne, at Galway, Saratoga County, on Saturday Evening, September 30th, 1900, on the issues of the day. Hr. C. F. Mairs presided. Among the Vice Presidents and Secretaries were many of the best known men in Northern New York.

Mr. Shayne spoke in part as follows:

Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen, friends and neighbors:

It seems but a few months instead of four years, since I addressed you on practically the same issues which are now being discussed by the two dominant parties: Protection, Sound Money, and Prosperity, vs. Free Trade, Free Silver, and Adversity.

You remember that shortly after Mr. Cleveland's election in 1892, the mills and factories at Amsterdam, Cohoes, Troy, and other manufacturing centres were closed. Soup houses were created, where the people who had lost employment and had no money to buy food were glad to get a bite to eat.

What was the cause of the distress? Why did the mills and factories close? The answer is: Capital became timid, the tariff which protected capital and labor was lowered; Protection was removed so that it was impossible for American manufacturers who pay liberal wages to compete with the pauper labor of Europe, and rather than lose their money capitalists withdrew it and loaned it to themselves and their families and left the work people who voted to secure the election of Mr. Cleveland, which brought about the conditions which caused all the distress and suffering, to take care of themselves. A repetition of this will occur if Mr. Bryan is elected in November.

Warned in 1892

You remember that I warned you in 1892; I now warn you again. Do not vote to throw the working people of the mills and factories out of employment. Do not vote to have the wages of the men in this section reduced. Do not vote to have the low prices which farmers are receiving for their products reduced to still lower prices, but vote to keep in power the present administration under which we have all thrived.

You remember when I addressed you in 1896 I predicted that in case McKinley should be elected, a revival of the good times that existed under President Harrison's Administration would return. The sober-minded, sensible people of the country who are not governed by prejudices are affected by demagogy, cast their votes for the benefit of their country, their homes, wives, and children, and the America Men were the predictions made at that time by me in power, and all the misery and suffering which our people have been compelled to endure has been during the time when the low tariff party was in power. With this experience, how can a man of good judgment cast a vote to place in power the party which advocates Free Trade, which has brought so much distress to our people? And yet it seems strange that many of the very class who need protection (the work people) will walk up to the ballot box on election day, and vote to injure themselves, their families and their neighbors. A man who receives $20.00 per week ought not to vote to compel his employer to reduce his salary to $10.00 per week or dismiss him. It is almost a crime for a man to cast a vote which will help to bring about conditions whereby his own wages and the wages of his friends will be cut down. Do not only the men, but their wives and children will suffer.

This question has been discussed every campaign and it does not require much argument with an intelligent American citizen, but it is well to remind you of dangers ahead. Do not have your attention diverted by temporary issues. There is just one important question to be settled. If you want the good times which now exist to continue vote to have the party in power which sustains protection to American industries.

If you want hard times, if you are anxious to lose your job, vote for a reduced tariff. Let the foreign manufacturers supply the customers of the American manufacturers, then the factories of this country will close and thousands of able-bodied men will be walking the streets in idleness, as they did during the hard times of 1892 to '96, and I promise you that you will have hard times and suffering to your hearts content, with only yourselves to blame.

You cannot blame any man who has worked hard and saved his money and who employs labor, because he protects himself and family by keeping his money rather than by investing it when he knows he will lose it.

Expansionists of the Past

The advocates of the Kansas City platform do not know where they are at today. They are ashamed of the Chicago platform. They complain that the cry of Imperialism is not taking with the American people, who respect Washington and Lincoln, Jefferson, Douglass, Jackson and Ulysses S. Grant.

Mr. Bryan says: "Come back to the times of Jefferson and Washington, to the days of the fathers, and consider what the founders of our government thought and said and did on the question of expansion." Here is what the fathers of the country did say in regard to expansion. George Washington said: "There is a rank, due to the United States among the nations of the world, anybody who has faith in the vitality of the Republic, and confidence in the Democratic principles on which it is founded. Keep the flag flying in the Philippines. Dewey has raised it there, and there every American citizen, worthy to be a citizen of the great republic, should demand that it shall remain in commemoration of victory and a pledge of freedom to the people rescued from the tyranny of Spain. American blood has been spilled at Manila. Every drop was a sacrifice to the interest of principle. Shall we retreat from the Philippines? The New York Journal says "No retreat." The American flag is up in Manila. Let it wave there until the people of the Philippines, under protection, have grown into capacity for full self-government. That is the American policy: "Call the flag to the mast."

Democratic leaders are trying to mislead the public. The sensible Democratic leaders know that protection to American industries is best for the interests of the people; and that the gold standard is also for the best interests of the people.

We believe that this nation should keep pace with the nations of the progress, and yet the Democrats are trying to create a belief that everything the Republican party has done is wrong, while they know themselves that every act of the Republican party is for the best interests of the entire country.

No Class Distinction

The Republican party legislates for the benefit of the people, and not for any one man is just as good as another so long as he is honest. Because one man has money and the other has not, is no reason why the one with money should treat the other with disrespect; nor should the one who has not become so envious of the other because he has been more fortunate himself. And yet Mr. Bryan has been trying to engender that feeling of hatred in the minds of his constituents for the sake of votes.

Mr. Bryan and his followers are trying to create a class distinction and social prejudice in this country.

That is wrong. But the American people will not be fooled. The same are falling to close their eyes and they who try to create a strife between those who labor and those who employ labor will not succeed. The capitalist can not invest his money to advantage unless he can employ labor, and labor requires capital.

It is a shame and disgrace at this stage of our advanced civilization for the leaders of any party to use every effort to create strife which endangers the liberty and lives of our people.

Much has been said about the present coal strike. The miners undoubtedly have not been treated fairly and have a just cause for striving to secure their rights. If the mine owners do not wages of the miners and make greater competition among their number.

When there is little demand for coal there is little work for the miners, and when people want work a demand have it or starve, they are compelled to work for low wages.

The wages of the country are low enough now. I beg of you, my friends and the workmen of this country, not to vote for a reduction of wages.

My heart is with the wage earners of America. I am anxious that they should secure fair wages for a day's work, and I do not want any legislation enacted which will make more idle men; nor do I want the wages which should be paid to the working people be transferred to the workmen of other countries.

When manufacturers have a protection they are compelled to do one of two things: Either cut down the wages of their employes to the low level and as the workmen of this country cannot work for less than they are now receiving, and live, the wages would be closed.

Then the misery of '92 to '96 will be repeated. I hope the American people will not bring about this state of affairs.

Protection

New York is full of free traders who take an interest whatever in the working people, and it was for that reason that the law imposing the measure of personal effects which a tourist can bring in duty free, to $100, was inserted in the Dingley Bill. Prior to that time that class of people who were able to go to Europe every year could purchase all the cigars they desired, and bring them in for themselves and friends free of duty, while those who were unable to go to Europe were compelled to pay the duty on any article they purchased either by mail or from their imported merchant.

The Republican party had the law passed that those who were able to go to Europe had no advantage over those who were not able to go.

Prior to the enactment of this law it was no uncommon thing for a man, his wife and a couple of daughters to spend in five to ten thousand dollars worth of foreign made goods and land them here duty free, thus depriving American labor of wages which they would have had were it not that the goods were purchased on the other side.

Now, however, when a wealthy man from Europe, he is compelled (unless he smuggles in the goods) to pay a duty on everything he purchases beyond $100 worth. There is no reason why he should not pay the same duty that merchants are compelled to pay on the same classes of goods, and on a which that class of people who cannot afford the luxury or have the advantage of a trip abroad are compelled to pay duty.

The Republican party wants fair play and has legislated to that end. If all food, dress in the cheapest clothing, home them in the meanest buildings and deprive them of the hope of intellectual advancement, then let us by all means adopt the Bryan policy, which will result in the destruction of our industries. And I will provide you a repetition of the misery under the Cleveland administration—only worse. If, on the other hand, you wish to strengthen every energy of our people, cultivate our resources and preserve our national pride and strength; if we are to maintain our place in the vanguard of nations; if we are to seek the satisfaction of intellectual and spiritual needs; if we are to inject into the minds of our young people the yearning for a higher life, after the broadest development; if we are to aspire to the not of our best faculties; then we must not look for them in free trade, but rather in the development of our country, and of its wide and varied industries.

Free trade does not encourage us in any of our noble aspirations; on the contrary its motive is to buy wherever it may buy cheaper today without regard to the future or the welfare of the country in which it buys. It looks only to the temporary advantage of the individual and takes no thought for tomorrow or the future generations.

The protective policy is founded on a higher form of self-interest, the solidarity of the nation, pledging itself to another name for patriotism. I am for America against all the world when it comes to a question of feeding my neighbors instead of feeding the people of other nations.

Free trade is not only delusive as to theory, it is discredited as to fact. Under the protective tariff this country has always been prosperous, and the advanced nations of Europe are developing home industries under that system.

France, Germany and other nations which have adopted the protective tariff of Prussia, would be glad to have the protective tariff reduced in the United States, so that they could ship their products to this country and land them without any expense to themselves, but in their own countries they have levied a protective tariff which prohibits other countries from shipping goods to them duty free.

It makes a difference "Whose ox is gored?"

The Frenchman works for France, the German for Germany, and it is the duty of an American to do his utmost for the benefit of his own country.

France and Germany have both adopted the policy of protection. Both countries are no longer dependent on England for manufactured wares, both countries produce them now in competition with England, and Germany especially since the Franco-Prussian War has effected a revolution in her industrial into B, vote for McKinley and good times.

We are a business people. We purchased Alaska, a good investment. But if any foreign nation desires to purchase we are willing to sell it if we receive a good profit. The Philippine Islands are ours and I am quite sure our government would be willing to sell them if any foreign nation is willing to pay the price. We have conducted our government on business principles and business ever thrived or held the confidence of the people that was not conducted honestly. The present administration has conducted the business of the country honestly and intelligently, and when we have a good thing, we ought to hang on to it. We have a good President, an honest, capable, fearless patriot, and we should keep him in the chair which he has filled so ably. We have nominated for his running mate one of the heroes of the age, one of the brightest men this country ever produced, Theodore Roosevelt. Let us place them where they belong.

Our New Possessions

All men do not agree on important questions. I do not agree with the ideas of some of my Republican colleagues in regard to the tariff levied on the productions of our new possessions. It is admitted that the Philippine Islands and Porto Rico are under our protection and control, that they belong to us. That being true I claim there should be no tariff levied on the productions of those islands; that they ought to be permitted to ship their productions to the United States duty free, and that the inhabitants of those islands should receive our goods duty free, but there is no reason why custom houses should not be established in Porto Rico and the Philippines, and our other possessions, and a duty levied on imports from other countries which would be landed there the same as the United States. But say product of our new possessions should be brought into the United States duty free, then and people of the United States should be landed in our new possessions duty free. There should be no tariff between any of our new possessions and ourselves. As a protectionist I claim there should be no restriction of trade among our own people in the United States or in any of our new possessions.

Our new possessions should trade with each other and with ourselves without any hindrance, and be friendly with each other. I believe that the protective tariff which has recently been placed on the products of Porto Rico will eventually be abolished, and that all the people under the control of the government of the United States, wherever the flag floats, will trade with each other without any barrier; and I hope that in the future, when our industries shall be firmly established, the time

E175.D
#167
X-E738
.R4

Davis or Coolidge

WHAT WILL YOU GET IN EXCHANGE FOR YOUR VOTE?

A Contrast

Davis: A strong character.

Davis: A successful statesman.

Davis: Backed by the Democratic Party's great record.

Coolidge: A timid personality.

Coolidge: A failure as leader.

Coolidge: Embarrassed by corrupt and dishonest officials.

What They Represent

Davis: Honesty in Government.

Davis: Equal rights to all.

Davis: Constructive, remedial legislation.

Coolidge: Corruption in Republican rule.

Coolidge: Favored special interests.

Coolidge: A standstill, reactionary policy.

---

Which Man Does The Country Need?

x-F262.R4

#168

The Roanoke Island Historical Association, Inc.

With The Cooperation of

The North Carolina Historical Commission

—— presents ——

The Lost Colony

(An Outdoor Play With Music and Dance)

—— by ——

PAUL GREEN

STAGED and DIRECTED

—— by ——

SAMUEL SELDEN

Two Scenes from "The Lost Colony"

WATERSIDE THEATRE

MANTEO, ROANOKE ISLAND, NORTH CAROLINA

Performances at 8:15, (E.S.T.) Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday & Sunday

FIFTH SEASON

JULY 3rd Through SEPTEMBER 1st, 1941

| | |
|---|---|
| Costumes | Ora Mae Davis |
| Indian Dances | Fred Howard |
| Lighting | John A. Walker |
| Technical Supervision | Wilbur Dorsett |
| Special Music | Adeline McCall, Lamar Stringfield |
| Music Director | Theos Cronk |
| Associate Director | Howard Bailey |
| Properties | Walter Preston |
| Director of Information | Anthony Buttitta |
| Advisory Director | Frederick H. Koch |
| Architect and Builder of The Theatre | Albert Q. Bell |

LOST COLONY PRODUCTION — D. B. FEARING, President and Executive Director

BEN DIXON MacNEILL, Assistant to the President

X-F 722

#169

YARNS OF THE YELLOWSTONE

A JUVENILE GUIDE TO THE PARK

by Daniel N. Miles

$1

X-F 722 #170

YELLOWSTONE
National Park

SEASON

Motorists—MAY 1 to OCTOBER 15
(Dates Approximate)
Hotels and Bus Service—about JUNE 20 to SEPTEMBER 10

Any Close Approach to Bears Is Dangerous. - Feeding, Molesting, Teasing, or Touching Bears Is Prohibited

X-F 722

Haynes

SOUVENIR ALBUM

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK

X-F 731
#172

MONTANA HIGHWAY HISTORICAL MARKERS

By Bob Fletcher

4
X-F 731
.5
#173

LIFE IN MONTANA

as seen in Lonepine, a small community

For use by Study Groups—Series I

---

Prepared by THE MONTANA STUDY
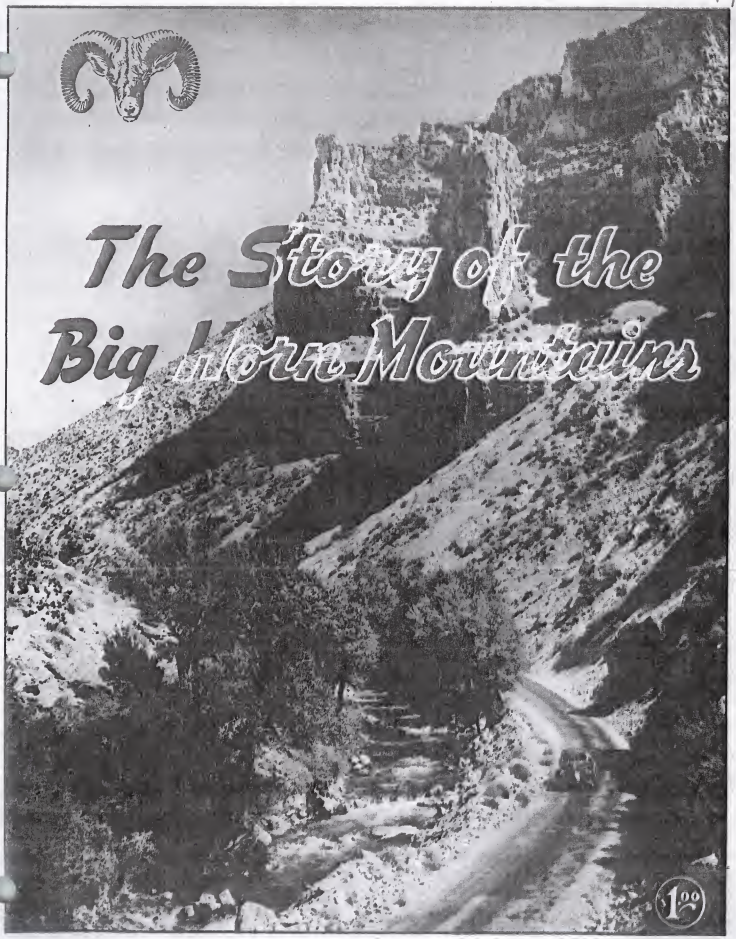
of
THE UNIVERSITY OF MONTANA

X-F 741 #174



#175 X-F 761

JACKSON HOLE

How to Discover and Enjoy It

#176 X-F761

JACKSON HOLE

How to Discover and Enjoy It

X-F 761

Eatons' Ranch

WOLF, WYOMING

#177

THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

#178 X-F 761

MANITOU,

COLORADO.

F 766

#179

F 766
#179

X-F 775

THE TABORS

Denver

F 776
#181

Album of Views on the Denver & Rio Grande

F776
#182

"Lure of the Rockies"

BY

MINNIE JANE FORSTER

X-F776

#184

Historical Souvenir

-of-

Central City Colorado

1859-1949

X-F776
#185

The MELODRAMA of WOLHURST

Gay Colorado Show Place

by

CAROLINE BANCROFT

PRICE $1.00

Montville Trail

X-F776
#186

PRICE 10 CENTS IF YOU TAKE THIS BOOKLET HOME

GREAT SAND DUNES NATIONAL MONUMENT
COLORADO

#187 X-F784
.C5

CHEYENNE LOOKING NORTH

By

E. O. FULLER

?

- WHY did the people of Denver move to Cheyenne in 1867?
- WHY was the high cost of living a major problem in 1867?
- WHERE was Hazard, Wyoming?
- WHAT became of Colorado Junction, Wyoming?
- WHY did the Union Pacific Railway Company destroy its line from Cheyenne to Fort Collins, Colorado?
- WHY did the construction of the Northern Pacific railway across Montana in 1884, adversely affect Cheyenne?
- WHY did Cheyenne construct a railway to the north in 1886?
- WHEN were freight rates from Omaha to Ogden lower than rates from Cheyenne to Ogden?
- WHEN was Badger, Wyoming a railway terminal?
- WHAT Cheyenne railway names have disappeared?
- WHY did the Chicago and Northwestern railway set up a railway dining car at Orin Junction, Wyoming?

WHAT — WHY — WHERE — WHEN

The answer to all these and many other questions will be found in this publication.

price 50 cents

X-F 784
.D4
#188

What's Where

1951

IN THE DENVER AREA

A COMPLETE GUIDE WITH DENVER AND SURROUNDING MAP

X-F 784
.D4
#189

MILE HIGH DENVER

THE COMPLETE STORY—A GUIDE AND SOUVENIR

by

CAROLINE BANCROFT

PRICE 85c

X-F 786
.B 7

#190

BILLY THE KID

By Mary Hudson Brothers

#191
X-F794

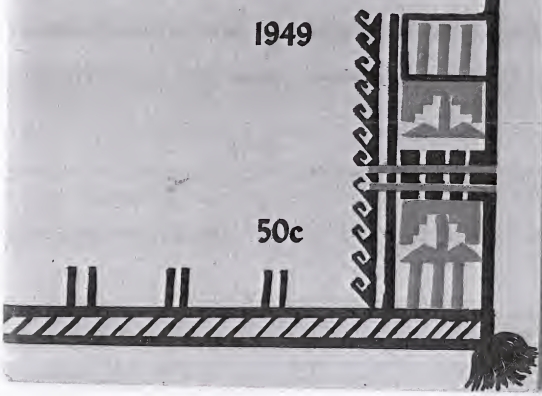
What'A Hole HISTORY GEOLOGY of the Carlsbad Caverns

X-F 796
#192

Distinctive People and Places in Santa Fe

1949

50c

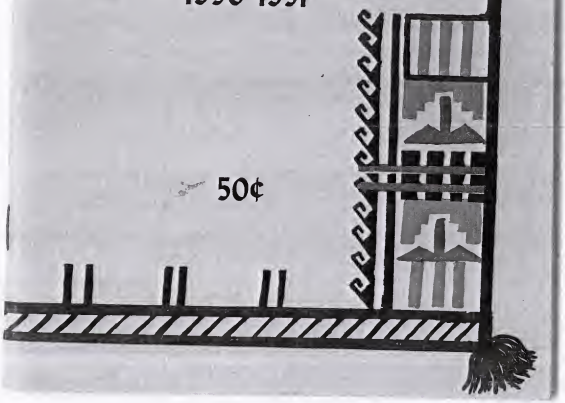


X-F796
#193

Distinctive People and Places in Santa Fe

1950-1951

50¢



X-F796
#194

People and Places in Santa Fe and Taos 1951-52

50¢

X-F796

New Mexico BRAGS

X-F796

Collected By
OREN ARNOLD

All the wittiest, wisest, best -- and worst! -- ever said about New Mexico

X-F796
#196

The TRAIL To TSANKAWI

an unexcavated Indian ruin

Price 10 cents if you take this booklet home or you may use it free of charge, returning it to the register stand on leaving.

BANDELIER NATIONAL MONUMENT

28 MILES NORTHWEST OF SANTA FE, NEW MEXICO

X-F796
#197

GUIDE TO

FORT UNION TRAIL

10¢ IF YOU TAKE THIS BOOKLET HOME

FORT UNION NATIONAL MONUMENT
NEW MEXICO

#-198 X-F796

GRAN QUIVIRA MISSION TRAIL

GRAN QUIVIRA NATIONAL MONUMENT
NEW MEXICO
10c IF YOU TAKE THIS BOOKLET HOME

F 796
#199

Pueblo Bonito

15 CENTS IF YOU TAKE THIS BOOKLET HOME

CHACO CANYON NATIONAL MONUMENT
NEW MEXICO

X-F796
#200

CASA RINCONADA TRAIL

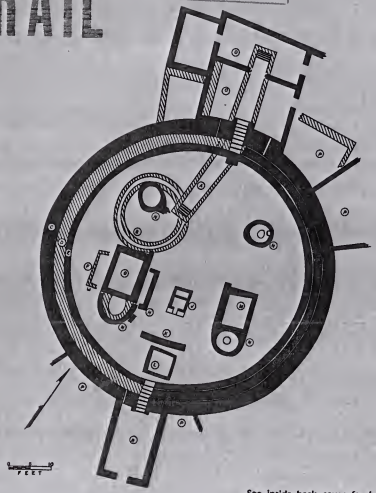
1 - FEB 27
Copy



See inside back cover for key.

15 CENTS IF YOU TAKE THIS BOOKLET HOME

CHACO CANYON NATIONAL MONUMENT
NEW MEXICO

X-F796
#201

CASA RINCONADA TRAIL

See inside back cover for key.

15 CENTS IF YOU TAKE THIS BOOKLET HOME

CHACO CANYON NATIONAL MONUMENT
NEW MEXICO

X-F-796
#202

The trail to FRIJOLES Ruins

Price 15 cents if you take this booklet home

BANDELIER NATIONAL MONUMENT
NEW MEXICO

X-F 796
#203

CRATER RIM TRAIL

PRICE 15 CENTS IF YOU TAKE THIS BOOKLET HOME

CAPULIN MOUNTAIN NATIONAL MONUMENT

NEW MEXICO

#204 X-F796

AZTEC RUINS

AZTEC RUINS NATIONAL MONUMENT
NEW MEXICO

10 cents if you take this booklet home

X-F796
#205

IF YOU TAKE THIS BOOKLET HOME — PRICE: 15¢

El Morro Trails

El Morro National Monument
New Mexico